WAGNER-PEYSER ACT PUBLIC NOTICE PROGRAM YEAR 1998

As provided by Part 652 of the Wagner-Peyser Act, 29 U.S.C., 49 et. seq., the Minnesota Department of Economic Security announces the following sub-state allocations for funds received pursuant to the Act.

Northeast Area	$ 721,854
Northwest Area	1,137,828
Central/Southwest Area	1,283,490
Southeast Area	1,312,525
West Metro Area	1,654,063
Anoka/Dakota/Washington Area	1,148,871
Ramsey/St. Paul Area	673,125

Such allocations are for the period July 1, 1998, through June 30, 1999.

Wagner-Peyser funding is used for public employment service activity. Twenty-six percent was allocated based on each substate area's relative share of employers, forty percent was allocated based on each substates area's relative share of the number of job seekers who have registered with the employment service over the last complete program year, approximately twenty-one percent was allocated based on each area's relative activity with employers and job seekers for the previous year and thirteen percent was allocated for services to special applicant groups including claimants profiled as likely to exhaust their benefits and migrant and seasonal farmworkers.

Component plans were developed for Service Delivery Areas within the state in conjunction with the Private Industry Councils and Chief Elected Officials representing such areas for this purpose.

Written comments regarding the allocations or the planning process will receive full review and consideration and should be addressed to the attention of Thomas Romens, Budget, Policy and Planning Office, Minnesota Department of Economic Security, 390 North Robert Street, St. Paul, MN 55101.

Bonnie Esposito, director of Minnesota Office of Citizenship and Volunteer Services, presented an award to Cliff Larson of Thief River Falls. Larson has served on the advisory committee for a number of the years. The award was in recognition of his dedication and service to the state of Minnesota and the region. It was also signed by Minnesota Governor Arne Carlson. The Minnesota Office of Citizenship and Volunteer Services held a meeting in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, May 5. The purpose of the meeting was to obtain input regarding the future and needs of volunteer organizations in northwestern Minnesota. The input will be used to help plan the State of Volunteerism Report — 2000.

Members of various volunteer organizations in northwest Minnesota met with Bonnie Esposito, director of Minnesota Office of Citizenship and Volunteer Services last week. They shared their thoughts and concerns about trends in volunteerism. This input will be held to develop a report on volunteerism in the year 2000.

Strandquist Community News

F. Myrtle Vagle • 436-2133

Northwest Minnesota has been having lovely weather this spring, permitting the area farmers time to get seeding almost done. Of course, that nice weather also had Roy out this morning by 6 a.m. turning on the sprinklers to keep the lawns from drying out. He would like to get the beans planted but frost has been predicted for later this month and beans don't take to that sort of treatment very kindly. He hasn't figured out how he can make a cordless bungee jumper yet, and with the bean seeds still in the packages he says it's no hurry. I won't hold my breath until he gets it figured out.

The Strandquist Seniors are getting themselves organized to begin another year of meetings and work. They have some rugs all ready to sell and a bunch more to tie the ends on. Their rugs are fast becoming quite an item in this area.

Judy Kleinvechter visited Bud and Marie Stoffen in Argyle Wednesday afternoon.

Denise Aakre and Marlys Lefrooth visited Elsie Lefrooth on Saturday. Later Betsy Thompson and Pearl Thompson brought a quilt top to show her and sent it away to be quilted. It is soon time to start gardening and then I suspect quilts will have to wait for a spell. It is hard for them to think of more than one thing at a time, except if it is "Aggravation", which they have now learned to play both forward and backward.

Visitors at Mary and Donna Renstrom's on Friday evening were Peter and Pearl Thompson.

Lindsey Berg, Larine Berggren, Elmer Holmstrom, Evelyn Albaugh, Claudia Berggren, Jessie and Kail, Betty Pietruszewski, Angeline Bothum, Bud and Marie Stoffen visited Judy Kleinvechter this week.

Becky Johnson visited Peter and Pearl Thompson on Thursday. LaVonna and Brian Johnson visited them on Saturday.

Judy Distad spent some time with Elsie Lefrooth on Friday evening.

Dinner guests at Morris and Hazel Anderson's on Sunday were Jim and Cindy Walterlund of Grand Forks, Keith, Allison, Josh and Jared Britton and Paul, Shirley and Konrick Anderson. Danny Renstrom and Roy and Myrtle Vagle joined them for coffee and dessert. Later Peter Thompson came and spent time with them.

Judy Kleinvechter and June Severson went for a ride Thursday and had lunch at Paradise in Strathcona.

Peter and Pearl Thompson visited with LaVonne Johnson Thursday evening and later at Isaac and Betsy Thompson's.

Gully Community News

Marcel and Julius Schaler of Devil's Lake, ND spent the weekend at the Wendt and Cathy Senger home. On Saturday evening they visited with Larry Senger at his home.

Several from Gully attended the Bridal shower for Ginger Brovold at Samhold Church in Gonvick on Sunday afternoon. If the various sentiments and happy wishes expressed by all the cards received will come true, it seems the couple will have a very happy successful life together. Besides cards the Bride-to-be was the recipient of so many useful and beautiful gifts. The hostess had planned the afternoon well, with contests, games, program, a tasty lunch and a chance for all to see the gifts. Ginger and Travis Volstad plan to be married August 8 at Samhold Church.

We hear from Gamel and Duane Ellertson from Circle Pines that the Ellertson family are planning memorial services for their mother, Christine Ellertson at Lund Church on June 13 at 1:00 o'clock. Christine Engelstad lived eight miles north of Gully before her marriage to Ed Ellertson, former Postmaster of Gully.

Irene Carlson has been busy lately being it is her birthday this month, she has had many visitors and company. Edna brought a nicely decorated birthday cake and served to those of us who stopped to wish Irene a happy birthday. Nancy Lee and Patty Carlson took Irene to the Casino which she really enjoyed. She is very grateful for the many cards and gifts she received and for those who came. Among those who visited and had coffee and cake were Effie Hendy, Ann Nyland, Tene Schmidt, Nancy Lee, Walt Samson, David and Patty Carlson, Sanna Brovold and Carole Tharaldsen. Irene also had long distance calls from her cousins, Ellen Derouranie from Renton, WA and Ida June of Issaquah, WA, to wish her "Happy Birthday." Ellen and Ida are daughters of Pete and Julia Erickson who lived 13 miles north of Gully when the girls were young. The Henry Burrack family live on that place now.

Wendt and Cathy Senger attended the 50th anniversary party for Carolyn and Arnold Persen in Oklee on Sunday afternoon.

Had a chance to visit with Earl and Angie Marquis from Goodridge when they stopped for lunch. They had recently returned from Quartzsite, AZ. It is fun to be able to tell them about our nice Minnesota winter this past year.

Mayme Johnson • 378-4333

Dennis Hovel attended the funeral for his Aunt Julia Hovel held at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls on Thursday.

Mrs. Darwin Eidelbes and Mayme Johnson were visitors and lunch guests on Thursday afternoon at the Agnes Eidelbes home.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Iversen went to Hallock where they attended church services with Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Iverson and family. During the services the young people gave a program called "The Amazing Scripture Memory Maze" in which Kyle Iverson took part in and his mother, Janet Iverson also helped direct the music. Then in the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Iverson and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Iverson visited with Margaret Diamond at the Kittson Memorial Home. Margaret is Mrs. Harlan Iverson's grandmother. On the way home, Vernon and Clara stopped in Thief River Falls and had supper with Anna Kriel at her apartment.

40th Anniversary

The children of Carol and Jerry Gerardy, with the exceptions of sons, David and Kevin, met at Third Base in Brooks on April 11 to celebrate with their parents, Jerry and Carol on their 40th wedding anniversary and had a fine meal and evening together. Then on Easter Sunday they were at the farm home for an Easter dinner, making it a family anniversary weekend. Congratulations, folks!

Jean Carpenter joined Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Kelley of Roseau, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kelley of Warroad for Easter dinner at the Jim and Jody Kelley home in Plummer.

Easter Egg Hunt

The Community Club, assisted the Lioness Club in sponsoring the annual Easter Egg hunt for the area children. It was held on the school grounds and about 70 children participated. There were no big prizes but five of the eggs contained $2.00 certificates and others had lesser prizes. The weather was beautiful and the kids had a real fun time.

Science Honors

Sarah Hagge and Emily Hagen, students at PHS recently attended the State Science competition in Rochester. They were accompanied by Don Fox, local Science teacher. Sarah won a blue ribbon with her project and is eligible for the International Meet to be held in Fort Worth, TX from May 7 - 17. Emily won a red ribbon which is also good at the state level. Congratulations to both girls and their teacher. Don will accompany Sarah to Fort Worth.

Avis Frelland, Effie Byer and Hazel Ollie assisted Pastor Johnson with a worship service at Hillcrest last Thursday and visited with many residents there.

Seniors Meet

Plummer Senior Citizens met at noon on Thursday with the first half of the alphabet serving the dinner. Birthdays noted were Nora Delage, Wilma Huotari, Harvey Riendeau, Anna Schumacher, Alma Hanson and Bill Simpson. Sheriff Markon was a special guest and brought information on tornado awareness and telephone scams. He was called away before he got to speak, but he left printed sheets. The meeting was called to order by President Edna Hyde and the flag pledge and reports were given. Thank you notes were read from the recent funerals and one from the first grade students thanking the group for the Minnesota flag. The spelling bee will be held at the next meeting and voting on the scholarships will be held. For entertainment the winning essays from the sixth grade were read by Tiffany Malwitz, Jessica Kokosch, Nick Brustad and John Hagen. These were written about grandparents or older Americans. These essays will go on to county competition. Students from the high school speech department gave their entries from a recent meet. Students were Tiffany Holmes, Laurel Hagge, Sarah Hagge, Steph Borberich, Dan Linder, Kelly Zimpel and Carolyn Bjerke. The meeting adjourned after door prizes were awarded to Dorothy Myhre and Marian Vatthauer. The next meeting will be on May 21 with M - Z serving.

Birthday

Ivan Hesse was guest of honor at a potluck at his farm on his recent birthday. Harlee, David and Dean Hesse surprised Uncle Ike with a decorated cake and helium balloons - his first-ever balloons. Other family members attending were brothers, Syl, Melvin and wife, Peggy, Floyd and wife Fern, sisters Helen Simpson and Doris Malwitz, Loretta Hesse, Linda and Neil Mattison and Mary Jo and D.J. Hesse.

Mr. and Mrs. Helmer Pedersen of Bemidji recently visited his brother, Ernie as well as Dorothy Pedersen at Oakland Park Home in Thief River Falls.

Norm and Shirley Bouno of Kramer, ND arrived last week on Tuesday at daughter Sandy and Mike Greenwald's home. They spent the rest of the week visiting many relatives and friends in the area, leaving on Sunday. Jim and Joyce Carlson and boys of Thief River Falls joined them at the Greenwald home on Saturday. Bob Bouno of rural Thief River Falls had come on Friday and Cheryl and Jeremy Shiele of Jamestown had come on Friday for the weekend, so it was a company week for Mike and Sandy!

Peggy Hesse spent Saturday evening and Sunday visiting her mother, Esther Dahl, and her brother, Raymond Dahl of Concord, CA who had come to Middle River to attend the "open house" for Esther on her 90th birthday which was held on Sunday at her farm home. Others from Plummer who attended or stopped by to wish Esther a Happy Birthday were Mel Hesse, Dean, Sandy, David and Harlee Hesse, D. J. and Mary Hesse, Floyd and Fern Hesse, Helen Simpson, Doris Malwitz, Loretta Hesse and Dello Rewertz.

Hazel Ollie visited with cousin Jonnie Norman of Red Lake Falls on Sunday.

Herb and Esther Weller visited at Oakland Park on Sunday with Dorothy Pedersen.

Mr. and Mrs. Marlow Hovland of Bemidji were Sunday visitors of Margaret and Howard Greenwald. Marlow is a former resident of Plummer and enjoyed reminiscing and touring every street with Howard.

Community Club Meets

Plummer Community Club met on Monday evening at 6 p.m. at the town hall. President Don Fox led the meeting with Ruth Wilkens giving the Secretary-Treasurer reports. The Easter egg hunt was discussed and thanks given to those who worked in setting it up. There will be no July 4th celebration this year due to the Red Lake Falls Centennial. The meeting was short due to the concert at the school but speech students Dan Linder, Laurel Hagge, Steph Borberich and Sarah Hagge gave their selections. Lunch was served by Avis Frelland and Amelia Eskell. Door prizes of $10.00 and $5.00 were won by Howard Lafayette and Art Fossum.

PHS Spring Concert

A large crowd attended the annual spring concert at the school gymnasium on Monday night. Lynn Burns, music teacher, presented the Junior High Choir who sang, "Lean on Me"; the Junior High Band who played "Trumpet Voluntary" and "Boogie-Woogie Band"; the sixth-eighth grade band played "Animal Farm, and a sixth grade band who played "Snap, Crackle and Pop." The Senior High Choir sang "Somewhere Out There" and "On Eagle's Wings"; soloist Sylvia Lallier sang "The Rose"; soloist Laurel Hagge sang "Let Me In"; and the duet of Ross Arlt and Sylvia Lallier sang "Amazing Grace." All of the senior high members had been in competition recently. The senior band was excellent playing "Willow Grove" and also in a closing, rousing "Twin Cities March." Graduating seniors were honored and refreshments were served. Thanks, Lynn and students.

Ruth Wilkens visited her sister, Jean Jonson in Crookston Riverview Nursing Home on Wednesday. Later she met her daughter, Diane Rosenberg and grandson, Brian Johnson for the noon meal.

Edna Hyde and Eleanor Hodgson went to Bigi-Koy in Thief River Falls on Wednesday and with Eleanor's daughter, Bev Audette, attended the benefit dinner put on for Bev, who is battling cancer. Later Lorraine Fisher gave them a tour of the big plant.

The pancake breakfast, scheduled for May 3 in Plummer has been cancelled due to Confirmation and other conflicts.

Achievement Night

The Red Lake County Home Study group held its annual Achievement Night on April 23 at the Plummer Hall. The theme for the evening was "O, You Beautiful Doll." On the program was the viewing of displays that the clubs had made throughout the year. The welcome was given by the Home Council president, Marie Seeger. There was a discussion about the upcoming tour led by DeeAnn Laines, extension educator. PHS speech students Sarah Hagge and Steph Borberich presented "Ask Big Sister" and Laurel Hagge gave her presentation entitled "My Mother, The Speech Coach." Then in keeping with the theme of the evening, Kathy Juneau and Effie Byer led the group in singing "Hello Dolly", "Paper Doll" and "You Must Have Been A Beautiful Baby." The guest speaker, Gloria Barber, was introduced and she showed her beautiful dolls that she makes using a clay base. She explained how to make them and dress them. She has just opened a shop in Middle River and will be having classes on her art. In closing, Kathy and Effie led the group in singing, "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You," and table grace was sung. A potluck lunch followed. Clubs in the group are Buzzin' Dozen, sunshine, Sew-n-Save, Busy Jones, Lake Pleasant and Brooks-Plummer Hollyhocks.

Avis Frelland spent last Wednesday with Bergfett Langlie at her apartment in Thief River Falls.

Birthday for Bob

Bob DuChamp was guest of honor at a birthday celebration on Wednesday. Guests were Art and Alma Hanson, Merle and Lorne Jesme, Mill and Jan Peterson, Myrl and Bernice Vettleson and Wayne, Bob and Dede Vettleson of Trail. I'm sure husband Jim was on hand too.

Tara Wilkens, student at UND came on Friday and picked up Grandma Ruth Wilkens and took her to Langdon to her parental home--that of Deryl and Cathy Wilkens. They spent the weekend there and Tara brought Ruth home on Sunday.

Cluster Meeting

The spring gathering of WELCA Cluster #2 was held on Saturday at Immanuel Lutheran Church of Plummer. Registration was from 8:30 - 9 a.m. and morning coffee was served by Ladies from Ebenezer Church. There was a choir practice at 8:30 a.m. also. Bonnie Wagner of Middle River, coordinator, gave the welcome and local president, Lucille Kvasager brought greetings from Immanuel. Special music was provided by Linda Olson, soloist, and the gathering choir. Dale Rasmussen of Stephen presented a Bible Study based on Isaiah 6:8, which was the theme verse for the morning. Other speakers were Betty Brocta of Crookston, Cluster #2 advisor, and Dawn Lloyd who gave the offering meditation. Bonnie introduced Patty Swenson of Kennedy, the featured speaker who had visited India with a church delegation. She showed slides and talked of her trip and the conditions there. It was so very well presented and really opened our eyes to the needs and the work being done there. After closing devotions and Edelweiss table grace, Immanuel Ladies served a very nice salad luncheon and many of us enjoyed the time of fellowship with old friends. Eighty-nine ladies had registered.

Harold and Marlen Vatthauer returned home on Saturday after spending two days at Princeton with her sister Norma and Harvey Anderson and two days in Alexandria with Dick and Clara Wichterman.

Youth Sunday

Immanuel's Youth Group were the featured speakers on Sunday when they gave an interesting report on their trip to Winnipeg. Led by Bob DuChamp, who had accompanied them and with Brian Larson through questioning and their responses, a good report was given of the hotel where they stayed, the music, devotions, speakers, classes, food, Palm procession and servant projects and all were brought alive to those of us in the congregation. Pastor Johnson had led the first part of the service and then was free to go out to Ebenezer Church for Confirmation services there. Another feature of the morning service was special music by grades four through nine led by Linda Olson and Tricia Willett. A fellowship hour followed.

Don and Connie Hagen and family attended the Confirmation and reception on Sunday of their goddaughter and niece, Erin Solem of Wannaska. The services were held at Riverside Lutheran Church of Wannaska and the reception at her parent's home.

Lloyd and Wavell Sorenson attended the Confirmation on Sunday of Jason Magnell of rural Oklee at the Ebenezer Lutheran Church. A reception was held at the home of his parents, Wes and Penny Magnell. Art and Avis were among the many who attended the reception.

Art and Gloria Fossum attended a clinic in Golden Valley last week and also spent two days at the home of son, Richard and Nancy Fossum of Chippewa Falls, WI. They were on hand for grandson John's Confirmation on Sunday and are back home in Plummer again.

Della Jenson of Erskine and Ardys Thompson of Crookston were Sunday visitors of Edna Hyde.

Effie and Burnel Byer spent Sunday afternoon in the Bemidji area visiting Ed and Lilly Dehart and Virginia Olson near Guthrie and Leona Meemkin of rural Bemidji.

Evelyn Ulrich was a Sunday visitor at the home of Wilma and Arnie Arlt.

Keep Good Employees From Jumping Ship

With high business growth, low unemployment and an aging population, one nagging question on the minds of employers, according to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, is where workers are going to be found for the future.

"To address this concern," writes U.S. C of C president and CEO Thomas J. Donohue, "the U.S. Chamber of Commerce is working with local chambers and with companies large and small to put forth a set or strategies to assure an adequate supply of quality workers at all skill levels."

Donohue said the strategies include:

- Bringing former welfare recipients, disabled persons and older Americans into the workforce;
- Improving education and training;
- Encouraging retired people to return to the workplace; and
- Advancing sensible immigration policies.

"But with the labor market so tight, businesses cannot afford to overlook another important strategy," Donohue suggests. "That is keeping the good employees they already have."

Chairman of the National Chamber Foundation is Craig Fuller, a top official with a leading personnel management firm. Fuller says there are three core values that affect whether people stay in their existing job or think about changing employers. They are security, fulfillment and membership.

Potential and current employees ask themselves a number of questions: Will I be able to provide for my family and myself in the future? Is my job intellectually satisfying? Am I appreciated within the organization? Employers who enable employees to answer these questions affirmatively are ahead of the game.

In Fuller's opinion, based on his studies and experience, employers should be alert to the following views taken by employees:

Security—Employees want more than simply fair compensation. They seek security in several senses of the word. Since people think long term, and are concerned about issues such as rearing children and saving for retirement, they want ways to achieve those goals. Job security is so much more than simply keeping a position at a company. Key employees want companies to engage in succession planning and active career management.

Fulfillment—It's not just having a pleasant working environment with nice co-workers any more. These days, employees want assurance that the company will be flexible—in time, in dress codes and in attitudes. They want to work for a respected—and respectable—company. Companies which provide extras, such as exercise facilities and health centers, demonstrate genuine concern about the health of frequently stressed-out workers.

A company's best people will always seek new challenges, striving to be on the leading edge in their field. For that reason, companies should offer opportunities for continued learning—seminars, institutes, graduate schools and the like. Not only do such programs enhance employee loyalty, they make the employee more productive.

Membership—Absolutely of highest importance is ensuring that key people know the company's vision and their role in it. If they do not feel that they can contribute significantly, they may not want to contribute at all. Part of this process is providing employees with clear goals and objectives. Savvy managers will provide honest and constructive feedback and channel it into improvements. They will recognize that overcoming obstacles is often the most valuable experience for employees.

Long-time employers with a history of managing by the "I am the boss" theory may not be sympathetic to Fuller's views. Fuller has some advice for them as well.

"The creativity of free enterprise enables managers and employers in diverse companies to devise different ways to attract and keep employees," he said. "Everybody benefits from this soul-searching, from the employees who enjoy more support than ever, to employers who begin to rethink their approaches. Remember, if you are not addressing the needs of employees, you better believe that someone else will."

One Insight Into A Declining America

According to a front page article in the Friday, May 8, issue of the Grand Forks Herald, Thursday night television will provide the final episode in a program called "Seinfeld." It must be a big deal, or it wouldn't rate front page space in this area's primary daily newspaper—unless post-1997 flood stories inexplicably happened to be short that day.

Call us hopelessly out of touch, but, what with Thursday being one of our regular work nights of the week and all, we have never seen the show. Somehow, we don't feel especially deprived by this fact. According to the Herald story, the show has been on the air for nine seasons. It has probably outlived its usefulness.

Demise of the show gives a little insight into one of the reasons for the decline of America. We refer not to the show itself, for we know nothing about it. We refer to the fact that enough people would care that it is coming to an end to make it front page news. If it is true that so many people have so little constructive to do that they would be concerned about a TV program going off the air, then no wonder our country is losing ground to the rest of the world.

Had Shakespeare been living today, he could have written a play about the end of the "Seinfeld" era. He even had the perfect title: Much Ado About Nothing.

Editorial comments from the files of [illegible]

—The packinghouse strike has been in progress six weeks, but meat continues to be available, at a price.

—Speaking of names, nine Johnsons are trying out for the Audubon baseball team.

—This week has been designated as National Music Week. It would be an appropriate time to criticize some of that discordant modern stuff that masquerades as music.

—As the late Will Rogers once said, "We are a nation that runs in spite of and not on account of our government."

—With some fund drive or other coming along nearly every week, it would appear that the Community Chest could be made more inclusive.

—Win-E-Mac Resort near Erskine may be converted into an old people's home. That would be quite a change.

—If we were blessed with better understanding, we'd have been glad to stand in line a couple of hours to see the contents of the Freedom Train at Grand Forks Friday.

—Numerous northwest cities have organized concert associations to sponsor programs for next winter, but Thief River Falls isn't on the list.

—Figures don't lie, which they tell us, is one reason tailors have a tough time of it.

—If that railroad workers' strike materializes, it should give quite a boost to the trucking industry.

Ostby-Magnuson

"A very pretty wedding took place Sunday afternoon at the O. O. Ostby home on Horace avenue, when Maebelle Constance Ostby was united in marriage to Andrew Milton Magnuson. The ceremony took place at 2 o'clock, Rev. T. E. Sweger officiating in the presence of relatives and friends. Miss Ruby Bennes, cousin of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and Orin Ostby, her brother, was best man. Miss Irma Thompson and Arthur Magnuson, both of Sacred Heart, this state, also stood up with the bride and groom. The bride wore a white gown of Canton crepe and carried a bridal bouquet of roses. The groom was dressed in the conventional black. White roses and sweet peas were used profusely throughout the rooms. A fine wedding dinner was served immediately after the ceremony, covers being laid for twenty. The young couple left Sunday evening for Winnipeg and other points on their honeymoon. A large number of friends were at the depot to bid them bon voyage on their journey."

"Kid" Party

"Oh, I wish I were young again,' I heard someone say. Here's a chance to have your wish fulfilled. The Lady Maccabees are giving a children's party on Monday, May 14, to which each lady must come dressed as a young child. Each member may invite three lady friends. The invitations may be obtained at the flower shop.

HOME GUARDS
An Organization Has Been Perfected

"A meeting was held in the city hall Saturday evening for the purpose of organizing the home guards. S. T. Johnson was made chairman and it was decided to form the civil organization that evening and the military organization Monday night. The following officers for the civil organization were elected:

President	Herbert Fuller
Secretary	K. M. Hansen
Treasurer	H. G. Dobner
Directors:	S. T. Johnson, C. C. Jackson and Bert Young

The following were elected military officers Monday night:

Captain	Herbert Fuller
First Lieutenant	Lars Backe
Second Lieutenant	S. T. Johnson
Recruiting Committee	Willis Culver, S. T. Johnson, Bert Young

"It was decided to drill twice a week in the city hall on Mondays and Fridays, the business meeting of the company to be the first Monday of each month. The secretary was instructed to correspond with the governor regarding the forming of this company. After the business meeting was over the boys drilled for a short time."

TO DECORATE
Old Soldiers To Observe Memorial Day

"A few of the veterans of the late war met at S. T. Johnson's store Tuesday evening and perfected arrangements for Decoration Day. Judge R. J. Montague of Crookston has been secured as orator of the day, and there are also good prospects of securing another speaker, Presiding Elder McKaig, who is an old soldier. The afternoon exercises will be held in the grove by the river just south of the bridge. The parade is to be formed as follows:

Thief River Falls Brass Band
Union Army Veterans
National Guards
Fire Department Odd Fellows
Modern Woodmen
Union [later known as the Central] School
Knox School

"The parade will form in front of the Union [later known as the Central] school building and march west on Fourth street to Main avenue, south on Main avenue to First street, east on First street to Horace avenue, north on Horace avenue to Fourth street, west on Fourth street to LaBree avenue, south on LaBree avenue to First street, east on First street and across the bridge to the cemetery, and then back to the Park [This park or grove was almost certainly on the west side of First Street Bridge, where the hospital parking lot is now located. It may have been just to the north of the LaBree family cabin.]

"Numerous songs and recitations will be rendered by the school children.

"It is expected that a large number will be in the city from outside towns and every old soldier is urgently requested to be present and march in the parade."

Notice is hereby given that sealed Bids will be received by the City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, at the Office of the Parks & Recreation Director, 603 Barzen Avenue South, Thief River Falls, Minnesota 56701, until 2:00 PM PREVAILING TIME ON WEDNESDAY, MAY 20, 1998, for the roof replacement on the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center, Thief River Falls, Minnesota. At said time bids will be publicly opened and read aloud. Bids received after said time and date of receipt will be returned unopened.

All bids must be sealed and clearly marked, "BID FOR ROOF REPLACEMENT - HUCK OLSON MEMORIAL CIVIC CENTER, THIEF RIVER FALLS, MN", along with the bidder's name, and must be accompanied by a certified check or bidder's bond naming the City of Thief River Falls as obligee, certified check payable to the Clerk of the City of Thief River Falls or a cash deposit equal to at least (5%) of the net base bid amount, which shall be forfeited to the City in the event the bidder fails to enter into a contract and/or furnish the usual Bonds (Performance Bond and Labor and Material Payment Bond) as required by the Specifications within ten (10) days after Notice of Award of Contract.

Bid Documents (plans and specifications) may be obtained by contacting the Architect: Damberg Scott Gerzina Wagner Architects, Inc., 417 2nd Street South, P.O. Box 1065, Virginia, Minnesota, 55792, (218) 741-7962. Bid Documents may also be examined at the office of the Architect, the office of Parks and Recreation Director, the builders exchanges of: Duluth, Hibbing, and St. Cloud, MN; Fargo - Moorhead and Grand Forks, North Dakota; and at Construction Bulletin and Dodge/Scan. Prime bidders and prime sub-bidders may each obtain one (1) set of bid documents from the Architect by depositing the sum of $100.00 which will be returned upon return of bid documents, to the Architect, in good condition within seven (7) days after receipt of bids, plus a $16.00 non-refundable payment to cover shipping and handling. Additional sets may be purchased for $50.00 each plus shipping and handling (non-refundable).

This project shall comply with Minnesota Statute 177.41 - 44, commonly known as the Little Davis - Bacon Act.

The City Council reserves the right to retain the deposits of the three lowest bidders for a period not to exceed forty-five (45) days after the date and time set for the opening of bids. No bids may be withdrawn for a period of forty-five (45) days after the date and time set for the opening of bids. The City Council reserves the right to reject any and all bids, to waive irregularities and informalities therein and further reserves the right to award the contract in the best interests of the City.

The Building will be open from 10:00 A.M. until 12:00 P.M. on Thursday, May 14, 1998, for contractor inspection.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given given that sealed bids will be received at the office of the Middle River-Snake River Watershed District 453 North McKinley Street, Warren, Minnesota 56762 until 4:00 o'clock PM on May 22, 1998 for the rental of fully operated excavation equipment. Proposals are being requested for dozers, blades and crawlers mounted draglines or backhoes. The draglines and backhoes may range from 3/4 cubic yards and larger and must be equipped with a boom bucket and counter weights appropriately matched for the type of machine. All equipment must be equipped with a servis recorder.

The works to be done consist of but is not limited to the clearing and disposal of trees and brush and the removal of sediment from drainage channels, disposal of rocks and the leveling of spoilbanks. The work required and the locations of the work will be designated by the engineer of the district.

The equipment must be modern and in good operating condition and furnished with capable and experienced operators. Deficient operations or maintenance which results in reduced production or poor workmanship will be cause for contract cancellation.

All equipment proposed will be considered and evaluated based on many factors including but not limited to the following: price, horsepower, machine rating, machine weight, track length, track width, track gauge, buckets available, boom lengths available and counter weights available.

Work will be paid by the hour and payment will be based on the time recorded on the Servis Recorder discs which must be turned over to the Engineer. Payments will be made on a monthly basis. The minimum hours per week will be 40 unless delayed by weather or equipment operating problems.

In addition to the payment for hourly work, the contractor will be eligible for a demobilization payment. The amount will be equivalent to 5 hours rental rate for each type of equipment authorized for use by the Engineer.

Demobilization payment will be included in the last payment for hourly work satisfactorily completed.

The District may cancel the contract at any time without cause by paying the demobilization payment.

The contractor may cancel the contract at any time without cause but forfeits the demobilization payment.

The type of equipment best suited for this project is dependent on the weather and other unknown job conditions. The district intends to rent equipment which in its opinion, will perform the required work at the least cost. Its evaluation factors will depend on conditions expected and encountered which will likely change along the course of the work. The District will release and rent different equipment from time to time as it deems necessary to economically perform the required work.

The contractor, in making this proposal, promises to furnish the equipment listed for the prices shown subject to its availability. He does not promise to make or keep the equipment available to the district. He understands, however, the equipment availability may be a factor in the district's evaluation of equipment.

The contractor will be required to furnish certificates showing that he has workman's compensation insurance and liability insurance.

The Middle River-Snake River Watershed District reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to award contracts to other than the apparent low bidder.

SCHOOL DISTRICT #561
GOODRIDGE, MINNESOTA PROCEEDINGS
SPECIAL MEETING
THURSDAY, May 7, 1998, 6:30 A.M.

Members present: Aldon Hyland, Martin Kotrba, Tom Scheel, John Gallagher, Alan Swenson, Joe Philipp. Also present: Superintendent Hoffert and Principal Winge.

The meeting was called to order by Chairperson Hyland at 6:30 a.m. Pledge of Allegiance was given.

Philipp moved, Gallagher seconded, to wave the three-day meeting notice for this special board meeting. Motion passed.

The August 30, 1998 superintendent position vacancy was discussed. Superintendent Hoffert reported on the May Grygla School Board meeting discussions regarding the position.

In agreement with the Grygla School Board, it was decided to have June 16, 1998 as the closing date for applications. Applications will be received by the Board clerks in each district. The opening of the applications, prescreening, interviewing, and the rest of the selection processes were discussed. It was the opinion of the board that both districts and boards should be equally involved in the selection process. Procedures will be discussed at the regular May meeting and will be agreed upon in consensus with the Grygla School Board. It was the consensus of the Goodridge School Board that all Board members from both school Boards be involved in the final selection.

Superintendent Hoffert presented information on the various ways a joint superintendent's contract can be held. Determination on which district will hold the contract will be determined at a later time.

Superintendent Hoffert presented information on the salary and benefit packages of superintendents in this area.

Meeting adjourned at 7:35 a.m.

Penn Milligan, who had spent the month of December through January with daughter Pat and Earl Collins of Corpus Christi, TX and since then in Florida with daughter Sharon and husband Griffith, arrived home on Thursday. Welcome back, Penn!

Richard and Laura Saunders of Petersburg, ND spent a couple of days last week visiting her sister, Joan Melt.

May Baskets

A group of small people scampered through my area on Friday ringing doorbells and leaving May baskets. It was so nice to see the old custom still in vogue. They turned out to be the Latch Key Kids from our school. Thanks a lot, kids and teachers.

Piano Recital

"Completely Cool Compositions" was the theme of Peggy Miller's piano recital held on Friday night at the school gym. Parents, grandparents and friends came to hear the young performers and to enjoy the social hour. A number of duets were given to start the program with each student who chose to play accompanied by a sister, teacher or a friend. Then the solos were given, all very well done. Mallory Gerardy and Krista Brenne were given special recognition for their outstanding progress. Special guests were Peggy's parents of Park Rapids who served the very nice lunch and to Lorraine Miller of Red Lake Falls who assisted. Thanks to all who made the evening delightful!

Recent callers at the home of Della Rowertz were Barry and Deb Rowertz and family, Harold and Marian Votthauer, Lucille Kvasager and Ruth Wilkens.

Frances Kjelland and Irene Sabee of Park River ND spent Friday visiting Uncle Art and Avis Freiland.

Willard and Vivian Englert, Sylvia Myron, Karen and Adam Westergreen of the Cities arrived on Friday at the home of Don and Connie Hagen and attended the piano recital on Friday evening. They remained over the weekend to be here for Emily Hagen's Confirmation.

Art and Avis Freiland accompanied Howard LaFayette to Park Rapids on Thursday where they visited Art Hemstad who is hospitalized in St. Joseph's Hospital, and also with his wife, Norma at their home.

Concert Series

Hazel Gille, Esther Walter, Lynn Burns, Harriet Norman and Florence Tvedt attended the final concert of the Allied Concert Series on Friday night. They reported an excellent program given by the Marians, a group of five brothers.

Promotion

David Vigstol, son of Effie Byer and the late Nels Vigstol, a 1968 graduate of PHS attained the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in the National Guard on May 1st. He had had the rank of Major for a number of years and is a member of the #113 Civil Engineers at the Base in Minneapolis. Formal ceremonies will be held on Saturday, May 16 in Minneapolis. Needless to say, I am a proud mother.

Terry and Heidi Rowertz and Idella Rowertz attended the high school prom of Joana Rowertz on Saturday night at Greenbush.

Art and Alma Hanson and Ann Nowland went to Grand Forks on Saturday and visited cousin, Grace Ebbinghausen of Thief River Falls who is a patient at Altru Hospital. Enroute home they visited at the homes of Joann Layman and Irene Vettleson at Warren.

Confirmation

Confirmation services were held on Sunday, May 3 at Immanuel Lutheran Church of Plummer with Pastor Clarence Johnson officiating. Five young people made their vows wearing white gowns and red carnations. They were Stephanie Berberich, Emily Hagen, Alisha Larson, Todd Willett and Philip Zimpel. Many relatives and well-wishers joined in prayers for these young folks.

Lari Tillott and Stephanie Larson hosted a reception for Alisha Larson following her Confirmation. Attending the service and reception were grandparents Rudy and Muriel Larson of Mayville, ND and Richard and Laurene Aasen of Portland, ND. Godparents attending were Pam Oosterwijk of Forest River, ND and Gebra and Dwight Oerrett of Mayville, ND. Also attending were Steve and Cindy Aasen of Kenosha, WI, Mike Oosterwijk of Forest River, ND, Mark, Jason and Jon McEvers of Grand Forks, Claudia, Curt, Brylon and Blake Kaecher, and Kathy Tillott and Rod Frashett all of Cavalier, Randy and Karen Larson, Eli, Shonna and Jessie of Moorhead, Karen, Beth and Molly Nickelson of Portland, ND, Jim, Sherry, Heather and Heidi Schiefert, Jim and Debbie DuChamp, Joyce and Chandler Burns, Heath Roslen and Carole Konickson, all of Plummer.

Emily Hagen was a guest of honor on Sunday when her parents hosted a reception following Confirmation services. Special guests were her godparents, Carol Westergreen and Janet and Greg Johnson all of the Cities, grandparents Willard and Vivian Englert of Rosemont, Melvin and Helen Hagen of Roseau. Aunt Marian and Jerry Solom and family of Wannaska, Aunt Sylvia Myron, Judy and Chris Kelner and family of Park Rapids, Karen and Mike Hagen and family of Roseau and Tom Hagen. Also attending were Ron and Troy Foss of Bemidji, Olger Foss of Viking, Adam Westergreen, the children of the Greg Johnsons and Jim and Deb DuChamp.

Art and Alma Hansen spent Sunday with their sister Betty and Frank Knoll at their cabin on Lake Longby.

Weekend visitors at the Chuck and Joleyne Simpson home were Tracy and Ryan Peterson and daughter, Rylee Jo of Tolstoy, SD, Larry and Mindy Juhl and son, Baron of Lake Bronson and Patrick Simpson.

Renae Accardo of Chippewa Falls brought early birthday greetings to Wavell Sorenson. She was a weekend guest of her mother, Willie Prestegaard of Thief River Falls. They attended Confirmation services for Todd Willett, her godson.

Bertha Hughes of Thief River Falls treated Amelia Eskell and Edna Hyde to dinner at Handy Farms on Sunday and they spent the afternoon with her.

Hazel Gille attended the play "Because Their Hearts Were Pure" in Red Lake Falls on Sunday. The play was given by the LaFayette drama club and several from Plummer were in it. Later she visited with Jennie Norman.

Dennis and Sherrie Wilkens of St. Hilaire and Idella Rowertz were Sunday dinner guests of Ruth Wilkens.

Della Rowertz and Ruth Wilkens visited with Margie Prestebak on Sunday afternoon. Margie had just returned from the winter in Arizona.

Don and Glenyce Harrington of St. Paul are spending a couple of weeks in their summer home here. On Sunday morning they visited Lorena Westerlund. Other recent visitors of Lorena were Clara Hesse, Frances Schiefert, Margaret Greenwald and Penn Milligan.

Della Rowertz and Ruth Wilkens were recent visitors at the home of Therese Patnode of Red Lake Falls. Her parents Virgil and Dorothy Patnode were also there.

On Sunday afternoon Howard and Margaret Greenwald, accompanied by Annie Schumacher, visited with Harvey and Mary Ann Gagner of Mentor.

Those who helped Todd Willett celebrate his Confirmation with an open house on Sunday following church services were his dad and mom, Tom and Becky Willett and sister, Tricia, godparents, Carl and Joyce Magers, Karl Sorenson of Plummer and Renae Accardo of Chippewa Falls, WI, and grandparents Lloyd and Wavell Sorenson, Joe Willett of Oklee and Teckla Willett of Oakland Park Nursing Home, Thief River Falls. Also great-grandparents Eugene and Willie Prestegaard of Thief River Falls and Russell Sorenson of Roseau. From Plummer those attending included Tony, Sheila, Mallory, Brett and Abigail Gerardy, Gary, Sue, Lori and Luke LaCoursiere, Doug, Jessie, Doug Jr. and Lacey Willett, Kimberly Magers, Art and Avis Freiland, Joyce and Chandler Burns, Rite, Kassondra, John, Jeffrey and Karleigh Sorenson, Jim and Deb DuChamp, Marian Sorenson and Lisa Casavan, Corlan Kleinschmidt, and Virginia, Mcaulli and Madison Barns all of Oklee, John and Delaine Hammer of Thief River Falls and Don and Glenyce Harrington of St. Paul.

Girl and Boys Staters

Congratulations to Tricia Willett who was chosen to represent PHS at Girls State and to Tracy Konickson who is alternate. Boys Stater will be Steve McMullen with alternate, Mike Magers. All are very active in school, community and churches and we are proud of you!

Frances Schiefert visited her granddaughter, Tracy Kriel of Thief River Falls on Tuesday.

Holly Hocks Meets

The Holly Hocks Home Study group met on Tuesday evening at Dianne Gagner's home in Brooks. Before the meeting some of them toured a new business in Brooks. "Simply Country" is the name chosen by Jim and Mary Jacobson for their greenhouse and craft shop. They will be having open house this weekend. The lesson for the study group was on making potpourri jars and for business they discussed plans for a trip to Bemidji in June. Attending were Lorna Nelsen, Sue Hagge, Myrtle Hamrum, Karen Demaris, Rosemary Eskell, Kathy Juneau, Edna Hyde and the hostess.

Funeral for Lawrence

Plummer lost another good friend and worker when Lawrence Carpenter has called home. He had made his home here since the early 50's and his funeral was held on Tuesday, May 4 at Immanuel Lutheran Church of Plummer. The prayer service was held on Monday evening at the church with American Legion Commander John Holley in charge. Howard Greenwald, chaplain, read the prayers in the absence of Rev. Johnson. John reviewed Lawrence's military years as well as the highlights of his life and introduced family members who came for the funeral. They were his only brother, Leonard Carpenter of Rock Creek Canyon, MT and his daughter, Darla Hand. Also attending were his late sister's children, Wilmer Hulin of Ogema, Alden Hulin of Fergus Falls, Phyliss Fick of Detroit Lakes, Mary Roy of Blaine and Pat and Charles Magnusson of Crookston. Also there were the Fallon family, who were close neighbors and an adopted family, Merlin and Shirley Fallon of Bemidji, Judy Fallon of Eagan, Richard Kooyer of Hastings, Beverly Fallon of Brainerd, Joann Musich of Virginia, Donald Fallon and daughters of Plummer and Bernard and Renee Fallon and families of Plummer. Many other friends from the area were in attendance at both services. Pastor Johnson officiated in the Tuesday service and Linda Olson provided the music. Lawrence was given a military burial in the Finnish Cemetery and many Legionnaires were present. May his memory be blessed.

Robert Carlson of Moorhead visited his parents, Burton and Joyce Carlson on Wednesday.

Lucille Kvasager and Edna Hyde brought birthday cake and greetings to Mary Beth Westlake on Wednesday afternoon.

National Honor Society

Sixteen new members were inducted into the National Honor Society on Wednesday afternoon with ceremonies held in the school gym. The program began with the National Anthem sung by the High School Choir. Present members are David Fox, Laurel Hagge, Eric Walter, Mike Magers, Tracy Konickson, Jenni Gallant and Tricia Willett. Tricia gave the welcome followed by brief remarks by Mike, Laurel, Tracy and Eric pointing up the various qualifications for membership that includes: leadership, scholarship, character and service. Jenni introduced the new inductees who are: Ross Artt a senior, Steve McMullen, Laura Konickson, Erika Vettleson and Mark Lorenson from the junior class, and sophomores Wade Westlake, Emily Brusted, Heather Schiefert, Stephanie Larson, Jolene Seibel, Emily Fisher, Tracy Roslen, Erica Fisher, Karl Vigstol, Mike Hanson and Dan Linder. Karie MaKenzie of Eveleth was the guest speaker for the event and had a lot of advice for everyone. The Society was formed in 1921 and has always stressed excellence, commitment, service and especially character. Some of her advice was: pursue excellence, don't quit easily, be fair and open-minded, vote and obey the laws, protect the environment, build self-esteem, believe in yourself, be a giver instead of a taker, give of your time by serving others in school and community, leave the world a better place and strive for the best in your journey for excellence. She closed with a quote that we can all take to heart: "Dead fish flow downstream - only the live ones go up-stream." Congratulations to the new and older members of the society and best wishes.

Ron and Kathy Juneau would like to announce that nephew Jerry Juneau has been released from the hospital and is recuperating at the home of his parents, Herb and Betty Derosier of Terrebonne. The Juneau and Derosier families would like to thank their many friends for their prayers for his recovery and for their thoughts and acts of kindness.

The Wednesday morning Prayer Breakfasts will resume on Wednesday, May 13 at 9 a.m. Anyone desiring to share concerns, sing gospel songs and join in a short Bible study, is welcome. It only lasts an hour.

Correction: In last week's news the name of Jonathan Magnell was erroneously given as Jason in the report of his Confirmation. I regret the mistake and apologize.

Committee to look into ways to use city auditorium

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Tuesday night, Thief River Falls City Council approved a resolution to appoint a committee to look into uses and options for the soon-to-be vacant city auditorium.

As final preparations are being made for city administration to move into the renovated depot in downtown Thief River Falls, council representatives are left wondering what to do with the auditorium. To some, this discussion came too late and should have been a factor in whether or not to renovate the depot.

Now council representatives are faced with some of the same questions they faced when looking at the depot: save it, sell it, or tear it down.

City Representative Dale Wennberg said this discussion was long overdue, and the council should have discussed what to do with this building long before it started work on the depot.

The city received eight written responses to a general query in a city utility news letter asking for comments. Most wanted to keep it open and establish some kind of community center. Only one negative response was received.

The issue is much more complicated than whether to keep it open and pay the $14,000 annual maintenance costs, however. Sid Fossan, city building inspector explained that the building has to be brought into compliance with building codes and the handicapped accessibility act. To bring it into compliance, the city would be looking at putting in a sprinkling system, additional exits, and making it handicapped accessible, which would include ramps and an elevator.

A number of options were addressed. If there is no change in use or occupancy, the city would not have to make the changes immediately. As soon as use or occupancy changes or an improvement is made, then the building would have to meet accessibility requirements immediately, Fossan pointed out, however, that whether or not use or occupancy changes, the building does not meet accessibility requirements now.

• As long as the building remains owned by the city, it remains the responsibility of the city to bring it up to code or handicapped accessibility requirements. For example, if the city leased the building to the Catholic church, it would still have to be made handicapped accessible. If it sells the building to the Catholic church, it becomes the responsibility of the church to bring up to code; and depending upon its use, could meet different standards, not as stringent as required for the city.

• If the city wanted to improve the front steps to make them safer, that would be considered an improvement and the city would have to meet handicapped accessibility requirements immediately.

• If the city decided to rent or lease out portions of the building, and occupancy or use changed, it would have to meet accessibility requirements. It could eliminate some of the sprinkling requirements in the gym by adding one or more exits, but it would have to sprinkle the mezzanine even if the seating was removed and public access prohibited. And, whether or not the building has an elevator, it has to have accessible exits and entrances. An elevator cannot be used in the event of a fire.

• If the building is rented or leased to a new tenant, the changes would have to be made prior to the tenant occupying the building.

The bottom line, said Thief River Falls Mayor Mark Borsheim, is we either we keep it and make it handicapped accessible, or we get rid of it.

Legion agrees to vacate building by September 15

Pennington county commissioners and representatives of the American Legion, Post 117, in Thief River Falls, met last Tuesday to discuss the Legion building, which Legion members agreed to sell to the county at a meeting on May 5. The county and Legion mutually agreed for the building to be vacated by September 15.

Representatives of the county and Legion conducted a walk-through of the building on May 18 and decided what stays and what goes. A purchase agreement is now being prepared.

Council OKs low wastewater bid

The low bid on the wastewater treatment project in Thief River Falls came in well below the engineer's estimate of $1.5 million.

Tuesday night, the Thief River Falls City Council accepted the low bid of Park Construction Company for the wastewater treatment pond improvement project. The low bid accepted was $879,725.

Arlo Rude, superintendent of utilities, said the city received 12 different bids on the project. Upon reviewing the bids he recommended they accept the bid of Park Construction Co. He said the MPCA had reviewed the project and signed off the project and all permits are in place. Construction is expected to begin this summer and conclude for the year in October. It probably won't be completed until next summer.

A mild winter had unexpected dividends for the water department. According to the water department's annual report, treatment costs decreased due to "the reduction in budgeted costs from the low number of water main and service line leaks, reduced construction inspection costs, heating and chemical treatment." There was one water main leak, and two service line leaks — the lowest number of water main leaks in the recorded history of this water system.

A number of new rules have been promulgated. According to the report, many proposed changes to existing regulations will affect this water system. "The proposed changes are being monitored and where possible, preparations are underway to comply with new regulations."

Last year, the city approved a rate increase of 3 cents per thousand gallons and an increase in the meter size rate to fund a projected deficit of $41,846. As turns out, expenses during 1997 were $43,418 less than revenue. According to the report, this is due to the reduction in budgeted costs.

The report further states, "This is the fourth full year of operations for the plant expansion completed in June of 1993. 1997 showed a continued improvement in finished water quality over 1996. This was due in part to further refinements in plant operations, the retro fitting of a new drive system in secondary basin number one by plant personnel with technical assistance from Kevin Peterson, and additional operational experience with the new equipment and treatment basins."

In other business, the council approved an independent service contract for lawn mowing with Arlen Merrill and Les Cota, approved a consumption of beer permit for the TRF Softball Association for the 1998 season, approved a temporary beer license for a car show on May 16 and 18 by the Pennington County Fair Association, approved a temporary beer license for the county fair, July 15-19, accepted the resignation of Boyce Lee, power plant operator who has worked for the city for about 31 years, approved an amendment to the Multi-Cultural Events Center Joint Powers Agreement, approved the sale of Industrial Park land to Minnkota for the Anderson Substation site, approved the transfer of beer and cigarette license from 7-11 to Kum and Go L.C.

American Legion Auxiliary Outstanding Senior Girl award was presented by Auxiliary Unit 117 president Colleen Holen to Becky Mooney, daughter of Kenneth and Valerie Mooney, at the senior honors banquet May 13 at the Lincoln high school cafeteria. The award includes a medallion, certificate and $500 scholarship. The honors banquet recognized the 41 Lincoln seniors who had achieved a 3.5 grade point average or higher.

American Legion Outstanding Senior Boy award was presented at the Lincoln high school senior honors banquet May 13 to Mike Morris, son of Arlen and Shirley Morris. Post 117 Commander Charles Richards presented the award, which includes a certificate, medallion and $500 scholarship.

Lincoln honors banquet for seniors includes presentation of awards

Annual Lincoln high school honors banquet recognizing seniors with a grade point average of 3.5 or higher was conducted Wednesday, May 13, at the Lincoln cafeteria with Michelle Benton of the American Association of University Women presiding.

Co-sponsoring the event were the AAUW, Thief River Falls Academic Boosters and Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce with a cash contribution from Arctic Cat, Inc. Flowers were provided by Scandia House and Judy Johnson.

Special awards presented at the event were the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary Outstanding Senior Boy and Senior Girl Awards. Recipients were Mike Morris, son of Arlen and Shirley Morris and Becky Mooney, daughter of Kenneth and Valerie Mooney. Presenters were Post 117 Commander Charles Richards and Unit 117 President Colleen Holen. The awards consisted of certificates, medallions and $500 scholarships.

Eeva Young, daughter of Steve and Paivi Young, was named recipient of the "You Write Real Good" award from the Thief River Falls Times. Editor Marvin Lundin made the presentation of a trophy and $200 scholarship intended to recognize a graduating senior with outstanding writing ability.

Benton gave the welcome and congratulatory remarks were given by Mayor Mark Borsheim, Jean Larson of the Academic Boosters and Kent Fritze of the Chamber of Commerce. Invocation was given by Glenn Espe, retiring this year as principal at Challenger elementary school, and guest speaker was Lois Bergland, retired teacher and a past Thief River Falls Teacher of the Year.

Honor students were presented by Lincoln high school principal Terry Soine and senior class advisor Sheryl Novacek. Congratulatory remarks were made by Supt. Jerry Robicheau and student response was given by Becky Mooney and Abbe Northup.

Honor students recognized at the event were Kelly Almquist, Kyle Anderson, Matt Bitzegaio, Jenny Brunkhorst, Sunny Carlson, Amanda Clark, Paul Dehnert, Brad Dekkers, Lisa Dicken, Kelly Fossum, Paul Frank, Breann Fugleberg, Beth Goddard, Tina Halsa, Josh Hendrickson, Mike Johnson, Jamie Kolsnes, Nate Keller, Amber Klinke, Nikolas Kotz and Jason Leach.

Also Stephanie Leach, Jon Lee, Trevor Lee, Jon Lehrer, Becky Mooney, Mike Morris, Chris Mumm, Abbe Northup, Beth Olson, Jomi Philipp, Sara Rasmussen, Brent Rohl, Jeremy Seibel, Wendy Tomsich, Heather Torstveit, Jenna Tsukiern, Brian Uhlenhaun, Jerilyn Unruh, Dave Voecks and Eeva Young.

LTC Lunsetter is Memorial Day speaker

Lt. Col. Wayne Lunsetter of Gatzke will deliver the address at Memorial Day services Monday, May 25, at 10:30 a.m. at Greenwood cemetery in Thief River Falls. The services are sponsored by Post 2793 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Post 117 of the American Legion.

Presiding at the program will be David Forsberg, VFW post commander and Charles R. Richards, American Legion post commander. Color guards from both veterans organizations and their auxiliaries will advance the colors.

Invocation will be given by Rev. John Jorgensen, pastor of First Lutheran Church in Middle River and instrumental music will be presented by musicians from the Lincoln high school band.

Following Col. Lunsetter's address, a vocal solo will be sung by Wayne Rahlf and ceremonies will be held to commemorate installation of the second 10 flags on the Avenue of Flags at Greenwood cemetery.

Wreaths will be placed by Peggy Reierson, president of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary and Colleen Holen, president of the American Legion Auxiliary. Rev. Jorgensen will give the benediction. Company B of the National Guard firing squad will salute the colors and Taps will be played by Luke Torgerson and Brad Dekkers.

Lt. Col. Lunsetter

Born and raised at Gatzke, Wayne Lunsetter graduated from Middle River high school in 1952. He received a BS degree in chemistry from North Dakota State University in 1960 and an MS degree in biochemistry from NDSU in 1963.

Commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the field artillery through the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) at NDSU in May of 1960, he entered active duty Feb. 3, 1962.

He attended a number of military schools including field artillery officer basic and advanced courses, rotary wing flight school and instrument course, CH-54 transition course, Armed Forces Staff College and Defense Systems Management College.

He served as a helicopter pilot in Vietnam in 1963 and again in 1968, an aviation section commander in

Students, instructor praise Close-up

Charlie Cornell and two of the 20 students who participated in the Close-Up educational program last winter provided school board members with description of their activities during the Washington, DC, tour. Jason Leach and Brent Rohl said they enjoyed the trip and came into contact with a lot of different views and ideas. Both praised the program and said they now have a greater appreciation of government.

Charlie Cornell said 20 seniors from Lincoln High School participated in the program. It cost $1,217 per student. The students together raised $7,000. They received another $6,000 in donations. Cornell said it was a very good experience for the students and well managed. He asked for approval to take students on the trip next year. Thirty-five students have expressed interest in participating in the program next year.

ESL taught this summer

English as a second language has been proposed as the topic of a summer session. The purpose of the summer session will be to prepare students for up-coming curriculum. The course would teach about 10 students, grades kindergarten through grade 5 in a five week, 9 to 11 a.m., five-day per week course, and about seven students in an afternoon session, noon to 3 p.m., five days per week for six weeks.

The board was very supportive of the proposal presented by Elizabeth Quirk.

Termination Questioned

A parent of a student at Lincoln High School requested that the board reconsider its decision to eliminate a position held by Mike Collette. Elimination of the position, she said, will increase the work load on the other two employees by 50 percent. She said students need more help not less.

Collette served as a special education teacher. The position at Lincoln was transferred to Challenger.

Superintendent Jerry Robicheau said Collette will remain in the district. He said she brought up an interesting point that the district needs to look at.

Budget Change

The board accepted a recommendation to adjust the 1997-98 revenue budget from $16,282,161 to $16,393,276 and the 1997-98 expenditure budget from $16,271,186 to $16,339,278. Business Manager Harry Nelson described the change as "generally good news."

The board accepted the recommendation to amend the Multi-Events Cultural Center Joint Powers Agreement to reflect an ability to name any participating agency as a fiscal agent.

The board recognized the following for their accomplishments and contributions: Ben Bren of Thief River Falls who recently completed his graduation requirements through the Area Learning Center, Fourtown Grygla Sportsman Club, which donated $2,300 to the Lincoln High School Scholarship fund; the Eagles, which donated $200 for athletic banner supplies, Universal Screenprint which sponsored the softball tournament on May 1, the ODC which donated wood frames to be used for paintings by fourth grade students.

The following personnel items were approved from the Consent Agenda: the resignation of Kara LeMoine as EBD educational assistant at Franklin, the resignation of Larry Dommick as cleaner in the district, the resignation of Mark Brignak as seventh grade football coach, the resignation of Scott Brekke as ninth grade boys basketball coach, the resignation of Marie Diaz as assistant high school speech coach, the employment of Shirley A. Waechter as cleaner, the employment of Kathleen Schmaltz as cleaner, the employment of Paula Newton as temporary ECSE pupil program support assistant at Challenger; authorize the administration to post for an additional teacher in the Area Learning Center for the second summer session.

The board also approved the following recommendations: adjust the mileage rate paid to staff for use of personal cars for travel to 32.5 cents per mile, approve the lease agreement between School District 564 and Wayne Nelson and Nelson's Auto Sales of Roseau for space for the Area Learning Center, approve the request of the Pennington County Fair board to use 400 chairs at no charge for the county fair, authorize Glenn Chosdu to act as the local educational agency representative in filing applications for funds.

The next meeting of the school board has been scheduled for 7 p.m. on Tuesday, May 26.

Republicans endorse Mitch Thompson

Polk, Clay, Becker, Norman and Mahnomen county Republicans held their candidate endorsing convention on April 18 at Highland Middle School in Crookston. Mitch Thompson was endorsed as the Republican candidate for Minnesota House of Representatives, District 2A.

Mitch and his wife Henrietta (Hank) have a farm in Erskine. Mitch served 20 years in the U.S. Navy and 18 years in the insurance industry. He was also the endorsed Republican candidate for District 2A in 1996.

At the convention Mitch spoke about two issues which affect all Minnesotans; education and taxes. Mitch believes students should have to meet a high level of performance, however he thinks the government mandated Profiles of Learning, which will be in effect in September in Minnesota schools will not benefit our students.

"Profiles of Learning is an untried, expensive and time consuming experiment." He calls it, "Another program on which to spend taxpayers money. The legislature in St. Paul should reform our tax system and let local school administrators, teachers and parents control the education of their children."

Aleta Edin wins endorsement for U.S. Congress

Aleta Edin of Upsala won the Seventh District Republican endorsement for U.S. House of Representatives at the district convention recently in Moorhead, gaining 63 percent of the vote on the third ballot (60 per cent was required for endorsement).

The endorsement was later made unanimous upon motion by her opponents who were also seeking the endorsement.

Aleta and her husband Walter own a family farm near Upsala and also own and operate a small trucking business.

In her acceptance speech she thanked both of her Republican opponents for running good campaigns, especially acknowledging Cathy Bolcar, who is hearing impaired, for her courage in seeking the office.

She then challenged incumbent Congressman Collin Peterson to have the courage to "go to the Democratic U.S. House leadership and tell them to stop stonewalling the House investigation into allegations of illegal fundraising. "The people of the Seventh District and all of America deserve to know the truth," she said.

Experiment Station has top DHIA March record

Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station's small cow herd at Crookston had the top production record in March for the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement association, according to Randy and Margaret Rasmussen, DHIA supervisors.

With 96 percent of the 54-cow herd in milk, average production per day was 76 pounds of milk, 2.5 pounds of butterfat and 2.5 pounds of protein. The experiment station maintains two herds of Holstein cattle—one with small body size and one with large size—to compare relative feed costs and production.

The station's large cow herd placed third for the month with 90 percent of the 52-cow herd in production. That herd averaged 72 pounds of milk, 2.3 pounds of butterfat and 2.4 pounds of protein.

In second place was the Todd and Jay Johnston herd which had 88 percent of its 66 cows in milk and averaged 75 pounds of milk, 2.5 pounds of butterfat and 2.3 pounds of protein.

Fourth place went to Wayne Vettleson's herd with an average production of 72 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of butterfat and 2.2 pounds of protein. The Vettleson herd is milked three times a day and 93 percent of the 134-cow herd was in production during March.

Tom and Diane Kolstoe had the fifth place herd with 95 percent of the 42-cow herd in milk during March and averaging production of 65 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of butterfat and 2.0 pounds of protein.

Other herds in the top 15 for March include the following with number of cows in the herd, percentage in milk and average production of milk, butterfat and protein listed respectively:

David Oslund, 242, 93%, 63, 2.1 and 2.0; Wayne Nelson, 40, 90%, 62, 2.1 and 2.0; Warren Malwitz Dairy (3x), 102, 87%, 60, 2.0 and 1.9, Gary and Grant Gullekson, 56, 88%, 60, 2.0 and 1.8; Randy and Jo Gast, 74, 91%, 58, 2.1 and 1.8, Walter Bros. Farm, 216, 88%, 58, 2.0 and 1.8; Gary and Polly Bakken, 20, 100%, 57, 2.1 and 1.8; Steve Nelson, 59, 88%, 2.0 and 1.8; E. Duane and Faith Knott, 91, 88%, 57, 1.9 and 1.7, Beyer Farms, 63, 89%, 56, 2.2 and 1.9 and Bob Schindler, 67, 82%, 56, 1.8 and 1.8 (tie).

Because herd averages include all cows in the herd, even those which are not in production that month, the number of dry cows adversely affects the herd average. Computation includes all cows to give the dairyman a record of the herd's earning power for the month.

Superior National Forest services at travel info center

Visitors to Minnesota's northeast Arrowhead region can now get Superior National Forest information and statewide travel information at the same location—Thompson Hill travel information center off I-35 on the west side of Duluth.

Beginning May 18, the center will offer Superior National Forest maps, serve as a pick-up point for Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness permits and provide general information on Superior National Forest, including its lakes, trails, campgrounds and mountain hiking routes.

This new service is a cooperative effort of the U.S. Forest Service and the Minnesota Office of Tourism, which operates Thompson Hill and 11 other highway travel information centers around the state. Previously the Duluth site for information on Superior National Forest as in the forest's administrative offices downtown.

By relocating these services to the travel information center, the Forest Service is able to provide easier access and longer hours to forest visitors. By working together, the tourism office and the Forest Service are improving service to the public by offering "one-stop" shopping for travel information.

Don't plant fruits or vegetables on contract acres

According to the Minnesota office of the federal Farm Service Agency, the 1996 Farm Bill prohibits the planting of fruits and vegetables on contract acres unless the farm or producer had a history of planting fruits or vegetables.

If the farm has acres in excess of contract acres—referred to as non-contract acres—a producer may plant the non-contract acres to fruits and vegetables, regardless of history. If the farm does not have a history of growing fruits and vegetables and the producer does, planting is limited to the personal history carried by the producer.

An acre-for-acre reduction will apply when fruits and vegetables are planted on contract acreage. Farmers who plant fruits or vegetables on contract acres without farm production history could either have the production flexibility contract terminated or be assessed a payment reduction.

A producer who is considering planting fruits and vegetables on a farm should contact Farm Service Agency personnel to identify the amount of non-contract acreage on the farm, check if the producer or the farm has a history of planting fruits and vegetables and verify what crops are considered fruits and vegetables."

Sheila Rundell earns Chemical Engineer degree

Sheila Rundell of Thief River Falls has earned a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering from the University of North Dakota, Grand Forks, and will participate in the chemical engineering graduation Saturday, May 9 at 7 p.m. at Chester Fritz Auditorium and UND commencement Sunday, May 10, at 1:30 p.m. in Hyslop Sports Center.

Sheila is the daughter of Eloise Raymond of Thief River Falls and Alan Wheeler of Winona and is married to Robert Rundell of Thief River Falls. She has minors in chemistry and mathematics and maintained a 3.48 grade point average at UND.

A graduate of Lincoln high school, she earned her associate degree in pre-engineering from Northland Community College in Thief River Falls in 1993, carrying a 3.91 GPA.

While at Northland she received the Chancellor's Award for Women's Excellence in Math, Science and Engineering, the Four-town-Grygla Sportsman Club scholarship in 1992 and Swenson Foundation scholarships in 1991 and 1992. At UND she received the Lakehead Pipeline scholarship in 1995 and Wendy Sellheim Spenst Memorial scholarship in 1995.

Sheila has accepted a position in soybean processing research at Archer Daniels Midland company in Decatur, IL.

Lucas Larson

Larson receives scholarship from Bemidji State

Lucas Larson, son of Gordon and Rheta Larson and a senior at Marshall County Central high school in Newfolden, has accepted a $600 Troppman scholarship to attend Bemidji State University.

The Troppman Award Program was established in memory of the late Fred Troppman, a pioneer Bemidji businessman who was a long-time supporter of BSU and its students.

Danae Dekkers graduates from Dordt College

Danae Dekkers, a graduate of Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, is a recent graduate of Dordt College in Sioux Center, IA, with a bachelor's degree in English, focusing on language arts.

Danae is the daughter of Beverly Dekkers of St. Hilaire and Will Dekkers of rural Mentor. She was one of 270 graduates who participated in the graduation ceremonies.

Area students perform in BSU dance show

Several area students participated in the 51st annual Funtastic Dance Follies at Bemidji State University.

Amy Larson of Viking, a freshman social work major, danced in "Tumble, Toss, and Jam." Mandy Johnson of Thief River Falls, a junior elementary education major, performed in "Totally Tone" and "G.I. Jane." Kari Thompson of Red Lake Falls, a sophomore sports management major, performed in "G.I. Jane." and "Totally Tone." Kara Reese of Greenbush, a sophomore computer information system major, danced in "Totally Tone" and "G.I. Jane."

The Funtastic Dance Follies provides an entertaining and educational show that features a wide variety of dances for all ages to enjoy. The Dance Follies has been a fixture of the BSU spring performance schedule for 51 years and traditionally is the largest student on-campus production.

Jenna Tsukichi, daughter of Steve and Cindy Tsukichi of Thief River Falls and a member of the 1998 graduating class at Lincoln high school, has been awarded the $20,000 "Broader Horizons" scholarship from Concordia College in Moorhead.

Jenna was accepted for enrollment at Concordia earlier this year and plans to major in journalism and communications starting with the 1998 fall semester.

Lisa Swanson on European tour with choir

Lisa Swanson of Thief River Falls is among students from the Jamestown College Concert Choir performing throughout Europe May 14-June 3.

This is the eighth overseas tour the Jamestown College Choir has embarked on during the past 29 years. The choir will be conducted by Dr. Richard H. Smith, professor of music at Jamestown College. This European tour schedule takes the college choir to 11 communities in Europe including Paris, Frankfurt, Zwickau, Berlin, Neumunster, and Koln.

TRF students receive scholarships to attend Hamline

Nate Keller, Desirae Alberg, and Nikolas Kotz of Thief River Falls have been awarded the Hamline University Honors Scholarship. All three are seniors at Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls.

Recipients of the Hamline Honors Scholarship present a successful academic record coupled with strong and diverse involvement in school and community activities. Recipients have to be in the top 15 percent of their high school class or have a 3.3/4.0 grade point average. The Honors Scholarship award is $4,000 and is renewable for three additional years for students maintaining a 3.0 grade point average and participating in leadership roles in co-curricular activities.

Rod Joppru performs with BSU Jazz Band

Rod Joppru of Thief River Falls performed with the Bemidji State University Jazz Band I during the 1998 spring tour that included concerts in Northern Minnesota and Canada during early May.

Joppru, a junior music major, plays baritone saxophone.

The group performed at Red Lake Falls, Hallock and Winnipeg, and an appearance at the Steinbach, Manitoba, Jazz Festival.

Bemidji State Jazz I is a select group of musicians whose performers are chosen by audition each fall. The band plays a variety of jazz, both traditional swing era and contemporary.

Area students among '98-99 Governor's Scholars

Lesley Ihle of Thief River Falls, Andy Jauhola of Hallock, and Valerie Swenson of Lancaster are among 68 young people who will serve as 1998-99 Governor's Scholars, according to the Minnesota Academic Excellence Foundation (MAEF).

Governor's Scholars is a year-long leadership training program which charges Governor's Scholars to individually design, implement, measure, and report on a community project which will address one of Governor Arne Carlson's Minnesota Milestones — "Creating Communities in Minnesota which Value all People." This year's scholars will attend two residential institutes, held in August and January, to plan and begin to implement their service projects. Their final reports will be due in May 1999, shortly before they graduate from high school.

Students were nominated by local school, business and service leaders, then chosen on the basis of academic and extra-curricular performance, as well as their responses to several essay questions regarding the quality of life in Minnesota and how they might bring positive change where necessary. Capacity for leadership and commitment to service were also considered.

Governor's Scholars is delivered by the Minnesota Academic Excellence Foundation and made possible by generous grants from the Duluth-Superior Foundation, Department 56, Inc., the Kopp Family Foundation, Land O'Lakes, and NSP. Through the private sector and community-based partnerships, MAEF is the primary advocate for promoting and recognizing the importance of academic excellence in all of Minnesota's elementary and secondary student, schools, and communities.

Area students awarded degrees at Moorhead State

Moorhead State University awards degrees to more than 750 students during its annual spring commencement Friday, May 8, in the Nemzek Hall Auditorium.

Several area and local students will be among the students receiving degrees: Thief River Falls — Sara Jennifer Tyler, daughter of Richard and Mary Tyler, bachelor of arts degree in English/mass communications; Matthew B. Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carlson, bachelor of science degree in marketing; Scott Wendell Grand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Grand, magna cum laude, bachelor of science degree in mass communications; Beth Ann Natvik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Natvik, bachelor of science degree in international business; Jennifer Lee Strang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Strang, magna cum laude, bachelor of science degree in English; and Irene Goodman Dosser, Thief River Falls, bachelor of science degree in nursing. Goodridge — William J. Vettleson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Vettleson Jr., cum laude, computer science.

Area students earn academic honors at college

Lance Cota of St. Hilaire, and Robert Bluemke, Jeff Cota, and Brad Inglis of Thief River Falls earned recognition for academic achievement during the winter quarter at Central Lakes College in Brainerd and Staples.

All four students earned placement on the Dean's list by earning a GPA of between 3.25 and 3.74.

Rebecca Kenner awarded two scholarships

Rebecca Kenner of Thief River Falls has been awarded two Northwestern College honor scholarships for the 1998-99 academic year. Kenner, a sophomore Spanish major, received the Can Tuition Scholarship and the Charles and Ellora Alliss Education Scholarship during the Spring Honors Recognition Chapel.

The Can Tuition Scholarship was made possible through aluminum an recycling efforts on the Northwestern campus under the direction of the Student Alumni Council. The Alliss Education Scholarship was provided through the generosity of the Alliss Foundation to Minnesota residents who have demonstrated outstanding academic achievement.

General standards for scholarship nominees include: completing at least one full quarter at Northwestern; a cumulative GPA of 3.25 or higher; reflects credit on the College, typifies and represents the high ideals of the College, and is enrolled as a full-time student (12 or more credits).

Northwestern College is a non-denominational Christian liberal arts college located in St. Paul, MN.

School of Prayer featuring seminar facilitator Susie Simpson of Lenexa, KS, will be held May 29, 30 and 31 at the Viking Covenant Church.

The Friday evening opening session will run from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Saturday sessions will be from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and, following a noon lunch break, from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. The seminar will conclude at the 11 a.m. service Sunday.

The School of Prayer is open to anyone, regardless of religious affiliation, and is designed to motivate and outfit Christians in the local church to accelerate the ministry of prayer, individually and collectively, according to Rev. Donn Roach, pastor.

There will be no charge for materials or refreshments except for the noon lunch Saturday. A School of Prayer workbook will be provided by the host church. The seminar is one of 15 such events across the nation sponsored by local churches and the Department of Evangelism for the Evangelical Covenant Church.

Thief River Falls history lesson includes inventor James Burrell

by Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

According to the old quotation, "Necessity is the mother of invention." And such was probably the case for James Burrell sometime during the early 1920's in Thief River Falls.

Mr. Burrell's invention was a simple metal ring designed to eliminate the breakage of the slotted wooden clothespins used during that era.

Left to tell the story of his father and his invention is 82-year-old Mel Burrell. Mel doesn't recall a lot of the details as he was only eight years old when his father designed, manufactured and sold the rings.

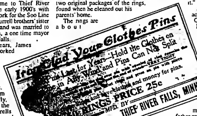
James Burrell was born in Savage and came to Thief River Falls during the early 1900's with his brother to work for the Soo Line Railroad. The Burrell brothers' sister lived here also and was married to Harry Keenhorn, a one time mayor of Thief River Falls.

Over the years, James Burrell also worked on road construction building new roads and at Northern State Bank. Mrs. Burrell was from the Dostal family, early pioneers in the area. The Burrells had three sons, and lost two other children in infancy. All three sons served in the military during World War II. Earl, known as "Butz," was killed in the war. Mel and Harold returned home, married, worked and raised their families in Thief River Falls where they continue to live. The house on the east side of town where Mel was born in 1916 still stands.

Mel says that his father became an inventor "out of the blue." "He was always thinking about things and doing things," Mel says.

If Mel was eight years old when his father invented the clothespin rings, the year would have been 1924. Everything that was washed in those days was hung out to dry, regardless of the season. Wind velocity would often cause the wooden clothespins to split and break. "There wasn't a lot of extra money around in those days," Mel says, and making those clothespins last was what necessitated Mr. Burrell's simple, but useful, invention.

While he isn't certain of the fact, Mel has been told that the metal rings his father manufactured were the first items manufactured in Thief River Falls. Mel is in possession of two original packages of the rings, found when he cleaned out his parents' home.



Iron Clad Your Clothes Pins
Last for Years—Hold the Clothes on in Any Wind and Pins Can Not Split
Save clothes and money for pins.
50 RINGS PRICE 25c
MFD. BY
BURRELL MFG. CO.
THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINN.

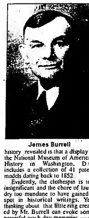
The rings are about three-quarters of an inch in diameter and were packaged in lots of 50 in a three by six-inch metal-clasped envelope. Directions printed on the package instruct the user to "slip the ring over pin with opening of ring opposite the crotch of pin and just past the end of crotch — very tight. For very small pins, offset rings and press on pins with pliers" The rings were sold in lots of 50 for 25-cents. The bottom of the envelope identified Burrell Manufacturing Company of Thief River Falls as the manufacturer.

While he attempted to patent his invention, Mr. Burrell was told that because they were not manufactured and sold in very large quantities, a patent was not necessary. He made all of the rings himself and then traveled from town to town in the area and sold the rings to stores. Mel also remembers many people coming to the house to buy the money-saving device. While there was obviously a demand for his product, Mel says, "He didn't make any big money at it."

James Burrell was active in the local Odd Fellows Lodge, and Mel commented that much of what he knows about his father's ventures was told to him by Mr. Burrell's fellow lodge members.

Mel also mentioned that his father created a hot breakfast cereal. James Burrell died on April 4, 1958.

Eventally, use of slotted clothespins waned with the invention and widespread distribution of spring-type clothespins. Even though the clothespin was used for many decades before the invention of the automatic dryer, little information is available about the device — not in the encyclopedia, the library or even on the internet. The only thing a search about the clothespin and its history revealed is that a display at the National Museum of American History in Washington, D.C. includes a collection of 41 patent models dating back to 1852.



James Burrell

Evidently, the clothespin is too insignificant and the chore of laundry too mundane to have gained a spot in historical writings. Yet, thinking about that little ring created by Mr. Burrell can evoke some powerful wash day memories — of days when laundry was a much bigger chore than it is today.

Laundry billowing in the breeze from clotheslines is no longer a mainstay of the American landscape. A drive through the neighborhoods of Thief River Falls will reveal many backyards that don't include a clothesline, and there are even new housing developments in larger cities where clotheslines are prohibited. And in many ways, it seems that convenience and aesthetics have replaced necessity as the mother of invention.

The annual volunteer recognition tea was held recently at Oakland Park Nursing Home. A special "thank you volunteers" banner was signed by the residents as a way of showing their appreciation. Inga Shetler (left) and Emma Klockman poured punch at the event.

Juliette Stenerson and Alvin Farbo, king and queen at Oakland Park Nursing Home, presided over the guest book and greeted visitors at the recent volunteer recognition tea at OPNH. Residents and staff enjoyed visiting with guests during the open house.

Red Lake Falls Clayworks to host workshop

Clay — it's difficult to scrape off our boots, and we hate it in our gardens. It's slippery when wet and dries rock hard. What is it good for?

Teachers, students and others artists will have the opportunity to find out what clay is good for when Red Lake Falls ClayWorks hosts a Minnesota Arts eXperience (MAX) workshop entitled "Of the Land: Pottery Plus" on June 15-19.

Using Minnesota clay, K-12 teachers, students in grades 9-12 and other artists will spend five days making pottery with master potter Richard Bresnahan from St. John's University. Basic pottery making techniques will be explored using hand building, coil and paddle, solid shapes, boxes and using the potter's wheel.

Participants will also mine local clay and learn how to turn the raw material into a usable art supply with scientist Larry Zanko for the National Resources Research Institute at the University of Minnesota - Duluth.

The event will not be an "all work and no play" affair. In addition to hearing lectures, watching demonstrations and making their own pottery, participants will hike the local trails, tour historical homes, visit Yellow Lady Slipper beds, relax on country porches and share thoughts around a bonfire.

Participants will return to fire their pottery on July 15, 16 or 17, and the workshop will culminate with a Raku Celebration — an all-day open air firing, picnic and party — on Saturday, July 18.

Registration is $75 which includes materials and some meals. Participants are encouraged to stay at the Pavilion, a residence hall in Red Lake Falls, for an additional $10 per night. Registration is limited to 20 participants. To register, call Barb Seeger at (218) 253-4471.

MAX workshops are funded through the Lola and Rudy Perpich Minnesota Center of Arts Education, a state agency providing teaching and learning opportunities centered on the arts.

Beautiful baby contest to be sponsored by Women of Today

Proceeds from this year's Women of Today Beautiful Baby contest will be used to purchase gifts for the Christmas in Pennington County program.

Children, between newborn and three years of age, can be entered in the contest. A current photograph and a $3 entry fee must accompany the registration form. Registration forms are available at Hugo's, SuperValu, Erl's Market, Arnold Avenue Store, Pennington Square, Pennington Main, Amoco and Petro Pumper.

The photographs will be displayed at the following locations: Northern State Bank Drive-up, June 13-19; Thief River Falls Women of Today Creative Craft Festival at Floyd B. Olson Park, June 20; Norwest Bank Main, June 22-26; Norwest Bank Drive-up, June 27-July 3; First National Bank, July 6-10; Pamida, July 13-15; and SuperValu, July 20-25.

The public will have the opportunity to vote for the most beautiful baby by placing money in the voting boxes with each 25 cents counting as one vote. Judges will also consider the photographs, and the points they award will be added to the public's votes. Judges include Thief River Falls Mayor Mark Borsheim, Heidi Hoks of the Thief River Falls Public Library and Lori Weeding, volunteer coordinator for Thief River Falls Schools.

Registrations must be postmarked by June 2, and no late entries will be accepted. For more information, contact Shannon Nelson at 681-6640.

Nutrition Council to meet May 21

The Senior Nutrition Council will meet on Thursday, May 21 at 9 a.m. at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls.

Sylvia Jenson, nursing instructor at NCTC, receives state award

Sylvia Jenson, a nursing instructor at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls, was named Minnesota Health Instructor of the Year at the Health Instructor Conference held recently in Alexandria.

Jenson, who is retiring from her 32-year teaching career at the end of this academic year, said she is extremely honored to receive this award. "I have watched others receive this award over the years never imagining that someday I would be so honored," she said.

The award is especially gratifying because it is a student generated award presented to only one instructor in a health related field in Minnesota. Students wishing to nominate an instructor must submit data to a committee who reads the recommendations. Students responded to several questions such as — "What did I learn under this teacher?" "Why do I feel I am ready for the future?" "What did this teacher do to make me feel motivated to learn?" "What makes this teacher shine?" and "Did the teacher consistently inform the students of the objectives of the course?"

Individual students were asked to emphasize how he or she benefited from the teacher. A few of the comments the committee received were — "I learned the importance of nursing by her example." "She set rigid standards within the class and expected each and every student to meet those standards." "She has a unique gift in teaching others. She educates with the understanding that one day, one of her students may help to save a life." "She taught me that nursing is more than medicines and injections. Nursing is about people." "She gave us space to learn and explore the nursing field." "She shines with kindness. I will be a much better nurse because of the instruction she gave to me and other students."

Sylvia Jenson is a graduate of Greenbush High School and attended Sisters of St. Joseph School of Nursing of North Dakota where she became a registered nurse. She was employed in Jamestown, ND, Tucson, AZ and Hawaii, before settling at Northwestern Hospital in Thief River Falls in 1959.

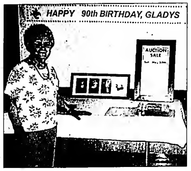
Jenson began teaching at the Technical College in Thief River Falls in 1966 when the program had 20 students. Today, there are about 140 students enrolled in the Licensed Practical Nursing program. "Opportunities in the nursing field have always been good," Jenson stated, "and with the great reputation of the program at Northland, our program continues to be in great demand!"

Sylvia does not plan for her nursing career to end with her retirement from teaching. "I plan to continue nursing in some form," she said. "I am looking into establishing a Parish Nurse program in this community with networking between churches. With this type of system, we can combine the physical and spiritual needs of individuals." So far, there has been good community response according to Jenson. For those who would like additional information, Sylvia invites them to call her at 681-4512.

Besides Jenson, NCTC will lose another nursing instructor after graduation as Mary Kay Isaacson has also announced that she will leave her teaching position at the end of the academic year.



Gladys Bakke celebrated 90th birthday in CA

On March 22 the family and friends of Gladys Bakke gathered at the clubhouse of Imperial Carson Mobile Estates in Carson, CA to celebrate her 90th birthday. Gladys' birthday was March 15.

After living most of her life in Thief River Falls, Gladys now lives with daughter Dorothy "Dot" and son-in-law Bernie Moore in Boise, ID. Daughter Janice "Bunny" and her husband, Jim Schaefer and son Art and his wife, Jane, all live in Carson, CA.

The day was spent visiting and dining with family and friends. Also, Gladys played the piano. Art played the accordian. Guitar music was provided by Tony Bakke and Jeff Moore. Dot sang.

Jim and Jan Schaefer prepared the roast beef dinner.

Gladys received many cards and gifts and thoroughly enjoyed the day. Among the greetings were cards, gifts and phone calls from friends and relatives in Thief River Falls.

In addition to Gladys' children and their spouses, a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren attended: grandson Tony Bakke and great-granddaughter Alexandria Bakke of Wrightwood, CA; granddaughter Allison and her husband, Jeff Loge, of Laguna Niguel, CA; grandson John Reger and friend Barbara Michelson of Redondo Beach, CA; granddaughter Jane, her husband, Jeff Knaus, and great-grandson Craig of Torrance, CA; and grandson Jeff Moore, his wife, Johnna, and great-grandsons Andrew and Tyler.

Gladys' friend Eddie was there also, and everyone agreed that it was a wonderful day.

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

...It's Up To Us Too

The question is, are we holding our politicians responsible? Are we monitoring how they are representing us – how they speak for us – what they promote? Or are we simply electing them and then leaving them to "do their own thing?"

Those who represent us in national, state and local politics have a responsibility. Their responsibility is to us, the people. We elected them. They must answer to us. They are obligated to answer to us. We, and they, must not forget this.

Most politicians have a way of turning a phrase that can make things look the way they want us to see them. Many of our representatives are very good at manipulating figures, twisting words and using statistics to prove whatever point they want to make. Very often their method of representation is to barrel ahead and do what they want to do and then challenge us to do something about it.

Monday's Grand Forks Herald had a story written by Jaime Delage about Thief River Falls' problems in trying to figure out what to do with the old auditorium now that the city offices will be moving to the Depot. I read the story and then found I was somewhat embarrassed by it. The story was well written and honest, and Delage stated the facts clearly and told both sides of the story, so that wasn't the problem.

But I felt embarrassed – as if my home town's dirty laundry was being hung out in public. Looking at the problem through the eyes of others makes it seem so poorly handled, doesn't it? I wondered if I could have done something – if I should have done something – to make my opinions known before now. Could I have done something when the Depot issue was being discussed? Should I have attended council meetings to see how my elected officials were representing me? Should I have spoken up – louder – more often?

So here is Thief River Falls with brand new city offices that are already filled to, perhaps what we could call "overcapacity." (But we must admit, they are in a beautiful building, mustn't we?) Here is Thief River Falls with the city auditorium that will cost a considerable amount to bring up to ADA code in order to rent. (And if sold or razed to become a parking lot, would cause a goodly number of citizens to be rather irate.)

And, if I may bring up something else that wasn't mentioned in the Herald article but is also causing considerable dissension and discussion in town, here is Pennington County the proud owner of the American Legion building that will be housing prisoners from hither and yon, once it can be properly rebuilt into a new jail facility. (And how did that happen so quickly, anyway? I don't remember the citizenry being consulted. I do understand it wasn't necessary to have a vote on the plan, but it certainly would have made the townsfolk happier if they had been able to put in their two cents' worth on the subject.)

And what time of year has all of this commotion been going on? Tax time. I know that paying taxes does not make the average property owner very happy. We taxpayers know very well that all of this fol-de-rol going on with new buildings and buying buildings and renovating is more than likely going to raise our taxes and this does not make us happy at all.

Yes, those who represent us have a great amount of responsibility, but we citizens also have a responsibility. Our responsibility is to keep an eye on our officials – to keep informed on how these men and women are representing us – to make sure that what they support is what we want them to support. Perhaps it would be a good idea to attend city council and county board meetings rather than relying upon second hand information from the media. We need to keep in touch with those public servants, to call them or meet with them to tell them how we feel and what we support. We need, by our contact, to remind them that they are public servants and that they are accountable to us. And if all else fails, we need to remind them at the polls – again.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Jennicea Gallagher, Lincoln High School

Sometimes for track we run on a road near Greenwood Cemetery, and in passing I look at the graves and wonder what the people were like that are there and what kind of lives they led. Some might think it's a little weird, but with Memorial Day just around the corner, it made me think what this day means to me. I was ashamed to say that I always thought of Memorial Day as just another holiday that we get out of school.

I went to the library and looked up Memorial Day and found that it began shortly after the civil war to honor those who had died while serving our country. But today Memorial Day is set aside to honor all people who have died.

Granted it is not the most uplifting thing to think about. But death is a part of life and no matter who you are it will some day affect you. It astounds me to think that throughout history millions and millions of people have gone through the same problems and emotions that I am experiencing today. It's weird to think of all the people who have walked the same route in my school hallway, or who have walked down main street that have passed away or even how many springs, summers, winters and falls have come to the world. It makes me feel very small and insignificant.

Everything ends and all things die, and one of the deaths in my family that stands out in my mind is the death of my great-grandmother, whom I adored. She died at the age of eighty-three of heart complications. My entire family was at the hospital, and it seemed to be only a matter of time before she slipped away. I crept into her room and just looked at her while the rest of my family talked to the doctors. She was sleeping and looked as though she were content. Then she opened her eyes, looked at me and said "Jennicea, when I get to heaven, I will tell your grandfather and uncle that you love them."

This memory for me was so special, considering that for the three years before she had hardly remembered my name because of her Alzheimers and that she had so much confidence of seeing my great-grandfather and uncle who had died almost five years before. She died later that night, and even though it was hard to let her go, we were comforted because she had lived a full life, had a loving family, and was in heaven. I believe that death isn't the end, and therefore, it doesn't seem quite so scary.

Next Monday on Memorial Day don't go through the day without thinking about the people who have given their lives for our country, and also remember those special people who have passed away and be thankful for them.

The News From Here

Allyson Mann

Spiders And Snakes

It was on my way to bed last night, locking doors and turning off lights, when something small and darkish skirted furtively across my path. "Spider!" I inhaled sharply, climbing quickly onto a chair. "Spider!!" I shrieked more loudly. "Somebody Get It Out Of Here!"

Spiders have always been my downfall, filling me with terror, striking me with fear – making life especially difficult to deal with while, as a kid in Illinois, I worked long hours in the family garden, picking vegetables and pulling weeds.

"I can't!" I cried miserably, when my mother gave me the news. "You know as well as I do there are entire families of spiders breeding out there!"

My mother regarded me impassively. "And when you're done weeding the tomatoes, start on the cucumbers --"

"Oh, not the cucumbers!" I pleaded, visions of venomous spiders scurrying out from under leaves. "The vines are so long and intertwined – please, let me hoe between the carrots instead!"

"Good idea!" my mother agreed, opening the kitchen door, signaling it was time for me to leave. "And when you're done with the cucumbers begin hoeing the carrots!"

"I can't!" I said.

"Leave!"

I left, passing my older brother Carl on his way to the chicken coup.

"Hey, Al! On your way to the big, bad garden?" he teased.

"Pay you five bucks to weed the tomatoes!" I offered.

"Are you crazy?" he asked. "I've seen the size of some of those spiders! In fact, just last night I saw one the size of a rat!"

"Where?" I asked.

"Oh," he said, "out by the cucumbers, I think."

"You're lying!"

"No, I'm not!"

"You're lying!" I cried.

"Big As A Rat!", he repeated, taking his hands out his pockets and demonstrating its size for effect. "If you ask me, weeding those cucs and tomatoes is a death sentence."

"Shut Up!" I said.

"A death sentence!" he reiterated. "Yep, one bite from one of those big black and yellow spiders and you're history. Remember what happened to Jed Hopperstead!"

"I thought that was a swarm of hornets and he was allergic," I said.

Carl shook his head. "No, enormous spiders. Got him in the leg and the neck. Bad deal."

My mother appeared at the kitchen door. "Carl! Get a move on!" she yelled.

Hightailing it to the barn he called over his shoulder, "See you later, maybe. Good luck!"

Good luck! I picked up my hoe and proceeded to the end of the garden where the tomato plants and cucumbers beckoned my end. But I couldn't do it, and headed back to the house.

"I can't weed those tomatoes and cucumbers by myself," I announced to my mom. "You know it's too dangerous. Remember Jed Hopperstead!"

"Jed Hopperstead!" my mother said. "What do hornets have to do with spiders in the cucumber plants?"

"Hornets! Carl just told me he was bitten by enormous black and yellow spiders in the tomato patch! He said they jumped out of nowhere and bit Jed in the neck."

"What else did Carl tell you?" my mother asked.

"He said he saw a spider in the garden last night the size of a rat!"

"The size of a rat!" she said.

"And that hoeing out there was a death sentence!"

"That Carl!" my mother said. "Get out there in the garden, Allyson. I'll send Carl out to help. He'll do the tomatoes and cucumbers. You do the rest."

"Okay," I said.

"And, by the way," she added, "His big thing is snakes."

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Moving Ways With Sunny Rays

With this craft and movement activity, your little one can spread some sunshine all over the place. To make a sunbeam streamer, paint the bottom of one paper plate and the top of a second paper plate yellow. Sprinkle on gold glitter. To the back of the plate that is painted on the top, tape a number of yellow and white streamers. Glue the plates together so that both yellow sides are facing out. Get your child warmed up by inviting him or her to find sunny outdoor spots in which he/she can move the streamers. Bring a portable tape or CD player to play music while your little sunbeam moves. Ready to catch some rays!

PARENTING TIPS

Helping Children Learn Independence

Even though the world may be full of real and imagined dangers, parents need to look for ways to help prepare and train children for the task of growing up and becoming independent. When our children are little we know that someone needs to be with them constantly to protect them from danger. It's often hard to think about them being on their own, such as when they go off to school. In reality our whole job as parents is to prepare our children to be independent and to be able to get along without us. We can best do that in small stages every day. Following are some examples:

- Toddlers can make some decisions. Let a small child choose between two shirts to decide which one to wear on a particular day. Not only will you be encouraging independence but you will be boosting your toddler's self-confidence. Think of other decisions that a toddler is capable of making.
- Let your child do the things that he/she is capable of doing. Let him dress himself, set the table, put toys away, etc. This is not to say that you never help him or her do these things. But when we do things for our children that they are capable of doing, we need to think about why and how often we are doing it instead of letting them do it.

Always think about encouraging growth and independence in your child, within reason. Sometimes parents like to "keep their baby little." If you are tempted to do that, think about why. Is it for your benefit?

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Praise your child's efforts and accomplishments, no matter how small. If they tried to pick up their toys and only did a couple, praise the effort rather than scolding for failing to complete the task. Remember that we are talking about young children here.

Inga Coan, 89

Thief River Falls - Inga Coan, 89, died Monday, May 18, 1998 at the CNC Unit of Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. on Friday, May 22 at Faith Lutheran Church in Goodridge with Reverend Robert Dahlen officiating. Joy Nordby will provide special music. Casketbearers will be Ernest Swanson, Dewaine Lappegaard, Lynn Hanson, Palmer Lovly, Earl Halvorson and Robert Parnow. Honorary casketbearers will be all of Inga's grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Burial will be in Ekelund Cemetery in Highlanding township of Pennington County.

Visitation will be from 1 to 8 p.m. on Thursday, May 21 at the Green Funeral Chapel in Thief River Falls with a prayer service at 7 p.m. and for one hour prior to services at the church on Friday.

Inga Bertha Hanson was born on September 11, 1908 at Erie, the daughter of J. Edwin and Alma (Stephenson) Hanson. She was baptized in the Christian faith as an infant and later confirmed in that faith in the Norwegian language. Inga lived on the family farm and attended school in Goodridge.

On December 29, 1926 she was united in marriage to Lubertus "Ben" Coan at Goodridge. For a short while the couple lived near Angus where they worked for Oberg Farms. For a short while they also lived near Ponemah where Inga cooked at the Ponemah School and Bert was a logger. They returned to rural Goodridge where they farmed for many years. In 1978 they retired and moved into Goodridge. Bert died on September 22, 1988. In January of 1995 Inga moved to Valley Home in Thief River Falls, and in February of 1997 moved to the CNC Unit of Northwest Medical Center.

Inga was named the Outstanding Senior Citizen in Pennington County in 1989. She was a member of the Deer Park Garden Club and won awards for the 13th District Horticultural Society. She was also membership chairperson for the Goodridge Historical Society and an active member of Faith Lutheran Church.

Her hobbies included cooking and gardening, especially flowers. She enjoyed visiting and keeping in touch with family and friends.

Inga is survived by one daughter, Dorothy (Edgar) Miller of Goodridge; one son, Kenneth Coan of Goodridge; eight grandchildren; nine great-grandchildren; one brother, Julian (Teresa) Hanson of Tucson, AZ; one sister, Lillian (Alvin) Nordvold of Zumbrota; and several other relatives.

She was preceded in death by her husband; parents; two sisters, Selma Anderson and Esther Myklejord; and one brother, Eddie Hanson.

Delrae "Susie" Miller, 59

Thief River Falls - Delrae "Susie" Miller, 59, died Saturday, May 16, 1998 at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. today (Wednesday, May 20) at Zion Lutheran Church with Reverend Dennis Raymond officiating. Phyllis Dalager will be the organist, and Jackie Helms will be the soloist. Honorary casketbearers will be nieces, nephews and friends with whom she worked.

Visitation was held on Tuesday from 3 to 8 p.m. at Green Funeral Home with a 6:30 p.m. prayer service.

Delrae Loanne "Susie" Durgin was born on January 21, 1939 near Badger, the daughter of Vernel and Cora Hazel (Medahl) Durgin. She was baptized as an infant in the Christian faith at Badger. When she was eight years old the family moved to Thief River Falls where she attended school and graduated from Lincoln High School in 1957. After graduating from the University of North Dakota with a degree in social work, her career took her to Alameda, CA where she was employed as a social worker for the county.

In the fall of 1962, Susie was united in marriage to Raymond Peter Miller II at St. Ambrose Catholic Church in Berkley, CA. The couple made their home in Albany, CA until 1970.

Susie returned to Thief River Falls in 1972 and has since worked for Pennington county — at the Clerk of Court's office, Motor Vehicle department and for the past 23 years, at Pennington County Social Services.

She was a member of Zion Lutheran Church, Pennington County Child Case Consultation Committee, Pennington County Juvenile Diversion Committee, Thief River Falls Youth Development Committee, Umbrella Tree and Child Advocacy Advisory Committee and other professional committee organizations.

Susie is survived by one son, Raymond "Gus" (Sandra) Miller III, Lincoln, NE; her son's father, Raymond Miller II of Boise, ID; one grandson; four brothers, Darryl (Charlene) Durgin of Shoreview, David (Barb) Durgin of Reynolds, ND, Dan (Andrea) Dowers and Scott (Susie) Dowers, all of Thief River Falls, and several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her parents, stepfather, Ralph Dowers: and special friend "Tippy" Benson.

Alice M. Mosbeck, 92

Thief River Falls - Alice Mosbeck, 92, died Thursday, May 14, 1998 at the CNC Unit of Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, May 19 at the Evangelical Free Church in Thief River Falls with Reverend Curtis Anderson officiating. Carolyn Trontvet was the organist, and soloists were Diane Johnson, John Flom and Dawniss Hanson. Howard and Sharon Hvidsten sang a duet. Casketbearers were Donald Mosbeck, Gene Mosbeck, Kelly Mosbeck, Peter Mosbeck, Veral Mosbeck, Paul Mosbeck, Mark Hanson and Richard Johnson. Burial was in Black River Cemetery in Polk Centre township of Pennington county. The Green Funeral Home was in charge of the arrangements.

Alice Kisner was born on February 11, 1906 at New Salem, ND, the daughter of Otto and Edith (Garrigan) Kisner. In 1913 she moved with her family to Red Lake county where she attended school. After leaving high school, she worked at the telephone office in Bismarck, ND.

On October 27, 1922 Alice was united in marriage to Martin Mosbeck at Thief River Falls. In 1938 the couple moved to St. Hilaire.

Alice was a former member of Black River Lutheran Church and has been attending the Evangelical Free Church in Thief River Falls since the Tarna Church in St. Hilaire burned.

She is survived by three sisters, Estella (Harry) Helgenset of Thief River Falls, Gladys Johnson of Thief River Falls and Arlene (Dean) Avery of Atlanta, AL.

Alice was preceded in death by her husband, Martin, her parents, two sisters, Grace and one in infancy, and one brother in infancy.

Myrtle "Mert" Wilson, 78

Thief River Falls - Myrtle "Mert" Wilson, 78, died Thursday, May 14, 1998 at the CNC Unit of Northwest Medical Health Center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday, May 19 at 11 a.m. at the Green Funeral Home Chapel in Thief River Falls with Reverend Dennis Raymond officiating. Special music was provided by Grace Hammer. Casketbearers were the relatives and friends in attendance. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery in Thief River Falls.

Myrtle Roisland was born on November 24, 1919 in Pennington county, the daughter of Dreng and Mabel (Omdahl) Roisland. She was baptized and confirmed in the Christian faith and attended school.

Myrtle was united in marriage to Stanley Wilson on August 6, 1939 in Thief River Falls. Mert and her husband, along with Stan's brother, Woodrow, began Wilson Brothers Auto Electric and Magneto Company which later became Wilson Brothers Company. Until retiring, both Mert and Stan were very active in the business. The Wilsons also owned and operated Northwest Power Company for a number of years. The couple made their home in Thief River Falls and spent the winters in Texas. Stan died on July 25, 1997.

She was a member of the United Methodist Church in Thief River Falls, the American Legion Auxiliary, Business Professional Association, Thief River Falls Trap Club and was a former member of the Thief River Falls School Board.

Mert enjoyed shooting trap and especially enjoyed spending time with family and friends.

She is survived by one son, Stan Wilson, Jr. of Thief River Falls; three grandchildren; one step-grandchild; one brother, Marvin (Delores) Roisland of Thief River Falls; and three sisters, Bess Lang, Vi Wettestad and Doris Roisland, all of Thief River Falls.

Mert was preceded in death by her husband, Stan; her parents; and three brothers, Oscar, Derby and Frank.

Raymond DeMeyere, 70

Thief River Falls - Raymond DeMeyere, 70, died Monday, May 18, 1998 at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Mass of Christian burial will be held on Friday, May 22 at 11 a.m. at St. Bernard's Catholic Church with Father Dennis Weiland officiating. Casketbearers will be Philip Olson, Marvin Olson, Tom Woimarowicz, James Kuznia, Bruce Chwialkowski and William Borowicz. Honorary casketbearers will be Allen and Lynn DeMeyere, Ray and Jeannie Nelson, Robert and Ruth Strandberg, Irvin and Marge Jarshaw, Larry and Mary Ann Laymon, Elton and Yvonne Underdahl, Vernon and Joan Jorgenson, Leland and Jan Nelson, Ron and Esther Olson and Raymond's fellow Soo Line employees. Military honors will be accorded by the American Legion and VFW Post of Thief River Falls. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Visitation will be at the Green Funeral Home from 3 to 8 p.m. with an 8 p.m. prayer service on Thursday, May 21 and at the church for one hour before services on Friday.

Raymond Lloyd DeMeyere was born on March 6, 1928 in Warrenton township of Marshall county, the son of Albert and Emma (Olson) DeMeyere. He was baptized in the Christian faith at the McCrea Church in Warren, and he attended school at the rural Cook School. Following his education, Raymond worked as a laborer for a number of years in Marshall county and also as a logger in International Falls. He returned to the area and worked for Filipi Farms near Fisher in Polk county. He then secured employment with the Soo Line Railroad and worked there until he enlisted with the U.S. Army and served during the Korean Conflict. When discharged, he returned to Warren and farmed while continuing his job with the Soo Line for over 43 years. He retired on March 6, 1990.

On June 3, 1978 Raymond was united in marriage to Rosemary Borowicz at St. Bernard's Catholic Church. The couple made their home in Thief River Falls.

He was a member of St. Bernard's Catholic Church, the Eagle's Aerie and the American Legion and VFW Posts in Thief River Falls. Projects at his farm near Radium and at his home in Thief River Falls kept Raymond busy. He enjoyed traveling and visiting with family and friends.

Raymond is survived by his wife, Rosemary; three brothers, Stanley (Lois) DeMeyere and Russell (Clarice) DeMeyere, both of Warren, and Art (Bonnie) DeMeyere of Fridley; seven sisters, Ida (Harry) Nelson of East Grand Forks, Frieda (John) Quicker of Spring Hill, FL, Violet (Norris) Anderson of Shelly, Margaret (Larry) Ulrich of St. Hilaire, Caroline (Arden) Bohach of Rollag, Rosalind (Clyde) Rostea Troy, MI, and Susan (Ron) Carlson of Conway, AR; two step brothers, Leonard (Gillie) Klause and Henry Klause, both of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada; one step sister, Edna (Peter) Huesmann of Rutherford, NJ; a sister-in-law; and several aunts, uncles, nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents; one brother, Robert DeMeyere; and two nephews.

Opal R. Stenberg, 76

Fort Collins, CO - Opal R. Stenberg, 76, formerly of Greenbush, died Tuesday, May 12, 1998 of leukemia at Fort Collins, CO.

Funeral services were held on Sunday, May 17 at 2 p.m. at the Gieseke Funeral Chapel in Greenbush with Reverend Art Stenberg officiating. Special music was provided by Jeanne Novacek. Casketbearers were Mike Billiot, Bill Smith, Steve Smith, Tim Smith, Carter Stenberg, Kurt Stenberg, Brock Stenberg, Nate Gjovick and Jay Gjovick — Opal's grandsons. Burial was in Golden Valley Cemetery, rural Wanaska.

Casketbearers were Wilford Sletten, Gary Sletten, Duane Sletten, Verne Sletten, Michael Helgeland and Glen Nesland. Burial was in Our Saviour's Cemetery in Hamre township of Beltrami county. The Green Funeral Home in Thief River Falls was in charge of the arrangements.

Julius Otto Sletten was born on April 28, 1897 in Roslyn, SD to Ole and Maria (Snikerstougon) Sletten.

He farmed with his parents until their death and then continued to work on various farms in the Thief River Falls area.

Julius resided at Valley Home for 20 years before moving to the Karlstad Memorial Home in 1992 where he has since resided.

Survivors include one sister, Clara Bargaard of Burbank, CA and many nieces and nephews.

Julius was preceded in death by his parents; five brothers, Adolf, Oluf, Richard, Peter and Oscar; and three sisters, Alma Olson, Inga Anderson and Mary Dalen.

Talent contest is another event for American Festival

One of the numerous activities planned during An American Festival in Thief River Falls this year will be an amateur talent contest Sunday, June 28, from 7 to 10 p.m. at the bandshell on the Pennington County Fairgrounds.

Anyone interested in entering the contest may do so by contacting Joe Kezar at Kezar Music at 681-2148. Entries will be taken on a first come, first served basis.

First place winner will receive $200 with a $100 prize for second place and $50 prize for third.

Foot Fitness event held at Purdy's in TRF

Dr. Mark Yuska of Dakota Clinic - Thief River Falls and Purdy's Shoes will be offering a free Foot Fitness Day event 7 p.m. May 27.

Dr. Yuska invites all members of the community to take advantage of the free Foot Fitness Day event Wednesday evening at Purdy's. The event is part of a nationwide foot health initiative aimed at promoting good foot health as the foundation for most physical activities. This year's theme is "Jump Feet First Into Fitness."

According to a national APMA survey of American consumers, a full 60 percent of adults now participate in regular exercise or sports that are hard on the feet. The high rates of activity have seen an increase in serious foot injuries from eight percent in 1983 to 36 percent in 1997. But how many people really pay attention to their feet before a serious injury occurs? "Most people forget to determine the health of their feet while undertaking a fitness regimen," said Mark Yuska, Doctor of Podiatric Medicine. "But unhealthy, impaired, or hurting feet can bring physical activity to a grinding halt." The Foot Health Foundation urges all Americans to: wear athletic shoes appropriate to the sport, never go barefoot, and limit the amount of time spent in heeled shoes that exceed two inches. And, most importantly, it is essential to pay attention to foot pain, as it can be an indication of serious medical condition.

Most Americans have misconceptions or questions regarding their feet. Other survey findings underscore the need for this initiative: One out of 10 Americans say their feet hurt "all the time"; More than half of respondents - 56 percent - believe that foot pain is normal; The majority of those surveyed want to know more about how to keep their feet looking and feeling good.

Participants attending the event 7 p.m. Wednesday, May 27, will learn more about athletic shoes, your feet, and tips on choosing the suitable shoe for you.

Memorial service Sunday, May 24 at Satersdal Church

Annual Memorial Day service will be conducted Sunday, May 24, at 2 p.m. at Satersdal Lutheran Church near Thief River Falls.

Rev. Bruce Dalager of Grand Forks, ND, will be the speaker and special musical numbers will be presented. Refreshments will be served and everyone is welcome to attend.

Ada Lions granted $75,000 to furnish new nursing home

Ada Lions club has been awarded a $75,000 grant from Lions Clubs International Foundation (LCIF) to refurnish Bridges Medical Service Cataract Surgery and Nursing Home which was destroyed in the flood of 1997. Work was started on the new structure in January with completion slated for late 1999 or early 2000.

Dawn Ganje, the first female member of the 15-20 member Ada Lions club, is the grant administrator. LCIF was founded in 1968 as the charitable arm of Lions Clubs International and disburses millions of dollars annually.

In October of 1997 a group of Lions leaders met with leaders of the Ada Lions club and other community leaders and explained the criteria for applying or a matching grant. The idea of conducting enough fundraisers to raise the $75,000 matching portion to qualify for the grant was staggering. The club itself had to raise 15 percent — $11,250—and the remainder can come from other clubs or organizations.

The first fund-raiser, a spaghetti dinner prepared by the Dilworth Lions Club and served by the Ada Lions raised $11,000 to get the drive underway. Approval of the club's grant proposal was received March 31, pending completion of its drive for the local matching funds.

With $17,000 left to be raised toward the goal, FM radio station KRJB of Ada offered to host a radiothon from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The effort brought in $42,310, including $12,000 from the MD5M flood relief fund and the District 5M11 flood relief.

Foot care and blood pressure clinic at Grygla

A foot care and blood pressure clinic is scheduled for Grygla area residents Wednesday, May 27, at 9:30 a.m. at the Grygla community center.

Nurses from North Valley Home Health will soak feet and trim nails. There is a $10 per person charge for foot care. Blood pressure checks are free.

It is important to know how many will attend so staff can be scheduled accordingly. To register for foot care, call Hazel Aune at 459-3315.

Deer Park Garden Club met May 5

Various topics of gardening were included in the program of the Deer Park Garden Club on May 5 at the home of LaVonne and Dick Radniecki, rural Thief River Falls.

The meeting opened with the creed. Eugene Prestegaard discussed his specialty, planting old-fashioned marigolds with seed. Dick Radniecki read about the "wolf peach" — a term used to describe the tomato. LaVonne Radniecki and Lois Swanson talked about the All American winners — lemon scented basil, rosy impatiens, yellow petunia and swiss chard.

The secretary's report was read by Helen Chervestad followed by the treasurer's report by Lois Swanson. Members responded to roll call by telling which area he or she is most interested in touring. Members in attendance were Lois Swanson, Wila and Eugene Prestegaard, Helen Chervestad, Arlene Prestebak, Ethel Wiseth, Dick and Lavonne Radniecki and Donna Radniecke. Correspondence included a card from the Moccasin Garden Club. Members were asked to return the evaluation form from the extension service's Hot News for Horticulturists, so that the publication's benefits to readers can be determined.

Vice President Arlene Prestebak read a letter from the American Festival's committee. The 5th Annual American Festival will be held on June 28 at the fairgrounds in Thief River Falls. A discussion was held regarding possible participation at the festival, and it was decided that the club would sell raffle tickets for the ATV being given away. Helen Chervestad will be in charge of the event.

The next meeting of the Deer Park Garden Club will be held at 7:30 p.m. on June 9 at the home of Arlene and Bob Prestebak.

Gas prices holding but down from last year

Minnesota motorists hitting the road for the Memorial Day holiday will find pump prices holding steady compared to last month. In April, the average price of unleaded self-serve gasoline was $1.08, this month it is $1.09. Last year, Memorial Day travelers in Minnesota spent $1.23 per gallon to fill their tanks.

On a national basis, gasoline prices have ended their seven-month slide. The current national average price of unleaded self-serve gasoline is $1.10, two cents higher than in April. This slight increase is attributed to a seasonal demand, which kicks off at the start of the summer driving season. However, gasoline and crude oil inventories are both higher than they were last year, which is a good indication gas prices this summer will be less than in 1997.

Research data for Memorial Day are based on a national telephone survey of 1,500 adults by the Travel Industry Association of America, which conducts special research for AAA. AAA's Fuel Gauge Report is based on data from Oil Price Information Service - the nation's most comprehensive source of petroleum pricing information.

Survey shows concern about area health care future

Number of people in northwest Minnesota without heath insurance is increasing, according to a survey report from the University of Minnesota extension service which was released May 7.

Three-fourths of those responding to the survey say the cost of health insurance will soon be too expensive for many people in the region. The farm crisis and welfare reform are two reasons given for the anticipated increase in the number of uninsured.

There is also concern that many small business owners in northwest Minnesota are not able to afford health benefits for employees.

Understanding health insurance was another issue identified in the survey. More than 80 percent of people returning the survey said that most people they know have trouble understanding health insurance. More than 80 percent also say that health care in their community is excellent, but 85 percent worry about losing access to that care in the future.

Risk factors related to health care also were identified by the survey. Concerns include the increasing number of people who are living alone and the number of people who are suspected of mental or emotional problems. Use of alcohol and drugs is another worry identified.

Dr. Arlyss Grosz, director of the health management program at the University of Minnesota, Crookston campus, summarized the survey at a meeting in Crookston of county commissioners, health care providers, human service professionals and others. She challenged the group to continue to work together to ensure access to quality health care in northwest Minnesota.

Responding to the report were Rick Failing, director of the Kittson Memorial Health Care Center, Howard Person, Pennington county extension educator; and Tom Jorgens, president of Meta Dynamics. They echoed concerns documented by the survey and described several health care challenges facing the Red River Valley.

The survey was conducted by the Northwest Minnesota Civic Health Initiative, a project supported by the University of Minnesota Extension Service. To receive a copy of the survey report, call the UMC office of outreach at 218-281-8681.

Your Body and Medication

When you're sick, you take medication. But must what happens to that medication inside your body? When you swallow medication, it travels to your stomach. It dissolves in your stomach or intestine and is absorbed into your blood. While in the blood, it passes through your liver and is distributed throughout the body–to the muscles, fat and major organs.

Some drugs are chemically changed as they pass through the liver, changing the drug into a more or less active form. Most medications are eliminated through your kidneys in urine.

As your body ages, it handles medication differently–the effects of the medication may be delayed, prolonged or exaggerated and your kidneys' ability to clear drugs from your system decreases. Your physician considers all this when deciding on your medication dosage and frequency. That's why you should take your medication as prescribed.

Avenue of Flags growing at Greenwood Cemetery

Ten more 20-foot flag poles are being installed this week at the Avenue of Flags near the entrance to Greenwood Cemetery in Thief River Falls—just in time to be used for Memorial Day services on Monday, May 25, at 10:30 a.m.

The new installation will double the length of the Avenue of Flags to approximately 100 yards and double the number of flags to be flown from 10 to 20.

Larry Molstad, who headed the community campaign to establish the Avenue of Flags, said that groups and individuals were very responsive to the idea and proud to be a part of the effort.

While the project is not being done under the auspices of either the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2793 nor American Legion Post 117, both of these veterans groups have given financial support to the project which was dedicated last year at Memorial Day services.

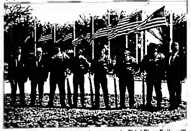
Total project cost for installation is placed at about $4,500. This amount in donations has been exceeded and a maintenance fund established at Northern State Bank. Those who wish may donate to that fund for upkeep of the poles, ropes and pulleys over the years. Larger initial cash donations came from the VFW and American Legion, Elks Lodge 1308 and as a memorial from the family of Norman Olson. There have been other smaller donations from individuals as well.

Molstad said that a large number of volunteers participated in the project in a number of ways. They include welding of the bases for the poles to be set in concrete, painting the poles (former street light poles purchased from the City of Thief River Falls), providing hooks for the rope and making trips for materials. The flag poles are set in concrete to specifications intended to withstand winds of 100 miles per hour with the flag at full staff.

Flags flown from the poles are funeral flags five by nine and one-half feet in size awarded to the families of deceased military veterans. Molstad says he has more than enough flags on hand to fill the 20 poles with a surplus on hand to use for eventual replacement. Since the flags will be flown only on Memorial Day, Flag Day (June 14), Independence Day (July 4) and Veterans Day (November 11), each is expected to provide several years of use.

Veterans of Foreign Wars color guard was the first unit to hoist the colors on the 10 flag poles used last year on Memorial Day, Molstad said. On Memorial Day the flags are flown at half staff until noon, then raised to the top of the poles for the remainder of the day.

Molstad says he is hopeful there will be a good crowd to attend the Memorial Day services and that they will received pleasure from the Avenue of Flags at the service site.



Avenue of Flags at Greenwood cemetery in Thief River Falls will be doubled in size this year with the addition of another 10 flag poles and flags. This photo of the Veterans of Foreign Wars color guard—the first to raise the flags—was taken following Memorial Day services a year ago. Flags are flown at half staff until noon in honor of the nation's war dead, then raised to full staff for the remainder of the day. Larry Molstad, who headed the community-wide effort to create the Avenue of Flags, is at left in the photo.

Lincoln high school orchestra is joined by members of the high school band to form the TRF Symphony. Orchestra director Derek Druse rehearses with the group early this week for the All-City Orchestra Concert to be presented Tuesday, May 26, at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. Public attendance is invited and there is no admission charge.

"You Write Reaf Good" award from the Thief River Falls Times was presented by editor Marvin Lundin to Eeve Young, daughter of Steve and Pelvi Young, at the Lincoln high school senior honors banquet May 13 in the high school cafeteria. The award includes an individual trophy and a $200 scholarship.

Carrissa Ptacek wins Youth Essay contest

Carrissa Ptacek, daughter of Dennis and Rebecca Ptacek, won first place in the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary youth essay contest sponsored by Post 2793 and auxiliary in Thief River Falls.

Theme of the contest was "What Patriotism Means to Me." Carrissa's essay follows:

To me a person's country is like a family. You may get angry at it, you may even fight with it, but deep down you love it and will always be loyal to it. Patriotism is the aunt that always keeps the"family" together. If someone in the "family" talks bad about it or someone else in it, there is the aunt shaking her finger at him.

After a big fight someone yells out, "I hate you!" There is the aunt, making them apologize.

Recently the aunt seems to be coming down with something!

More and more often I hear people saying, "I hate this country" or "I don't care if he's my brother, I still hate him!" Now, we could just stand here and let this go on as if nothing was happening. Well, the aunt gets sicker and sicker and then finally dies.

Or we could say, "I'm sick of you," not loving your family or culture or anything else. You should respect and love it and nurse it back to health when it needs it. If you take this road, then you will see the aunt grow strong and more powerful.

Some people get so caught up in their own life and business that they don't realize how much strain and pain they are giving the aunt. Others realize but don't have a clue how to change it, and others just don't care. Those are the ones who think that it "will always be here" and "I'll never have to worry about being without a country or home." For those, I wish that just for one day we could show them what it was like not to have a home!

Now it's up to you to decide. Kill the aunt, or let her flourish.

Advanced cycle rider course to be offered in TRF

An experienced rider course will be conducted by the Minnesota Motorcycle Safety Center (MMSC) in Thief River Falls on Sat., June 13 from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Anyone with at least three months of riding experience and a desire to improve and sharpen current skills is encouraged to participate. Interested individuals must be at least 16 years old and possess a valid driver's license with a motorcycle endorsement or the appropriate instruction permit.

In addition, participants must provide their own street legal motorcycle and show proof of insurance.

"The course consists of eight hours of training with emphasis on street strategies, vision and perceptual skills, braking, cornering and swerving maneuvers," states Karen Kadar, project director of the MN Motorcycle Safety Center.

For more information and to register call MMSC at 1-800-407-6677. Enrollment in the class is limited. The MMSC is accredited by the National Motorcycle Safety Foundation and licensed by the Minnesota Department of Public Safety.

EMS Week honors people providing "the vital link"

National Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Week is being conducted May 17-23 to honor approximately 750,000 EMS providers nationwide who deliver lifesaving emergency care. Theme for the week is "EMS: The Vital Link."

"This job is different from any other job you can have," says Doug Pederson, executive director of Northwest Minnesota Emergency Medical Services.

"You are under tremendous pressure; you have to react quickly; you have to make flawless decisions. A lot of people don't have a clue as to what EMS service personnel do and how far their services reach into the community."

Pederson said this year's theme "emphasizes how important our people have been to our success. It's an opportunity to say thanks and to honor their outstanding efforts."

In addition, National EMS Week is an opportunity for the public to learn about injury prevention, safety awareness and emergency preparedness.

Swanson retires from board of Goodridge Development Corp.

Ernie Swanson, one of the founders of the Goodridge Area Development Corporation, retired from the board at a recent meeting. President John Lovly presented him with a plaque in appreciation for his many years of service to the organization.

Goodridge Area Development Corporation was born of virtual necessity back in 1975 when the city of Goodridge was without a place to buy a cup of coffee. Ten local people joined to form the corporation, applying to the State of Minnesota for a charter to operate as a non-profit corporation.

Incorporators were Gordon Henrickson, Clarence Peterson, Dr. David Brown, Bruce Anderson, Wallace Tieman, Palmer Paulson, Merlin Drangstveit, Albert Kassa, Sheldon Knutson and Ernie Swanson. Each of the organizers contributed $1,000 to the treasury, with which they purchased the cafe building which had been closed on the corner of Main Street and Urdahl Avenue.

The building was renovated and equipped with new fixtures, a manager was hired and the cafe was back in operation. After being operated by the development corporation for a period of time, it proved to be a flourishing business and was sold to a private owner. Over the years it has changed hands several times but remained in operation, today being owned and operated as the Hartz Store and Cafe by Darrin and Vanessa Belcourt.

Swanson said the original owners got most of their money back and, with the original mission accomplished, the organization was put on inactive status for future use. When charitable gambling was authorized in Minnesota, the corporation became a natural to handle the pull-tab operation in Goodridge. Memberships were sold for $1 a year and for a few years about 100 people attended the annual meetings.

Memberships continue to be $1 annually and Gordon Henrickson continues to serve as president. Swanson, who served as gambling manager for the first few years of the pull-tab operation, was secretary-treasurer until his retirement.

"Those first years the profits from the pull-tabs were very good and a lot of money was put to good use in the community," Swanson said. "Major contributions were made to the city, the school, fire department and other worthwhile organizations in the area."

Two of the most visible projects are the community center, which is attached to the Goodridge school and serves regular duty during the school year as its cafeteria; and the blacktop street in front of the school. Goodridge Area Development Corporation used its charitable gambling proceeds to pay for all but $10,000 of the community center (the remaining $10,000 was provided by the Hartz Foundation) and shared the cost of street surfacing 50-50 with the school district.

Advent of casinos in the area, higher operating costs for the pull-tab business and increased take of profits by the State of Minnesota have combined to reduce the amount of money the corporation has available to return to the community, Swanson noted.

Goodridge Jaycees share in the profits of the pull-tab business and that organization has also made substantial donations to various projects in the area.

Ernie Swanson (right) receives a plaque from John Lovly, president of the Goodridge Area Development Corporation, in appreciation for his many years of service to the organization. One of the founders of the corporation which has assisted in many Goodridge community projects, Swanson recently retired from the board of directors.

Anderson and Stauffenecker finish course

Roger Jon Anderson, formerly of Thief River Falls, and Lonnie Stauffenecker of Warren were among 39 bankers who recently completed the consumer banking school sponsored by the Minnesota Bankers Ass'n in Minneapolis.

Established in 1989, the school is a one week program designed to prepare personal or consumer bankers to meet the needs of their bank and community.

Anderson, the son of Dick and Judy Anderson, is a graduate of Lincoln high school and employed as a personal banker in Maplewood. Stauffenecker is a loan officer at the Rural America Bank of Warren.

ment buildings supervisor, pointed out that a new roof was put on the building in 1983, the building was tuck pointed in 1990, it has new windows, and a new electric boiler installed in 1986. Generally, he said, it's in very good shape.

Dave Carlson, council representative, wanted to know whether leasing the building or renting office space would pay for the cost of maintaining the building, and pay for the cost of bringing the building into compliance. Although he favors leasing public space, he noted that there are a lot of factors to take into consideration. Personally, he said he would like to see investors bring some cash to the table.

Jim Burkholder, local citizen, asked who will pay for the improvements to the auditorium. Burkholder criticized the council for continuing to spend and raise taxes for projects like the depot, Multi-Events Complex Center, the dredging project and sewer lagoon. Burkholder said he knows the city can bond for some of the projects, but added that it's going to catch up to the city some time.

Rufus Dlson, local citizen, said he had been listening to the discussion for about 45 minutes and all of the comments had been negative. (Dlson and 24 other people had signed a petition that had been presented to the council. It requested that the council create a committee to look at the future use of the city auditorium as a community based organization for all citizens.) Dlson said a lot of good could come from opening the building for public use. He lectured the council on their responsibilities as representatives of the people stating, "We didn't give you power of attorney when we elected you to the city council." He asked that they listen to their input.

Reid Frolland, local citizen, asked the council to keep the building open to public use. He also asked the council to consider creating a committee composed of a broad representation of the public. He noted that the council's decisions had been criticized lately and the public doesn't seem to have a lot of faith in the council. It would be a good faith gesture on the part of the council, he said, to ask what the citizens wanted.

It seemed to be the consensus of the council to establish a committee, the composition of which would include those who support keeping it open and those opposed to keeping it open, and representatives of the county, city, young, senior citizens, school district, chamber of commerce, and Sid Fossan. The council eventually approved a motion giving the mayor responsibility for appointing people to the committee.

But the meeting didn't end until after an exchange between Don Barron and two other council representatives, Dale Wennberg and Ken Schmalz, who were opposed to the depot project. It began when Jim Burkholder began asking council representatives what they supported.

Frank Hamerlinck said he favored selling the city auditorium. He later clarified his position stating that it could be sold to a private individual or group interested in keeping the building for public use, but more than likely, charge for its use.

Jean Heinrichs said that if there wasn't a viable commitment from citizens supporting the auditorium, she would support selling it.

Don Barron began by reviewing some of the estimated costs for bringing the auditorium into compliance. That drew a response from Wennberg and Schmalz, who disagreed that two of the estimates were $1.3 million and $800,000. Schmalz thought it could have been done for about $250,000.

A committee will be faced with the challenge of making some big decisions about the future of the auditorium. Mayor Borsheim said he would like that committee to present its findings to the council before the end of the summer. Anyone interested in serving on this committee is asked to contact the City Clerk's office.

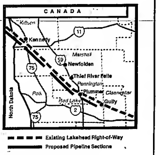
Notice of Application for Partial Exemption from Pipeline Route Selection Procedures and Public Information Meetings
Minnesota Environmental Quality Board

Application of Lakehead Pipe Line Company for a Pipeline Routing Permit Pursuant to Partial Exemption from Pipeline Route Selection Procedures

Lakehead Pipe Line Company is proposing to install four separate segments of 36-inch outside diameter pipeline to Lakehead's existing pipeline facilities. The new segments will total approximately 69 miles in length and will be constructed within and/or adjacent to existing multiple line rights easements through the following Minnesota counties: Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Polk.

The Minnesota Environmental Quality Board (EQB) will hold a public information meeting in each county to provide information on the proposed project and to receive information to assist the EQB in determining whether to grant or deny the partial exemption application. The five county information meetings are scheduled for the times and places listed. Representatives from other governmental agencies may be present to discuss their oversight of the project. A more detailed explanation of the proposed project is contained in the application for partial exemption from pipeline route selection procedures filed with the EQB. Copies of Lakehead's application, pipeline routing rules and the pipeline routing act will be available at the information meetings.

This map shows the location of the proposed pipeline route. The expansion will follow existing pipeline right-of-way.



In deciding whether to grant or deny the partial exemption, the EQB shall consider comments that are filed with the EQB, the record of the public information meetings, and the information contained in the application relevant to the criteria for partial exemption. Any person may file comments with the EQB stating reasons why the EQB should grant or deny the partial exemption. All comments should be submitted to the EQB by July 1, 1998. If the EQB grants the partial exemption application it must issue a pipeline routing permit. If the partial exemption is denied the applicant may request that the EQB continue processing its application under full pipeline route selection procedures.

Minnesota Rules, Chapter 4415 regulate the review procedures for the routing of pipelines in Minnesota.

Additional information may be obtained from and comments should be submitted to: Larry B. Hartman, Environmental Quality Board, 300 Centennial Building, 658 Cedar Street, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155. Tel: (612) 296-5089 or 1-800-657-3794 and ask for the EQB.

Dyrud to speak at Newfolden Memorial Day

Nathan Dyrud, a graduate of Middle River high school who spent a year teaching in Korea and traveling extensively in Southeast Asia, will be guest speaker for the annual Memorial Day services Monday, May 25, at 10:30 a.m. in the Newfolden community center.

Otto Knutson Post 427 of the American Legion will sponsor the services again this year, also providing a color guard for presentation and retiring of the colors at the community center and at the cemetery ceremonies to follow at Oak Grove Cemetery. Special music will be provided by Danca Barrett, a senior at Marshall County Central high school.

The ceremonies at the cemetery to honor the departed will include a reading of the roll of honor and salute by the American Legion firing squad.

Following the cemetery ceremonies, the American Legion Auxiliary will serve a meal at the community center.

Nathan Dyrud is a 1990 graduate of Middle River high school and the son of Philip and Avis Dyrud. He has a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Minnesota in 1994 and a master's degree in English literature in 1996.

From 1996 to 1997 he taught at Chonbuk National University in Korea, also traveling extensively in several countries of Southeast Asia. He is presently employed by Agassiz Appraisal and Consulting in Middle River and a substitute teacher in area schools.

Lindseys to share vision for ministry to deaf persons

Randy and Linda Lindsey will share their vision on ministries to the deaf Sunday, May 24, at 10:30 a.m. at New Life Assembly of God Church in Thief River Falls, according to Rev. George Bunnell, pastor.

The Lindseys are on assignment to the Division of Home Missions Intercultural Ministries. They note that deaf people live in every nation, tribe and culture, that less than two percent of deaf people attend any kind of church and that there are 300 million deaf people worldwide.

They operate through Deaf International Media Ministries in Nerstrand, MN providing deaf people with [illegible] discipleship and training materials and have been involved in deaf ministry in Jerusalem, Israel.

For more information contact the church at [illegible].

Allyson Torstveit receives her gold cup award from her piano teacher Ruth Stenson at the concert presented by Mrs. Stenson's students Sunday, May 17, at Redeemer Lutheran Church.

Heavy rainfall—measured at six inches at the Mac Stucy farm just east of the River Valley bridge over the Red Lake river—caused flooding in the area Friday. The river is said to be back in its banks as of Tuesday morning, but the damage to the Stucy wheat field pictured above is expected to be extensive. Excessive rain throughout much of the area late last week has dashed hopes of many farmers who had high expectations for this being a banner crop production year.

Catholic/Lutheran Rural Life event held in Lancaster

Catholic/Lutheran Rural Life commission of Northwest Minnesota is sponsoring "Rural Life Sunday", on Sunday, June 28 at Holy Rosary Catholic Church in Lancaster. The celebration begins at 3 p.m. with Vern Baardson of Fargo, ND, as the guest speaker and performer, followed by supper, featuring ethnic foods from people in the Lancaster area.

Vern Baardson has been involved in Gospel Music since the 70s, performing, recording and broadcasting. He has performed and proclaimed God's word in the U.S., Canada and Japan. He mixes his proclamation with music, humor and a practical message that your whole family will remember.

Holy Rosary Catholic Church is located eight miles north of Lancaster on U.S. Highway 59, one mile west and one-quarter mile south. Roads will be marked. Lancaster is 60 miles north of Thief River Falls on U.S. Highway 59.

From 1970 to 1974 he was stationed in Stuttgart, Germany, first as a force development staff officer and later as commander of the aviation maintenance company.

Prior to his retirement Oct. 1, 1982, he served as test staff officer at Falls Church, VA; combat development staff officer at Ft. Rucker, AL; and instructor in the Defense Systems Management College at Ft. Belvoir, VA.

Col. Lunsetter has been awarded the Bronze Star, Defense Meritorious Service Medal, three Army Meritorious Service Medals, 10+ Air Medals with "V" device, six Vietnam Campaign Medals, Vietnam Service Medal and Senior Army Aviator Badge.

Since 1983 he has been farming in the Grygla community and is now semi-retired. He married Barbara Hylland of Grygla in 1959. They have two married daughters, Janell Reich of Fayetteville, AR and Julie Tysl of Chardon, OH; one son, David, of Thief River Falls; and six grandchildren.

Col. Lunsetter said that 1998 marks the 80th anniversary of the end of World War I, after which the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars organizations were formed. He will use that history and his visits to many World War I and World War II battlefields as the basis for his address.

NCTC offers class on special child care

Northland Community and Technical College, Thief River Falls, is offering Project Exceptional Classes for child-care providers, early childhood educators, social service providers, and family members of young children with disabilities in Minnesota.

The class, "More Alike Than Different", will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on June 9, in the Ada Elementary art room. The cost of the class is $10 per session.

The focus of this workshop is ability awareness and respect for diversity. Looking at how myths affect one's perceptions, attitudes and actions, the importance of knowing one's feelings and values about disabilities is discussed.

For more information and to pre-register contact Custom Training and Continuing Education at NCTC (218) 681-0793 or 1-800-959-6282.

Arctic Cat shares profits with employees

Arctic Cat Inc. completed its 15th consecutive year of profit sharing by awarding a fiscal year-end bonus to all its employees on Friday, May 15. This award follows the announcement of record sales for fiscal 1998 and the 15th straight year of increased retail sales of Arctic Cat snowmobiles.

Arctic Cat Inc.'s profit sharing program for the 1998 fiscal year was again paid to employees in two portions. A longevity bonus based on length of service to Arctic Cat was paid in mid-December. This fixed rate longevity bonus was given to all Arctic Cat employees to reward them for their long-term commitment to the company. The much larger fiscal year-end bonus is traditionally paid to all Arctic Cat employees in mid-May, depending on the fiscal year-end, and is based primarily on the company's profitability.

"Because Arctic Cat has made a strong commitment to sharing its profits with the people responsible for creating them this year, just like each of the past 15 years, we are again sharing our profits with all Arctic Cat employees. We are proud to be able to say that the company has always been profitable and that the company has always shared its profits with its employees," said President and Chief Executive Officer Chris Twomey.

Record Memorial Day Travel to kick off season

According to AAA, a record number of Americans will be traveling this Memorial Day weekend, the traditional kick-off to the busy summer travel season.

An estimated 32.1 million people are expected to travel 100 miles or more from home this holiday — up one percent from last year's 31.8 million travelers. That increase comes on the heels of a five percent increase in 1997 over the previous year.

AAA projects that 26.7 million people will travel by auto, light truck or recreational vehicle compared to 26.4 million in 1997. Another 5.4 million travelers plan to get away by airplane, train or bus this year, the same number as a year ago.

In the Midwest, 4.7 million people are expected to travel by auto/truck/RV, a two percent increase over last year.

PUBLIC INVITED

HEARINGS TO BE HELD BY THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION ON THE NEED FOR EXPANSION OF LAKEHEAD PIPE LINE COMPANY'S PIPELINE SYSTEM

Citizens are encouraged to attend public hearings concerning a proposed crude oil pipeline looping project. The time and location of the hearings are listed below.

Thief River Falls
Room 131, Northland Community and Technical College
1101 Highway One East
7:00 p.m., June 10, 1998
and
9:00 a.m., June 11, 1998

Comments and questions from the public will be taken first at both hearings, followed by testimony from the formal parties.

The purpose of these hearings is to determine whether the expansion proposed by Lakehead Pipe Line Company is needed. The proposed pipeline looping project would enter the State of Minnesota on the North Dakota/Minnesota border in Kittson County approximately 12 miles northwest of Donaldson, Minnesota. The ending point will be a connection to Lakehead Pipe Line Company's existing pipeline near Highway 92 and Gully, Minnesota in Polk County. The existing pipeline system, through an interconnection with Minnesota Pipe Line at Clearbrook, Minnesota, delivers approximately 75 percent of the crude petroleum refined in the State of Minnesota. The pipeline system which continues eastward from Clearbrook, Minnesota provides transportation for all crude feedstock for the only refinery in the State of Wisconsin at Superior, Wisconsin. Additionally, the pipeline system provides transportation for approximately 45 percent of the crude petroleum refined in the Chicago, Illinois area. The balance of the petroleum moved by the pipeline system is moved to eastern Canada and other Midwestern and eastern U.S. refineries. The Company proposes to add to its existing pipeline system in the State of Minnesota approximately 69 miles of 36-inch pipeline to increase the capacity of its system on an annual average by 166,700 barrels per day. The proposed expansion would be constructed in the following counties: Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Polk. The pipeline would be constructed parallel and/or adjacent to the same right-of-way as the existing pipeline system.

PUBLIC INVITED TO TESTIFY

The public is invited to testify and present exhibits at the public hearings. Members of the public are urged to make their presentations in person. If they cannot, they may submit written comments prior to the close of the hearings to the state office of Administrative Hearings, administrative law judge, Allan W. Klein, 100 Washington Square, Suite 1700, Minneapolis, MN 55401.

For more information, or a copy of the Notice and Order for Hearing, which contains additional details on the hearing process, contact David Jacobson, Public Utilities Commission, 121 7th Place East, Suite 350, St. Paul, MN 55101-2147, telephone (612) 297-4562.

Pioneers win 1998 MCCC state softball tournament title

Northland beat North Hennepin 11-5 Saturday in the championship game of the 1998 Minnesota Community College Conference state softball tournament at Grand Rapids, producing the first-ever state title for a women's athletic program at the school.

The Pioneers defeated Riverland 15-10, Vermilion 15-3 and Rochester 7-5 Friday – the first day of the double-elimination event. Saturday, the Pioneers added a 7-5 victory over Itasca to take an unbeaten mark in the finals against North Hennepin, the survivor out of the loser's bracket.

North Hennepin needed to beat Northland twice in their championship match-up. They squared the title series at one loss apiece with a 9-2 victory in the first encounter, but the Pioneers came back with the final-game decision for the title.

The MCCC crown helped make up for the disappointment Northland felt a week earlier at the National Junior College Athletic Association Region 13 tournament in Willmar, where the Pioneers, like they did in Grand Rapids, reached the finals of the double-elimination draw unbeaten, but lost two title game match-ups with Itasca, 8-4 and 10-4.

Those losses at the Region 13 tournament, which featured late-season leaders in the MCCC divisional standings, along with a Montana qualifier, cost Northland an opportunity to compete in the NJCAA-Division-III-national tournament. The state tournament is a season-ending open invitational-style format that uses regular season standings as a seeding tool.

Two keys in the Pioneers' title-winning efforts included the second-round victory over a Vermilion team that had beaten them four times in five earlier meetings this spring, and the second-day decision over the Itasca team that overtook them in the Region 13 tournament. Northland used a nine-run fourth inning to complete an eight-run rule win over Vermilion and got a 2-run home run from Devin Grugal in the bottom of the sixth inning in the come-from-behind conquest of Itasca.

"It was a tremendous accomplishment ." said Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We've faced a lot of adversity this year, with kids missing for various reasons. But they came through. They played real solid softball. It was a great way to finish the year."

Nikunen admitted thoughts of the two Region 13 championship match-up losses to Itasca flashed through his mind after losing the first meeting with North Hennepin. "I was a little worried," he acknowledge, "but the girls weren't. They were confident."

Northland went into the finals with a long lay-off between games, while North Hennepin came right off a loser's round victory.

"We were a little sluggish at the start of the first game against North Hennepin, and they were warmed up ready to go," explained Nikunen. "But as play went along, our kids got going. Even though we lost the first game, things starting to pick up for us toward the end, and we carried that momentum into the second game."

Grugal was the Pioneers' top state tournament performer, collecting 17 hits in 22 at-bats. "They could not get her out," noted Nikunen. "They tried pitching her inside, outside, high and low, but she hit everything."

Northland finished the year 25-13 overall.

EGF wins top honors in weight lifting meet

East Grand Forks out-pointed Thief River Falls and Crookston to win the fifth annual Rivals of the North Bench Press Championships high school weight-lifting meet.

Competition was held in light weight, middle weight, light-heavy weight and heavyweight classes.

East Grand Forks set a meet record with a combined 3,275-pound total lift by its team members, followed by Thief River Falls at 3,095 and Crookston 2,745.

■ Middle weight - (146-170 pounds) 1. Justin Stordahl, EGF, 275 pounds; 2. Jon Hussey, EGF, 260; 3. Jeremy King, EGF, 250.

■ Light-heavy weight - (171-204 pounds) 1. Dustin Robles, EGF, 345 pounds (meet record); 2. Garrett Novak, TRF, 310; 3. Ben Wicks, EGF, 295.

■ Heavy weight - (205 pounds-over) 1. Levi Kraft, TRF, 350 pounds (ties all-time meet record); 2. Jay Wallace, Crookston, 315; 3. Casey Gerszewski, EGF, 300.

TRF boys are part of Warroad Invitational

First place East Grand Forks finished four strokes ahead of runner-up Roseau (314-318) Friday at the Warroad Invitational boys high school golf tournament.

Thief River Falls wound up eighth in the ten-team field at 369.

With the Prowlers in the midst of a busy stretch of meets to close out the regular season schedule, head coach Dick Tyler altered his line-up and went to Warroad without several varsity regulars.

The Prowlers were also scheduled to golf Saturday at the Roseau Invitational, but the meet was called off because of wet grounds.

Thief River Falls will compete in the 1998 Section 8AA meet Friday at Perham, where the Prowlers will golf against Alexandria, Bemidji, Brainerd, Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls, Little Falls, Moorhead, Princeton, Rocori, St. Cloud Apollo, St. Cloud Tech, Sartell, and Sauk Rapids-Rice.

Tyler is optimistic the Prowlers will make a solid post-season showing. "I'm hoping our scores will drop," he said. "We've got three golfers who are peaking right now and playing real well – Adam Nordin, John Sjoberg and Eric Barber. And we're hoping Casey Enge, Jon Lee and Craig Lawrence will be able to pick up their game at the section meet."

Warroad Invitational

■ Team totals - East Grand Forks 314, Roseau 318, Warroad 321, Roseau JV 327, Stephen-Argyle 328, Crookston 356, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 359, Thief River Falls 369, Lake of the Woods 409, Indus 444.

Roseau girls win EGF Invitational golf meet

Roseau girls won the eight-team East Grand Forks Invitational high school golf tournament Friday by a sizeable 362-387 margin over second place Crookston.

Thief River Falls was fourth at 402, and Prowlers head coach Bruce Jean was happy with the results. "Beating East Grand Forks on their own course was very good," he said. "We're starting to shoot consistent golf."

The Prowlers will join Alexandria, Bemidji, Brainerd, Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls, Little Falls, Moorhead, Princeton, Rocori, St. Cloud Apollo, St. Cloud Tech, Sartell, and Sauk Rapids at the 1998 Section 8AA meet Friday at the Headwaters Golf Club in Park Rapids.

EGF Invitational

■ Team totals - Roseau 362, Crookston 387, Bemidji 399, Thief River Falls 402, East Grand Forks 417, Fertile-Beltrami 431, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 431, Mahnomen 550.

■ Medalist - 1. Steph McMillan, East Grand Forks, 83; 2. Sara Butler, Roseau, 97; 3. Kristi Yatones, Fertile-Beltrami, 88. Thief River Falls scores - Beth Goddard 99, Kim Schneider 93, Nicole Wiseth 101, Jenni Gonsorowski 103, Katie Jorde 119, Becky Hoven 127.

TRF Pepsi Triathlon is slated for May 23

Plans are in place for the 14th annual Thief River Falls Pepsi Triathlon, scheduled to be held Saturday, May 23.

Activity begins at the Franklin Middle School pool, with the adult portion of the event getting underway at 9 a.m. and the kids competition at 11 a.m.

Adults will cover a 500-yard swim, 12-mile bike and 3-mile run. Kids will compete in a 50-yard swim, 2.4-mile bike and 1.2-mile run.

There will also be a relay triathlon for two or three-member teams.

The event is sanctioned by USA Triathlon, with all proceeds going to the benefit of the Thief River Falls Swim Club. Entry fee is $15 for USA Triathlon members. Non-members can buy a one-day membership for $5. Entry fee for the team triathlon is $30 per team and entry fee for the kids triathlon is $10.

Race shirts will be given to all finishers and awards will go to the first place male and female finishers in various age groups in the adult race – 19-under, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50-59, 60-69, and 70-over. Awards will also go to first place male, female and mixed relay teams.

Shirts will also go to all finishers in the kids triathlon and awards will go to the first place boy and girl in the 7-under, 8-9, 10-11, and 12-over age groups.

The event is sponsored by Pepsi, Hugo's and the Dakota Clinic of Thief River Falls.

Entry forms are available at the Dakota Clinic, at the Franklin pool, or by calling Jim Laugland at 681-4747 or 681-7332.

Thief River Falls has new wrestling coach

Rick Yanke of La Crosse, WI has been named Thief River Falls' head high school wrestling coach, succeeding John Belyea, who resigned at the end of the 1997-98 season.

Jim Sims, Director of Activities for School District 564, made the announcement Monday. The appointment is pending school board approval.

Yanke, who will teach physical education at Franklin Middle School, is a University of Wisconsin-La Crosse graduate.

He has taught in the La Crosse, Milwaukee and West Salem school districts in Wisconsin.

At Logan High School in La Crosse, Yanke worked with the wrestling program as head junior varsity coach, the football team as the junior varsity assistant and with the weight training program. At Rufus King High School in Milwaukee, he was the wrestling varsity assistant and football head junior varsity/varsity assistant. He coached cross country at West Salem.

Detroit Lakes ended the 1998 season for Thief River Falls Monday with a 10-0 opening round North Sub-Section 8AA high school softball tournament win.

Kristi Muzik worked three perfect innings and wound up with a three-hit shutout for the host Lakers, giving up only a double to Stephanie Leach and singles to Erika Hudson and Becca Leach.

"We put some people on base the last two innings, but we couldn't get the hits to score the runs," said Thief River Falls coach Ken Fletcher.

Detroit Lakes beat Thief River Falls 10-1 in a single regular season meeting. The Lakers were the No. 2-seeded team and the Prowlers were the No. 7 seed in the seven-team tournament. Monday's first round winners moved into the double-elimination portion of the tournament starting today (Wednesday).

Thief River Falls finished the year 4-13. The record was less-than-hoped-for, "but the girls learned a lot this year," said Fletcher.

High school baseball...

Prowlers are third in Hibbing tournament

A third place finish at the Mike Buglrosi Classic in Hibbing over the weekend closed out Thief River Falls' 1998 regular season high school baseball schedule.

The Prowlers beat Sauk Rapids 6-1, lost to Cloquet 10-6 and knocked off Hibbing 8-7 in eight innings.

Rain halted the Thief River Falls vs. Sauk Rapids game in the third inning Friday night. Play was picked up at that point Saturday morning to start a busy day for the Prowlers. Paul Frank turned in a complete-game three-hit pitching performance, with the lone run and all three Sauk Rapids hits coming in the first inning.

Thief River Falls came up with the third place game win by scoring on a series of Hibbing mistakes in the bottom of the eighth as Andy Harbott struck out, but reached base when the ball got by the catcher for an error. He advanced two bases on wild pitches and scored as Frank drove the ball off the right-center field fence.

The Prowlers, who were beaten by Moorhead 11-6 Thursday in their final home appearance, will head into the North Sub-Section 8AA tournament with a 5-14 record. Following the coaches' seeding decisions, play starts Thursday with the No. 5 team at No. 4 and the No. 6 team at No. 3. The top two seeds will serve at host teams for Round 2 Saturday.

Minnesota moose hunt applications are now available

Applications are now available for the 1998 Minnesota moose hunt. Applications may be obtained from license vendors and county auditor offices. Application deadline is Friday, June 12.

There are 185 permits available in 29 zones in northeastern Minnesota. Season dates are Oct. 4-19. Two new zones have been added for the 1998 season north and east of Lake Vermillion, and another added northwest of Two Harbors to provide hunting opportunities in areas with expanding moose populations.

For the second consecutive year, no moose hunting permits are being offered for zones in the northwestern part of the state, where moose populations have declined. A cooperative study is underway to determine causes for the decline.

Individuals who applied for permits for last year's moose hunt will be sent postcards with peel-off stickers that contain the information necessary to apply for permits. Moose hunters may apply in parties of two to four individuals. An application fee of $3 per individual must be included with the application. Only Minnesota residents are eligible for the moose hunt.

Permits are issued through a random drawing. Because the moose hunt became a "once-in-a-lifetime" hunt in 1991, hunters who received permits for moose hunts for the 1991 hunt and later are not eligible to apply for the 1998 drawing or future moose hunt drawings.

Bag limit is one moose of any age or either sex per party of two to four hunters. The license fee is $275 per party. There will be mandatory orientation sessions required for all hunters chosen for moose licenses.

In 1997, 197 parties took 152 moose in northeast zones for a 77 percent success rate. The harvest included 124 bulls and 28 cows. Approximately 4,000 parties consisting of 10,000 individuals applied for moose hunting permits in 1997.

TRF track teams do well in final outings

Thief River Falls warmed up for the North Sub-Section 8AA meet, scheduled to be held Thursday in Alexandria, with a strong showing in both the boys and girls competition Monday at the East Grand Forks Lions Invitational high school track meet.

The Prowlers had a half-dozen winners in the girls' portion of the meet and the Thief River Falls boys won four events.

"It was one of the best outings of the year for the boys," reported Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson, who added, "It was a solid performance by the girls. It's just the kind of performance you want to have at this time of the year."

The Prowlers' Rachel Mathson (200, 400) Nicole Kopari (shot, discus) and Becky Mooney (800, 1600) were all double event winners. Kopari's 45-8 throw in the shot upped the school record she has broken repeatedly during the course of the season.

For their efforts, Mathson (running event) and Kopari (field event) were named Performers of the Meet for the girls.

Crookston girls won team honors with 169 points, followed by East Grand Forks with 109 1/2, Thief River Falls 96, Stephen-Argyle 67, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 46, Fisher/Climax 38 1/2, Norman County 30, Red Lake County Central 28, and Win-E-Mac 24.

The boys' title went to Stephen-Argyle with 123 points, followed by Crookston with 115, East Grand Forks 113, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 85, Thief River Falls 83, Win-E-Mac 45, Fisher/Climax 21, Norman County 11, and Red Lake County Central 4.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Rogalla is All-District

Carter Rogalla of Thief River Falls, a senior on the University of North Dakota baseball team, has been named to the 1998 First Team GTE Academic All-District VII baseball team.

Rogalla carries a 3.33 grade-point average in business education. He set single-season records for home runs (20), runs scored (64), runs batted in (65) and total bases (143) and tied the school record with 15 doubles this past season when he hit .386 and finished his career by starting 174 consecutive games.

His all-district honor will put Rogalla on the national ballot.

Northland is swept by Vermilion squad in final 1998 outing

Vermilion beat Northland 13-6, 18-2 Saturday in a wind-swept Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division baseball doubleheader played at Ely.

"It was a tough day to pitch with the winds blowing out about 35 miles per hour," reported Northland coach Chris Mills. "I guess their pitchers were better than ours."

The two losses ended an 8-18 season for the Pioneers, who lost their final eight games.

Minn. Ag issues Special Local Need for products

On May 5, 1998, the Minnesota Department of Agriculture issued Special Local Need (SLN) registrations for: Aquathol herbicide manufactured by Elf Atochem North America Inc., Philadelphia, PA 19103, for use of an improved formulation of Aquathol for aquatic weed control; Alamo fungicide manufactured by Novartis Crop Protection, Inc., Greensboro, NC, 27419, for use of an increased rate of Alamo fungicide on elm trees for the control of dutch elm disease; and for Tilt fungicide also manufactured by Novartis Crop Protection, for use for a heading time application to wheat for the control of leaf and glume blotch diseases.

A federal or state agency, a local unit of government, or any person or group of persons filing with the commissioner a petition that contains the signatures and addresses of 500 or more individuals of legal voting age, shall have 30 days from publication of notice in the State Register to file written objections with the commissioner regarding the issuance of the SLN registration.

Objections may be submitted to John C. Sierk, Pesticide Regulatory Consultant, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, Agronomy and Plant Protection Division, 90 West Plato Boulevard, St. Paul, MN 55106.

The comment deadline is June 17, 1998.

Early-season cold water can present danger, warns DNR

Every year more than 1 million anglers take to Minnesota's lakes, rivers and streams. For quite a few, it will be their first time as watercraft owners, and thus many are unaware of the hazards awaiting unprepared boaters. Last summer, 21 boaters died in Minnesota watercraft accidents, seven of the victims were anglers.

Early-season water temperatures are often in the low 40s, cold enough to cause hypothermia – a life-threatening rapid drop in body temperature. Sometimes a person falling into cold water gasps, breathes in water, and drowns in seconds. Even if a victim doesn't drown immediately, the person who is not wearing a life jacket has difficulty staying afloat in cold water for more than a few minutes. Even an Olympic class swimmer would have a difficult time swimming more than a few yards under such icy conditions, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

There's no reason that a fall overboard or capsizing has to be fatal, however. A vest-style life jacket can help hold in body heat and lengthen survival time in cold water. The newer "float coat" models offer even more comfort and hypothermia protection and look like an ordinary coat. That makes them perfect for those who don't want their fishing buddies to know they're wearing a life vest.

Newest type of life vest to be marketed is the inflatable jacket. Inflated by a small CO2 cartridge when a lanyard is jerked, the inflatable device is best for use in warmer weather when hypothermia isn't as much of a problem. Approved just last year by the U.S. Coast Guard, the inflatable comes in two distinct models. One is the "fanny pack" or belt pack and the other is worn as a pair of suspenders.

"I tried one of the belt pack models and it was great," said Tim Smalley, Minnesota DNR boating safety specialist. "I had to keep checking because I'd think for a second 'Oh my gosh, I forgot to put on by life vest.' Then I'd look down and there it was, ready to go."

Another inflatable life vest advantage is comfort in hot weather, countering the objections of some people that jackets are too warm to wear on hot days. Inflatable life vests are available for less than $50 at many sporting goods outlets.

Another reason to avoid drinking while operating a motorboat is the boating while intoxicating law. Last year, more than 120 people were arrested in Minnesota for operating a motorboat under the influence, and a good number of them were anglers. Considering penalties of up to $700, 90 days in jail and loss of motorboat operating privileges, intoxication could make an outing fairly expensive, if not downright deadly. As of Jan. 1, 1998, anyone caught in a third driving while intoxicated arrest on any kind of motorized vehicle will lose the vehicle being operated.

Anglers should be aware of the other legal requirements for boating, Smalley said. There are a number of items that vary according to the type and size of watercraft, but some are especially important.

■ Every person on board a watercraft (except sailboards) must wear, or have a U.S. Coast Guard approved personal flotation device (life preserver) readily accessible. The requirement in other states and on federal waters differ, so check ahead.

■ Motorboats are required to have a red and green bow light and a white stern light if operating between sunset and sunrise. Even if the boat is anchored or drifting, a white light must be visible at all times. "Nighttime anglers sometimes find this requirement a nuisance, but several unlit anchored boats are involved in collisions every year, because they weren't seen in time by an approaching boat," Smalley said. "Non-motorized craft need only a white light in sufficient time to avoid a collision. If you're not afraid of the dark, perhaps you should be."

■ Even though inboards, inboard-outboard boats and outboard-powered craft with built-in fuel tanks are required to carry U.S. Coast Guard-approved fire extinguisher, they're good insurance for any power boat. Approved fire extinguishers can often be purchased for under $10; the size varies according to the size of the boat.

DNR Officer of the Year

Conservation officer Scott Carlson of Prior Lake has been named Boat and Water Safety Officer of the Year by the Department of Natural Resources Boat and Water Safety Section.

The honor is based on demonstrated leadership abilities and outstanding achievements in boating safety education, boating while intoxicated enforcement, and service to other law enforcement agencies. Carlson will receive the award this summer.

"Officer Carlson is a dedicated, heard-working conservation officer who approaches his duties with professionalism and enthusiasm," said DNR Enforcement Chief Col. Leo Haseman. "His knowledge and experience have been an invaluable asset to the Enforcement Division."

Carlson has been employed with the DNR Enforcement Division for 16 years. He routinely talks about boating safety to civic groups, service organizations and sports clubs. He also works with local communities and DNR Trails and Waterways in monitoring public access sites and resolving use problems and conflicts.

"I take may assigned duties very seriously," said Carlson, "because making Minnesota waterways safe benefits everyone."

Start Planning For White Pines

White pine seedlings available from the state tree nurseries are sold out for this year, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

"White pine seedlings went quickly this year," said Mike Carrol, supervisor at the state's Badoura Nursery, "so it's important for private landowners to start planning now for planting white pines next spring."

Landowners should contact the local DNR Forestry office for assistance in planning, site selection and preparation, and ordering white pine seedlings for next year. The state forest nurseries begin to accept seedling orders each year on Aug. 15. White pine seedling orders need to be placed early because of the continued high demand.

This high demand for white pine seedlings is due to people, from environmentalists to land managers to industrialists, becoming interested in increasing the tree's presence in the landscape. The 1.13 million white pine seedlings grown at the state nurseries, plus an additional 350,000 seedlings acquired from other sources, were sold out by late January.

"Even though our white pine seedlings are sold out," said Carroll, "people can still contact their local SWCD office or private nurseries to see if they still have some available." If not, advised Carroll, it's best to wait until next year to order them because it's important that seedlings be obtained that have been grown from a seed source that has been certified as acceptable for the region in which they will be planted.

Carroll said landowners should be aware that although white pine looks beautiful in the landscape, it requires more care than many other trees in forested areas. Deer eat white pine buds during late fall to early spring, reducing tree growth, causing tree deformity or killing the seedling. White pine blister rust, a fungal disease, causes branch death and stem cankers, which often leads to top kill and tree mortality. White pine weevils tunnel into the main shoot or leader of young trees, causing the tree top to die, growth loss, and crooked or forked stems.

"There is help for the private landowners, however," said Larry Himanga, DNR Forestry Division incentives specialist. "Funding is available to help with white pine management activities like site preparation, brush control, bud capping to protect seedlings from deer browsing, and pruning for white pine blister rust control."

To be eligible for funding of up to 50 percent of the cost of growing white pine, landowners must have a registered Landowner Forest Stewardship Plan completed by a DNR forester or stewardship partner. To get more information on stewardship plans, financial assistance and available educational materials, contact the local DNR Forestry office.

Swanson completes navy training

Navy Seaman Recruit Jeremy C. Swanson, a 1996 graduate of Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, IL.

During the eight-week program, Swanson completed a variety of training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, fire fighting, water safety and survival and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis is also placed on physical fitness.

Swanson and other recruits also received instruction on the Navy's core values—honor, courage and commitment—and how to apply them in their military performance and personal conduct.

Fewer incidents reported to law enforcement this week

Law enforcement officials reported a relatively calm week last week, compared to previous weeks, which included many accidents.

Accidents. On May 12 at 3:30 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Third and Atlantic. Wayne Gordon Johnson, St. Hilaire, was driving a pickup west on Third, and Leonard Manley Furuseth, Thief River Falls, was driving a van east on Third, made a left turn into a gas station and the vehicles collided. Furuseth was cited for failure to yield. Police estimated damages at $600 to the Johnson vehicle and $800 to the Furuseth vehicle.

On May 15 at 3:17 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Third and Atlantic. Rocky Lee Holmes, Thief River Falls, was driving a vehicle east on Third, when a trailer came loose from a pickup being driven by Kendal Dale Jensen. Jensen was driving west when the trailer became unhitched and collided with the Holmes vehicle. Police estimated damage to the Holmes vehicle at $1,500. There was no damage to the Jensen vehicle.

On April 23 at 9:50 a.m. police received a report of a bike and car accident in the 200 block of North Main. The driver of the vehicle then left the scene. Katie Mamie Renshaw, 18, Thief River Falls, was riding a bike. She complained of a sore right leg. Damage to the bike was estimated at $25. Later, police learned the identity of the driver from witnesses to the accident. James John Engvall, 45, Thief River Falls, has been cited for leaving the scene of an accident and driving after suspension.

Vandalism. On May 12 at 11:43 a.m. police received a report that a vehicle had been scratched along both sides. Damage loss was estimated by police at $800.

Burglary. On May 13 at 11:04 p.m. police received a report of a burglary at a residence in the 100 block of South State. Sometime during the evening someone took 60 compact discs valued at $500. The burglary remains under investigation.

Thefts. On May 17 at 1:48 p.m. police received a report that sometime during the night of the 16th someone entered a vehicle parked in the 100 block of North Arnold and removed 24 compact discs and a carrying case along with $2 in change. The theft loss was estimated at $382.

On May 18 at 3:59 p.m. a local business reported that a CD player, valued at $250, had been taken.

Driving while intoxicated. On May 16 at 11:37 p.m. Randy Dean Joppru, Thief River Falls, was charged with driving while intoxicated.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

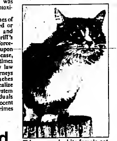
Traffic safety statistics for the month of March show that 14 people died in vehicle crashes where seat belts were not used, according to the Minnesota Safety Belt Coalition. That brings to 34 the total number of people who have died this year in crashes where they were not wearing belts.

Since May 18-25 is Buckle Up America Week, this is an appropriate time to remind people of the effectiveness of safety belts in preventing death and injury. Seat belts are almost 50 percent effective in reducing death and injury. Yet, only 65 percent of Minnesotans wear their seat belt.

Several animals held in TRF animal pound

Several animals are being held in the Thief River Falls Animal Pound. Owners or individuals willing to care for the pets should contact the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center at 681-6161.

Each will be kept for a minimum of 10 days from the date of impoundment listed in the following description: a male black lab cross, impounded May 8, in Silverton township; a male black lab cross, impounded May 9 from Countryside trailer court; a male poodle cross impounded May 12, from Countryside trailer court; a male brown mutt, impounded May 12, from the 100 block of North Arnold; a black male lab, impounded May 13, from Red Lake county; a gray and white female cat, impounded May 14 from Red Lake boulevard; a female black and brown Shepherd cross, impounded May 16 from the 900 block of North Duluth; a male brown husky puppy, impounded May 17, from Pennington Avenue; and a black and white female spaniel, impounded May 17 from along Pennington Avenue.



This gray and white female cat needs a home. It was found along Red Lake boulevard on May 14, and is being held in the Thief River Falls Animal Pound. For more information about this pet or others, call the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center at 681-6161.

This black and brown female German shepherd needs a home. It was found in the 900 block of North Duluth on May 16 and is being held in the Thief River Falls Animal Pound. For more information about this pet or others, please call the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center at 681-6161.

Search dogs turn up no new evidence of Safranski

On Monday, May 11, Marshal County Deputies along with the Search Dogs of Minnesota conducted another ground search for Veronica L. Safranski of Argyle. Safranski has been missing since October 1996 and was last seen at a Halloween party in Warren.

The sheriff's department had received some tips of possible places to search in Marshall County around the Newfolden area, but no new evidence of Safranski was found.

Anyone with information about Safranski is asked to contact the Marshall County Sheriff's department in Warren at 218-745-5411. A $15,000 reward is still being offered for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who may be responsible for the disappearance of Safranski.

The THE TIMES SECOND FRONT

Volume 87, Number 20 Wednesday, May 20, 1998

Our Saviour's Christian Academy students recently returned from their state convention in Monticello. Each year students who are 13 years of age and older compete in 125 different categories with students from other ACE schools in the state. These include the areas of academics, arts, photography, athletics, music, persuasive, speech, and dramatics.

Our Saviour's Christian Academy placed second overall in academics.

The following is the achievements of the students:

Academics — Science Exhibit - collection, by Karie Johanning, first place; Science Exhibit - research, by Becky Bray, first place; Science Exhibit - research, by Karie Johanning, second place; Essay Writing by Karie Johanning, third place; Essay Writing by David Bray, sixth place; Checkers by David Bray, second place.

Arts — Metalworking Sculpture by Eli Mercil, third place; Metalworking Sculpture by Jay Mercil, sixth place; Needle/Thread (Quilt) by Hannah Kelley, second place.

Music — Mixed Instrumental Duet by Karie Johanning and Hannah Kelley, fourth place; Woodwind Solo by Karie Johanning, fifth place; Mixed Duet by Karie Johanning and John-Paul Sprecher, fifth place; String Solo by Hannah Kelley, sixth place.

Persuasive Speech — Poetry Recitation by Marcy Myhrer, fifth place; Poetry Recitation by Jacob Reese, sixth place.

Athletics — 100-Meter Dash, John-Paul Sprecher, second place; 800-Meter Dash, Jacob Reese, fifth place; Tennis (singles), Marcy Myhrer, third place; Tennis (singles), Tammy Myhrer, fifth place; Archery, instinctive, David Bray, first place; Archery, freestyle, David Bray, second place; Archery, bare compound, Karie Johanning, first lace; Volleyball, fourth place, Becky Bray, Karie Johanning, Hannah Kelley, Marcy Myhrer, Tammy Myhrer, Naomi Olson, Sarah Reese; Table Tennis, Marcy Myhrer, fourth place; and High Jump, David Bray, third place.

Others who also attended the convention were Daniel Eaton, participant; Paula Ramsey, accompanist; Arlene Johanning, volleyball coach; Patricia Kelley, Ruth Bray, and Dan Youngstrand.

Those students who placed first or second are eligible to go to International Convention. This year it will be held May 23 through May 28 in Knoxville, TN. This year Karie Johanning will be taking her science projects (research and collection), archery, and her essay entitled, "Murder By Another Name." The sponsor will be Arlene Johanning.

MDA offers water testing clinic in Pennington Co.

Minnesota Department of Agriculture, along with the Minnesota Department of Health's Well Management Unit, and Pennington County Water Plan, will conduct clinics next month to test drinking water, livestock water systems and irrigation wells for nitrates in Pennington County and surrounding counties.

The clinics will be held on Thursday, June 11, in Thief River Falls from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Courthouse and in Goodridge from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Center. The event is part of a statewide series of water-testing clinics being offered throughout 1998.

Nitrates are the most common contaminants in Minnesota's groundwater, and a significant number of the state's wells have high nitrate levels. With that in mind, MDA Commissioner Gene Hugoson urges people to take advantage of the free clinics.

"We strongly recommend that people take advantage of this service because studies indicate somewhere between five percent and 25 percent of the private wells in greater Minnesota have nitrate levels above the federal drinking water standard," Commissioner Hugoson said. "Nitrates can be a major problem when they are consumed by infants because they can cause suffocation due to a condition known as 'blue baby' syndrome."

In 1997, 60 clinics were held in 35 counties across the state. Clinics have been offered at county fairs, University of Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station field days, and as separate events.

In order to participate in the testing, homeowners must bring at least one-half cup of water in either a Whirl-Pak plastic bag or a Ziploc-type bag. In order to get a representative sample, allow the water to run five to 10 minutes before filling the bag. Homeowners with water treatment equipment should take two water samples — one before and one after the treatment process. Homeowners with just a water softener need only take one sample, either before or after the water passes through the water softener. Samples should be taken no more than 24 hours before the testing, and they must be refrigerated. Samples should be cool when arriving at the clinic. To ensure accuracy, homeowners should mark the bags with their name, phone number and a well identification number if more than one well is sampled.

If they wish, homeowners may remain anonymous. In that case they should simply choose another easily recognized number to put on the well samples. It is not necessary to provide information about the wells from which water is taken.

Samples are analyzed on the spot — the process usually takes less than five minutes — and results are given directly to the homeowner. If the nitrate level in a sample is elevated, MDA/MDH staff can refer the homeowner to certified labs that will retest the water.

MDA/MDH staff will also distribute information to the homeowner describing ways to correct nitrate problems. Minnesota Extension Service bulletins about fertilizer Best Management Practices will be available, as well as information on manure management and crediting nitrate in irrigation water.

The MDA/MDH's nitrate testing clinics are presented in cooperation with County Extension Educators, Soil and Water Conservation Districts and local organizations.

"We were very pleased with the attendance and public interest in past clinics," Commissioner Hugoson said. "In some cases, as many as 500 people brought in water samples for testing. Many people asked that the clinics continue so they can feel more confident that the water they are drinking is safe."

For more information on the clinics, contact MDA Nitrate Water Testing Coordinator Jennifer Gallus at 612-215-9037 or MDA Soil Scientist Bruce Montgomery at 612-297-7178.

Families needed for students

Share the American dream with a teenager from Europe, South America, Central America, Scandinavia, Asia, and the former Eastern Bloc. Foreign exchange students would like to spend an academic semester or year in the United States. All share a common dream, to live as a typical American teenager with all the responsibilities and privileges that are involved.

Host families are needed, however Students come with their own spending money and medical insurance. They are screened for academic and English skills and are ready to immerse themselves in another culture. They bring interests and talents to share with families as well as a belief that student exchange promotes global understanding.

For more information about the program call Donna Nelson at 218-459-3329, the local coordinator for the Council of Educational Travel, or call the regional office at 1-888-238-8721.

Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Norman Liedberg, Mr. and Mrs. Winton Forsberg, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Liedberg, all of Thief River Falls and Jim Liedberg of Warren attended the 90th birthday party for Gladys Harstad at the New Hope Lutheran Church of Newfolden.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Liedberg and Sheri and Andrew Lallier went to Mahnomen to the Casino to take in the Williams and Ree Show. They also enjoyed supper there.

Mother's Day, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Liedberg, Sheri Liedberg and Andrew Lallier and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Liedberg had breakfast together at the Best Western in Thief River Falls. Later Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Liedberg visited at the Clarence Dahlen and Norman Liedberg homes and brought Mother's Day wishes to the grandmothers. Later, they visited at the Henry Kazmierczak home and brought Mother's Day wishes to Francine's mother.

Sheri Liedberg and Andrew Lallier brought Mother's Day wishes to Andrew's mother, MaDonna Lallier at the Louis Lallier home on Sunday afternoon. Others there were Sylvia Lallier, Anna Mae Christianson, Tim and Markus, Matt and James Lallier, Carolyn Pittman, Ruthie Forest, Cody and Davis, Arnie Pittman and Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Pittman and family and Greg Magers and Anne Schumacher.

Saturday morning Mr. and Mrs. Neil Liedberg visited at the Clarence and Clara Dahlen home in Thief River Falls. They brought Mother's Day wishes to Clara.

Friday afternoon, Gena Fjeld of rural Thief River Falls visited at the Clarence and Clara Dahlen home.

Olga Dahlen visited at the Clarence Dahlen home during the week.

Rosella Schlaler and Ruby Vaglo also visited with Clarence and Clara Dahlen at their apartment during the week.

Friday evening Mrs. Neil Liedberg was a brief caller at the David Swonson home.

Jim Liedberg of Warren spent Mother's Day weekend at the Norma and Alpha Liedberg home in Thief River Falls.

Ruth Liedberg and Mrs. Pete Comstock and Olivia of Roseau attended the 90th birthday party for Gladys Harstad at the New Hope Lutheran Church in Newfolden on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Wayne Galles of Moorhead came to spend the day at the Norman Liedberg home and also attended the 90th birthday party for her aunt, Gladys Harstad at the New Hope Lutheran Church in Newfolden.

The eleven o'clock service at Lund Church on Sunday conducted by Tari Stage of Goodridge had more than the regular interesting informational message. We witnessed the Confirmation service of Elizabeth Brekke. Elizabeth was the only one in the Lund Confirmation class this year and therefore she took care of the responsibilities usually shared by the confirmands. Elizabeth took care of her part calmly and enthusiastically and presented the liturgy clearly. After the service we were privileged as long-time closest neighbors of Brekke's to be invited to the Rob and Patty Brekke home for a good noon meal including decorated cakes. Also a chance to see the change in the home farm of Rob's grandfather, Ben Brekke. Rob and Patty feel they have much work to do on their lawn, but they have a beautiful new home set in a picture-like setting. Among those visiting at the Brekke home on Sunday were, June Berg, Esther Filler, Elmer and Mavis Halvorson, Evelyn Johnson, Mitzo and Ronas Vakock, Wayne Brekke, Jae Brekke, Marlys Lian and daughter Carol, Larry and Sandra Anderson, Doug Robbins, Russell Berg, Iona Berry, Wayne and Lois Olson, Ricky and Candace Bruggeman, John and Amy and Arnold and Sanna Brovold.

Halvor and Vivian Rikje drove over to Winger on Saturday for a visit and supper with Peggy and Milo Ystenes and boys. Peggy and Cary took Rikjes to Borgersan Nursery to see the flowers and plants which seem to be prettier each year. In the evening they went to Fertile and had a chance to watch the Grand March for their High School Prom. Their grandson, Denny Ystenes, all decked out in a tuxedo, was one of those in the march.

Brenda Odegaard has been here visiting her mother, Millie Brovold and her father Elmer Brovold who is a patient at the hospital in Bemidji.

Robert Carlson made the dust fly as he hurried around on Saturday while his wife was on the mail route. He made plans to surprise her for their 30th wedding anniversary. When Noreen was through sorting mail and got everything ready at the Post Office for Monday morning and then stopped at the cafe for a cup of coffee before going home, her eyes sparkled like lights. There we all were to surprise her and Robert with a decorated anniversary cake and coffee served from a table all decorated with 30 red roses and yellow mums arranged in a new cookie jars. (There was a catch. When the flowers dry up he expects the cookie jars to be filled with cookies.) It was a fun afternoon of visiting for Brovolds, Carlsons and friends. We missed Verna Brovold Gore of St. Paul and Elmer Brovold who was a patient in the hospital.

The Gully Cafe was a busy place on Saturday. On Saturday forenoon some of the members on the committee for the Gully All-School Reunion met to discuss preliminary preparations for what we hope will be one of the eventful and happy days of the year for Gully. With even just a few it sounded as if each teacher had some interesting memories to remind them of the time spent behind that oak desk in Gully. The day is planned for July 5 at the Gully Community Center from 1 p.m. - 5 p.m. Each person is asked to bring their own plates and silverware, and something for all to share for lunch. Coffee will be served. Pop will be available in the pop machines at the Center. The three former Gully teachers met with the Community members on Saturday including Delores Saul of Grygla, Joanne Christianson of Bagley and Luverne Fore of Gully. At one time the "Four G's" schools from the area were both competitive and co-operative depending on the projects like, spelling contests, play days, basketball, etc. These were Grygla, Goodridge, Gatzke and Gully. Everyone is welcome to come. Pass the word around to all teachers, patrons, students, cooks, janitors, electricians, bachelors, "old maids", widows, widowers and make plans to come to Gully on July 5th.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis," and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis, relieves pain by first selectively attracting and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis, is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream or new roll-on lotion form. Arthur Itis, is guaranteed to work or your money back.

Show Your Colors For Memorial Day

Once again Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2793 and American Legion Post 117 are combining efforts for the annual Memorial Day program to be presented Monday, May 25, at 10:30 a.m. at Greenwood cemetery in Thief River Falls.

This year 10 more flags will be added to the Avenue of Flags at the cemetery, bringing the total to 20 in a 100-yard row. Each of the flags to be flown has been donated by the family of a deceased military veteran and there are more than enough flag donations to fill the 20 flag poles in the display.

While the United States flag should have the respect of all who live under it, the banner has special significance to the military personnel who fought to preserve what it represents. The following column was written by Anthony G. Jordan of Augusta, Maine, national commander of the 2.9-million-member American Legion:

Memorial Day is a time of remembrance and of thanksgiving.

"Remembrance" because we pay our respects to the one-million American men and women who laid down their lives in time of war; "Thanksgiving" because we thank our Creator that such people once lived, and that their legacy is the unparalleled freedom we enjoy in this great country and much of the world.

Too often on Memorial Day we think only of our military patriots as having sacrificed for our freedoms, but there are millions of other unsung Americans who supported their efforts.

And today, there are those who never wore the uniform of our country, but they, too, continue the fight to preserve the values we all cherish. Some of them will probably lead the effort to decorate graves and handle the myriad details of memorial service. Let's remember to say thanks to them, too.

Throughout the history of civilization, men and women of good will have honored their war dead. They have paid homage to those who went into harm's way when their country called. If we expect future generations to answer the call of duty, this is a tradition that we must preserve. And it is fitting that we do so.

All of us, veterans or not, have a duty to do what we can do to pass on to the next generation the blessings of liberty and an appreciation for the values of patriotism, honesty, charity, civility and diligence that provides the firm foundation for our freedoms.

On Memorial Day we will celebrate the lives of our great patriots in many ways—family gatherings, memorial services, private moments at a graveside where a single rose or tiny American flag has been offered in remembrance.

But as we remember those who paid the price to make our country—and, indeed, much of the world—the place it is today, let us also remember that there is only one symbol that embodies all that they believed as Americans—and that is our flag.

I don't have to tell you what our flag means not only to us but also to freedom-loving people everywhere. Yet, there are those who don't understand. Some elitist members of the media, ACLU officials, and general malcontents thrive on sowing strife and discord as they try to make us believe our flag represents the freedom to destroy it.

A five-to-four Supreme Court decision set this belief into law in 1989, contrary to more than 200 years of tradition and jurisprudence, and contrary to the wishes of the American people.

Strange that the very heroes we honor today are the people who would least understand such twisted logic, for it was they who laid down their lives on the field of battle to stop the enemy from burning their flags. They were more willing to suffer death than such disgrace at the hands of a foe.

Still, those who would relish such abhorrent conduct, evoke the names of these silent patriots as advocates for this perversion.

But we can change that and we can change the state of the law. We can restore to the American people the freedom to protect their flag by urging our Senators to vote for the flag protection amendment, SJR 40.

And we can show our own support for this amendment by showing our colors on this Memorial Day.

And not on Memorial Day only, but by flying our flag proudly from our homes, our churches and our places of business until the U.S. Senate passes the flag protection amendment.

Let's fly our flags to remind the world that it was not the media that gave us freedom of the press. It was our patriots.

It was not the ACLU that gave us freedom of speech. It was the blood of men and women of all races, creeds and religions who honored our flag as a banner of opportunity and freedom, and saw it as an ally against the forces of oppression.

And it was not the demonstrators burning our flag that gave us peace. It was the men and women who served and sacrificed under that flag.

It is their memory that we honor on this day. Let us do so through prayer, reflection, thanksgiving—and by "Showing Your Colors, America!"

Strandquist

F. Myrtle Vagle • 436-2133

The weather in northwest Minnesota is hard to beat. Even folks who complain a lot about most everything have to admit that so far this season has been to all a delight. We had sunny weather and the farmers got in most of their crops and last night we got about three-fourth's of an inch of rain. There was enough lightning to bring to the earth mega-tons of nitrogen out of the atmosphere to feed the earth. Now watch and see how much greener the grass will get.

There is one Strandquist mother and grandmother that I would especially like to remember this Mother's Day weekend. Her name is Elphia Adlis and her daughter's name is Jan Hilton of Homestead, Florida and her granddaughter is Kateri Hilton, now a 20-year-old complete paraplegic, much like Christopher Reeves or "Superman" as he is better known.

Elphia Adlis is president of the Strandquist Seniors and is busy as a bee and has a heart of gold. She goes to see her daughter Jan as often as she can and we know the extra help Jan can have is appreciated as she has complete care of Kateri at home.

Kateri is making a place of her own in the community and at the University where she has completed three years and will be a senior next fall. According to the Miami Hurricane from Coral Gables, Florida, she is a member of the "Disabled Student Union" and has given presentations in physical therapy. She is also a speaker for "Think First Miami" for the Drivers Ed classes for the prevention of head and spinal cord injuries, also for the "Wheels for Life" event that raises funds for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

When Kateri was only 16 years old she was in auto accident and has been paralyzed from her neck down. She has computers that answer by voice, opens doors and dials telephone for her. She drives her wheelchair by blowing in a tube. We are proud to see the spunk she has shown that can keep going. I know Jan will be blessed for all the care she has given Kateri. Elphia, we are proud to say we know you.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor:

Many area people have been reading a lot about the credit unions versus banks controversy. I would like to put my thoughts into an example of why this controversy exists.

Credit unions want to grow larger and want most of the products that banks can now offer. In fact most credit unions would like to be banks. There is, of course, one big difference—TAXES. Banks pay taxes, credit unions don't pay taxes.

I have seen recently large ads taken out by the credit union industry thanking our state senators for stating that they will vote for expanded credit union privileges without taxation. Don't they know everyone else is paying their FAIR share of taxes?

Consider:

1. If you are a single taxpayer in Minnesota earning $10 per hour ($20,800 annually) and taking standard deductions, your federal and state income tax would be $2,947.

2. If you are a married couple with two children and a combined annual income of $50,000, taking standard deductions, your federal and state income tax would be $6,900.

3. The local bank I work for in Thief River Falls paid over $769,000 in federal and state income taxes in 1997.

4. Compare this to the earnings of the following credit unions based on their financial reports for the period ending June 30, 1997:

NWA Federal Credit Union: No taxes on net income exceeding $5.0 million,

IBM Credit Union: No taxes on net income exceeding $3.0 million;

Hiway Federal Credit Union: No taxes on net income exceeding $1.6 million,

U.S. Federal Credit Union: No taxes on net income exceeding $1.2 million, and Melrose Credit Union: No taxes on net income exceeding $1.2 million.

Is this fair? How can we support expanded credit union privileges without their payment of their fair share of taxes? I can't and won't support expanding privileges to the credit union industry without fair taxation.

Sincerely,
Roger Reuter
Thief River Falls

To The Editor:

On May 11, the Lincoln High School Concert Choir, along with other choruses from across the United States, were led by MidAmerica Principal-Conductor-in-Residence Jonathan Griffith in a performance of Mozart's Mass in C minor, K.427. I am writing to inform your readership of the wonderful musical success that the chorus enjoyed in their performance.

The aim of MidAmerica Productions is to highlight the appearance of distinguished ensembles from throughout the United States in Carnegie hall. Since 1984 we have presented more than 1,200 ensembles in over 260 concerts in our annual Carnegie hall series.

We congratulate the members of the chorus and wish to make special mention of their director Darcy Reese for assisting them in preparing for this special concert. Indeed, your community is fortunate to have the Lincoln High School Choir in its midst. We sincerely hope that you will continue to support its activities and we look forward to having the chorus return to our program in the future.

Sincerely,
Peter Tiboris

THIEF RIVER FALLS, RED LAKE COUNTY, MINNESOTA

ALL FOR OFFICE
Some Local Political Notes Chronicled.

"To a 'looker-on in Venice,' the present strife for a nomination on the Populist ticket presents some peculiar phrases.

"A prominent Populist informs us that the election in this county this fall will be on the issue of 'reform in state government' and that no attention will be paid to national issues or the relation of silver to wheat. The average man would be of the opinion that in the selection of county officials at least, local issues and the fitness of the man for the office he aspires would be taken into consideration. But not so this year at least, for local issues are too tame. Albeit the Populists in this county will have to buy a new chart, one which will explain the fact that the only way to clean out the state house gang is to elect their county ticket.

"The county convention will be held at Red Lake Falls, Tuesday, June 7 and when it is taken into consideration that the Populists are advertising the fact that a certificate of election will be given with each nomination, it is no wonder that the candidates are hustling night and day. It is not at all probable that any of the candidates will have control of any of the delegates other than the ones from their own locality, and of course it is hard to say just who will be nominated, as that will depend entirely on the trades made, and the best politicians will win out.

"The primaries are to be held on the afternoon of June 2, between the hours of 2 and 3. This fact causes the RED LAKE FALLS GAZETTE to get mad and it truly says:

"'Only the loafer, the bum, the man of leisure or the independent proprietor are at liberty to participate in a caucus held at such an hour, leaving the election of delegates in the hands of ward healers and professional politicians. We trust the result will not be disastrous, but the sooner a reform is instituted in this respect, the better, and the Gazette has little respect for the wisdom of the state central committee that would select such an hour. After supper between 7 and 9 are the sensible hours, when the days' work is over.'

"'Fools rush in where Angels fear to tread' is very apparent to the readers of the RED LAKE FALLS GAZETTE. A few weeks ago a communication was published in that paper purporting to be signed by H. E. Draper. The article roasted Mr. Boughton, the present county attorney and a candidate for reelection, who at once followed the matter up and found that the communication was written by Van R. Brown, who also wants to be county attorney, and was not even signed or sanctioned by Mr. Draper.

"The Democrats of Red Lake county have called a convention for June 9, two days after the Populist convention, and propose to put a ticket in the field."

"Wheat 125 cents today.

"The mill will be ready to start again next week.

"Several families of mill men arrived the past week.

"A large drive of logs for this company will be down next week.

"The M. E. church people are building a residence for their pastor.

"Every saw in the mill will be running night and day after next Monday.

"The baseball dance at Hotel Markham last Saturday evening was well attended.

"It is surprising how many new houses are being built this spring. They are going up on every street.

"The Fourth of July comes on Monday this year. What is St. Hilaire going to do, celebrate or not?

"Norway's national holiday (May 17), passed off very quietly here. Nothing going on outside of an ice cream social.

"A new filing room is being built for the St. Hilaire Lumber company. The building is to be 30 by 40 feet, two stories high.

"The new sidewalk on the west side of Broadway is a big improvement and the people in the south part of town appreciate it very much.

"One of the pulleys at the mill flew all to pieces last Thursday afternoon and as good luck would have it, no one was around in the path of the flying missiles.

"Superintendent Fred Miller of the Crookston saw mill is here with a crew of men and will remain a few weeks or until they finish the new filing room.

"Quite a number of the mill boys visited Thief River Falls this week and while there looked over the Meehan saw mills.

"The party from here that went up the Thief river after a mess of fish came back almost with the usual fisherman's luck.

"We are decidedly in favor of an income tax as a means of raising revenue to carry on the war. Let the rich bear their just share of taxation, since the poorer classes, as a rule, have to fight the battles.

First Base Ball Game This Season

"The first base ball game of the season occurred last Sunday afternoon on the St. Hilaire grounds between the home team and the Thief River Falls club. Several hundred people were out to witness the game, the people of Thief River Falls furnishing nearly two hundred. Neither team had had much practice and errors and mistakes were strangely equalized, the score being 20 to 21 in favor of the visitors. The following are the names and positions of the teams:

St. Hilaire	Thief River Falls
Warner, p.	Hansen, c.
Larson, 3rd b.	Benzie, D. p.
Ruck, 1st b.	Benzie, W. cf.
Stranahan, c.	Dubner, 1st b.
Clark, rf.	Fuller, 2nd b.
Mousseau, 2nd b.	Douglass, 3rd b.
Tontons, lf.	Stranahan, rf.
Hoff, cf.	Thomas, ss.
Mattes, ss.	Zeh, lf.

Notes on the Game

"Arthur Mattes' new red pants took the cake.

"Manager Jackson had hard work to keep out of the game.

"The visitors got eleven runs in the first inning which gave them the game.

"Deputy Sheriff Jim Mcal would rather catch horse thieves than umpire again.

"Umpire Black escaped without a scratch, probably on account of his size.

"Larson being called out in the last inning for cutting first base, gave the visitors the game.

"The St. Hilaire ladies are great base ball admirers judging from the way they turned out at the game."

Brian Ross Arvesen from Hickory, north of Gully, will be graduating from high school in June. Since he has signed up with the Navy and plans to leave right after graduation, his family hosted an open-house graduation party in his honor at the Gully Community Center on Sunday afternoon. Members of the immediate family attending besides the host family, Gene and Evonne Anderson were Clifford and Luella Arvesen and Elvon Hamiltons and Brian's brother and also friends and relatives from far and near. The center looked festive with long tables with white tablecloths and decorated with school colors that included yellow and green streamers, green graduation balloons and pots of live plants. The host family served lunch including decorated graduation cake and coffee. Good luck in the Navy, Brian!

Members of the Lesser Homemakers Club and a few others stopped in Gully on Monday morning. It seemed they had an interesting day planned. They were going to visit the Gourmet House in Clearbrook and wanted to see some of the rice paddies at this time of their growth. Some of these may have been north of Gully and then further north and east, which could have been Red Skee and Gunvoldson and Ine or Gully Farms. Then they went to Bemidji and Gebs. Among those in the group were Delane Nelson, Elaine Bergman, Jane Hedman, Irene Sannes, Verna Syverson, Adella Thompson, Vernize Jore, Ellen Burslie, Alpha Johnson, Dolly Lee, Lucille Saun and Ruby Hiedman. I hope they had an interesting trip!

Mother's Day guests at the Gordon Skjerven home were Randy Skjerven family and Tricia Lee of Grand Forks, Dan and Kathy Olson, Tim and Terry, the Corey Skjerven family and the Arnold Woleski family.

LeRoy and Ruth Susted left last Thursday for a bus tour of Amish settlements and Amana Industries of Iowa. A complete write-up will be in next week.

Irvin and Pearl Johnson were treated to a Mother's Day dinner by son Lyle Johnson and his wife, Dee Dee and were supper guests at the Dwight Johnson home.

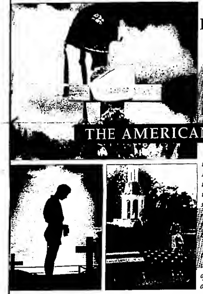
Bert and Joyce Kron drove to Walker on Saturday to spend Mother's Day at the Glenn Odberg lake home with the Odbergs and the Orland Roppe family of Moorhead. The men went fishing but had very disappointing luck on Leech Lake. However the fish were plentiful at Lake of the Woods fishing areas.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Orandstrand visited at the Ward Sinn home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Erickson spent the weekend at their cabin at Detroit Lakes and were visited by son Joel, and wife and baby Brianna from Bismarck and daughter, Kathy Liden from Thief River Falls on Saturday.

Dean and Patty Orandstrand and children of Crookston visited at the Melvin Orandstrand home on Saturday evening.

Memorial Day



WE REMEMBER
--lest we forget

America's freedom is a gift that spans generations. America's freedom continues to be purchased by the blood of patriots.

On Memorial Day, we join The American Legion in honoring more than 1 million men and women whose supreme sacrifice helped to make America "The land of the free and the home of the brave."

We pledge to remember their service and sacrifice, which was made for each of us and for the future of our nation.

GENERAL NOTICE
TO CONTROL OR ERADICATE NOXIOUS WEEDS AND GRASSHOPPERS

Notice is hereby given this 20th day of May, 1998, pursuant to Minnesota Statutes, section 18.83, subd. 7, (1992), that all persons in Pennington County, Minnesota, shall control or eradicate all noxious weeds on land they own, occupy or are required to maintain. Control or eradication may be accomplished by any lawful method but the methods may need to be repeated in order to prevent the spread of viable noxious weed seeds and other propagating parts to other lands. Failure to comply with the general notice may mean that an individual notice will be issued. An individual notice may be appealed within two working days of receipt to the appeal committee in the county where the land is located. Failure to comply with the individual notice will mean that the inspector having jurisdiction may either hire the work done or seek a misdemeanor charge against the person(s) who failed to comply. If the work is hired done by the inspector, the cost can be placed as a tax upon the land and collected as other real estate taxes are collected. You may obtain a list of the plants that are designated noxious and of the members of the appeal committee from your County Agricultural Inspector or Local Weed Inspector. The Local Weed Inspectors are township supervisors, city mayors or their appointed assistants.

Notice is also hereby given pursuant to Minnesota Statutes, section 18.0225, (1990), that all persons owning, occupying, or in charge of the maintenance of land shall control grasshoppers by any lawful method on land located in designated control zones. The methods used may need to be repeated to prevent the movement of grasshoppers to adjacent lands. Failure to comply with the general notice may mean the inspector having jurisdiction will issue an individual notice. Failure to comply with the individual notice may mean that the inspector having jurisdiction will hire the control work done and place the cost as a tax lien upon the land. A similar appeal process applies to violations of the grasshopper law as to the noxious weed law. You may obtain lists of the townships that are designated as control zones and of the appeal committee members from the County Agricultural Inspector or a Local Grasshopper Inspector. Local Grasshopper Inspectors are township supervisors or their appointed assistants.

Card of Thanks

THANK YOU

We wish to thank those who attended the mass for my husband and father of Peter and Paul. Father Joseph Richards for his words of comfort and memories of "Babe's" life, the beautiful mass singers Judy Dupree and Judy Melby, the Knights of Columbus for the recitation of the Rosary which Babe was dedicated to. All those who helped and visited him in the Good Samaritan Nursing Home in Brainerd while a patient. The casketbearers, Susan Moore, Tom Moore, John Galbraeth, Bill Bratland and Danny Johnson and the Green Funeral Home for their kind and caring services. We wish to thank those who sent flowers, memorials, visits and kind expressions of Babe's friendship. The Catholic Guild for serving lunch. We thank you kindly for caring. May God send his blessings to all.

Eva Landsbeja
Peter, Mary Lynn Landobeja and family
Paul and Matt of Cameron, Wisconsin
Paul and Jan and family
Joseph, Steven and Maria of Brainerd, MN and relatives

THANK YOU

A special thank you to everyone involved with our retirement party. All the way from the original St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator to the new Northwest Grain Harvest States, all the patrons, Board of Directors, management, employees, friends and relatives that were present for the party or remembered us in any other way. The 30 years of working with and for you were very challenging, but rewarding. We would also like to extend a sincere note of thanks to the person who delivered the beautiful flowers and the heartwarming, humble letter. They were both appreciated greatly! May you all have good crops, good prices and good margins.

Thanks again,
Bob and Phyllis Miller and family

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank all the hostesses who planned the baby shower for my daughter, Taylor Marie. Also thanks for all the cards, money and gifts. It was all very much appreciated.

PASSED AWAY ONE YEAR AGO
MAY 20, 1997

They say time heals all sorrow and helps us to forget
But so far time has proven how much we miss you yet
God gave us strength and courage to face the blow
But what it means to lose you
No one will ever know.

Pilot program at FMS finishes successful year

In years past, staying "after school" usually meant you were being disciplined. It has a much different connotation now in Thief River Falls.

Franklin Middle School in cooperation with Thief River Falls Community Education are in the process of completing a cooperative effort to bring supervised experiences to the students of Franklin Middle School. Even though Franklin Middle School has had an After School program the last couple of years, this is the first year that "Enrichment Classes" have been offered to students outside of the regular class day.

The idea for combining the best of the elementary grades style of latch—key—activities with the Community Education model was spearheaded by Community Education's Acting Director Jane Mattson and Franklin Middle School Principal Chris Mills. It was coordinated by Bob Stenson, a Franklin Middle School counselor, and directed by Stacy Olson Olson was assisted by Lincoln High School Students Bridgette Stock and Matt Bitzegaio.

Between 3:15 and 5:30 p.m. the school cafeteria was headquarters for the After School program. Students registered for classes and attendance was taken. The amount of time they spent in the class is determined by parents and students.

After School Program activities varied with the season and availability of resources, but included such things as bowling, sledding, ping pong, tours, board games, swimming, basketball and computers. Depending on the activities for a particular day, the attendance averaged around a dozen students. Occasionally, prizes were donated by local merchants, including Kmart and China King.

During the same time the After School Program was being held, classes modeled after Community Education classes were offered. These 12 "enrichment classes" were offered in April and May, Mondays, Wednesdays and/or Fridays between 3:15 and 5:15 p.m. Courses and their instructors included, Graffiti Dolls with Mary Follett, Prowler Poetry with Tina Diaz, Guitar Group with Bonnie Hallett, Aerobics with Lucy Staneyk, Shotokan Karate with Gary Flynn, Heavenly Smelling Soap Making with Esther Gallagher, Bandsaw Crafts with Lambert Brunkhorst, World Wide Web with Matt Bitzegaio, Curling Iron Cover with Janet Shaw, and Junk Jean Vest Making with Julie Desrocher. Students paid a class fee, and a supply fee if needed. The length of classes varied from two to eight meetings.

Students who were enrolled in the After School Program could also sign up and attend the Enrichment Courses.

Franklin Principal Chris Mills explained that part of the philosophy of the Middle School years is to have students' expand their horizons. It is a time to explore what the world has to offer each individual and what they in turn have to give to the world. It is a time for each student to find out for themselves where their talents, interests, and ultimately where their future may take them. Offering the After School Program and the Enrichment Courses assists those students who choose to be involved by providing a safe, supervised and enjoyable environment.

By offering these opportunities, they hope to better equip these students to be life long learners.

The event will include entertainment by a hypnotist, plenty of food and soft drinks, games and cash and merchandise prizes. Doors will close at 1:30 a.m. and those leaving the event will not be readmitted. A breakfast sponsored by the Elks lodge will be served to the graduates at 4 a.m.

Handful hears update on MECC

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Wednesday evening a handful of citizens interested in the Multi-Events Cultural Center received an update on the progress and direction of the project. Although all meetings of the Joint Powers Board are open to the public, the meeting Wednesday night was specifically touted as an opportunity for citizens to ask questions and express concerns.

Following a review of the project's history, questions and concerns raised by the audience indicated an interest in what has been spent and who has contributed to the project.

That concern was probably prompted by the realization that the project has been significantly downsized and divided into several phases. Phase I includes a football field and track, softball/baseball fields, soccer fields, and main building, which would include locker rooms, concourse, mechanical room, and ticket sales area. It also includes a parking lot, and the infrastructure for all phases of the project.

No project without money

It was made clear Wednesday night that Phases II and beyond still remain in the conceptual stages where they will remain until private donations or a major benefactor steps forward. They will not award any contracts without the money for it being available.

Several other elements of Phase I remain tentatively planned until private donations are raised to add them to the project. Currently, the Joint Powers Board has $95,000 in cash, up front. It has commitments for another $200,000 to $300,000. Priorities for the the remaining elements of phase I have not been officially established. Remaining elements to the project include stadium bleachers, including cement base and fencing, press box, restrooms and storage room, lighting for a baseball field and softball field, service sidewalks and landscaping, a concessions building and storage facility, two additional softball fields, lighting for a parking lot, and a recreational soccer field including fill and fine grading.

History

The Multi-Events Cultural Complex had its start in 1987 when a task force was established to look at the recreational and cultural needs of the community. The community obtained a commitment from the state to provide $2 million and an additional $1 million if the community came up with an equal amount of money or in-kind contributions from non state sources.

When officials broke ground on the project on June 20, 1995, Phase I of the project was expected to include football field and track, baseball and softball fields, practice fields, soccer fields, a wellness center and tennis courts at an estimated cost of $4.1 million. All phases combined, the total cost was estimated at $13,527,879.

Bids came in much higher than anticipated. Part of the blame was placed on the flood. Most of the area contractors had plenty of work without taking on another project. As a result, elements of Phase I, including the wellness center and tennis courts, were eliminated. The project was also let for re-bidding with several alternates or deducts (items which could be eliminated if bids came in too high again.) This time the bids came within estimates.

Looking back, officials are acknowledging that nearly $800,000 has been spent on the project before construction even began. Wednesday they explained that that money was spent on building permits, insurance, a required contingency fund, architectural and engineering costs, and construction management fees. No more costs from these elements are expected to be incurred for the remainder of the project. The Joint Powers Board will also be able to utilize part of the contingency fund at some point.

Community Ed offers classes

Summer schedule of classes and activities through the community education department of School District 564 includes a variety for many age groups and interest areas.

Payment of fees must accompany registrations and all registrations must be received one week prior to the start of class unless otherwise stated in the community education class schedule, available at the community education office in the school district service center. No phone registrations are accepted.

Registration may be made by mailing the course fee to Community Education Dep't., 230 LaBree Avenue, South, Thief River Falls, MN 56701 or stopping at the community education office from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Thursday. A drop box is also available inside the double door at the district service center. This area is open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. and forms and envelopes are available adjacent to the drop box.

No class confirmations are sent. All classes will meet at the scheduled time and place unless registrants are notified of a change or cancelation. Classes are filled on a first-come, first-served basis with a minimum of six participants in most classes. Anyone 65 years of age or older may enroll in community education classes at a discount of 25 percent off the scheduled fee.

Swimming Program

Much of the activity involves the swimming program at the Franklin middle school indoor pool. Registration for swimming lessons will be held at the main entrance to the pool today and Thursday, May 27 and 28 and on Monday and Tuesday, June 1 and 2, from 7 to 9 p.m. each night.

Participants may register for only one session at this time and the fee for lessons is $25. Registration will be taken to fill any remaining vacancies during open swimming hours for the remainder of the summer. No registrations can be taken by phone.

Five sessions of youth swim lessons are offered with 10 half-hour lessons for each level during each session. Session dates are June 8-19, June 22-July 3, July 6-17, July 20-31 and August 3-14. Late afternoon lessons are also scheduled June 9, 11, 16, 18, 23, 25, 30 and July 2.

An infant and preschool aquatic program is also offered to develop in children (six months through five years) a high comfort level in and around the water and a readiness to swim. Participants must be accompanied by an adult in the water. Cost of the program is $15.

First class will meet Wednesdays June 10, 17, 24 and July 1 and 8. Second class will meet Wednesdays July 15, 22, 29 and August 5 and 12. Class time is 5 to 5:30 p.m. for infants and 5:30 to 6 p.m. for toddlers.

Open swimming will also be

Steve Easton writes a book for lawyers on building credibility

"They do not like us," says former Thief River Falls resident Steve Easton, in a reference to the view of lawyers held by the American public, including those who serve on juries.

"They also do not trust us," he continues. "They believe we are willing to deceive, spin, manipulate, cover up, intimidate, distort and just flat out lie to enrich ourselves and benefit our clients."

Easton is a 1976 graduate of Lincoln high school and 1978 graduate of Northland Community College where his father, Dr. Alex Easton, was president.

He graduated from Stanford Law School and clerked for The Honorable Joseph T. Sneed of the Ninth Circuit.

From 1990 to 1993 he served as the United States Attorney for the District of North Dakota. When appointed by President George Bush and confirmed by the U.S. Senate in 1990, Easton was the youngest of the 93 U.S. Attorneys in the nation.

Before and after his service as U.S. Attorney, he was a partner in the firm of Pearce & Durick, PLLP, in Bismarck, ND. In June he will join the faculty of the School of Law at the University of Missouri in Columbia, where he will teach Trial Practice, Professional Responsibility and Criminal Procedure.

Easton has tried a wide variety of civil and criminal cases involving such issues as accident reconstruction, homicide, blood and DNA testing, injury causation, money laundering, polygraph testing, rape, hypnosis, electricity, contracts, psychological injuries, product design, handwriting analysis and even cattle hauling and rodeo.

Unlike many attorneys who rush to the defense of their profession when it is attacked, Easton believes attorneys deserve at least some of this criticism. "The reality is that many attorneys do indeed make statements and take positions in court that they do not really believe," he said.

In Easton's view, the average juror's mistrust of lawyers and the common practices of lawyers that reinforce that mistrust present a tremendous opportunity for attorneys who are willing to be scrupulously honest in court. After all, almost every trial involves at least two attorneys.

"The attorney who is willing to pay the price by making a commitment to honesty in the courtroom," he contends, "can gain a tremendous credibility advantage over his or her opponent."

Easton's strategies for attorneys who want to gain that advantage are outlined in his book, How To Win Jury Trials: Building Credibility With Judges and Jurors, recently published by the American Law Institute—American Bar Association Committee on Continuing Legal Education (ALI-ABA). The book is available at $83 per copy (includes shipping and handling) from ALI-ABA, Customer Service Department, 4025 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, PA 19104-3099.

The text is written in handbook form, with a number of tips for trial attorneys to use in their court appearances, as well as advice regarding common mistakes for trial attorneys to avoid. It includes discussion of such provocative topics as "ALWAYS Tell the Truth," "The Seven Deadly Sins of Trial Attorneys" and "Destroying the Credibility of a Professional Expert Witness."

Easton readily admits that his approach may not be right for all lawyers. "Winning through credibility is not easy, and it is somewhat counterintuitive for attorneys," he writes.

"Pushing every argument and every position to (and past) its reasonable extreme is a strategy that is deeply imbedded in the culture of lawyers. Many will resist the notion that they should admit the problems with their cases, zealously stick to the truth, and constantly remind themselves not to overstate their cases. Nonetheless, attorneys who are willing to zealously stick to the truth will usually be rewarded by the jurors who are looking for someone to help them find the just and correct result."

Former U.S. Attorney General Richard Thornburgh, now frequently seen on television as a commentator on trials, called Easton's book "an excellent practical guide for jury trial litigation in both civil and criminal cases. Written in an easy-to-read style, the book is devoid of the lawyer's ever-present footnotes. The author provides a highly effective approach to the often misunderstood interaction between attorney and jury. Reading this book is well worth the time for all who aspire to excellence in the courtroom."

Although this is Easton's first book, he is no stranger to having works published. His articles on trial tactics and other legal issues have appeared in both legal and popular periodicals, including The Federal Lawyer, The Practical Litigator, Barrister, For the Defense, Product Safety & Liability Reporter, The Prosecutor, Stanford Law Review, South Carolina Law Review, Tulsa Law Journal, The University of Richmond Law Review, (University of) North Dakota Law Review, The Wall Street Journal and USA Today.

He has also presented continuing legal education lectures about trial practice issues in several states including Texas, Maryland, Ohio, California, Kentucky, The District of Columbia, South Dakota and North Dakota.

7-Eleven store in TRF purchased by Kum & Go

As of Wednesday morning, May 20, the 7-Eleven convenience store in Thief River Falls became the property of Krause Gentle Corporation and its subsidiary, Kum & Go convenience stores.

Along with 112 other 7-Eleven stores in Arkansas, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Wyoming and elsewhere in Minnesota previously owned by Contemporary Industries Corporation in Omaha, NE, the Thief River Falls store transferred under order of bankruptcy court.

From now through June 30 the new owners will be involved with sign changes and re-imaging to match the Kum & Go operation which now includes 271 convenience stores in 12 Midwest states.

Kendra Daly of Krause Gentle Corporation confirmed the ownership transfer in a telephone conversation with The Times on Wednesday. She said company president W. A. Krause had extended the company's 100 percent customer satisfaction guarantee to the new stores and said updating and new services will be added to many of the stores.

He also said that 7-Eleven employees would be retained whenever possible. Linda Erickson will remain as manager at the Thief River Falls store with Pam Brown as assistant manager. The store is open 24 hours a day and has five employees.

Sharon Shook, assistant manager at the Kum & Go store in Clear Lake, IA, spent Tuesday to Friday in Thief River Falls to help advise and train personnel on accounting, ordering, invoicing and other business practices and supervise change-over of credit card machines and other transition business.

Shook described the local staff as "a terrific bunch of people" and said the community had made her feel extremely welcome. "I'd like to stay here a few more months," she said.

A district manager for the new ownership also visited at the store Thursday to become acquainted and discuss future changes in signs and other items.

Contributions

Contributions by participating governmental agencies seem a little more difficult to pin down. School District 564 contributed the land, which it had purchased in the 60's or 70's, and had made absolutely no cash outlay. Officials also noted that the city had picked up a significant portion of the matching costs required by the state. Those costs stem from in-kind contributions. In-kind contributions, such as installation of infrastructure (roads and utilities, for example) are costs picked up by the taxpayer. This work is being kept track of by project coordinators. It was explained Wednesday night, that for the Joint Powers Board to get credit for the in-kind work from the state, it has to meet standards set by the state. For example, the Board gets "market value" credit from the state for cubic yards of dirt moved. The Board cannot set an arbitrary value to the work.

Dave Carlson, city council representative, estimated that the city has spent or is committed to in-kind contributions totaling $640,000.

Construction Update

Construction began in earnest this spring. According to the construction manager for the architect, contractors are about three weeks ahead of schedule. Site preparation is well ahead of schedule and contractors have started the footings and foundation for the main building, and track excavation has begun. The track preparation needs to be complete by July 1. It is possible that the polyurethane coating could be put on the track this summer. The football field will not be ready for use until 1999, and the soccer fields until 2000.

Many Joint Powers Board members are looking forward to the completion of the project. Dr. Orley Gunderson is optimistic that the public will be pleased with the facility.

Stop Criticism

A dynamic speech made by Bob Carlson, Pennington County Commissioner, made it quite clear that he believes it's time to stop complaining and criticizing the project and governmental units supporting the project and get on with building the project.

Past administrations, he said, did take many projects to the public for a vote, and while current administrations have not brought issues to the public for a vote, they have made every effort to get the people involved. From experience, he said he's convinced that if the public is fully informed about what's going on, they'll support it. He pointed out that present administrations have done everything they can to inform the public but few have accepted the offer to get involved. In addition, Carlson noted that elected officials have been chosen to act in their behalf, and he reiterated that it's time to stop the criticism.

Congressman to discuss flooding at Oklee Thurs.

Congressman Collin Peterson will conduct a meeting on recent flooding problems in eastern Red Lake, Pennington and Marshall counties Thursday, May 28, at 8 p.m. in the Oklee school.

The congressman will hear from farmers adversely affected by flooding from the excessive rainfall in that area within the past two weeks and discuss federal assistance which may be available to farmers with extensive crop damage. All interested are invited to participate in the meeting.

Step and aerobic class will be taught by Lucy Staneyk every Monday through Friday from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. at the Franklin multi-purpose room. Punch card ($25) is good for 15 sessions.

Northern MN Utilities gives grant to TRF

Northern Minnesota Utilities (NMU), a division of UtiliCorp United has awarded the City of Thief River Falls, through Jobs Inc., an economic development grant as part of NMU's Economic Development Cooperative Marketing program. The program is designed to help individual communities with their efforts to attract new business and encourage expansion by companies already located in the area.

"At NMU, we believe that the leaders in our communities have the knowledge and ability to promote economic development," said Herb Skiple, service technician for NMU, "however, they need support to carry out their objectives. Part of NMU's role as a partner in the community is to encourage and support such targeted development efforts."

The project will place an advertisement for the new Gilbert Industrial Park and industrial space available at the Regional Airport on a Red River Trade Corridor map in a promotional publication which is mailed to business leaders and site selectors throughout the midwestern states. The grant from NMU will partially fund the project.

In addition to the Economic Development Cooperative Marketing program, NMU provides a number of other economic development services to support community programs.

"All of our economic development efforts, whether in the form of money or time, are intended to support our communities," Skiple said. "We are natural partners as the success of our company is closely tied to the economic viability of our communities."

Four women named AAUW Woman of the Year

At its recent banquet, the Thief River Falls branch of the American Association of University Women rewarded four Thief River Falls women — Elaine Anderson, Darla Twomey, Sue Oupree and Lois Steiger — with its 1998 Woman of Honor award.

Each of the women has a broad range of knowledge, expertise and experience, and the AAUW recognizes them not only for their past contributions but for those they will continue to make in improving the quality of life in Thief River Falls.

The AAUW provided the following information about the award winners.

Elaine Anderson

A native of northwest Minnesota, Elaine grew up in Karlstad and attended Tri-County High School. After graduation, she lived and worked in Minneapolis before returning to northern Minnesota to marry and begin raising a family.

As her children grew, Elaine volunteered her time to scouting and the orchestra boosters as well as many other church school, youth and community activities.

Always interested in the health care field, Elaine began her career as a receptionist and nursing assistant at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls in 1969.

After graduating with honors from the licensed practical nursing program at the Area Vocational Technical Institute in 1982 and registered nursing program at Northland Community College in 1984, Elaine returned to Northwest Medical Center to continue her career.

In 1991 she competed her Bachelor of Science degree in nursing and has since been the administrator of Valley Home in Thief River Falls. Under her leadership, many exciting changes have taken place at Valley Home, the latest being the addition of the beautiful new sunroom.

As part of the Thief River Falls Centennial celebration, Elaine was among the health care professionals honored during Celebrate Health Month. She was also honored by her nursing peers of the district on National Nurses Day in 1996. Elaine is a past outstanding educator of the American Cancer Society and a past recipient of the American Legion Citizenship Award. She is a member of the Minnesota Nurses Association, Trinity Lutheran Church and its women's group and is a community volunteer educator.

Elaine is married to Adolph Anderson, and the couple has two married sons, a married daughter and four grandchildren. Elaine's hobbies include reading, writing and spending time with her grandchildren.

Asked to name her most rewarding accomplishment, Elaines responds with "Geriatrics — becoming an advocate for the senior population regarding choices in health care and senior housing options. Valley Home has become a United Way agency and sponsors four senior forums annually to inform, educate and provide social opportunities for the elderly of this area." As a certified public health nurse, Elaine also enjoys being available to speak to and educate area organizations about aging.

Darla Twomey

Darla is a woman who gives her all to any project she works on and has much energy and knowledge to add to the various committees and boards she serves.

Darla is a native of East Grand Forks. She is a graduate of Sacred Heart High School and the University of North Dakota with a Bachelor of Science degree in business and vocational education.

Her family includes husband Chris and their children, Jeff, a senior at St. Thomas University, and Kamie, a freshman at Dartmouth College.

Darla has been an instructor at Northland College and Technical School in Thief River Falls, the Area Vocational Technical Institute in East Grand Forks, and Central Valley High School, Buxton/Reynolds.

A former director of the Northland Community Hospice program, Darla organized and started hospice care in northwestern Minnesota. She has also helped at St. Bernard's Catholic Church as religious education coordinator. She has also served on the board St. Bernard's School and its personnel committee.

For the past nine years Darla has been on the Thief River Falls school board and has served as its vice chairperson and clerk. She has been a state delegate for the Minnesota State High School League. She is on the board of directors for the Park and Recreation committee and on Northland Community and Technical College advisory committee. She is been a past president of the Hospital Auxiliary and ladie's golf league at the Thief River Falls Golf Club. Darla has been co-chairperson of the cancer drive.

Darla also serves on the board of directors of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce and is currently involved in a new organization, the Northwest Minnesota Women's Fund — a group of women handling initiatives in our area. For the past five years, she has served on the Joint Powers board, a group of four entities — city, county, school and college — working together. The group's major project is the Multi Events Cultural Center currently being built near Northland Community and Technical College.

With all of her community involvement, Darla still tries to find time to enjoy her hobbies which include golf, reading and bridge, and she pursues them with as much enthusiasm as her committee and board work!

Darla feels that her most rewarding accomplishments have been getting hospice up and running in the community and serving as a community volunteer.

Suzanne Dupree

The Thief River Falls branch of the American Association of University Women note Thief River Falls native Sue Dupree as another worthy recipient of its Woman of Honor award. Sue has done much to help families and especially women improve their lives and feelings of self worth.

Sue and Harold Dupree have been married for 29 years and have two sons, Matt, a graduate of the University of North Dakota who is currently living and working in Grand Forks, and Ryan, a junior at the University of North Oakota majoring in social studies and history education.

Sue is a graduate of Lincoln High School. She received her Associate of Arts degree from Northland College and her Bachelor of Science degree in social work with a minor in sociology from the University of North Dakota. She is taking continuing education as required for the Minnesota social work license.

She is a member of Redeemer Lutheran Church where she has been involved in the choir, teaching and advising youth groups. She has also been a Cub Scout leader and girls' summer softball coach. Sue has been a board member and volunteer for the Ripley Alliance for Battered Women. She has supported the Lincoln High School theater, choir and band organizations.

Currently, Sue is AAUW program chairperson and a member of the Thief River Falls Quilters Guild.

She has worked as a family caseworker for both Marshall and Pennington County Social Services. Sue has worked at the Area Learning Center with pregnant teens and teen parents who are working toward their high school diplomas.

She is currently the director of the Crossroads Oisplaced Homemaker program which helps women become economically self-sufficient with meaningful employment or go from welfare to work with job search skills, self awareness and personal management skills. She is involved with many professional organizations that deal with helping people including the Pennington County General Crime Victims advisory committee and the Northland CTC Strategic Planning and Gender Equity advisory committees.

Sue is not all work and no play! She loves to sew, quilt, bicycle, camp, walk, golf and travel — preferably south in the winter! Four years ago, she and her husband designed and built their home.

The couple has provided a home for a Magnet Arts student during one quarter of the school year and feel they have parented two great kids that have become great young men.

One of Sue's many rewards in the workplace is the realization that she has helped clients feel better about themselves and experience success.

Lois Steiger

Lois Steiger is a graduate of Albert Lea High School and the University of Minnesota with a four-year degree in textiles and clothing in business. Presently she is enrolled in the small business computer accounting program. Lois strives to stay stimulated with new ideas and keep updated on current government information.

Lois has two daughters, Laura, a freshman at the University of Minnesota Stout, and Lynn, an eighth grader at Franklin Middle School. Pepper, the family dog, is the only male in the Steiger household.

Lois is a member and organizer of the Thief River Falls Quilters Guild. She is also a member of Single Friends, the Rotary Club and the Chamber of Commerce where she serves as chairperson of the Business Boosters. She is a member of the National Home Sewing Association and serves as a 4-H project leader. A member of Redeemer Lutheran Church, Lois is a Sunday school teacher, youth leader and advisor and Innkeeper chairperson.

For the past 20 years, Lois has been the owner of Annette's Fabrics in Thief River Falls, currently the fourth largest independently owned fabric store in Minnesota. She was named Thief River Falls Business Person of the Year in 1993 and was selected to attend the Blandin Leadership Retreat in 1998.

When she finds time for her hobbies, they include sewing, reading and doing things with others such as cross-country and downhill skiing, biking and walking.

Lois finds completing various sewing projects as rewarding, but describes raising and continuing to raise her two daughters as her most rewarding accomplishment. They make her world go round!

She says that her fabric store is sometimes like another child with ups and downs, but overall, it is a most satisfying occupation when things run smoothly and customers are happy with their selections.

Receiving the 1998 Women of Honor award from the Thief River Falls Branch of the American Association of University Women were (left) Lois Steiger, Sue Dupree, Darla Twomey and Elaine Anderson. The award is presented annually to local women who have made and will continue to make outstanding contributions to the community.

Signing off at Franklin Middle School is eighth grader Garrett Hoglo. After leaving their handprints in paint along the ceiling in the hallway at Franklin Middle School, the eighth grade students sign their names next to their handprints. This is the second year that departing students have left the alternating blue and gold handprints at the school. Franklin Volunteer Coordinator Glenda Mattila and parent volunteers Rhonda Kimball and Ann Juhl helped with the project.

Jane Carlson and Jason Greni wed April 25

Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls was the site of the April 25 wedding of Jane Carlson and Jason Greni. Pastors Galen Sylvester and Rick Rittmaster officiated at the 2 p.m. double ring ceremony. Readers were David Sorenson, uncle of the bride, and Marc Sorenson, cousin of the bride.

Parents of the couple were Alden and Betty Carlson of Thief River Falls and Oavid and Loretta Greni of Beulah, NO.

Ruth Stenson was the organist. The processional included "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" and "Trumpet Voluntary." "Hornpipe" was the recessional. Vocal music was provided by Jane Anderson, friend of the bride. Selections included "How Beautiful," "Parents' Prayer," "Only God Could Love You More," "Household of Faith" and "By My Side." Other music was provided by a seven-piece orchestra.

The church was decorated with candleabras with flowers and greens and white pew bows. Kevin Kronstedt, cousin of the bride, and Sterling Greni Jr., cousin of the groom, were candle lighters.

The bride wore an empire waisted gown of white satin. The bodice was adorned with pearls, and a double row of pearls bordered the sweetheart neckline, short sleeves and hemline of the A-line skirt. Lace insets decorated the train, also bordered with pearls. A floral wreath held her fingertip length veil. She carried a bouquet of white lizianthis, gardenias, stephanotas, babies breath and ivy.

Gretchen Carlson of Fargo was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Nicole Kivisto of Bismarck, ND, sister of the groom and friend of the bride; Tami Lundgren of Fargo, ND, friend of the bride; Penny Saewert of Davenport, NO, friend of the bride; Aimee Johaneson of Bloomington, friend of the bride; and Patty Johnsen of Austin, TX, friend of the bride.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore floor length gowns of purple crepe. Rhinestone buttons complemented the low scoop back. They carried round bouquets of multi-colored spring flowers.

Dressed to match the other attendants was flower girl Elizabeth Matson of Volga, SD, cousin of the groom. She carried a white basket filled with fresh multi-colored spring flowers.

Marlene Carr and Linda Donnillon, aunts of the bride, were her personal attendants.

The groom was attired in a black tuxedo with white vest. His boutonniere consisted of stephanota and a white rose.

The grooms attendants wore black tuxedos with purple paisley vests. Chris Maxson of Bozeman, MT, friend of the groom, was the bestman. Groomsmen included Matt Kivisto of Bismarck, ND, brother-in-law of the groom; Nathan Carlson of Thief River Falls, brother of the bride; Tim Cazalas of Corpus Christi, TX, friend of the groom; Chris Matthews of Fargo, ND, friend of the groom; and Brent Miller of Indianapolis, IN, friend of the groom. Their boutonnieres were made up of single white tulips with ivy.

Sam Carr of Pine Springs and Tommy Donnillon of Mahtomedi, both cousins of the bride, were the ring bearers. Their tuxedos, vests and boutonnieres matched those of the bestman and groomsmen.

Also wearing black tuxedos with purple paisley vests were the ushers, Heath Hayer of Elko, friend of the groom; Jeff Greni of Rapid City, SD, uncle of the groom; Sterling Greni of Papillion, NE, uncle of the groom; and Scott Matson of Volga, SD, uncle of the groom. Their boutonnieres also were single white tulips with ivy.

Allison Carr and Bethany Donnillon, cousins of the bride, distributed the wedding programs.

Rhinestones accented the empire waist of the light green crepe gown worn by the mother of the bride. The mother of the groom wore a dusty rose floor length suit. Their corsages were of white baby roses, lilies, babies breath with a purple accent.

Attired in black tuxedos with purple paisley vests, the fathers of the couple wore boutonnieres of white roses and babies breath with a purple accent.

Honored guests were Harold and Margaret Sorenson of Arden Hills, grandparents of the bride, and Arnold Matson of Volga, SD, grandfather of the groom.

Hosting the reception at the Thief River Golf Club were Dick and Elaine Allen, uncle and aunt and Godparents of the bride, and Joe and Shirley Hauge, uncle and aunt of the bride. The guest book was attended by Rosalind Reishus and Lora Sisler, friends of the couple.

The wedding cake, baked by Margaret Rupprecht, consisted of four round cakes of graduating sizes on pedestals. The cakes were decorated with basket weave frosting and fresh flowers. The cake was cut by Jan Foley, aunt of the bride, and Sue Greni, aunt of the groom.

Champagne was served by Mike and Rosalind Reishus. Jenny Sorenson and Martha Allen, cousins of the bride, served punch.

Bev Kronstedt and Karen Koenig, aunts of the bride, were the flower hostesses.

Quinn Foley and Tim Koenig, cousins of the bride, presided at the gift table.

Mike Carr, Ted Koenig and Brian Kronstedt, cousins of the bride, were waiters. Audra Matson and Amber Matson, cousins of the groom, were waitresses.

Bubble attendants were Katie and Susie Greni, cousins of the groom. Kristine Carr and Ann and Margaret Koenig, cousins of the bride, were flower seed attendants.

Following a wedding trip to Maui, Hawaii, the couple is at home in Bloomington. A 1995 graduate of Moorhead State University with a degree in accounting, Jane is employed by the Regis Corporation of Edina. Jason is a 1994 graduate of the University of North Dakota with a degree in accounting. He is employed by General Mills.

School of Prayer planned at Viking Covenant Church

Susie Simpson of Lenexa, KS will be the facilitator for the School of Prayer seminar at Viking Covenant Church slated for May 29-31.

The session on Friday, May 29 will be from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Saturday's sessions will be from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. A luncheon will be held at noon.

Simpson will conclude the School of Prayer during Sunday worship services. A special session for children will be held during Sunday school.

Over three dozen area churches have been invited to participate. According to Pastor Donn Roach, "The power of prayer, and the urgent need for it in individual and corporate ministry knows no denominational boundaries."

Saturday's luncheon is the only cost for the seminar. The workshop manual, break-time refreshments and child care will be provided without cost. Books about prayer will be offered for sale. Advance notice of child care needs would be appreciated.

For more information, call (218) 523-4735 or (218) 965-4286.

Margaret Anderson (left) of Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge recently presented Meri Jo Paschke, librarian at Franklin Middle School, with three books to supplement the Adopt-A-Moose program. The books, Moose for Kids, Moose Country and Ecology and Management of the North American Moose, are being donated to 19 area schools that have been involved in the program to provide references for teachers and students. The donation of these books was made possible by contributions from the Hertz Foundation of Thief River Falls, Rice Area Sportsmen of Rice and Wildlife Forever of Minnatonka. Also, copies of Moose for Kids and Moose Country will also be donated to the public libraries in Thief River Falls, Hallock, Warroad and Baudette.

Graduation: the scariest ten-letter word I have ever come across.

It's funny. Since the first day of kindergarten, we've been working our way up to this point in our lives. We have been anticipating, hoping, dreaming for years for this perfect day, when we would march down the aisle of the good old "Huck," clad in our nylon blue robes with matching cardboard hats.

And now that graduation is so close, many of us seniors are somewhat hesitant to cut the umbilical cord (our Alma Mater) we've been attached to for thirteen years. Although we complain often about our severe overload of homework, many of us are coming to realize that high school has been one of the best times of our lives. The friends we've made and the memories we've shared will last forever. And I think that's why so many of us are starting to become severely apprehensive as graduation approaches.

For as long as I can remember, I have wanted nothing more than to graduate from high school and have the freedom to do what I want with my life. But now that that freedom is so unbelievably close, I almost don't want it. I think it's because I know that once I graduate, things will be different.

Graduation seems sort of sad to me - almost like the end of a really good movie. You just don't want it to come. I think I'm sad because I will eventually have to part with all of the important people and things in my life that were established here: my family, my best friend, even my dog. I won't see these people or things quite as often, which is depressing because I love them all so much.

The other day, I came across an excerpt from a book by Robert Fulghum titled, All I Ever Really Needed to Know I Learned in Kindergarten. I felt that this excerpt basically summed up everything that everyone needs to know in life, and I wanted to share it with you. I know this has been around for some time, but for some of us seniors this is new, so I'm addressing it primarily to the seniors.

"Most of what I really need to know about how to live and what to do, and how to be, I learned in kindergarten. Wisdom was not at the top of Graduate School Mountain, but there in the sandbox at nursery school.

These are the things I learned: Share everything. Play fair. Don't hit people. Put things back where you found them. Clean up your own mess. Don't take things that aren't yours. Say you're sorry when you hurt somebody. Wash your hands before you eat. Flush. Warm cookies and cold milk are good for you. Live a balanced life. Learn some and think some and draw and paint and sing and dance and play and work every day some.

"Take a nap every afternoon. When you go out into the world, watch for traffic, hold hands, and stick together. Be aware of wonder. Remember the little seed in the plastic cup. The roots go down and the plant goes up and nobody really knows how or why, but we are all like that.

"Goldfish and hamsters and white mice and even the little seed in the plastic cup - they all die. So do we.

"And then remember the book about Dick and Jane and the first word you learned, the biggest word of all: LOOK. Everything you need to know is in there somewhere. The Golden Rule and love and basic sanitation. Ecology and politics and sane living.

"Think of what a better world it would be if we all - the whole world - had cookies and milk about 3 o'clock every afternoon and then lay down with our blankets for a nap. Or if we had a basic policy in our nation and other nations to always put things back where we found them and cleaned up our own messes. And it is still true, no matter how old you are, when you go out into the world, it is best to hold hands and stick together."

In two days the class of 1998, my class, will be graduating from high school. I know that a lot of people (myself included) are extremely confused right now. I hope these helped you, because they helped me.

Oklee student performs recital at BSU May 15

Dana McGeary, a senior social work major from Oklee, performed an evening of opera scenes during a spring concert at Bemidji State University.

Students in the performance were showcasing the skills they acquired in an opera class at BSU.

"The opera course allowed students to approach scenes from a musical and dramatic framework," said Dr. Rhonda Fisher, assistant professor of vocal music, who taught the sessions. "It was started as a method to introduce more opera to students."

Local students to enroll at Concordia

Kyle Rokke, Eeva Young, and Chris Mumm have announced their decision to enroll at Concordia College. All three students are 1998 graduates of Lincoln High School.

Kyle Rokke is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rokke. Eeva Young, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Young. Chris Mumm is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Mumm.

Elizabeth Odette travels with college band

Elizabeth Odette, daughter of David and Paulette Odette of Thief River Falls, will be traveling on a tour of Australia with the University of St. Thomas Symphonic band and Jazz Ensemble.

During their tour, which will be from May 24 to June 6, the bands will perform with the Royal Australian Army Band, the Sydney Conservatory of Music Wind Ensemble and the Queensland University of Technology Wind Symphony. The bands have been chosen to perform in a live radio broadcast from Eugene Goossens Hall in Sydney, which will be aired by the Australian Broadcast Corp.

Sue Dondelinger (right), of the Miss Thief River Falls Pageant, and Roxi Sorvig of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, presented Dave Pattan, sales and marketing instructor at Northland Community and Technical College with a donation to his class. Students in the sales and marketing program at the college sold advertisements for the pageant. In return, the two students with the most sales and the class received a donation.

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

...What Have I Gotten Into Now?

Why in the world do so many people enjoy gardening anyway? After ignoring my yard for years, I finally decided to do a little planting and fixing up the yard this year. It may kill me.

You wouldn't believe how stiff I am. I hobble instead of walk, my hands are blistered, my fingernails are dirty, I have strange little bites all over my head, my knees are killing me, and my back – my poor back - will never be the same.

I've heard some people say how relaxing it is to garden - how peaceful and serene to spend an hour or two planting or pulling weeds or simply standing around with hose in hand at the end of a hard day. Poo! I've never been so tense in my life. I can't understand how lugging heavy wheelbarrows full of soil, kneeling in the dirt with the ants, grubbing around in soil with the worms, hoeing, raking, pulling weeds and lugging around a heavy hose is going to make me all calm and cool.

As you can tell, I know next to nothing about gardening. I know what looks pretty in other people's yards, but I don't even know the names of the plants I admire. I decided to learn something about gardening, so I went on the internet. After going to one site, I decided to start a compost pile, but I still know next to nothing about gardening – and the compost pile is beginning to sound like 'way too much work.

To give you an example of how ignorant I am, I went and bought some plants. They are still out back in their cute little containers because my flower bed is not ready yet. I ordered dirt, but it won't be here for a day or two, so I can't plant my plants. I've been reading the little plastic stick-things in the containers to try to figure out what I should plant where, not wanting to have the tall flowers in front and the short ones inside the flower bed. I've decided I don't have enough plants to fill up my bed, so now I've been looking in a plant catalog.

What is this "Zone 3" business, anyway? Do I dare buy a plant for Zone 4? Why did I buy all those annual plants that will simply die in the fall? And now that my lawn is as short as possible and all the clippings have been carted away by the garbage men, I find I'm going to need mulch. Grow, grass, grow! Why didn't I save last year's leaves?

And what are all those little flies doing? Are they gnats? They zoom around my head, into my ears, up my nose, and even crawl around on the inside of my glasses. Either they are very smart and know exactly where to begin to eat me alive, or they are attracted by my gunky, smelly hair spray. And where does a fly go when it goes up your nose? My daughter said it will go into my ear. I think it will go down my throat. Either way, I just hope it doesn't stay there in my nose, because I've been sneezing a lot. As you can see, gardening is not relaxing me at all!

Speaking of buying things, I am spending a small fortune on this gardening. Not only have I bought all of those plants, but I am buying dirt (if you can imagine, I have a huge yard and I am BUYING DIRT). I am also buying some looser dirt to mix with the other dirt I am buying so that my soil won't be so solid. I have also bought fertilizer, rooting compound (don't even ask what I'm going to do with that), more fertilizer, weed killer, more new tools than I know what to do with, and bug killer. Yes, bug killer. After digging back and forth and all around my little flower bed for half an hour, I looked upward and saw that I was under branches of my plum tree that were covered with little worms! I hate worms! I know my head touched those branches many times. Ugh! I abandoned my gardening project and went inside and showered, shuddering all the while. I think I will cut off the branches if I dare to touch them.

This whole project has gotten out of hand. I think it may drive me out of my mind or wreck my poor body before I get done with it.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

Like Sand in an Hourglass. . .

Reuse an empty two-liter plastic soda bottle by turning it into a discovery toy for your sandbox. To make one, cut off the top third of the bottle. Invert the top portion, so that the mouth of the bottle is turned upside down into the bottom of the bottle. Tape the portions together, being sure to cover any rough edges. Encourage your child to pour sand into the funnel and watch as it fills the container. If desired, cut small windows on the sides of the bottle for better peeking and faster emptying.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need markers, crayons, stickers, a paper lunch bag, streamers, tape and yarn.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books including the following.

Davies, Sally. Why Did We Have to Move Here? William's family is forced to move and the situation looks pretty bleak until, with the help of a little time and one very good idea, William discovers that maybe this place could really feel like home.

Applebaum, Diana. Cocoa Ice. Back in the distant days of high-rigged schooners, what could children from the island of Santo Domingo and the state of Maine possibly have in common? Linked together by a sailor is a gift for imagining life in faraway places and a taste for iced chocolate.

VIDEO VARIETY

The Aristocats. This enchanting tale begins in Paris, when a kind and eccentric millionairess wills her entire estate to her family of adorable high-society cats. A wild adventure is in store for all when Edgar, the greedy butler, gets involved!

MAGAZINE MENTION

What do Jackson Hole, Wyoming, Virginia's Eastern Shore and Door County, Wisconsin, all have in common? Vacation spots so captivating that they'll demand an encore can be found in the May issue of Family Fun magazine.

WONDERS OF THE WEB

"The Dinosaur Society." A site that ventures beyond Jurassic Park II with "dino-art," visits to digs and more.

PARENTING TIPS
Working Mothers

One of the most important trends in recent years has been the increasing number of women in the work force. Today nearly half of all preschoolers have mothers in the labor force.

The average working mother spends 35 to 40 hours a week on her paying job and an additional 40 hours on home and family care. If you are an employed mother, whether by choice or necessity, you may feel overwhelmed at times trying to juggle your roles of wife, mother and worker and you may feel guilty about how your job is affecting your family life.

Studies show that a mother's employment does not in itself have a negative effect on children. Going to work does not automatically make you a bad mother, just like staying at home does not automatically make a woman a good mother. In both cases, what is important is,

1. the quality of care your child receives when you are gone and
2. what you are like when you are with your children.

You must make choices: your time and energy are limited and you will not be able to do everything. Do not feel guilty about what you cannot do. Instead set priorities and do the things that are the most important for your family and yourself. Your sense of well-being is also important.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Take time to focus on your child in an unhurried manner. Have a real conversation with your child. Take time to talk and to listen.

The News From Here

Allyson Mann

Tuesday Morning, 8:00 A.M.

8:00 a.m., Tuesday, at the beginning of an otherwise dull week, the door swung open to the While Away Cafe and Jed Huddleston, Private Detective, walked in.

"Coffee, Gert," he said, pulling a notebook out of his hip pocket and kicking his leg over a stool. "Seen Leslie?"

The older woman leaned against the counter. "Not yet. But heard one of her kids was throwing a tantrum this morning, so she probably got started late."

"A tantrum?" Jed asked. "Who told you that?"

"Neighbor," she said, pouring his coffee. "Want anything else? I'm going in the back."

"Naw, I'm fine. I'll just sit here and wait for Leslie, maybe go over these notes."

"Big case?" she asked.

Jed nodded. "The Case Of The Missing Goats — Seems Fred Jacobson came home last night, found the gate to the goat pen in pieces and all the animals gone. Know anything?"

"News to me," she said. "Any leads?"

"None so far. That's why I'm waiting for Leslie," referring to his partner, Leslie McGovern. "She's got a kid that drinks goat's milk. I'm hoping she'll have some ideas."

"I had an uncle who drank goat's milk," Gert said. "Swore by the stuff. Said he'd live to be a hundred if he stayed away from the cows."

"Did he?" Jed asked.

"Maybe he would have," she said, "if he hadn't been hit by a truck."

Ned shook his head. "Farm accidents. They're the worst."

"True," she agreed, "but this wasn't a farm accident. Happened at the county fair, in the parking lot."

"Wild kid?" he asked.

"Old fart, driving while eating a sandwich — liverwurst, I think. Never saw my uncle until it was too late."

"Sorry to hear it, Gert."

"That's life," she said. "Here comes Leslie."

Leslie McGovern, tall, thin, tan, walked into the While Away. "Jed! Got your message," she said, sliding up next to him on a stool. "Goats missing, huh? My son Tony's going to be so bummed out."

"Fred was your supplier?"

Leslie shook her head. "His brother, Ted, but Tony gets upset whenever he hears anything bad's happened to a goat."

"Coffee?" Gert asked.

"Yes!" And then turning to Jed, "Can you give me the facts?"

Ned opened his notebook. "Jacobson came home about 10:00 p.m., saw the gate on the ground and the goats gone."

"Footprints?" she asked.

"None."

"What do you think?" she asked, sipping her coffee.

"Well, in the absence of any new evidence, I'm thinking extra terrestrials."

"Exactly!" she said. "Let's go check it out."

Later, having parked his car in the driveway at Fred Jacobson's house, Jed and Leslie joined the farmer near the barn by the broken gate.

"Mornin'," Fred said, lifting his cap and scratching his head. "Darndest thing! Can't figure it out. Couldn't be, of course, but looks to me like they vanished into thin air."

Leslie and Jed exchanged a knowing glance. "We'll scout around a bit, Fred," Jed said, "but before we leave, we'll stop in at the house."

"Okay," the farmer agreed. "I'll need your report to start on those insurance forms. Personally, I don't think I'm ever going to see those goats again."

Leslie and Jed investigated the premises separately before rendezvousing back at the barn.

"Find anything?" she asked.

"No, but it reminds me a lot of that case we had last year --"

"The Case Of The Missing Grain Elevator?"

"Yep."

Leslie nodded. "-- One of the more obvious examples of extraterrestrial theft," she said.

Jed agreed. "Those E.T.'s! They're sure something else!"

"Case closed?"

"Time for lunch?"

Diane Bulger, 56

Thief River Falls - Diane Bulger, 56, died Thursday, May 21, 1998 at Dakota Heartland Hospital in Fargo, ND.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 26 at St. Bernard's Catholic Church in Thief River Falls with Father Dennis Wieland officiating. Carol Amundson was the organist, and special music was provided by the Resurrection Choir. Judy Dupree was the cantor. Casketbearers were Ron Gerhart, Gary Gerhart, Tim Bulger, Greg Bulger, Brian Olson and Ralph Matter. Burial was in St. Bernard's Cemetery. The Green Funeral Home was in charge of the arrangements.

Diane Clara Parent was born on February 2, 1942 in Argyle, the daughter of Omer and Arthemise (Bazinet) Parent. She was baptized and confirmed at St. Rose of Lima Catholic Church at Argyle, and she attended school in Argyle. Following school, Diane moved to Florida where she worked for several years before returning to Minnesota in 1966.

On July 9, 1966 she was united in marriage to Gerald Bulger at Argyle. The couple made their home in Thief River Falls. Diane worked at the Piggly Wiggly store for several years and was later a cook at St. Bernard's School for a number of years.

Diane was a member of St. Bernard's Catholic Church.

She enjoyed bird watching, her poodles and other animals and crafts. She especially enjoyed being with her family and friends.

Diane is survived by her husband, Gerald of Thief River Falls; one daughter, Tammy of Thief River Falls; one son, Jeremy of Fargo, ND; four sisters, Louise Andersen of Stephen, Gloria (Gordon) Mickelson of Stephen, Joyce (William) Bulger of Thief River Falls and Audrey (Larry) Dyer of Albuquerque, NM; three brothers, Roger (Geraldine) Parent of Mesa, AZ, Dale (Ralphine) Parent of Minneapolis and her twin brother, Donnie Parent of East Grand Forks; one brother-in-law, one sister-in-law; and several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her parents, three brothers, Rolland, Larry and Jerry, and one sister, Darlene Harbott.

Olga Myhrer, 90

Thief River Falls - Olga Myhrer, 90, died Friday, May 22, 1998 at the CNC Unit of Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday, May 28 at 2 p.m. at First Baptist Church in Thief River Falls with Reverend Ron Gullman officiating. Judy Johnson will be the organist, and Dr. Peter Johnson will be the soloist. Casketbearers will be all of Olga's grandchildren. Honorary casketbearers will be all of Olga's great-grandchildren. Burial will follow at Silverton Cemetery in Pennington county.

Visitation will be held today (Wednesday, May 27) from 3 to 7 p.m. with a 6 p.m. prayer service at Green Funeral Home and for one hour prior to services at the church on Thursday.

Olga Christopherson was born on March 18, 1908 to Nels and Karen (Buringrud) Christopherson in Silverton township of Pennington county. She was baptized and confirmed at Silverton Lutheran Church and attended school through the eighth grade. She then moved to Thief River Falls where she worked as a housekeeper.

On April 27, 1929 she was united in marriage to Thorvald Myhrer in Mavie at the parsonage with Reverend E. O. Sabo performing the ceremony. The couple lived in Thief River Falls where they raised their family and owned and operated a truck garden for about 50 years. On November 1, 1990 Olga moved to Valley Home. Thorvald died on August 25, 1992, and Olga moved to the CNC Unit of Northwest Medical Center where she has since resided.

Olga is survived by one daughter, Marlene (LaVerne) Owens of Euclid; four sons, Robert (Ivadell) of Lakeland, FL, Donald (Phyllis) of Coon Rapids, Lester (Norma) of Apple Valley and Larry (Linda) of Thief River Falls; 21 grandchildren; 21 great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Thorvald; her parents; three sisters, Clara Klemmetson, Anna Myhrer and Emma Peterson; and five brothers, Herman, Melvin, Carl, Adolph and Henry Christopherson.

Ronald Kennedy, 79

Red Lake Falls - Ronald Kennedy, 79, died Friday, May 22, 1998 at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Mass of Christian burial was held on Monday, May 25 at 2 p.m. at St. Dorothy's Catholic Church in Dorothy. Father Gary LaMoine officiated. Polly Beyer was the organist, and soloist was Darla Huot. Casketbearers were Randy Kennedy, Steve Kennedy, Jim Kennedy, Allen Theroux, Gary Theroux, Brian Theroux, Tom Koralewski, Bruce Kennedy, Matt Kennedy, Brad Kennedy, Craig Kennedy and Jason Kennedy. Honorary casketbearers were all of Ronald's grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Burial was in the St. Dorothy's Catholic Cemetery.

Ronald Henry Kennedy was born on July 16, 1918 in Bancroft, IA, the son of Lewis and Mary (Menke) Kennedy. He was raised in Grafton, ND and Fisher where he attended school.

On September 12, 1939 he was united in marriage to Stella Huot at St. Dorothy's Catholic Church in Dorothy. Ronald farmed until 1947 when he began working for Great Northern Railroad which later became Burlington Northern Railroad. He retired in 1981. The couple made their home near Red Lake Falls. Ronald was a member of St. Dorothy's Catholic Church.

He is survived by five sons, Larry (Connie) Kennedy of Grand Forks, ND, Darrel (Eva) Kennedy of Franksville, WI, Wayne (Rhonda) Kennedy of Burlington, WI, Ronny (Jan) Kennedy of Red Lake Falls and Lyle (Rita) Kennedy of Warroad; two daughters, Doris (John) Theroux of Brooklyn Park and JoAnne (Gordon) Koralewski of Avon; 21 grandchildren, 27 great-grandchildren, and four sisters, Hazel Doyea of Red Lake Falls, Lorraine Doyea of Beltrami, Bernice Doyea of Crookston and Mary Lou Tucker of Euclid.

Ronald was preceded in death by his wife Stella on January 2, 1995; parents; two grandsons, Anthony "Tony" Koralewski and David Kennedy; and one sister, Marie Kollasch.

Raymond Tunheim, 78

Newfolden - Raymond E. Tunheim, 78, died Thursday, May 21, 1998 at Dakota Heartland Hospital in Fargo, ND.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday, May 26 at 11 a.m. at Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Newfolden with Reverend John Jorgensen officiating. Ida Nordvall was the organist, and Deland Elseth was the soloist. Special music was also provided by the men's group. Casketbearers were Alvin Olson, Vernon Bengston, John Bjorsness, Kenneth Hjelle, Stuart Sethre and Milford Rokke. Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery in Newfolden. The Green Funeral Home of Thief River Falls was in charge of the arrangements.

Raymond Earl Tunheim was born on November 18, 1919 in New Folden township of Marshall county, the son of Oscar and Amanda (Johnson) Tunheim. He was baptized at Westaker Lutheran Church and confirmed at Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Newfolden. He attended Wildwood School south of Newfolden and graduated from Newfolden High School in 1937. He worked with his father on the family farm.

On April 5, 1950 he was united in marriage to Lucille Starr in Pelican Rapids. He continued to farm until 1952 when he began working at the Newfolden Cooperative Elevator. He became general manager the following year, a position he held for 32 years. In 1967 he purchased land adjoining his home and farmed into retirement.

Raymond was an active member of Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Newfolden and served on the church council as secretary, deacon, trustee and vice-president. He was also a charter member of the Newfolden Lions Club and was currently treasurer of the organization. Over the years he served on the volunteer fire department, the Newfolden City Council, on the board of directors of Newfolden Community Homes, the Northwest Regional Development Commission, and on the board of directors and as vice-president of Marshall County State Bank in Newfolden.

He enjoyed visiting with family and friends, working on his land and John Deere tractors and watching sporting events. Recently, he and Lucille were named Basketball Fans of the Year by the MCC Sports Boosters.

Ray is survived by his wife, Lucille of Newfolden; two sons, John (Kathryn) of Stillwater and Robert (Katherine) of Orono; one daughter, Julie Tunheim of Pelican Rapids; five grandchildren; one sister, Senora Elseth of Newfolden; and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents and one infant grandson, Thomas Hill Tunheim.

Ten more flags were added to the Avenue of Flags at Greenwood cemetery in Thief River Falls. Monday during Memorial Day Services, the flags were dedicated. Several hundred people attended the event.

Monday, during Memorial Day Services at Greenwood Cemetery in Thief River Falls, wreaths were placed at the memorial honoring all service men and women who gave their lives in all wars. Several hundred people turned out for the event.

Emma Schey, 100

Karlstad - Emma Schey, 100, formerly of Strandquist, died Wednesday, May 20, 1998 at Karlstad Memorial Nursing Home in Karlstad.

Funeral services were held on Saturday, May 23 at 2 p.m. at Resurrection Lutheran Church in Karlstad with Reverend George Davis and Reverend John Riveness officiating. Kathy Rokke was the organist, and Janice Ramsey was the soloist. Casketbearers were Wayne Rood, Michael Rood, Ronnie Anderson, Philip Anderson, Tim Borsvold and David Olson. Burial was in the Karlstad Cemetery. The Green Funeral Home of Thief River Falls was in charge of the arrangements.

Emma Bengston was born on October 4, 1897 in Marsh Grove township of Marshall county, the daughter of Joe and Elsie (Subdahl) Bengston. Emma was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith. She attended rural schools and later worked as a domestic worker in homes in the area.

On November 17, 1915 she was united in marriage to Henry Schey in Warren. They lived on the Schey farm by Argyle for some time. The couple later moved to a farm east of Strandquist where Emma and Henry spent a good deal of time working on the farm.

Emma was a member of Bethesda Lutheran Church where she taught Sunday school and was active in the ladies aid. Later, she attended the Gospel Tabernacle and taught Sunday school there. Emma grew beautiful flower gardens and enjoyed taking bouquets to church. She also enjoyed weaving rugs, crocheting and fishing.

She moved to Oakwood Homes in Karlstad in 1980, Valley Home in Thief River Falls in 1992 and to the Karlstad Memorial Nursing Home in 1996.

Emma is survived by eight children, Hazel Anderson of Tioga, ND, Ethel (David) McWhirter of Minneapolis, Orville (Lee) Schey of St. Paul, Harriet Olson of Richfield, Verna (Dewey) Rood of Thief River Falls, Deloris Linder of Strathcona, Doris (Albert) Olson of Langdon and Beverly (Gordon) Borsvold of Strandquist; 27 grandchildren; 56 six great-grandchildren; nine great-great-grandchildren, one brother-in-law; and several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband on May 20, 1977; parents; two grandchildren, David and Danny Linder; three sons-in-law, Wesley Anderson, Russell Olson and Arthur Linder; one brother, Ben; and five sisters, Mary, Hannah, Ella, Clara and Adeline.

"Kids on the Fifties" revue to be presented June 1 and 2

For the past five weeks 47 students in grades 3-6 have been rehearsing for an hour-long revue entitled Kids on the Fifties to be presented Monday and Tuesday, June 1 and 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Tickets will be available at the door at $5 for adults, $3 for students K-12 or $20 per family. The program is directed by Kari Frisch and Ruth Christensen with Crystelle Johnsrud as pianist and produced in cooperation with the School District 564 community education department with partial funding from a grant from the Northwest Regional Development Commission.

The show centers around the music of the 1950s and features such songs as Splish Splash, Purple People Eater, Rock Around the Clock, Where The Boys Are and many more. Solos will include Jail House Rock, The Twist, Tammy, Blue Velvet, Que Sera Sera, Our Day Will Come, Venus and many others, as well as small group highlights such as Lollipop, Do Wa Diddy; Be True to Your School and others.

"Rumor has it there may even be special guest appearances by such famous artists as Chubby Checker, Frankie Avalon, Doris Day and Elvis," notes directors Frisch.

The select cast includes the following students:

Amy Abercrombie, Traci Anderson, Doug Brekke, Cote Bylander, Ben Carlson, Danny Christensen, McKenzie Comstock, Jamie Dahlen, Maureen Duffy, Adrianne Erickson, Korbi Fisher, Kayla Gallagher, Jenny Grove, Jessica Hegland, Cami Hendrickson, Ana Hibbert, Peter Hoks, Andy Holmaas, Dane Jenson, Kari Johnson, Kayla Johnson, Ali Kalsnes and McKenzie Kayser;

Also Nicholi Knutson, Serena Kopecky, Jillian Larson, Danielle Martin, Sarah Mattison, Josiah Northup, Renee Pagnac, Tyla Pream, Samantha Rader, Tevia Reese, Shawna Rogalla, Chad Rosencrans, Suzy Rosencrans, Katie Seed, Haeli Stokke, Alysha Taber, Melissa Taber, Cassandra Teie, Mandi Thompson, Leah Trontvet, Katie Trontvet, Ben Tveitbakk, Lynnsie Weeding and Josiah Westerman.

Kenny Beauchane honored for outstanding service

Former custodian at Northrop elementary school wins Delta Kappa Gamma Outstanding Service Award

"I think Kenny Beauchane is a wonderful person. He is loyal, kind, friendly, nice, funny, and most of all he is very very caring. We all care for Kenny because he helps the schools, the town and all of us kids. Our question is why is he so so so nice? We will not be able to find out if you don't pick him to be the "Friend of Education." And if you don't do you know how many harts you will brake?"

This letter of support from a student accompanying Kenny Beauchane's nomination for the Tau State Outstanding Service Award of Delta Kappa Gamma would seem almost guaranteed to make an impression on the judges. Whether it did or not is unknown, but Beauchane was selected as the state winner and received his award recently at the Tau State convention in Minneapolis from Diane Rauschenfels, Tau State chair of personal growth and services.

Members of the local Alpha Phi chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma who made the nomination and arranged for the stack of supporting materials were Joyce Kopari and Lois Bergland, co-chairs of the local personal growth and services committee.

The nomination form states that Beauchane was being nominated for the award for "his dedication and commitment to children, education and the community."

The narrative accompanying the nomination form provides background on the award recipient and why he was selected for nomination. The narrative follows:

Kenneth R. Beauchane was born Sept. 14, 1941, in Crookston. Most of his youth was spent in Crookston, Grand Rapids and Red Lake Falls. Being the oldest child in his family, he accepted lots of responsibilities.

Kenny's present family includes his mother, Solange Radke and stepfather Elmer Radke of Crookston; one sister, Dorothy Franklin of Orange Park, FL; three brothers, Daniel Beauchane of Possceyville, IN, Richard and Ronald Beauchane of Red Lake Falls; one step-sister and four step-brothers.

While attending the Northwest School of Agriculture in Crookston, Kenny worked in the dining hall to help with expenses. His graduation took place in 1959. After high school, he worked on various grain and dairy farms in the Red River Valley from 1959 to 1961.

He then entered the army and served from 1961 to 1964. His basic training was at Ft. Leonard Wood, MO, and he later spent 31 months in France.

After his armed service he worked as assistant manager of the Red Lake Falls lumber yard. Later, he moved to Edmore, ND, where he became manager of the lumber yard there. During that time he was a Boy Scout leader. In 1969 Kenny moved to Thief River Falls and began working for School District 564 as a custodian, a job he continued until 1994 when he retired.

While employed in Thief River Falls he met and eventually married a teacher, Patricia Stringham, a music teacher in the elementary schools. They were married Sept. 24, 1971.

Kenny and Pat became foster parents in 1972 and provided care for a 12-year-old boy and a 10-year-old deaf girl for a period of time. They began adult foster care in 1988 and to date have provided loving care and a home for six clients.

Since Kenny started his employment in 1969 with the school district, he has had many wonderful experiences with children which were above and beyond his job description. Here are a few of them. He has:

- Taken boys to Father-Son banquets;
- Helped boys to mow yards;
- Helped kids work with tools in his shop;
- Hosted kids on fishing trips;
- Helped dry wet clothes at school;
- Pulled teeth;
- Given hugs when needed;
- Dried tears when necessary;
- Brought classes out to his farm for hay rides;
- Brought kindergarten classes from the public schools and St. Bernard's Catholic school out to his farm to see the animals;
- Served as a chaperon for Deep Portage, a nature study field trip conducted each year for Challenger elementary school fifth grade students.

Community involvement is endless! Here are some examples:

- Present member of the Little Brother/Little Sister advisory board;
- Board member for the Falls Day Activity Center 1989-1995 (chairman 1990-1995);
- Provided a Christmas tree for the Family Preservation Center (a home for the quick, emergency placement of children with family problems);
- Entertained kids from the Family Preservation Center on fishing, snowshoe and campfire trips;
- Played Santa Claus for families, school classes, Eagles lodge and American Legion;
- Built handicap equipment for the school wherever needed;
- Repaired and built furniture and met other needs for school staff;
- Does gardening for others (under a self-designed program with the Little Brother/Little Sister program and the mental health department of Dakota Hospital. Kenny brought students to his farm to plant a garden. During the summer the students cared for the garden and later distributed the harvest to "needy places);
- Member and former-reader at St Bernard's Catholic church;
- Member of the Knights of Columbus;
- Assisted with the annual fishing derby, a fishing contest and fund-raising activity sponsored by the Knights of Columbus;
- Member of the Eagles lodge for 28 years;
- Member of American Legion Post No. 22 in Red Lake Falls for 29 years.

While letters in support of the nomination were readily obtained from school officials and a number of other adults in the community who are involved in directing organizations and activities where Kenny has been active, it is the letters from students that say the most about his character and personality.

"About two years ago Kenny became my big brother in the Little Brother/Little Sister program," writes Abraham Lee. "Kenny spends lots of time with me. He takes me home after swimming practice every day and sometimes he takes me out to eat. Many Saturday, Kenny will also take me out to eat.

"I have learned a lot from Kenny. Together we work in his workshop so I have learned about many tools and how to build things. We even made a storage shed for a teacher. Kenny is my very good friend. He is always happy and cheerful and fun to be around. He gives me help and encouragement and always makes sure that my homework is done!

"He has made a difference in my life and I know that if I ever have a problem Kenny will be there to help me with it. I really appreciate that Kenny is a part of my life and I am very glad that he is my friend."

Another student writes:

"About six years ago Kenny worked at Northrop Elem., and now its 1998 and Kenny is still here! Not a janitor anymore but a volunteer. He not only helps the kids but it's like he is a kid himself. Kenny is caring, funny and is patient with kids who are having lots of trouble and just can't seem to get the answer right! What I'm trying to say is Kenny Beauchane is a wonderful man and he deserves the award."

Another student comments on Beauchane's volunteer assistance with students, then adds: "Besides his education help, he's just clearly a good guy. He's brought out good in all of us, and lots of good in himself, from what he shows every week. I see only good in him."

And finally:

"I think Kenny Beauchane is a true and honest guy. He helps with our math and is very humorous. I've known him since kindergarten and I think hes great."

Kenny Beauchane, state winner of the Tau State Outstanding Service Award, holds his own award plaque in front of a display arranged for the Alpha Phi chapter meeting at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls earlier this year. Pictured with him are nominators Lois Bergland (left) and Joyce Kopari, co-chairs of the personal growth and services committee of the local chapter.

Receiving his state award from Diane Rauschenfels, Tau State chair for personal growth and services, is Kenny Beauchane of Thief River Falls.

Northrop Elementary School memorabilia case which he received on his retirement after many years as custodian at the school is shown by Kenny Beauchane. The case was on display at a dinner meeting of Alpha Phi chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma at the Best Western Inn earlier this year. Beauchane was honored at the meeting as the state winner of the organization's outstanding service award.

State award from Tau State of Delta Kappa Gamma for outstanding service was presented to Kenny Beauchane of Thief River Falls recently in Bloomington. Elva Fiedler, president of the Thief River Falls Alpha Phi Chapter, presented the chapter's local award at one of its meetings earlier this year at the Best Western Inn.

Faculty of MnSCU colleges reject tentative contract

Faculty members at Minnesota's technical colleges have rejected a tentative contract agreement for the 1997-99 biennium. The contract was rejected narrowly with 701 yes, and 791 no votes.

The central issue of disagreement appears to be new workload language bargained into the contract. The UTCE, which represents faculty on 34 technical colleges and campuses in Minnesota, is ready to return to the bargaining table to resolve outstanding issues.

The parties began talks in July 1997 and exchanged their first proposals in October of last year. On February 21, 1998, the UTCE petitioned for assistance from the Bureau of Mediation Services.

Law enforcement respond to numerous calls last week

It was a very busy week leading up to and through the Memorial Day weekend for law enforcement officials in Thief River Falls and Pennington county.

Consumption under age. On May 20 at 1:54 a.m. officers stopped a vehicle and found two individuals in the vehicle who had been consuming alcohol. As one subject was being asked to sit in the squad car he ran away from the officer. Charges of fleeing a peace officer and consumption under age are pending against the 16-year-old male of Thief River Falls. Charges are pending against a 14-year-old male of Thief River Falls for consumption under age and curfew violation.

On May 27 at 1:17 a.m. police responded to a report of a noise complaint in the 600 block of North Kinney. Daniel David Mois, 20, is being charged with consumption under age, obstructing legal process, and public nuisance. Mois fled from the scene by jumping from a second floor balcony. Anthony Thomas Spaeth, 20, Thief River Falls, was cited for public nuisance. Joseph Gary Helgeson, 20, Thief River Falls, was cited for consumption under age.

On May 22 at 2:15 a.m. police made a traffic stop in the area of Longren Avenue. Dean Alan Amundson, 20, Thief River Falls, was cited for consumption under age.

On May 23 at 3:37 a.m. police cited a 17-year-old female from Middle River with consumption by a minor.

Driving while intoxicated. On May 21 at 9:41 p.m. an officer noticed a tractor traveling at a low rate of speed west on Third Street without lights. The driver, Darryl Wayne Johnson, 59, Thief River Falls, said he had been driving from Oklee. He was charged with aggravated driving while intoxicated, open bottle, and refusal to test.

On May 20 at 10:44 p.m. John Allen Peterson, 51, Halbock, was arrested by the sheriff's department for driving while intoxicated, and possession of a loaded weapon, a .22 Winchester rifle.

Theft. On May 21 at 6:05 p.m. police received a report from a local resident who reported that someone had taken her Apple McIntosh Colorbook 1400 with CD Rom and carrying case. The theft loss was estimated at $3,500.

On May 21 at 5:14 p.m. police received a report that someone had taken a 1979 Yamaha 750 Special, motorcycle, from a residence in a local trailer court.

On May 20 police reported recovering a handgun and watch taken in a burglary of a local residence on April 29. The suspects in that burglary have already been charged. One of the suspects remains in custody.

On May 20 at 1:18 p.m. a 15-year-old male was taken into custody. A local man had reported that someone had taken his bike and later noticed the 15-year-old riding his bike. Upon taking the youth into custody officers discovered he had been shoplifting from a local store as well.

Burglary. On May 23 at 1:14 p.m. the sheriff's department received a report of a burglary at a trailer park in Rocksbury township. An air conditioner, some tools and a ladder were taken.

Accidents. On May 19 at 4:13 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Fourth and Main. Jeanne Sharon Johnson, Thief River Falls, pulled away from the curb in a 1994 Oldsmobile Cutlass to travel north on Main Avenue, as a semi driven by Jeffrey Edward Nelson of Thief River Falls, also facing north was attempting to turn right onto Fourth Street. The vehicles collided. Police estimated damages at $4,000 to the Johnson vehicle and $300 to the Nelson vehicle.

On May 20 at 9:35 a.m. law enforcement received a report of an accident at Highway 1 and 32. Henry John Panek, Goodridge, was driving a truck north and making a right turn, when a small car driven by Lynn-Ann Woods, Thief River Falls, pulled along the right side of the truck and the vehicles collided. Law enforcement officers estimated damages at $1,500 to the Woods vehicle. There was no damage to the truck.

On May 21 at 3:56 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Highway 59 and Brooks Avenue. Harold James Green, Thief River Falls, was driving a van west on Highway 59 and was stopped in traffic. Erica Opdahl, Thief River Falls, was driving a car west on Highway 59 and didn't see Green stop and her vehicle ran into Green's vehicle. Police estimated damages at $1,000 to the Green vehicle and $2,500 to the Opdahl vehicle. Green complained of neck and back pain. Opdahl was cited for inattentative driving.

On May 23 at 3:12 p.m. police received a report of an accident in the 200 block of East First Street. Albert Clifford Larson, Thief River Falls, was driving a 1983 Honda Moped west on First when another car forced him into the curb. He was thrown off the Moped. He complained of scrapes to his knee, arm and forehead. Damage loss to the Moped was estimated by police at $250.

On May 22 at 3:50 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Second and Atlantic. Kathy Rae Moose, Thief River Falls, was driving a 1986 Honda Rebel motorcycle, south turning west when she observed another approaching vehicle and did not think she had enough room so she put the motorcycle down on its side. There was an estimated $25 damage to the motorcycle. Moose complained of an injury to her foot and side of her leg.

On May 22 at 12:44 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Fifth and LaBree. Delores Louise Jensen, Goodridge, was driving a car south on LaBree, and Erick Olaf Olson, Thief River Falls, was driving a Blazer east on Fifth when the vehicles collided at the uncontrolled intersection. Jensen complained of bruising to her stomach and cuts and scrapes. Police estimated damages at $1,200 to the Jensen vehicle, and $500 to the Olson vehicle.

Hit and run. On May 22 at 3 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Fourth and Knight. Callie Sherie Melvie, St. Hilaire, was driving north on Knight Avenue when another vehicle collided with her vehicle at Fourth and left the scene. Melvie complained of an injury to her wrist, arm and upper body. The other vehicle was described as a tan Ford pickup.

Public nuisance. On May 24 at 1:23 a.m. police received a report of loud noise coming from an apartment complex on Highway 1 east. Rafael Fuentes, 27, Thief River Falls, was cited for public nuisance.

On May 25 at 2:21 a.m. police received a report of loud noise coming from an apartment complex on Highway 1 east. Judy Jimenez, 22, and Rafael Fuentes, 27, Thief River Falls, were cited for public nuisance.

Criminal damage to property. On May 23 at 8 a.m. the sheriff's department received a report of damage at Oak Ridge Lutheran Church in Norden township. A vehicle apparently missed the t-intersection at County roads 63 and 69 and hit a fence pulling up several fence posts. A damage estimate was not available.

On May 21 at 11:06 a.m. police received a report of vandalism to the slow pitch softball diamonds on Highway 1 east. Someone drove a vehicle over the chain link fence and over the diamonds causing damage estimated by police at over $2,000.

Assault. On May 24 at 6:46 a.m. police received a report of a fight at Eighth and Dewey. Officers and a sheriff's deputy responded and found two victims. One of the victims had a bloody nose. The suspect had left. A short time later a police officer stopped a vehicle on North Main and discovered the driver to be the suspect. Terry Lee Anenson, 25, Thief River Falls, faces a charge of fifth degree assault.

Criminal sexual conduct. On May 24 police received a report of an a sexual assault. Carey Allen Leas, Thief River Falls, was taken into custody by the Pennington County Sheriff's department. Charges of criminal sexual conduct are pending. It is alleged that he had sexual contact with a female under the age of 13 at a location in Rocksbury township.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

Murder charge filed against Grand Forks man

Following an incident in Marshall County, charges of attempted third degree murder, assault in the first degree, assault in the second degree and first degree burglary have been filed against Owen Brent Vamson, 45, of Grand Forks.

On May 16 at about 5:30 a.m. the Marshall County Sheriff's department received a 9-1-1 emergency call from a residence in Oak Park township. It has been alleged that Vamson entered a residence and assaulted a male victim with a club. The victim was taken to Altru Medical Center in Grand Forks where he was hospitalized for multiple skull fractures and was initially listed in critical condition. Vamson was subsequently charged with attempted third degree murder, assault in the first degree, assault in the second degree and first degree burglary.

On May 22 at about noon, Vamson turned himself over to the Marshall County Sheriff's department. Vamson appeared in Marshall County District Court and a bond of $100,000 was set. The next appearance has been scheduled for May 26.

Two sentenced on felony convictions in county court

Two individuals were sentenced on felony charges last week in Ninth District Court.

Sandra Dee Nabors, 26, Redby, was sentenced on a felony conviction for possession of stolen property. Nabors along with two other individuals were caught shoplifting at a local store. Upon further investigation, officers found other stolen merchandise, valued at $721.95, in their vehicle. Nabors was originally charged with theft and possession of stolen property. As a result of a plea agreement, the theft charge was dropped. Ninth District Judge Larry G. Jorgenson sentenced Nabors to pay a fine totaling $500, and placed her on supervised probation for five years.

Miguel Angel Martinez, 25, Hoople, ND, was sentenced on a charge of felony controlled substance in the fifth degree. During a traffic stop last December, Martinez was found in possession of two ounces of cocaine. Ninth District Judge Dennis Murphy ordered Martinez to pay a fine and fees totaling $150 and serve 45 days in jail. He was also placed on supervised probation for five years.

Kopari leads track qualifiers

Thief River Falls junior Nicole Kopari won both the discus and shot put competition Thursday in the girls portion of the 1998 North Sub-Section 8AA high school track meet at Alexandria.

Kopari led the Prowlers' efforts with a school-record 153-10 throw in the discus and a 42-10 toss in the shot put.

Joining Kopari in the winner's circle for the Prowlers was eighth grader Chelsea Haviland, who cleared 9-0 in the pole vault.

Haviland was also a Section 8AA qualifier with a third place run in the 1600 meters.

Other Thief River Falls girls headed to the state meet-qualifying sectional competition will be senior Becky Mooney, who was second in both the 800 and 1660, sophomore Rachel Mathson, third in the 400 and fourth in the 200, and junior Taya Hunt, eighth in the shot.

Just two Thief River Falls boys earned spots in the sectional meet – senior Chad Skeim, who was fourth in the discus, and junior Kelly Cota, eighth in the high jump.

Top eight individuals and top four relay teams in the North Sub-Section 8AA competition join the South Sub-Section 8AA qualifiers in the Section 8AA meet Saturday, May 30, at St. Cloud Apollo.

"We got the kids through who we knew would make it, and we had a couple of surprises, which are always nice," mentioned Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson.

Even with a small group of Section 8AA qualifiers, it was a solid showing for the Prowlers, according to Olson. "I'm very, very happy with the times," he said. "Some of the kids who didn't advance still dropped times significantly. As a staff, we came out of there very satisfied and happy with the kids' performances."

Team-wise, Alexandria boys and Moorhead girls were North Sub-Section 8AA champions.

Alexandria boys collected 274 points, followed by Bemidji with 156, Brainerd 150, Moorhead 100, Fergus Falls 99, Detroit Lakes 59, and Thief River Falls 23.

Moorhead girls picked up 219 points, followed by Alexandria with 185 1/2, Bemidji 148 1/2, Detroit Lakes 139, Thief River Falls 102, Brainerd 73 1/2, and Fergus Falls 44 1/2.

Class AA and Class A boys and girls state track meet will be held June 5-6 at the National Sports Center in Blaine.

Golf Club reports a fourth hole-in-one of the season

It's been a remarkable spring at the Thief River Golf Club, where a hole-in-one has been recorded on four occasions in a 16-day span.

The aces include:

■ May 6 - Jeff Hendrickson, 206-yard No. 8 with a 2-wood.

■ May 17 - Stan Sjoberg, 167-yard No. 4 with a 7-iron.

■ May 21 - Bob Bendickson, 206-yard No. 8 with a 5-wood.

■ May 23 - Scott Gagner, 138-yard No. 15 with an 8-iron.

There were two hole-in-ones recorded at the course in all of 1997. Favorable spring weather that has produced a strong turnout of early-season golfers may have played a role in the unusually high number of aces, said Thief River Golf Club spokesman Curt Barber.

Wienen to coach Post 117

Thief River Falls American Legion baseball team will open its 1998 season when Post 117 hosts its seventh annual Thief River Falls Invitational June 5-7.

Red Lake Falls, East Grand Forks, Roseau, Park Rapids, Underwood, and Grafton will join Thief River Falls in the eight-team, single-elimination event that will also have a consolation bracket.

Mike Wienen will serve as Post 117 head coach this summer, with Bruce Elseth, Thief River Falls' head coach in 1997, working as an assistant.

Rick Ostby will coach the VFW 16-year-olds, while Terry Wiseth, John Ott, Scott Vedbraaten, and Steve Burslie work with the 13-15-year-olds.

Prowlers lose 5-2 No. 8AA baseball contest to Otters

Fergus Falls defeated Thief River Falls 5-2 Thursday in the opening round of the 1998 North Sub-Section 8AA high school baseball tournament.

The No. 7-seeded Prowlers played the second-seeded Otters to a scoreless tie for 4 1/2 innings, then after falling behind 3-0, chopped the difference to 3-2 in the top of the sixth on a two-run single by Andy Harbott that scored Derek Berg, who had reached base on an error, and Wade Chodo, who was hit by a pitch.

Fergus Falls, however, came back in the bottom of the inning with a home run by Andy Olson and an RBI single by Mike Erstad to clinch it.

"The kids played well," said Thief River Falls coach Brent Polum. "They played hard all the way to the end. It was back-and-forth. They (Otters) got a couple of key hits at the end. We never got the big hit when we needed it."

Thief River Falls finished the year 5-15.

Scoring/Innings

Fergus Falls	000	122	x-	5	5	1

Pitching - (TRF) Casey Skjerven 5-L, Andrew Solem 1; (FF) Mike Erstad 7-W.

Offensive highlights - (TRF) Andy Harbott, 2/3, 2 RBI, (FF) Andy Olson home run; Mike Erstad double.

FRANKLIN POOL

Franklin Middle School pool has reopened following its annual spring shut down for maintenance.

Projects completed this year included the installation of a new filter system and the addition of more lighting for the deep end of the pool.

Summer pool hours will begin June 4, with lessons starting June 8.

Registration for the swimming lessons will be held at the pool from 7 to 9 p.m. May 27-28 and June 1, 2 and 3. Following the start of the June 4 summer hours, swimming lessons registration will take place during any open swim time.

Pool hours until the start of the summer schedule will include lap swimming from 6 to 7:30 a.m. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and from 6 to 7 p.m. Tuesday, Friday; water aerobics from 6-7 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and open swimming from 7-9 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 1-5 p.m. Saturday, Sunday.

The pool will be closed Friday, May 29, for Lincoln High School graduation.

Prowler Basketball Camp sessions are slated for June 8-12

Registration material is available at each of the Thief River Falls schools for the 1998 Prowler Basketball Camp, scheduled to be held June 8-12.

The camp is designed for boys and girls who will be in grades 2-12 next year.

Sessions will be held at Lincoln High School for grades 5-12 and at Challenger Elementary School for grades 2-4.

Clinic schedule at Lincoln will include boys grades 10-12 from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m.; girls grades 10-12 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.; boys grades 5-7 from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.; girls grades 5-7 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.; girls grades 8-9 from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.; and boys grades 8-9 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

At Challenger, boys and girls will be on the court together – grades 2-3 from 8:30 to 10 a.m. and grade 4 from 10:30 a.m. to 12-noon.

Cost of the camp is $30 for grades 2-4, $40 for grades 5-9, and $50 for grades 10-12.

Camp directors will be Lincoln boys and girls basketball coaches Bob Johnson and Jeff Loe.

Skating Club clinic is June 22-28

Thief River Falls Skating Club will present a summer skating clinic June 22-26 at the Old Arena.

Early-morning sessions that will be offered during the Monday-through-Friday clinic include moves, 7:15-8 a.m.; dance, 8-8:45 a.m.; and freestyle, 8:45-9:30 a.m.

Other scheduled sessions:

■ Stroking (power skating), 9:30-10 a.m. Designed to build endurance and enhance edge quality. Limited to 15 skaters.

■ Precision line techniques, 10:15-11:15 a.m. A session for skaters interested in learning or improving the elements of precision team skating. Requirement: you must have passed USFA Basic 5.

■ Basic test program, 11:15 a.m. - 12-noon. Designed for levels 1-3.

■ Basic test program, 12-1 p.m. For levels 4-6, designed with a smaller teacher-to-student ratio, with testing offered Friday during scheduled time. Register for the level skated during the winter.

■ Junior Advanced, 1-2:15 p.m. For skaters who have passed USFSA Basic 6, or participated in the Junior Advanced program through Recreational Skating. A transition program for figure skaters who are interested in entering the individual level of competition skating.

■ Figure skating clinic, 2:30-5:30 p.m. Hosted by Bemidji Skating Club pro Kathy Halgrimson. The clinic will provide group lessons in edges, spin techniques, jump techniques, and style for all levels of competitive skating. You must have been involved in the Junior Advanced program for two years or skated with the club to take part in the clinic.

Skating organizers note that schedules may change due to enrollment in the various programs.

To register, or for additional information, call Jan Nelson at 681-7139 or Cindy Clow at 681-2182. Registration forms are also available at the Thief River Falls Parks & Recreation Department.

Class Motto
We love Him because He first loved us

As our final year comes to an end, we pause to reflect upon the many memories which have brought us tears and joy
We came to this place together to learn, to grow, to share
Time and space may separate us but wherever our pathways take us we'll always be the Class of 1998 from Our Saviour's Christian Academy
We invite you to share in our happiness at Commencement Exercises on Saturday, the ninth of May at two o'clock in the afternoon

Fish advisory encourages safe consumption

Every spring, Minnesota issues one of the most extensive Fish Consumption Advisories in the United States.

But Minnesota's highly detailed guidelines are not an indication that the state has unique or unusual problems with contaminants in fish officials say. The advisory — which now covers 743 lakes and 48 rivers — is intended to encourage fishing in Minnesota waters, by helping people consumer their catch safely.

"The purpose is not to discourage fishing, but quite the opposite," said Minnesota Health Commissioner Anne Barry. "Fish are a healthful, high-quality source of nutrition — high in protein and low in fat. We believe our advisory can help people enjoy catching and eating Minnesota fish, while minimizing any potential health risks associated with exposure to chemical contaminants like PCBs or mercury."

The size of the advisory is simply a reflection of the state's aggressive fish testing program, Commissioner Barry noted. New fishing sites are added every year because additional sites are constantly being tested — not because the state's waters are becoming more contaminated.

The 1998 edition of the advisory was just released by the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH), which has been issuing fish consumption guidelines for the state since 1975. Like past advisories, the new advisory offers advice on how often people can safely consume fish — based on the size and species of the fish, and where it was taken. The recommendations range from "No restriction" to "do not eat."

This year's advisory includes lake identification numbers developed by the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR), so anglers can find the recommendations for a particular lake more easily. The new advisory also specifies — for the first time — the actual contaminant levels on which the advisory recommendations are based. The most common contaminant is mercury, which enters lakes through atmospheric pollution.

For most people — and most of the sites listed in the advisory — contaminant levels found in the fish warrant only minimal restrictions on fish consumption. However, the guidelines are more stringent for people who may be especially sensitive to the health effects of contaminants in fish. These sensitive graups include pregnant women, women who may become pregnant, nursing mothers and young children.

Design changes in this year's advisory should make the guidelines easier to use for sensitive individuals, officials say. Recommendations for sensitive groups are now provided in the same way as advice for other groups. In previous editions, these more stringent recommendations were listed in a separate location.

MDH produces its fish consumption guidelines in collaboration with DNR and the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA). DNR has primary responsibility for collecting and analyzing fish samples. The testing is done with skin-on fillets — rather than whole fish — to provide a more realistic picture of potential contaminant exposure for people who eat the fish.

The state shares information about fish testing results with Wisconsin, so consistent recommendations can be developed for waters that border on both states.

Only locations where the fish have been tested for contaminants are listed in the advisory. The state's larger lakes and major rivers have all been tested — and all of the tested locations are included in the advisory, even if no significant contamination was found. Additional sites are sampled — and added to the advisory — every year.

However, the advisory also includes recommendations for minimizing any possible exposure to contaminants if your fishing site hasn't yet been tested. The advisory's "safe eating" tips include restricting your consumption to younger and smaller fish; eating fish less often if you do consumer fish that are more likely to be contaminated, and using proper techniques to clean and cook your fish.

MDH officials emphasized that testing is the only way to determine whether a fish may contain unsafe levels of contaminants. The color, appearance or other physical characteristics of the fish are not a reliable indicator of contamination.

To request a copy of the 1998 advisory call MDH at 612-215-0950 or 1-800-657-3908. Copies are also available in most state parks, and at DNR regional offices in Bemidji, Grand Rapids, Brainerd, New Ulm, Rochester and St. Paul. A summary of information from the advisory is provided in DNR lake survey reports, which can be ordered by calling DNR at 612-296-3325. The lake survey reports are also available online at: http://www.dnr.state.mn.us.

Cheryl Brule receives Jenkins' Scholarship

Cheryl Brule, Crookston, is the first recipient of the Kristen Jenkins' Memorial Scholarship.

Cheryl graduated winter quarter from the Licensed Practical Nursing Program at Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) in Thief River Falls. On receiving the scholarship, Cheryl said, "I am honored for being chosen for this award. Presently, I am applying for jobs in this area. Also, I want to spend some quality time with my five-year-old and three-and-a-half year old children. I want to look over all my options before I decide where to work, but I am anxious to develop my nursing career."

Kristen Jenkins died unexpectedly on July 23, 1997, at the age of 23. Kristen's immediate family include Mark and Kathi Jenkins and Kevin of Thief River Falls, Kara Jenkins of Roseville, grandparents Bernard and Virginia Wells and Beatrice Hutchinson all of Goodridge. Kristen graduated from Lincoln High School in 1992. She attended North Hennepin College, Moorhead State University and graduated from the Licensed Practical Nursing Program at NCTC. She worked as an LPN for Interim Nursing Service at Rosewood Estates in St. Paul and resided in Roseville.

In memory of Kristen, family and friends established a nursing scholarship through the Northland Community and Technical College Foundation. An annual scholarship will be given to an independent student of the Licensed Practical Nursing Program or the Registered Nursing Program that demonstrates to the nursing instructors that they have the ability to succeed in the nursing field.

Kathi Jenkins said, "Kristen was dedicated to her nursing career. After her death, some of her patients told us how much they will miss Kristen. They commented on how Kristen would stop and take time to listen to them. Kristen made them feel as if they were the most important thing on her mind."

Sylvia Jensen, one of Kristen's instructors at Northland stated that she, too, saw this caring attitude in Kristen. She said, "Kristen was a dedicated, good student that had a maturity about her. This gift showed in all areas of her life - as a waitress at the Best Western, with her fellow students, and with her patients."

Foundation Director, Gayle Gram said, "Establishing a scholarship is a fitting way to honor a loved one. The nursing program is one of the strongest programs of NCTC and one of the largest in northwestern Minnesota. Any help for students in this program is welcome."

Ag Secretary to visit EGF on June 8

United States Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman has agree to visit East Grand Forks on Monday, June 8, according to the Office of Congressman Collin C. Peterson. The purpose of the visit is to examine the farm crisis in the area and to look for solutions.

"I have been talking to the Secretary on a regular basis about the bleak future farmers in Northwest Minnesota are facing," Peterson said. "Five years of bad weather and disease have left the region on the edge of economic disaster.

"I believe this visit demonstrates the willingness of the Administration to work with famers, lenders and communities in our region and to help us find solutions to these severe problems." Peterson said. "The Secretary has implemented some positive changes in USDA policy and suggested others. He also indicated to me he is interested in hearing first-hand from farmers and residents of the 7th District and would like their advice on future actions needed to respond to this continuous problem."

Rep. Tunheim explains application process for farmers in crisis counties

The recently passed legislation providing relief to farmers in northwestern Minnesota's crisis counties is generating a number of questions about application to the pragram, according to the bill's author State Representative Jim Tunheim.

Application forms for the program are currently in the process of being developed by the Department of Agriculture. Final rules on several issues need to be resolved before the forms can be mailed. The Department plans to have the application forms mailed to local insurance agents by June 1, 1998. Forms will not be sent to individual farmers, but farmers can contact their agents after June 1. Most insurance agents will have copies of the necessary documents needed to qualify for the pragram.

"Our hope is to make this process as simple as possible for the farmers," Rep. Tunheim said. "We are grateful that agents have generally been very willing to supply the data necessary and work with the farmer to have the applications completed properly."

The "crisis counties" are Beltrami, Clay, Clearwater, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Lincoln, Lyon, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Pipestone, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau, and Wilkin counties. To be eligible for state assistance, farmers must:

- Be a resident of Minnesota;
- Operate a farm located in one of the "crisis counties."
- Have experienced a 50 percent or greater loss from the United States Department of Agriculture, Farm Services Agency, county yield or collected an indemnity or disaster payment on wheat or barley in one or more grawing seasons between 1993 and 1997;
- Submit a properly completed application for assistance to the Commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Agriculture on or before August 1, 1998.

New Arrival

Frances Schiefert had the glad news of her first great-grandchild, Ashley Marie, born on May 6 to Don and LaNette Osbjornson of Glyndon. Grandparents are John and Leona Konickson of Plummer and Sandy and Glen Osbjornson of rural Oklee.

Marian Vatthauer visited her friend Naomi Lindquist on Thursday in Thief River Falls. Later Della Rewertz and Ruth Wilkens and Art and Avis Froiland were visitors at her home.

WELCA Mother/Daughter Tea

The Women of Immanuel held their annual Mother-Daughter Tea on Thursday evening at the church. A short business meeting was held prior to the evening's program. The ladies had been asked to bring dolls and Deb DuChamp began with a little history of doll-making. They go back many centuries. A few names were drawn to tell stories about their dolls. Wilma Arit had a Shirley Temple doll from 1936. Amelia Eskell showed a Barbie doll dressed in material from her own wedding dress; Gerda Koskela showed a special doll given her by her daughters; Helen LaFayette had a man woman pair that had been made by the Late Lucille Meyer and Cathy Zimpel had a doll that had belonged to Great-Aunt, Ida, who died recently at age 92. The doll had come from Germany many years ago. Esther Walter showed a doll all decked out in sewing accessories and Molly Hagen's name was drawn to represent the young folks. She, too, had a very nice doll. Connie Hagen had a reading entitles "A Broken Doll" and then Deb introduced a trio from Middle River called "Straight From the Heart." They entertained us with a variety of songs with harmony to thrill our hearts. Following this Gerda Koskela presented our President Lucille Kvasager with an appreciation gift for her generous service. Drawing for door prizes gave gifts to Alysa Krueger, Sheena Lee, Abigail Gerardy, Gloria Fossum, Paula Colar, Lois Peterson, Hazel Ollie and Esther Walter. A beautiful lunch was served to close the evening by Hannah Circle.

John and Shirley Haglund of Baudette visited her mother, Clara Hesse on Saturday.

Frances Schiefert joined her daughter Sandy and Glen Osbjornson for an early Mother's Day supper on Saturday night.

At Immanuel's Sunday service the recent Confirmands were honored by the Aid Association for Lutherans. President Don Hagen presented Alisha Larson, Stephanie Borberich, Emily Hagen and Todd Willett with gifts and at the close of the service cake and ice cream were served at the regular coffee hour. Philip Zimpel was unable to attend.

Graduation

Rick and Arlene Froiland, accompanied by Art and Avis Froiland, drove to Grand Forks on Sunday to attend the graduation of son-in-law, Ben Carpenter from UND. They were luncheon guests of Ben and Jerilee before going to the ceremony. Others attending were Shanon Nelson of Lakota, Kerry Nowland of Thief River Falls and Ginger Froiland of Grand Forks. Congratulations, Ben, on your Bachelor of Science in athletic training.

Baptism

The rite of Holy Baptism for Wyatt August Waldal, son of John and Lori Waldal was held on Sunday, May 10 at Immanuel Lutheran Church with Pastor Clarence Johnson officiating. His sponsors were Paul and Kathy Waldal of Red Lake Falls and Pam and Robert O'Neill of Oklee. Wyatt was born on March 19 at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls. A dinner was held at his parents' home for the sponsors, grandparents, Lynn and Don Shaffer of Sioux Falls, SD and Howard LaFayette of Plummer, sisters, Shawna and Brittany and cousins, Tara Waldal and Susie O'Neill.

Hazel Ollie spent Mother's Day with her daughter Sharon Iverson of rural Thief River Falls.

Karen, Lowell and Nick Johnson of New York Mills met her mother, Amelia Eskell of Brooks for Mother's Day dinner. Eddy Eskell was there too.

Barry and Deb Rewertz treated Della Rewertz to a Mother's Day dinner and later visited at her home. Other visitors were Terry and Heidi Rewertz and Gladys Rosten.

Mother's Day dinner and afternoon guests at the Byer home were Eldon, Karen and Karl Vigstol, Ray and Shirley Vigstol and Jeff, Amber and Nicky Vigstol of Thief River Falls.

Birthday for Esther

The milestone of 60 years came up on Sunday for Esther Walter. When the congregation of Immanuel sang Happy Birthday to her, she said she'd never had so many greetings! Then, son, Roger and Janet and family treated her to dinner and were joined by Pearl Laniel and Ann Hince. In the evening she was the honored guest at another party at Hendy Farms. Attending were Roy and Reinette Walter, Monica and Walter Novak of Brooks, Leonard Novak and Cindy and Walter Novak Jr. and children. Congratulations, Esther!

Don and Glenyce Harrington and Lorene Westerlund attended church in Thief River Falls on Sunday morning and afterward Lorene was a dinner guest of the Harringtons.

Mother's Day dinner guests of Edna Hyde were sons, Roger and Dennis. Coffee guests were Eleanor Hodgson, Amelia Eskell and Carol and Duane Boucher.

Jim and Vic Schiefert treated their mother, Frances to a Mother's Day breakfast on Sunday.

Clara Hesse and Lawrence Waldal were Sunday supper guests of Florence and Henry Tvedt.

Edna Hyde invited Esther Walter, Bunny DuChamp and Amelia Eskell for a belated birthday dinner for Esther Walter.

The weather in northwest Minnesota is nearly perfect. We got a shower or two on Friday evening and early Saturday morning, but not more than that Roy gave the lawns at home and the church yard a nice haircut.

We heard a flock of geese fly overhead on Saturday and don't you suppose that the next day the first humming birds were back here at the feeder. We've been wondering about those "little hitchhikers" if they remember to jump off with the geese at the same places and do the same - geese follow the railroad or the interstate each year ?

Paul Anderson visited awhile on Thursday evening at Morris and Hazel Anderson's. On Friday he took Amtrak from Grand Forks to St. Paul and went to Rochester to be with his wife and son, Kristopher who is taking treatments there. Things are looking good for Kris and we all wish him a full recovery.

Marie, Steffen, Judy and Lois Kleinvachter, Kelly Lofrooth, Kaye and Roberta Turnwall enjoyed noon lunch at the Ramada Inn in Grand Forks on Sunday.

Lois Lindstrom visited Elsie Lofrooth on Thursday to have Elsie translate the Easter greetings she had received from Sweden. If I remember correctly some words straight across can send out a funny meaning and hope Elsie didn't read in some funny joke. You know Ole and Lena were Swedes.

Isaac and Betty Thompson entertained Peter and Pearl Thompson on Friday evening.

Lindsey Berg was an overnight guest of Kristin Kleinvachter on Friday. She also accompanied Lois and Kristin to Winnipeg on Saturday.

On Thursday Shirley Lofrooth and her cousin Ron Nelson visited Elsie Lofrooth. Ron Nelson is an accomplished musician and has given concerts both in the states and abroad.

Judy Kleinvachter visited Elmer Holmstrom and Evelyn Albaugh on Tuesday. Kelly Lofrooth, June Kasprowicz and Pat Larson visited Judy on Wednesday.

On Wednesday Roy, Hazel and I did some real gardening at Elsie's. We transplanted and planted all day and we are now waiting to see the fruits of our labors. About 175 new dahlia plants just received from Montana should be showing off their lovely blooms all summer. I can hardly wait.

Students Write Winning Essays On Wetlands

Theme of the essay contest for the Minnesota Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts this year was "Wetland Riches." There were three winners in each of three divisions sponsored by the Pennington County SWCD. We are pleased to publish the first place essays in two of the three divisions as our guest editorials for today. The first place senior division essay will be published in the June 3 issue of The Times.

WETLAND RICHES

by Ashley Stavnes, Grade 6
Goodridge Public School
First Place in the Elementary Division

Wetlands are found in every continent except Antarctica. A wetland is an area with characteristics of both dry land and bodies of water. They usually are found in low-lying areas.

Wetlands can be put into three general categories: marshes, swamps and peatlands. Within each of these categories wetlands can be widely varied. Marshes are periodically or continually flooded wetlands characterized by nonwoody plants that are adapted to living in shallow water or in very moist soil. Swamps are covered with trees or shrubs and occur in a variety of flooding conditions. Standing water can be present in swamps during all or just a small portion of the year. In peatlands, plants are made more quickly than they can decay, and partially decomposed plant material, called peat, builds up. Peat provides an organic soil that influences plant growth.

In a wetland there are many types of plants. For example there are water lilies, cattails, mosses, some types of trees, bushes and many grasses. The varied plant species in a wetland provide a home for varied animal communities such as reptiles including turtles, snakes and alligators; amphibians such as frogs, salamanders and toads; and mammals like muskrats, mink, raccoons and beavers.

A large number of fish also rely on wetlands. They need them for spawning, feeding and protection from predators. Even birds, mostly waterfowl, are attracted to wetlands. They are attracted by food abundance and the good sites for nesting, resting and feeding.

Inland wetlands help control floods by storing water and slowly letting it go downstream after major flooding. They also reduce water movement, lessening erosion, causing sediments to settle out of the water, improving the quality of the water. Inland wetlands also provide recreational activities such as hunting, fishing, trapping, birdwatching and hiking. They even provide educational opportunities such as natural and scientific research. Some North American wetlands are of archaeological use because Native American settlements were located near them.

Since the 1700s more than half of the wetlands in the United States, not including Alaska, have been lost. About 35 percent were gone by the 1800s. Although wetlands are still being lost, the rate of loss has decreased. Inland wetlands are now getting better protection, but forested wetlands are receiving more damage. Wetland losses have resulted in greater flooding and erosion, reduced water quality and reduced the population of many plants and animals.

Acts were passed to preserve and protect wetlands. Public and private programs were developed to restore wetlands and wetland losses began to decrease.

In 1988 the National Wetlands Policy recommended a program of "no net loss of wetlands," which meant that if something was developed on a wetland, destroying the wetland, a new wetland would be created in a new area."

HOW WETLANDS HELP OUR ENVIRONMENT

by David Eaton, Grade 8
Our Saviour's Christian Academy
First Place in the Junior Division

How do wetlands help our environment? Minnesota does not just have water from its lakes but has three times as much water from wetlands. Minnesota is second in wetland acreage. We are right behind Alaska.

Since there are so many areas of much wetlands in our state, we need to see how they help us. Wetlands help all sorts of animals and even us. It has both of our most important resources: water and land. Wetlands provide for a lot of opportunities for recreation such as hunting, fishing, hiking, walking and boating.

For hunting, wetlands provide food and shelter for birds and over 300 million dollars are spent on hides and furs that come from wetlands. For fishing, wetlands hold most of the fish we eat. For boating, you find some areas for canoeists and kayakers.

Besides recreation, wetlands can help with things like floods. They help because the ground soaks up the water and then releases it slowly. They also can help control erosion. They help buff shorelines so it protects. Also they protect because roots of plants bind up the ground so it protects against waves crashing.

Wetlands help purify water by putting minerals inside and and help filter out impurities. Most of the time wetlands have been thought of as wastelands. A lot of wetlands have been made into dumps.

About 50% of America's wetlands have been used for other things. That's about 100 million acres. Now we are starting to see that wetlands are very valuable. We now are starting to protect them. We need to protect the riches of wetlands.

Although there are a lot of good things about wetlands there are some bad things, too. The biggest thing is the farmers reaction to wetlands. You see, some farmers hate wetlands because they can't farm on them. Farmers would like to change the wetlands so they can farm on them and do what they want with the land. But other people would like to save the wetlands and preserve their riches. So there is a conflict.

There are a lot of good and some bad. I like wetlands because of all the fishing and recreational things. But still people think that wetlands are bad for urban development and are areas for mosquitoes, flies and unpleasant odors. Developments and agriculture contributed to the destruction of Minnesota wetlands. Because of people hating wetlands, we have lost a lot of resources. Now people are starting to see wetlands differently. Now they see that wetlands are full of natural resources and should be preserved.

So both sides of the story have been told and really I feel both sides are right in some aspects. The farmers feel that it is their land and they should be able to do what they want with it. Others feel wetlands should be preserved.

What do you think?

Gully

Alme Solien of Fosston spent Mother's Day weekend at the Dave and Sandie Graff home in Gully. Delores Ringstad spent the week in Gully where she was one of the hostesses for the Lund Ladies Aid on Wednesday. She also spent some time with Dave and Sandie Graff.

Larry Solien is home from Colorado to spend a few days with his mother, Mildred Solien and to visit family and friends in the area.

A teen dance was held at the Community Center in Gully on Friday evening. The weather was not good and late advertising brought a poor attendance, but those attending reported a "fun time." Plans are in the making for another teen dance on May 29, at the Community Center.

Some of us had a fun day on Monday afternoon. We went out to the Kenneth and Alice Forsberg home to help Alice celebrate her birthday. Alice helped us celebrate instead of her celebrating. She had baked a nice cake and cookies and served a big lunch for us. Alice must have a "green thumb." Many of her flowers in her designed flower beds were already in full bloom and so pretty, even double white tulips. Alice set a long table all decorated and we felt like "queens." Those that were there on Monday afternoon were Margit Moden, Cathy Songer, Luverna Foro, Mary Berg, Grace Nyland, Vivian Rikje and Sonna Brovold.

Linda and Ed Turenne visited her mother, Effie Handy on Monday afternoon.

We hear of so many tragic and sad incidents on the air and we wonder what is happening to our people. When I was a patient at the hospital in Thief River Falls last Thursday, I saw the opposite and found a good answer. When I felt it was a bit cool the nurse, RN Pearson brought me a cozy warm blanket and she also brought a cap. The cap had been made by the young girls who were members of a 4-H club. The girls had made and donated caps to the hospital for them to give to us patients who felt chilly. If the girls' concern for others continue into their adult life and if there are enough of them, we need not worry about the future of our world.

Students from the Clearbrook-Gonvick School who made the trip with their teacher, Mrs. Dickey to Germany have returned and report a very interesting trip. Nine students studying German made the trip. The students were invited through an exchange program. Kelsey Flatland was one of those students and was host to one of the German students while they were at the Clearbrook-Gonvick School. The C-G students were invited to Germany. Twenty-four students were invited to Germany last fall and Daniel Schulze lived with Duane and Kay Erickson at their home. While the students were abroad, Kelsey stayed with his family. They had a chance to see many things quite different from here. They attended classes over there, toured the city of Berlin, saw a castle, a concentration camp, a boat tour, shopped at stores and many many more things. Kelsey says it's interesting to compare Germany and America, so very different.

Soil Conserving District Project Makes Progress

"A soil conserving hearing was held Friday in the Civic and Commerce room in the auditorium with Herb A. Flueck, state conservationist of the soil conservation service conducting the hearing. The next step in the procedure calls for a referendum on the soil conservation district to be held Friday, June 11."

Mercury Hits High Of 91 Wednesday Afternoon

"Midsummer temperatures prevailed in this locality Wednesday when a high reading of 91 was recorded by Station KTRF. The low mark for the week was 36, recorded Monday morning. Showers last Friday and Saturday brought a total of .34 inch of precipitation. Otherwise conditions have been ideal for spring seeding operations."

From The Editorial Page

"The biggest offender in maintaining an unsanitary nuisance in the city of Thief River Falls is the City of Thief River Falls itself. That is the verdict of Dr. Mellby and a dozen other citizens, including several aldermen, who inspected the city dump and the roads leading to it during this past week. The condition that exists in and around the city's rat hatchery is a disgrace. Steps are being taken to correct the unsightly. The unsanitary will be with us longer. Let's not permit it to continue any longer than is necessary."

Local Exchange Of Bell Company Being Expanded

"Switchboard facilities in the Thief River Falls exchange of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company are being substantially enlarged as part of an improvement program in this community that will involve the expenditure of approximately $225,000 during the current year, A. J. Rau, local manager, stated this week.

"The present project in the central office was started April 1 and is scheduled to be completed July 3 by a crew of twelve workers from the Western Electric company under the direction of D. J. Clark of Minneapolis.

"Three additional switchboard positions are being installed, providing for 320 additional numbers, in addition to which 14 more long distance circuits are being added, including four to Minneapolis and the remainder to towns in this section of the state.

"The new facilities, Mr. Rau stated, will care for switchboard needs for the immediate future. The exchange is now handling about 13,000 local calls each day, while the number of long distance calls has increased from a daily average of 400 in 1947 to 600 this year. There are at present 26 operators on duty and this number will be increased to 30 before the end of the current year."

Lions Club Views Movies Of Submarine Warfare

"Two U.S. Navy recruiters were present Wednesday noon at the Lions club luncheon meeting in the Rex cafe and presented talking motion pictures dealing with the exploits of the submarine service in its campaign against the Japanese navy and merchant marine in World War II."

Union Prayer Service Next Wednesday Night

"A union praise and prayer service is slated for next Wednesday night, May 26, at 8 o'clock, at the First Baptist church, arranged by the Union Gospel Tent Mission, according to Rev. L. W. Lindholm, committee chairman."

Editorial comments from the files of Norm A. Holen

—It's cheering to learn that General Eisenhower won't have to get along on the $25,000-a-year salary he is to get from Columbia University. In addition, we read, he will draw down $15,751 a year in army retirement pay.

—In a recent three-week period there were 33 traffic deaths in Minnesota. It doesn't seem to be necessary.

—A beauty shop has been defined as a place where men are rare and women are well-done.

—If Mayor Humphrey of Minneapolis should be promoted to the U.S. Senate, he would leave behind him a lot of unfinished chores in his home town.

—We are advised to write news stories that resemble a girl's bathing suit: long enough to cover the subject or brief enough to be interesting.

—Clipped movie ad: "Mother Wore Tights - also selected shorts."

—Funny thing: Nations spend billions for defense in peacetime, but nothing for war.

—Remember way back forty years ago when local school programs were staged in the Evenson hall where the Penney store now stands. [Note: This was on the southeast corner of Third and Main.]

—Television offers one unsolved problem. How are the ladies going to keep their eyes on the screen at the same time they are washing the dishes?

—Times change. The city of Montevideo built a city hall in 1894 at a cost of $17,000 and now proposes to remodel it at an expense of about $77,000.

Decoration Day

"Next Monday will be Decoration Day and the only thing that can mar the celebration in this city will be inclement weather. A large crowd is expected here from outside points and a good programme is guaranteed. Everyone should lay aside business this year and help the old soldiers celebrate the day.

"The following is the programme to be rendered:

Music by the Band
Prayer by Rev. U. M. Creath
Song, 'A Crown for the Living and a Wreath for Dead' by Central School Students
Oration, Hon. R. J. Montague
Song, 'Decoration Song' by Knox School Students
Oration, Rev. R. N. McKaig
Quartet, 'A Vision of Memories'
Recitation, 'Lincoln's Gettysburg Speech' by Wayne Richardson
Song, 'Comrades Rest' by Knox School Students
Recitation, 'Soldier's Rest' by Lizzie Brown

"In case of storm the above programme will be carried out in Hanne's Hall."

"Wheat 139 cents today.

"Rapp & Post have a man that does all kinds of tin work.

"One week after this of school and then the summer vacation will begin.

"Track laying on the new spur into the mill yards commenced the first of this week.

"As many as three families are living in a single house and the house not very large at that.

"A. D. Berry of Norwood was here yesterday looking over a site with an eye to putting in a grist mill.

"Houses are being built right along and still not a vacant one in town, and has not been for over two years.

"The water in the river fell two feet last Friday caused by a jam of logs in the river above Thief River Falls.

"The mill started up again Monday with a full double crew. The saws will be taxed to their utmost until the season closes.

"The few showers that fell last week did an untold amount of good to the growing crops. They never looked better at this time of year.

"The St. Hilaire Lumber company has men at work building a dry shed 60 x 160 near their planing mill. When completed it will hold one million feet of lumber.

"A special train was run up here Saturday evening carrying the eight ton pulley which caused the mill to be shut down for over a week on account of the old one breaking.

"The calf that was found in a swamp in Wisconsin by an old hunter, having 'two heads, three eyes, two ears, six legs, two tails and one body, with skin like that of an elephant' is on exhibit at St. Hilaire at 10 cents per look. We did not see it.

"About twenty-five teams came in from Red Lake Falls township this morning after lumber for John Sutor who will build a large house and barn. They will take out with them fifty thousand feet which is the largest bill of lumber ever sold to one farmer at one time in this county."

Second BaseBall Game

"The St. Hilaire ball team and about forty of the local fans went down to Red Lake Falls last Sunday over the worst roads of the season. Red Lake Falls has a good nine but they are not yet good enough to win a game from the St. Hilaire boys who are playing better ball every day. There is however still room for a whole lot of improvement. The teams lined up as follows:

Red Lake Falls	St. Hilaire
Lambert, 2nd b.	Warner, p.
Lachapelle, 3rd b.	Larson, 1st b.
Poulit, 1st b.	Ruck, 2nd b.
Vasseau, ss.	Stronahan, c.
Morin, cf.	Clark, rf.
Lemieux, lf.	Mousseau, 3rd b.
LaFranier, rf.	Toutons, lf.
Miller, c.	Hoff, cf.
Cocred, p.	Mattes, ss.

The score was Red Lake Falls 19, St. Hilaire 28.

The boys all speak the highest of praise of their treatment by the people of Red Lake Falls. Everything was done for their comfort even to furnishing a box of cigars to smoke coming home.

Notes:

Stranahan is doing better behind the bat.

Larson didn't cut any corners but did some pretty sliding for bases.

Thief River Falls next Sunday and the boys say they are going up there to win.

Clark made a home run and Ruck hit the ball hard enough but stopped on third to draw his salary.

If one of those hot fouls had struck Mayor Lemieux's new silk hat there might have been trouble.

Our boys let the home team have seven runs in the first inning but they could not reach first in the ninth which goes to show they are good stayers.

Warner is pitching a good game of ball this spring and is getting harder to hit every day. He is good for the whole nine innings any time. He struck out eleven men."

Card of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS

A big thank you to my dear husband, Marv and our families and other friends for all your prayers, visits, flowers, cards and phone calls while I was at Altru Hospital. Special thanks to the First Baptist Church for all the meals brought each day to us after I returned home. Thank you Pastor Ron and Diane Oullman. Thanks to the Lord I'm home again and doing well. May God bless you all. Proverbs 3:24.

Bunny DuChamp returned home on Wednesday after spending seven days in Florida with her daughter, Jana and Mark Granum of Miami and Candy and Dan Stanley in Bradenton. She got acquainted with her newest grandchild, Jessa Daniel Stanley. While there she had the opportunity to see the Titanic Exhibition at St. Petersburg. It was interesting to see all the artifacts retrieved from this sunken ship.

Jana and Mark Granum, Tim and Sam of Minneapolis and Cathy Samuelson and Brady came on Sunday and they all returned to their homes on Monday.

Lloyd and Wavell Sorenson, Karl and Rita Sorenson and family were among the many who gathered last Saturday to celebrate the birthday of three-year-old Nathan Magnell, son of Dennis and Danielle Magnell of Cross Lake.

Wavell Sorenson visited with Bernice Klenk of Middle River and attended her auction sale.

A potluck Mother's Day dinner was served at the Lee and Carole Johnson farm near St. Hilaire. Attending besides Carole and Lee were Camilla DuChamp, Charlene and Rodney Myhre, Shane and Sabrina of Bemidji and Steve Kleely of Thief River Falls, Wayne and Deb Veitleson of Trail, Marci DuChamp of Grand Forks, Kevin and Cathy Samuelson and Brady of Sarles, ND, Jana Granum and Sam of Minneapolis and Deb and Bunny DuChamp.

Goodwin and Lucille Kvasegar spent Mother's Day with daughter Janet and Charles Hebert of Excelsior. Katie, the oldest of their two daughters celebrated her eleventh birthday while they were there.

Correction: The name of Avis Sorenson should have been included in last week's story of Todd Willett's Confirmation dinner.

Correction: The name of Kathy Juneau should have been included with the ladies who attended Alma Hansen's birthday party at Karen's Kitchen.

Summer days are here and with them comes a wish that all of you will have a safe and happy summer!

Birthdays

Mark and Sue Lee hosted a birthday party for two of their daughters. Kayse, whose birthday was on April 21, turned eight and Courtney turned one-year-old on April 28. The party was held on April 26 at their farm home near Plummer. Grandparents George and Dorothy Lee of Oklee and Robert and Shirley Olson of Middle River together with aunts, uncles and cousins of the girls came to enjoy cake and ice cream. They also brought gifts for which the girls and their parents say a big Thank You!

Guests of Fern Eskeli for two days over Mother's Day weekend were son, Randy and wife, Diana Eskeli of Elk Grove Village, IL.

"Jetster" rounds the second barrel in a practice run for Rosie Shaver at the Shaver's riding arena southeast of Brooks. Rosie is in her second year of professional barrel racing competition and has found a fast and responsive partner in this spirited bay gelding.

City Council hears complaints from motel operators in TRF

Several local motel and hotel operators are upset that pipe line workers are staying at Campus Courts apartments. They say they can't compete with a subsidized apartment complex like Campus Courts. Further they were under the impression that the City was promoting Campus Courts over local hotels and motels to the 400 or more pipe line workers in the area.

Ken Berg, and representatives of the Best Western, T-59 motel, and Super 8 in Thief River Falls went to the council meeting with Julie Olson of the Convention and Visitor's Bureau expecting to confront the council.

Travis Jensen of T-59 Motel said all they want is a chance to compete.

City Attorney Paul Ihle explained that the city cannot control what happens at Campus Courts, because the city does not own the apartment complex. It is owned by a quasi-governmental agency called Multi-County HRA and managed by NETA Properties. The city, he said, can no more dictate what happens out there than it can at the Best Western.

Campus Courts, as with all multi-housing units built in the past 27 years in Thief River Falls, was built with some form of government assistance. Ihle explained that the city spent a considerable sum of money trying to attract private investors, but taxes are such that no one is interested in building apartments. In the case of Campus Courts, Multi-County HRA does not pay any taxes on the property.

Frank Hamerlinck, council representative on the board of directors for the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, said there must be some mistake because the city is not promoting Campus Courts over local hotels and motels.

Motel and hotel operators also expressed concern that Campus Courts is not collecting a lodging tax. Motel and hotel operators in Thief River Falls are required to collect a three percent lodging tax which amounts to about $55,000 each year. The Convention and Visitor's bureau retains about 95 percent of that tax to promote tourism in Thief River Falls.

Ihle explained that the tax does not have to be collected when the renter is staying for over 30 days. That applies to motels and hotels, as well. Some of the motels and hotels have been taking advantage of that, but not everyone.

Don Stewart, community development director, explained that there's nothing to prevent Campus Courts from providing short-term summer lodging. He said they were made aware of the tax last year, and he expects them to pay the tax this year. He didn't think they paid the tax last year.

Mayor Mark Borsheim said he hoped they had answered some of their questions and would work on ways of preventing similar situations from occurring in the future.

The matter was referred to the Administrative Services committee.

Separating Garbage

Residents of Thief River Falls may soon be asked to separate their garbage. Ron Lindberg, public works director, explained that he had been approached by representatives of SwisPennCo about separating paper and cardboard from the city's garbage stream. He said it was suggested that a yellow garbage bag be distributed along with the city's black garbage bags to assist in separating garbage, but the request came too late for the city to react.

Rosie Shaver of Erskine fulfills barrel racing passion

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Life has changed more than a little for Rosie (Homme) Shaver in the past few years. She became a breeder of Homozygous horses, lost more than 100 pounds, and began living her lifelong dream of becoming a professional barrel racer.

For the uninitiated, barrel racing is a horse riding event where the horse and rider enter the arena at full gallop, circle three barrels in a prescribed pattern and exit at full gallop. The entrant who completes the event in the shortest time takes home first place money and the difference between finishing in or out of the money is often a matter of hundredths of a second.

Often one of a half dozen events at rodeos, barrel racing is a demanding sport which requires a good deal of skill and a big dose of daring as well as a fast horse and a willingness to travel. Rosie, a grandmother who is pushing the half century mark pretty hard, has all the requisites—plus an iron will to reach the eventual goal of qualifying for the National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas, NV.

Baptism By Fire

Once Rosie decided to fulfill her dream she didn't waste any time to get her baptism by fire. She bought "Coal Thunder," a four-year-old registered quarter horse that she calls "Jetster," out of Missouri where the bay gelding had started racing in barrel futurity classes. She joined the National Barrel Horse Association and started to ride competitively last year.

"For the first month I flopped around like a wet rag," she says about her riding ability. "I hadn't ridden much for the previous year and I didn't realize how out of shape I was. But I ran three events and earned enough points to qualify for the NBHA Minnesota Finals in Anoka."

Early Racing Success

She also received her card from the Minnesota Rodeo Association in 1997 and this year joined the Eastern Can Chasers Association, a group which races each week for eight weeks indoors at the Winter Shows building at Valley City, ND. She won the first race at Valley City in 15 seconds flat and the last race with a personal best of 14.30 seconds—an unbelievable half a second over the second place finisher. She made seven of the eight races and finished in third place overall for the season among 28 riders, earning an attractive horse blanket designating her third place finish.

This year she has already qualified for the NBHA Minnesota Finals at Kasson on July 11 and is working on qualifying for the Minnesota Rodeo Association Finals in Elk River on September 12-13. She has also earned enough points to qualify for the World Championships of the NBHA in Augusta, GA, November 2-7 where 2,500 racers will compete, and expects to be among the competitors.

Rosie also has a second barrel horse, a paint mare named "Shay D Bull" that she calls "Ritzy." She traded colts from her farm for the four-year-old mare that she had borrowed from a friend to run her first professional barrels race.

Taking Racing Seriously

Proof that she is serious about her sport and her ambitions, she boarded the two barrel horses at Moorhead from January to mid-March this year, driving to Moorhead three days a week to exercise the horses in the 70x100 arena at the boarding facility.

She has also tired of sleeping on the floor of the cattle trailer used to haul her horses to races and purchased a two-horse trailer with living quarters, including a shower. The road to Las Vegas is a long one, covering thousands of miles to make enough PRCA rodeos to qualify as one of the top 15 riders in the world. To Rosie it is worth the effort to continue chasing her dream.

Before that, however, she has this year's Minnesota Rodeo Association rodeos to cover. She will go to Grand Rapids June 6 and 7, then to Warroad and Hawley on June 13 and 14. Then it's on to International Falls, Brainerd, Baudette, Gonvick, Rochester, Long Prairie, Walker, Motley, Duluth and Garden City with other competition at Minot, ND, Watertown and Gary, SD, and Amery, WI.

"The butterflies never go away," Rosie said about her preparation for each race. "I usually like to go off

Leslie Swanson

Leslie Swanson in Miss TRF Pageant

(This is the second in a series of articles about candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the official Miss America Preliminary Scholarship Pageant to be conducted at the Lincoln high school auditorium at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, June 27. Other candidates will be featured in succeeding issues of The Times and Northern Watch.)

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

If there is a place and a reason to have a song sung, Leslie Swanson has probably been there and done that. She has sung in school, in her church, in Carnegie Hall and St. Patrick's Cathedral, for weddings and for other events where music was needed.

The daughter of Curtis and Marilyn Swanson rural Thief River Falls, 18-year-old Leslie graduated from Lincoln high school last Friday. Her dad is a grain and row crop farmer and her mother is a benefits secretary at Arctic Cat, Inc. She has one sister, Lisa, 20, who was Miss Thief River Falls 1996 and is completing her sophomore year at Jamestown College in North Dakota, and a younger brother Jon, 14.

Leslie's talent presentation will be a vocal solo, but she hasn't yet decided what the song or the type of music will be. She has taken lessons from two different voice teachers over the past six or seven years. "I think it is good to have a variety in teachers," she said. "You can benefit from different viewpoints and areas of expertise."

While singing in the school choirs and as a soloist at Lincoln, Leslie has not been a single-dimension student. She is a member of Project-4-Teens, participated in cross country and softball, and earned good grades. She was selected as most valuable singer in the choir, was in the cast of the musical Guys and Dolls and was enrolled in the Northern Expressions School of the Arts, the magnet arts program at Lincoln. In the latter program she worked with composers from Minneapolis in both music composition and performance.

Leslie has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students and was selected for the 1997-98 All-State Women's Choir. She plans to major in music education and minor in psychology in college this fall. Her goal is a career in music therapy.

For the past two and a half years she has worked at Dee's Kitchen. She has also been a Bible school teacher at Black River Lutheran church near her home west of St. Hilaire.

Leslie said her focus if crowned Miss Thief River Falls would be on encouraging young people to remain in school by "finding at least one thing they could be good at that will motivate them and teach the self-discipline needed to want to stay in school."

163 graduate in LHS ceremony

A total of 163 students graduated from Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls during ceremonies last Friday evening at Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

All four student speakers, Wendy Sue Tomsich, Rebecca Leigh Mooney, Michael Anthony Johnson, and Abbegail Janette Northup, touched upon Shakespeare's Hamlet to give graduates and their families inspiration and direction.

There has been considerable discussion about the subject, and council representatives have suggested implementing a pilot project for a single ward.

Lindberg said SwisPennCo is making the request because they now believe they have a market for paper and cardboard.

Roof Repair

The city council has accepted the low bid for roof repair on the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. Madelyn Vigen, Parks and Recreation director, said she was very pleased that the low bid from Hjelle Roofing, was about $40,000 under the engineer's estimate. The council accepted the low bid plus several alternates placing the cost of the project at $198,855. An additional $1,150 for an additional five years of warranty may be added to the project cost.

Street Project

The council accepted the low bid of Thorson Inc., in the amount of $376,936.30 for the 1998 Street, Sidewalk and Utilities Improvement Project. The bid was about $30,000 under the engineer's estimate.

New Home for Council

The council approved a motion Tuesday night changing the location of its future meetings. As of June 9, regular city council meetings and committee meetings that have been held at the city auditorium, will be held at the recently renovated depot.

Dedications

Dedication of the Depot is expected to take place on Friday, August 21, which coincidentally, will be the 85th anniversary of the original groundbreaking for that building. Activities for the event are still in the planning stages.

Another dedication is also being planned. Dedication of the Hartz Park walking bridge will take place on July 14. The council is also considering whether to hold a city council meeting in the park following the dedication. If the council does hold a meeting in the park after the dedication, third ward residents will receive a special invitation to attend.

Meetings on Jail

It was announced at the council meeting that the county board is planning to hold two public meetings on the proposed expansion of the Pennington County Jail into the American Legion building. The meetings have been tentatively scheduled for 7 p.m. June 23 and July 1 at the Heritage Community Center.

Violence In Schools

Concern about violence in the schools has spread to Thief River Falls. Police Chief Ken Froschheiser said he plans to sit down with local school district officials and develop a plan to address the potential of any violent situations that occur in the schools. He explained later that plans would involve reviewing possible scenarios and coming up with a plan of action, looking at what is in place now, the reporting procedures and identifying risks.

Variance requests

A variance request by Jeff Brouse, 703 Atlantic Avenue North, was approved. Brouse was requesting a variance to demolish a house on the lot and construct an office, shop, storage addition onto the east end of the existing shop building.

A variance request by Brian and Laurie Harger, 504 Red Lake Boulevard, was approved. The Hargers are proposing to construct an attached garage and addition to the residence on the north and east sides of the existing residence.

The council approved a zoning amendment request changing an area's classification from agriculture to (C-2) general business district. The area is located where the county and state are proposing to construct a joint governmental office and highways maintenance facility.

The final plats for Oxbow First Addition (located along Highway 32 south near the ODC and Land O'Lakes), and the Gilbert Industrial Addition, were approved by the council.

In other business, the council approved notice to proceed with the wastewater pond modifications; awarded the bid for the addition to the municipal service center to Ram building systems; approved final payment for the retaining wall at the dam, and approved the amount of the loan from the public facility authority for the wastewater pond modification.

TRF Arts Council holds auditions for The Music Man

Auditions for The Music Man will be held in the theater at Northland Community and Technical College on Friday, June 5 at 6 p.m. and Saturday, June 6 from 1 to 3 p.m. Performers age 9 through adult are encouraged to try out. Those unable to make these auditions are encouraged to call Heidi Hoks at 681-2980 before June 5 for alternate scheduling.

"The Music Man" is the musical story of Harold Hill, a traveling con man, who is trying to sell band instruments and uniforms. He sets his sights on the unsuspecting town of River City IA. Iowa stubbornness and honesty bring about a new outlook on life for Hill who finds, for the first time in his life, that he has really gotten his foot stuck in the door. Written by Meredith Wilson and loved by audiences of all ages for many years, "The Music Man" is sure to please local audiences.

Sponsored by the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council with funding from the Northwest Regional Development Commission. "The Music Man" will be directed by Heidi Hoks, with technical direction by Scott Bomholdt and musical direction by Catherine Hagen. Performances are scheduled for July 23, 24, 25, 30, 31 and August 1. For more information, phone 681-2980.

Area counties receive grants from MHS

Minnesota Historical Society has awarded grants to Kittson and Pennington counties.

Lake Bronson in Kittson county received $800 for microfilm purchase.

Thief River Falls in Pennington county, received $4,000 for a photographic reproduction and display at the recently renovated Soo Line Depot.

STUDENTS IN THE NEWS

Local students on Jamestown Dean's list

Several area students have been named to Jamestown College Dean's list. To be named to the list, students must earn a grade point average (GPA) in one of three categories: 4.00; 3.75-3.99 or 3.50-3.74.

Students on the Dean's list included: Aaron Chaput of Brooks who earned a grade point average between 3.50 and 3.74; James Engelstad of Gatzke, who earned a 4.00 grade point average; Patricia Greenwald of Plummer, who earned a grade point average between 3.75 and 3.99; Jennifer Oscarson of Red Lake Falls, who earned a grade point average between 3.50 and 3.74; Alyssa Johnson of Thief River Falls, who earned a 4.00 grade point average; and Lisa Swanson of Thief River Falls, who earned a grade point average between 3.50 and 3.74.

MSU students awarded music scholarships

Two area students planning to attend Moorhead State University have been awarded music scholarships for the 1998-99 academic year. The scholarship program recognizes outstanding achievement in various areas of performance, music education, composition and music industry.

Students awarded scholarships in the area of music performance include: Kelsi Steiger of Thief River Falls for orchestral performance; and Scott Flaten of Warren/Alvarado/Oslo for vocal music.

David Voecks admitted to NDSU

David A. Voecks, son of Loren and Mary Voecks, Thief River Falls, has been admitted to North Dakota State University "with distinction." He plans to major in computer science at NDSU beginning in fall 1998. Distinction means that NDSU is acknowledging Voecks as an honor student.

Local students graduate from Concordia Univ.

Angela L. Torblaa, daughter of Marv and Delores Kading of St. Hilaire, and Travis C. Torblaa, son of Doug and Diane Torblaa of Thief River Falls, graduated from Concordia University in St. Paul on May 16.

Angela received a bachelor of arts degree, magna cum laude, in management. Travis received a bachelor of arts degree in elementary education.

Paul Chappelle named to college's President's List

Paul Chappelle of Thief River Falls, a student at Dickinson State University, was among the 58 students recently named to Dickinson State University's Spring 1998 President's List.

In order to be a member of the President's List, a student must have achieved a minimum cumulative grade point average of 3.8 (on a 4.0 scale) and completed a minimum of 12 credits during the semester.

Irene Dosser

Irene Dosser recognized by Society of Nursing

Irene Dosser of Thief River Falls, a registered nurse and recent graduate of Moorhead State University, has earned membership in the International Honor Society of Nursing, Sigma Theta Tau, as well as membership to the honor society of Phi Kappa Phi, which recognizes and encourages superior scholarship in all academic disciplines.

The Xi Kappa Chapter-at-Large of Sigma Theta Tau honored Dosser and other inductees at a reception held at the Fargo Holiday Inn on April 2. The inductees included nursing students and community leaders in nursing. Nursing students were selected from Jamestown College, Moorhead State University, and the Tri-College consortium: North Dakota State University and Concordia College. Criteria for membership to Sigma Theta Tau include superior scholastic achievement, academic integrity, professional leadership potential and/or marked achievement in nursing.

The Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi held an initiation ceremony and banquet in the Comstock Memorial Union on the campus of Moorhead State University on April 26. Dosser was one of 34 senior class inductees chosen for membership on the basis of high scholastic achievement and good character. The Moorhead Chapter of Phi Kappa Phi selects the top five percent of the senior class and the top one percent of the junior class for membership.

Area students study abroad with Concordia

Several area students will be among the 245 students participating in the 1998 May Seminars Abroad program at Concordia College, Moorhead.

Sara Bogestad, junior, daughter of Roger and Judy Bogestad of Karlstad, Melissa Wollin, junior, daughter or Ron and Julie Wollin of Karlstad, Mindy Dahl, junior, daughter of James and Mary Dahl., and Daniel Bjerknes, junior, son of Ron and Pat Bjerknes of Thief River Falls, will be participating in a tour described as "Psychology in Europe: Society Shaping the Science", led by Dr. Mark Krejci, psychology. On this seminar students will examine how the field of psychology is shaped by culture, history and politics, as well as the pursuit of knowledge and the drive to provide appropriate therapy. Locations for study include London, Paris, Munich, Vienna and Prague. Students will also participate in a class research project and compare cultures from a personal and psychological perspective.

KayeLyn Wagner, graduate, daughter of Virgil and Bonnie Wagner of Middle River will be on a history May Seminar entitled "Twin Faces of Fascism: The Historical Roots of Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy" led by Dr. Vincent Arnold and Dr. Carroll Engelhardt, history. On this seminar students will consider the similarity between Hitler and Mussolini's emphasis on the past in building the intellectual, cultural and historical foundations of their regimes. Students will examine the development of Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy through visits to Rome, Venice, Vienna, Munich, Nurnberg, Dachau and Berlin.

Concordia sponsored 16 seminars that visited 22 countries throughout Europe, South America, Africa and Asia. The seminars explore the fields of art, theatre, classical studies, economics, math, education, German, English, French, Spanish, psychology, international communication, history and family/nutrition sciences.

Students enrolled in the May Seminars program take pre-seminar classes during the second semester of the academic year. Faculty members leading the seminars teach the classes and provide the academic background needed to prepare students for their overseas experiences. May Seminars are a part of the college's World Discovery Program.

Red River Basin board to meet in Ada June 4

Red River Basin Board will learn more about the impacts of the 1997 flood on the Ada area during their regular meeting on Thursday, June 4, at 12:30 p.m. at the VFW in Ada.

Board members Don Dgaard, Ada, and Richard Andring, Gary, will discuss the continued flooding problems associated with the Wild Rice River and will describe the systems approach to watershed management being used by the Wild Rice Watershed District.

Other agenda items include a presentation by Molly MacGregor on the current initiatives of the Minnesota Rivers Council; and members of the Special Task Forces on Lake Traverse, Devils Lake and the Pembina River Watershed will be giving updates on their activities.

Consumer alert issued over Campus Card

Attorney General Hubert H. Humphrey III is warning high school students and their parents not to be deceived by an official-looking mail solicitation urging them to buy a "Campus Card." The company mailing the solicitation, National College Registration Board, claims the Campus Card is an official student identification card issued to all registered college students. This is not true.

The mail offer has been sent to students all over the country, including some Minnesota high school seniors. The solicitation claims that the card is required by many colleges and universities for student to pay for meals, purchase books, pay for other expenses, and to receive discounts. The solicitation says "Incoming freshman need to return the enclosed form along with the one-time $25 card fee postmarked no later than May 15, 1998." It also asks for the student's photo and for codes indicating the student's major and college or university.

The Attorney General's office is not aware that this card is required by any public or private college in Minnesota.

The mailing also claims that the National Association of College and University Business Officers (NACUBO) is a member association. However, NACUBO issued a bulletin recently indicating that their name was used without permission or notification on the "Campus Card" solicitation.

Parents and students who receive solicitations that are not from the school the student is attending, and that offer to set up a money account for the student, should be thoroughly investigated before any money or personal information is provided.

If a Minnesota student has responded to the solicitation, they should contact the Minnesota Attorney General's office at 296-3353 (metro) or 1-800-657-3787; or write to the Attorney General's office at 1400 NCL Tower, 445 Minnesota Street, St. Paul, MN 55101.

Brodin Sheet Metal and Kathy Lofgren honored during Small Business Week

by Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

In celebration of Small Business Week, a breakfast was held at the Evergreen Eating Emporium on Tuesday morning, and while the purpose of the breakfast was to honor all businesses, two businesses received special recognition. Brodin Sheet Metal was recognized as Thief River Falls Business of the Year for 1998, and Kathy Lofgren of Falls Book Company was named Thief River Falls Entrepreneur for 1998.

Brodin Sheet Metal, Inc.
1998 TRF Business of the Year

"It's still fun!" says John Tofte, owner of Brodin Sheet Metal, 1998 Thief River Falls Business of the Year.

The origins of Brodin Sheet Metal go back to the depression era, and in the beginning, business was conducted out of a truck — back in the days when business went to the customer rather than the customer coming to the business.

One of the first shop sites of the business was near where the Firestone Store is located now, and for for 46 years, between 1946 and 1996, the business could be found at the corner of Main and 11th Street.

Much about Brodin Sheet Metal has not changed over the years, including the establishment's name. When John Tofte purchased the business from Rodney Brodin and Don Thyren in 1977, he left the name intact. "I don't have an ego problem," John says. "They had a good business. They were fair with customers. We've tried to do the same thing."

John Tofte and his wife Nancy came to Thief River Falls in 1969. John was employed as the assistant director of the Thief River Falls Area Vocational Technical Institute (AVTI). Nancy taught school part-time and cared for the couple's two young children.

John is from Tofte, a town named for his ancestors on the north shore of Lake Superior about 80 miles from Duluth. As a youth, he worked in construction and after a stint in the Navy earned a Masters degree in education.

While he spent eight years in his position at the AVTI, John says, "I wanted to do my own thing." And that is why, when the opportunity presented itself, he purchased Brodin Sheet Metal.

Looking at the advertisement for the company in the Yellow Pages of the telephone directory, one would assume that the nature of the business is the sales, installation and service of heating and air conditioning equipment. However, there is a whole lot more that goes on at Brodin's. Sheet metal is fabricated into exhaust systems, air exchangers and heat collection and return systems. Much of the company's work is unique and specialized for commercial businesses and industry.

Brodin Sheet Metal is a dealer of Lennox and Bryant equipment, and John notes that technology has brought many changes to the business over the years with an emphasis placed on more efficiency for less cost.

A balanced blend of commercial and residential work keeps the company and its 14 employees busy from year to year. The flood of 1997 sent the company to work in Grand Forks. "It was impossible to avoid," John says, also noting that where and what type of work they do from one year to another is "not predictable."

Customer service is a priority, and the business advertises 24-hour service. John says that from October to the end of April, personnel are available at all hours to repair heating equipment.

Tofte refers to his employees as "awesome people," and unlike many area businesses, Brodin Sheet Metal has not had a problem finding and retaining employees. John attributes that to the fact that he has hired local people who are interested in that line of work and trained them rather than hiring trained out-of-towners who come to gain experience with the intention of returning to wherever they came from.

Over the years, Nancy Tofte has worked with her husband at Brodin Sheet Metal. She is currently teaching small business management at Northland Community and Technical College.

The Toftes' children are grown. Heidi is married to Todd Bergland and lives in Burnsville. Aaron resides in Alexandria and works throughout western Minnesota for a company that distributes heating and air conditioning equipment.

Since 1996, Brodin Sheet Metal has been located in its new building on Highway 32 South. John cites efficiency as the main reason for building the structure. "We fabricate a fair amount of stuff," he says. "It was easier to set up equipment. We could suit the building to our needs." Away from a residential area, it is also easier for trucks to load and unload at the new location.

John spends his time selling, designing and "providing a little management" at Brodin Sheet Metal, and like every other business owner, he's known the headaches of being responsible for a business. "If it was terribly easy, everyone would do it," he says.

It isn't likely that many, after 21 years, would say that they still have fun at their business the way John Tofte does, but as he says, "You gotta have fun!" His upbeat and positive attitude serves as an example and motivation to other business owners. We salute Brodin Sheet Metal — its owners, John and Nancy Tofte, and its employees — as Thief River Falls' Business of the Year.

Kathy Lofgren
Falls Book Company
TRF Entrepreneur of 1998

When choosing a subject to write about for the March 25 Kid's News supplement to the Times, sixth-grader, Ben Lofgren chose to interview his mother, Kathy Lofgren, owner of Falls Book Company.

Ben interviewed Kathy "so people will know some of what it is like to own a retail business." Tired, after having spent the day moving and rearranging her store, Kathy provided Ben with some refreshingly candid and often humorous details about what it's like to own a business.

It was Kathy's love of books that spurred her to open a bookstore in Thief River Falls. The daughter of teachers, Kathy says, "Everyone I know loves books."

Kathy was born in St. Paul and graduated from high school in Brainerd. She holds degrees in biology and medical technology. Her mother was a reading teacher, and while her father attended seminary for one year, he found it to be too difficult with four children and resumed his career in education as a German and science teacher. At the time of his death, when Kathy was ten years old, he was studying library science.

Kathy is married to David Lofgren, a physician at Dakota Clinic. David is the son of missionaries and was born in Tanzania. Educated at Gustavus Adolphus and the University of Minnesota School of Medicine, David considers Minnesota to "home."

In addition to Benjamin, the Lofgrens have three other children, Jonathan who is completing the tenth grade, Sarah who is finishing the eighth grade and Peter who is wrapping up the third grade. Kathy says, "My kids are all cool," and it's clear that her family is her number one priority. Like many moms, Kathy remembers dates by how old her children were at the time.

The Lofgrens moved to Thief River Falls in 1989, and soon after moving here Kathy learned that there would probably never be anything more than "on call" work for her in the medical technology field. Five years ago, the family moved to Wahpeton, ND, and while there, Kathy worked toward an elementary education degree.

When they returned to Thief River Falls four years ago, Kathy began to research the idea of selling books. She tried selling books at book parties in her home for a brief period of time. She poured over book catalogs and did a lot of research about retail business, especially the book business.

And as her youngest child Peter prepared to enter the first grade, Kathy got ready to open her book store. Falls Book Company opened its doors on August 26, 1995.

In the summer of 1996, the business moved from its original location on 3rd Street to its present location at 216 LaBree Avenue North when Kathy purchased the building. Falls Book Company occupied the entire ground floor of the building until this spring when Kathy rented half the space to Draperies by Michelle.

With less floor space one would expect less inventory. That, however is not the case at Falls Book Company. The same delightful assortment of books and gifts remain.

While most book stores usually sell one or the other, Kathy sells both general and Christian books.

She sells only Christian music because other types of music are available at local stores. Children's books are also very popular as are videos. Sunday school and Bible school materials are available at Falls Book Company. Customer service is Kathy's favorite part of her business, and if she doesn't have what you are looking for, she enjoys seeking it out and getting it for you. "It's fun," she says.

In the gift line, Kathy has found success with pictures and Christian-inspired jewelry. She has found teddy bears to be popular and in demand and says, "We have good bears!" She deals with many vendors and considers the gift end of her business a learning process. She enjoys trying new items in her store and credits her staff with providing valuable advice.

As much as she enjoys customer service, Kathy dislikes the paperwork and avidly states, "Bookkeeping kills!" She did, however, express deep appreciation to local financial institutions, especially Dave Beito and Northern State Bank who, according to Kathy "has gone the extra mile" to help her.

Kathy also considers her eight part-time employees to be a big asset to her business.

In his interview with his mom, Ben asked her what she would say to someone who is thinking about starting a retail store. Kathy said, "Go in with your eyes open. You won't make a profit for a few years. You will be learning for a long time. . . It is a lot, lot, lot of work. The word merchant comes from the old Latin word which means 'to serve.' Go in expecting to serve your customer. . . Guard your cash flow. Your family won't always appreciate your business. . ."

The dictionary defines entrepreneur as "a person who organizes and manages a business or industrial undertaking. An entrepreneur takes the risk of not making a profit and gets the profit when there is one."

Kathy Lofgren has learned the meaning of that word first hand — sometimes the hard way but always with a sense of humor. We're certain that Ben and the rest of her family are very proud of her today. We, too, congratulate Kathy and wish her well.

Grams helps lead passage of disaster tax relief bill

Senator Rod Grams helped lead a bipartisan effort to pass a tax relief amendment for victims of natural disasters.

The "Disaster Victim Tax Extension Act" was approved recently as an amendment to the "Internal Revenue Service Restructuring and Reform act of 1998." The amendment will give residents of presidentially declared disaster areas an interest payment exemption on any federal taxes owed. Grams' efforts had attracted bipartisan support among his Senate colleagues, and his legislation was co-sponsored by Senators Coverdell, Frist, McCain, Hutchinson, Smith of Oregon, Graham of Florida, D'Amato, Boxer, Wellstone and Clelland.

Grams said, "...passage of this simple but necessary legislation will dramatically improve the situation for disaster victims, who often lose everything they own then find themselves penalized by the Internal Revenue Service. The purpose of IRS reform legislation is to improve the workings of the nation's tax collector and make the agency more responsive to the American taxpayers. Therefore, I can think of no amendment more crucial than one that seeks to make the IRS work better for those Americans who desperately need help rebuilding their lives."

Grams noted that 15 states nationwide have been hit with disasters this year alone.

"Many states, including Minnesota, immediately grant exemptions for interest payments on state taxes when disaster areas are declared," said Grams. "But exempting any interest payments owed to the IRS requires congressional action."

The amendment passed by the Senate will remove the barrier and provide those presidentially declared disaster areas an interest payment exemption on any federal taxes owed.

"Under my amendment, the exemption is effective retroactively to tax year 1997, so that all of this year's disaster victims will be covered for their late filing — along with the victims of other disasters that have yet to strike."

Danae Dekkers and Paul Lapka to wed July 25

Danae Dekkers and Paul Lapka announce their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

Danae is the daughter of Beverly Dekkers of Thief River Falls and Willard Dekkers of Erskine. Paul is the son of Tim and Jan Nelson of Sacred Heart.

Danae is a 1994 graduate of Lincoln High School and a 1998 graduate of Dordt College in Sioux Center, IA. Paul is a 1994 graduate of BDRSH High School in Renville and a 1998 graduate of Dordt College. Danae and Paul both hold Bachelor degrees in education and will be teaching at Calvin Christian School in Escondido, CA.

A wedding is planned for July 25 at the Evangelical Covenant Church in Thief River Falls.

Margaret Anderson of Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge displays a certificate recently awarded to Northwest Minnesota's Moose Challenge and the Adopt-A-Moose program. The certificate represents the semi-finalist award for Partnership Minnesota's 1998 Cooperative Public Service Award in the government and environment category. Formal presentation was made at the Partnership Minnesota Conference held in early May.

Moose programs receive award

Northwest Minnesota's Moose Mystery Challenge and the Adopt-A-Moose programs have been selected for a semi-finalist award for Partnership Minnesota's 1998 Cooperative Public Service Award in the government and environment category.

Two government agencies, the US Fish and Wildlife Service and the MN Department of Natural Resources, 70 private businesses and individuals, five conservation organizations, the Hartz Foundation as well as numerous volunteers and landowners are involved in Moose Mystery Challenge representing a diverse group of people interested in the plight of the moose and environmental education.

Cash donations totalling nearly $50,000 have been received over the past two years. Companies have donated the use of equipment used in field operations, and volunteers have contributed over 9,000 hours tracking and locating moose.

The Adopt-A-Moose program is reaching 2,700 in 93 classrooms in 19 area schools as well as three scout groups and sponsors. Because of grants and donations, Adopt-A-Moose will soon have its own web-site.

Formal presentation of the award was made at the Partnership Minnesota Conference at the Hubert H. Humphrey Center, University of Minnesota on May 6.

Partnership Minnesota, an inter-governmental partner of the Federal Executive Board, was formed in 1988 to promote enhanced cooperation among federal, state and local government agencies in an effort to better provide service to the citizens of Minnesota.

Foster care homes needed as demand continues to grow

In Minnesota, more than 5,000 families provide foster care — and they give children far more than the basic care they need in their foster care homes. They nurture children who have often experienced pain and trauma in their lives and missed out on many of the everyday activities that most children experience. Yet, there aren't nearly enough of these families to provide the care for more than 11,000 Minnesota children in need of foster homes.

"I am impressed by the hard work and dedication of foster parents," said Governor Arne H. Carlson, who declared May as Foster Parent Recognition month in Minnesota. "Foster families provide the day-to-day care that makes a profound difference in the lives of children. We need more people — individuals and families — committed to making a positive different in children's lives through foster parenting."

Fifty-six percent of these children, who range in age from birth to 21, are in foster homes in the seven-county Twin Cities metro area; 44 percent are in the state's other 80 counties.

"Foster parents not only provide care, supervision and emotional support for children but help them maintain their ties with their own families and communities whenever possible," said Dorothy Renstrom, supervisor of the Minnesota Department of Human Services (DHS) Child Welfare Section. "Depending on families' skills and children's needs, they may be expected to provide special assistance to children and their families. Foster parents offer a lifeline to children in distress and, often, to foster children's families as well."

Foster parents may be single or married, with or without children, renters or homeowners. Their concern for children and commitment to helping them through difficult times is the important issue, according to Renstrom.

Thirty-eight percent of these children are in foster care for reasons including their parents were absent, incarcerated or abusing substances; 32 percent are for reasons including they were neglected or abused, 20 percent are for reasons including they had physical, emotional or behavioral difficulties.

DHS issues licenses for foster care homes, helps recruit and prepare foster families to provide care, develops rules and policies regarding foster care, and helps craft legislation on foster care. The department supported 1998 legislation that requires foster parents to be notified and have the opportunity to comment at a hearing regarding the well-being of a child in their care.

To license foster parents, local agencies conduct criminal background checks, interview potential foster parents, check references, review medical records and conduct home safety inspections. Foster parents complete six hours of training to begin with and 12 more hours each year to remain licensed.

Foster parents receive between $15 and $18 per day and may receive an additional payment to care for children's special needs. In 1997, Minnesota paid more than $77 million to foster parents for their care of children.

"Foster parents work as part of a team — with the child, agencies and the child's family," said Renstrom. "Most often, foster families are the best alternative for children who cannot live with their biological parents."

For more information about becoming a foster parent, contact your county social service agency.

Area groups to market NW Minn.

Representatives from seven counties have banded together to promote visitation of historic sites in northwestern Minnesota. Joining forces under the working name of Minnesota's Great Northwest Historical Initiatives, the group includes representatives from area county historical associations and tourism promotion organizations in Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau counties.

Work projects include completion of a common newsletter that was sent to cross market to each other members, conducting efforts to secure Legislative Commission on Minnesota Resources funding for completing an inventory of historic sites and placing markers and creation of a joint historic sites brochure.

Financial assistance for the joint historic brochure is being provided by Otter Tail Power and PKM Electric. A total of 20,000 pieces will be created for distribution at area historical sites, chambers of commerce and at border crossing points. Technical assistance for all of the initiatives are being provided by the Minnesota Historical Society, Minnesota Office of Tourism and the Northwest Regional Development Commission.

All persons interested in the promotion of history are invited to participate. For more information contact Cindy Adams at 218-754-4100.

Vitamins and You

Your body is like a busy laboratory, constantly performing thousands of different chemical reactions. Each of these reactions is controlled by enzymes and coenzymes, with certain coenzymes containing vitamins. Without these vitamins, thousands of chemical reactions essential for life would not occur.

The human body does not create vitamins, so we must obtain them from what we eat. Unfortunately, with the advent of fast food, extensive food processing and dieting, many of our diets today are lacking in vitamins. An estimated 25 percent of U.S. households do not have nutritionally-balanced diets.

The Food & Drug Administration created the Recommended Daily Allowance (RDA) to help determine the amount of vitamins and minerals needed to meet daily requirements for nutrients. If you feel you're not receiving the proper amount of vitamins through your diet, check with your doctor or pharmacist about vitamin supplements.

The Medicine Shoppe®. We answer all your questions and guarantee low prices.

In Loving Memory Of JUANITA HUTCHINSON
June 2, 1937 to Sept. 27, 1997

It is a deep mystery,
This matter of life and death.
That the same person who brought us
A thousand joys, Can one day leave us drinking
A thousand tears
So suddenly sometimes, that we grope blindly
For words left unspoken, and for the hug
We needed to give to say good-bye.
And we wonder how this thread
That holds us all to life,
Can be so thin and fragile
Until one day, we find the courage to accept
That the living aren't meant to understand death
Only to celebrate life.
And to remember that the only real death
Is forgetting.
In Loving Remembrance,
Juanita's Family

...All In the Translation

When you think about it, some of the names of American products are funny enough by themselves, in English. (Keep that thought in mind next time you walk through the supermarket - you'll find yourself laughing out loud.) However, when those funny names are translated into foreign languages to enter the growing international market, they become hilarious. Here are some of them.

• In Taiwan, the translation of the Pepsi slogan, "Come Alive with the Pepsi Generation," came out as "Pepsi Will Bring Your Ancestors Back From the Dead."

• Not to be biased, the Chinese symbols for "Coca-Cola" translated to mean "Bite the Wax Tadpole" or "Female Horse Stuffed with Wax," depending on the dialect. The Coke company quickly came up with Chinese word symbols of a close facsimile, which translated as "Happiness in the Mouth." Sounds pretty good to me!

• "Finger Lickin' Good" Kentucky Fried Chicken was translated as "Eat Your Fingers Off" in China.

• The Chevrolet company found out that its Nova wasn't selling well in South America. They changed its name to Caribe after learning that Nova meant "It Won't Go" in Spanish.

• A fancy Parker Brothers pen flopped in Mexico when ads saying "It won't leak in your pocket and embarrass you" were wrongly translated as 'embarazar,' which is the word for pregnant. "It won't leak in your pocket and make you pregnant' just doesn't sell pens.

• T-shirts commemorating the Pope's visit were aimed at the Latin American market, supposed to say, "I Saw the Pope" in Spanish. Instead, the shirts proclaimed, "I Saw the Potato," in Spanish, of course.

• More trouble with the orient, the Salem cigarette ad of "Salem - Feeling Free" became something else in Japanese. No doubt some of the Japanese were scared away from smoking Salem with the slogan, "When Smoking Salem, You Feel so Refreshed that your Mind Seems to be Free and Empty."

• In Italy, Schweppes Tonic Water became "Schweppes Toilet Water."

Desireé Christianson and Dean Westrich to wed

Desireé Christianson and Dean Westrich announce their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

Parents of the couple are Russel and Carol Christianson of Thief River Falls and Orland and Alice Westrich of Menomonee Falls, WI.

Desiree' is a 1991 graduate of Lincoln High School and a 1995 graduate of Mankato State University. She is employed as a operations specialist for Dakota County HRA.

Dean is a 1988 graduate of Hamilton High School in Sussex, WI and a 1993 graduate of Mankato State University. He is a commercial installer for ADT Security Services in Rosemont.

A wedding is planned for June 20 at Farmington Lutheran Church in Farmington.

Lorensons to celebrate 50 years of marriage June 6

Eldor and Charmaine Lorenson will be honored on their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house on Saturday, June 6 from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Grace Evangelical Church in Strathcona.

The event will be hosted by their children and their families. All family and friends are invited to attend.

Outstanding County Senior nominations sought for recognition

Nominations from county residents are being solicited for the Outstanding Senior Citizens of Pennington county, according to the selection committee chaired by Al Sollom, Thief River Falls.

Both a man and a woman who are 70 by August 1 will be selected whose outstanding involvement can serve as an example to others in the county. They will be honored at the Pennington County Fair on July 17, in the Curling Club building located on the fairgrounds.

Those selected will receive special certificates of commendation from the Governor and their names will be submitted to the Minnesota Board on Aging for the state selection process for the Outstanding Senior Citizens. The winners are announced at the Minnesota State Fair Senior Day, the second Thursday of the fair.

Persons wishing to make nominations for the county awards can obtain official nomination blanks by writing or calling Shannon Olson, Heritage Community Center, Thief River Falls, 681-2793, or Norma Hanson, Goodridge, at 378-4380.

The deadline for acceptance of the nomination forms is June 12. They are to be mailed to Al Sollom.

Judging will be based primarily on the number and variety of contributions nominees have made to their communities after age 65.

Nominees must be residents of Minnesota. Previous county winners not selected as a state winner are now eligible to participate again at the county level. This is a change from previous years.

Selection of Minnesota's Outstanding Senior Citizens is a joint effort of the Minnesota Board on Aging, the State Fair Board and the Minnesota Federation of County Fair officers.

ACS conducts prostate cancer awareness campaign

The American Cancer Society is sponsoring a prostate cancer information and awareness campaign as part of its national prostate cancer awareness program to educate men 50 and over about the benefits of being informed about prostate cancer, and talking to their health care professionals about the risks and benefits of prostate cancer testing and treatments. The national campaign will focus on Father's Day 1998, and every year.

In 1998, approximately 184,500 American men will be diagnosed with prostate cancer. In Minnesota alone, an estimated 3,100 men will receive a prostate cancer diagnosis.

The risk of developing prostate cancer increases with age. In fact, more than 75 percent of prostate cancers are diagnosed after age 65.

Prostate cancer, if detected early can be highly survivable. If the cancer is caught at a localized stage, the five-year relative survival rate is 100 percent. The American Cancer Society recommends that all men age 50 and over talk to their doctor about annual prostate cancer screening.

The best thing a man can do to combat prostate cancer is to be informed. The American Cancer Society has long been a leader in the fight against prostate cancer. The Society is the only nationwide grassroots organization with a comprehensive prostate cancer program that includes research, education, information, advocacy and support. They have access to the latest information about the disease and its treatment. Call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345 with questions about prostate cancer, or with any cancer questions.

Growing Up

The responsibilities of a mother are widespread and diverse, the truth of which I can't get across to my adolescent daughter who likes to think that washing load after interminable load of laundry is how I get my kicks! Which is a preposterous idea, and not how I see it, of course, viewing my obligations to the family as endless and inescapable, hardly the fun-filled activities of a woman with a obsessive/compulsive streak.

"That's quite a judgment call," I told her, bending down to clean up the pop she had spilled.

"Well, that's what you are!" she accused. "A workaholic! Constantly washing, vacuuming, sweeping — straightening up! Personally, I don't think you could come up with anything better to do if you were forced!"

Rinsing out my rag and wiping the countertop I disagreed, "Oh, given the opportunity, I think I could find other things to do."

"Like what?"

"Give me a minute," I said grabbing the baby, who was covered in chocolate and headed out of the room.

"There!" she cried, gesturing wildly with a handful of chips. "That proves my point! Only a workaholic would need a whole minute to think!"

"Only the mother of a self-absorbed adolescent daughter would be a hopeless workaholic!" I told her. "Hey! Try getting those chips into your mouth!"

"Huh?" — the sound of snack food hitting the ground.

"The chips! They belong in your mouth!"

"I know that!"

"Then know this, too. She Who Makes The Mess, Cleans It Up!" I said. "Here's a broom!"

"A broom!" she cried, shuddering. "I'm not going to clean it up! That's your job — and I have absolutely no intention of ever being like you."

"You don't?"

"No!" she said. "I don't! I'm going to college to become a bio-mechanical engineer!"

"An engineer!"

"Yes! And, besides," she went on, "I'm a kid, and kids shouldn't have to do chores!"

"They shouldn't?"

"Of course not! No!"

"And what should you be doing," I asked, "if not chores?"

"Going to school," she explained, "spending time with my friends! I should be dreaming about my future, expanding my horizons — exploring distant shores!"

"Shores!"

"Yes! Shores!"

"Wow!" I said, sweeping up the last of the chips. "A lifetime of chorelessness! What a deal! And to think, I might have avoided all this housework if I'd been given more time to dream as a kid! What a tragedy! Such regrets! I, too, could have been a bio-mechanical engineer, had only my parents emphasized horizons over dishes in a sink! And you've a plan to pay for this education, no doubt."

"I'll join the Army and earn money toward my college career!"

"The Army!" I exclaimed, shaking my head. "It's unbelieveable to me how you've worked this whole thing out! But boot camp. Hmmm. Now, there's a thought!"

"What's boot camp?" she asked.

"Oh, nothing," I said, emptying the contents of the dustpan into the garbage can. "Just the first place people in the Army go after they join up. Your dad knows more about it. You can ask him when he gets home."

Two hours later, she burst into the laundry room where I was folding clothes. "Very funny!!" she exclaimed.

"And what are we talking about?"

"Boot camp!!! You knew full well if I joined the Army the first thing they'd do was put me to work!"

"True! But I wasn't thinking Army, exclusively, you could have joined the Navy, Air Force or Marines!"

"You want me to be just like you! A workaholic!" she shrieked.

I laughed, "It's unavoidable. We all grow up."

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES
Paper Bag Kites

This kite-making project for a windy day will blow you away! To make a kite, use markers, crayons or stickers to decorate a paper lunch bag. Tape a one-foot long crepe paper streamer on each side of the bag near the bottom. Make a handle by taping each end of a two-foot-long piece of yarn to the inside of the bag near the top. Invite your child to take the kite outside. As he or she runs with the kite on a windy day, the kite will fill with air. That's some super summer fun!

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need colored construction paper, a plastic container (a powdered drink mix container would work well), glue, clear contact paper, clear tape and crayons.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books including the following.

Edwards, Richard. You're Safe Now, Waterdog. Watt the dog and Matt were always together until one day when Watt was left behind on a riverbank. The rains came and washed poor Watt down the river! A little girl named Hattie saved the day after making a daring rescue.

Wells, Rosemary. Bunny Money. Ruby has a beautiful present all picked out for Grandmother's birthday, but Max has his own ideas. One mishap leads to another as the pair go on a rollicking gift search in hopes that their money will hold out.

VIDEO VARIETY

Look What I Made: Paper Playthings and Gifts. Six to ten-year-olds will learn how to make creative projects such as pinatas, origami, flower bouquets and newspaper hammocks, either on their own or with adult supervision.

MAGAZINE MENTION

What can you make with a ball of string, a sheet of newspaper, three plastic streamers, two light wooden sticks, glue and scissors? You'll find the simple instructions for how to make a kite in the June issue of New Moon magazine.

WONDERS OF THE WEB

PARENTING TIPS
Teaching By Example

Parents are a child's first teachers and role models. Usually children are more affected by what their parents do that by what they say. They learn to behave by seeing how their mothers and fathers behave and following their example. For this reason, you need to be aware of the "lessons" you may unintentionally be teaching your children.

Social skills and attitudes are often best taught be example. A child will learn good manners more easily when "Please" and "Thank you" are part of a daily life and not just used on special occasions. The learning is gradual and occurs more naturally at home.

Consistency is also very important. If you try to teach your child one thing but then behave in an opposite way yourself, your child will become confused and frustrated as to what and whom to believe. Suppose a five-year-old is caught hitting another five-year-old. His/her parent tells him/her that it is wrong to hit people and then gives a spanking as a punishment. The parent's action is inconsistent with the message and the child doesn't know whether to believe the words or the actions.

"Monkey see, monkey do" certainly describes how young children learn. Because they lack prior knowledge and skills, they eagerly look for someone to imitate. That someone is usually one or both of their parents. So parents be aware of what message your child is getting. Is it the one you want him/her to have!

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

As you model good behavior for your child, use words to describe what you are doing. For example, as you buckle your seatbelt, say "We wear our seatbelts in the car so we will be safe."

St. Bernard's preschoolers visit dairy farm

Simulated milking and a straw bale maze were two of the activities enjoyed by the four and five-year-old pre-kindergarteners from St. Bernard's Catholic School at the dairy farm of Tom and Sherry Koop during a recent field trip.

Tom explained to the youngsters how the cows are milked and where the milk goes. Using rubber gloves filled with water, Sherry provided a simulated milking experience for the children.

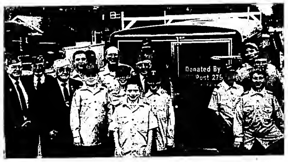
The children enjoyed feeding the calves and playing in the Koops' backyard. A straw maze, made by the Koops, teacher Beth Winjum and her sister Amy, was also enjoyed by the youngsters.

Sherry provided a number of dairy treats for the children to try, including ice cream bars, milk, cheese and chocolate flavored "cow pies." Many of the products were donated by the American Dairy Association and Land O' Lakes. Sherry also provided each child with a gift bag filled with farm related items.

The volunteer chaperones and drivers enjoyed the experience as much as the children, and all expressed much appreciation to Tom and Sherry Koop.

A straw maze was one of several activities enjoyed by the four and five-year-old pre-kindergartners, chaperones and drivers from St. Bernard's School on a recent field trip to the dairy farm of Tom and Sherry Koop. Other activities included playing in the yard, feeding the calves, sampling dairy treats and a simulated milking experience. Tom explained to the youngsters how cows are milked and where the milk goes.

In celebration of Earth Day, Brownie Troop 184 received trees from the Pennington County Soil Conservation District. Pictured are (from left) Megan Miller, Courtney Aune and Brittany Wightman. Sherry Miller and Danise Aune are the troop leaders. The girls will plant the trees at their homes and watch their growth over the next few years.



Representatives from the VFW in Thief River Falls joined the Boy Scouts and their leaders from Troop 59 as they prepared to attend Spring Camp in Red Lake Falls recently. This was the first camping trip for the troop's new trailer, a generous and much-appreciated donation from the VFW. The trailer will be used for camping trips throughout the year.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Dan Carpenter, Lincoln High School

Well, we finally made it. The Thief River Falls Class of 1998 graduated. It has been a long, thirteen year road, but most of us did it. Now most of us are on to bigger and better things next fall. It's kind of weird, but I've noticed something significant in my class this year that's never been here before; a sort of class togetherness.

I've been thinking about this startling revelation since I noticed it about a month ago at the Senior banquet and Senior dance at Highlanding Hall last April 27th. I can honestly say that I can't ever remember a time when my class got together under the same roof at the same time and actually had a good time with one another.

There has always been an underlying tension running thick among the kids of '98. I can remember back in middle school when kids were chastised by their peers for reasons like having long hair, wearing baggy clothes, or being athletically involved, to name a few.

It was this close-minded behavior that sparked a "war" between two cliques in middle school; on one side were the so-called "preps," and on the other were the "bangers." These two groups had a mutual disliking for each other because their ideals were contrary to each other.

From the generalization of a seventh or eighth grade point of view, the "preps" were trendy, played sports all day, every day, had short hair, and thought they were better than everyone else.

On the other hand, the "bangers" tried to look as grungy as possible, listened only to heavy metal music all day, abused drugs at times, and were a stone's throw away from being considered psychotic.

Being a kid who was considered a "banger," I have to say that the generalization about us was not true. There were some people that fit the "banger" description that did no drugs and were a tad crazy, and they gave all a bad name. I can honestly say that I never did those drugs like some of the others did, and that a lot of my friends didn't either. It was basically a few who turned the image of the whole bunch rotten.

I have to admit that I am as guilty of this close-minded behavior as almost everyone else in my class is. I often bashed those people that were "preps." I had a bad attitude toward them. I held true to the stereotypes that described that lot of people. But, just as in my group of friends, a few superconceited ones gave that whole group a bad name.

I never really realized how biased I was until I got to know a few of those so-called "preps" in high school. For the most part, all of them are pretty good kids.

I guess that what I'm trying to say is that I'm sorry for holding onto such misconceptions for so long. Maybe what I'm saying happened so long ago that everyone forgot about it, but I still feel that I had to say it before we all leave and hardly every see each other again.

I'm going to miss everyone from my class. There are some of you I'll see all the time, and there are others that I'll never see again. But I know that all of you guys are going to make something great out of your lives. Congratulations, Lincoln High School Class of 1998, and I hope to see you around someday.

The weather in northwest Minnesota is keeping Ray and me playing a new guessing game named "is it going to freeze tonight? and should all the plants be taken in or be covered?" How low will the four thermometers go tonight is the question mostly asked these days. Roy has a bunch of five gallon pails that he tips over the tomato plants here and at Elsie's. We hope that May and June didn't trade places as weatherwise Minnesota has had a great spring.

Hummingbirds are here in numbers that call for feeders to be restocked almost daily. I understand that they catch and devour their own weight in mosquitoes each day and that surely qualified them for all that they can drink.

Elsie and Marlys Lafrooth accompanied Shirley Lofrooth to Osage to attend the graduation reception for Jamae Johnson at the home of her parents, Tad and Lori Johnson. Jamae had graduated from Park River High on Sunday, May 24.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. How do I sign up for direct deposit?

A. You can go through your chosen financial institution and it will notify SSA. You can also contact us directly, by phone if you wish, and provide us with information such as where you are sending the checks, the treasury routing number for the institution and the type and number of the account. This information is readily available on your check blanks or from the bank. Depending on when, during the month, SSA is contacted, the direct deposit will begin within a month or two. In most cases, SSA assumes that direct deposit will be used and sets up payments to go by electronic transfer when an application is first filed. Exceptions to this do exist, however.

Q. Recently, I switched by Social Security direct deposit from one financial institution to another. I used to get a note from the original bank saying that the payment had been credited to my account. The new bank, however, does not do this. Should it?

A. The different financial institutions have different practices as to how they communicate with their customers, and the Social Security Administration is not involved with this. If you are unhappy with the services at your bank, savings and loan or credit union, you would need to contact them directly. If you decide to again switch where you have direct deposit, make sure that you keep the old account open until your SSA payments have started arriving at the new institution.

Note: Browsing the web? Check the Social Security website at www.ssa.gov for a wide variety of information including statistics, history and program information.

by myself for a few minutes to mentally prepare and say a little prayer. I visualize exactly where I want to ride my pattern in the arena so I avoid tipping a barrel (a five-second penalty) but take best advantage of the footing."

Rosie says she doesn't wear shin guards like a lot of the riders do to protect themselves from bruising on barrels, "but I do wear a lot of long dresses during the racing season."

Lincoln High School Grad

Rosie Homme graduated from Lincoln high school and the audio communications program at what was then Northwest Technical College. She worked at KKAQ radio in Thief River Falls for half a year before moving on to KRWB in Roseau where she was on the air for eight years.

For the past 11 years Rosie has been married to Roger Shaver and they farm five miles south and a mile east of Brooks. At one time they had up to 92 head of horses on the farm, but now have about 45 head including 24 brood mares, four stallions, and the remainder as yearlings or this year's foals.

Six of the mares and three of the foals are Homozygous—a 100 per cent color breed of paint horses. If either the mare or stallion is of the Homozygous strain, the offspring will be a paint rather than a single color.

According to Rosie, the Homozygous is the result of the mating of a mare and stallion of the Tobianos breed, occurs only about 50 percent of the time, and is verifiable only on blood test. There are only a handful of testing sites in the U.S. and Rosie had blood samples from her animals tested in Kentucky. Other test labs are in California, Texas and Oregon.

Got Homozygous By Accident

Rosie got her first two animals of the Homozygous strain by accident. She purchased the two weanlings at an area horse sale because she felt sorry for their pathetic condition. She hand fed one for weeks, against the advice of her veterinarian who suggested that she give up trying. Her effort was rewarded as both survived and are now healthy adults.

Since then Rosie has gone to Oregon, New York and Oklahoma for studs and mares. Homozygous animals command a premium price, with weanlings priced at $6,500 and up and some advertised at $25,000. Because the horses are a lot more work than most people realize, Rosie said she plans on eventually reducing her horse herd to 15 mares and two stallions.

All horses on the Shaver farm have registration papers except a couple of ponies kept for the grandchildren to ride. Included in those horses are "cow ponies" that the Shavers rode when active in team penning competition. Rosie and her family also rode in games events at area horse shows over the years.

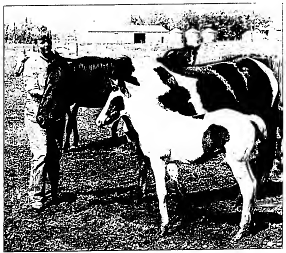
Rosie has two daughters—Tina Homme of Thief River Falls and Jarod Hahn of St. Hilaire. Roger has four sons, Russell and Mark of McIntosh, Jimmy of Maple Lake and Randy of Fosston and one daughter, Julie Bratager of Winger.

Missing Grandkids the Hardest

Rosie said that she expects the hardest part of joining the PRCA and hitting the road for PRCA rodeos won't be the travel, the fatigue or the competition—it will be having to be away from the grandchildren for longer stretches of time. That's probably a problem that most professional barrel racers don't have.

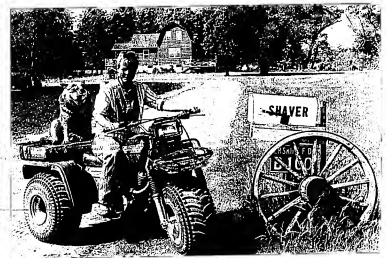
But don't doubt for a minute that Rosie is serious about her ambitions and her goals.

"I'm in pretty good health. I'm doing what I always wanted to do. I have a fast horse and the only thing I have to compete against is the electronic timer," she said. "Other racers who come from small towns have been successful, why not me?"



Mares and foals are a common sight at the Roger and Rosie Shaver farm five miles south and a mile east of Brooks. Rosie is shown with one of her Homozygous mares and its foal. The Homozygous strain of paint horses always produces paint offspring, even when either sire or dam is of a single color. This trait makes the breed more valuable.

After his workout, "Jetster" gets some praise and attention as well as a cool-down walk from barrel racer Rosie Shaver. Rosie keeps her horse in condition with two to 10 miles of riding a day and his edge keen by rarely running in the arena when not in actual competition.



Rosie Shaver has an eager passenger in "Henry," her Australian blue heeler, whenever she jumps on the three-wheeler to tend to the horses on a nearby farmstead. Just after this photo was taken, Rosie and Henry were off to herd a few of her horses back into the pasture after they had broken through the fence. Henry seems to know he may get a little herding work whenever the three-wheeler leaves the yard, and eagerly leaps onto the carrier whenever Rosie approaches the vehicle.

NWRDC to hold hearing on June 23

Pursuant to Minnesota Statutes 462.396 subdivision 2, a public hearing will be held on the fiscal year 1999 budget of the Northwest Regional Development Commission on June 23, 1998, at 3 p.m., at the Northwest Regional Development Commission office, 115 South Main, Warren, MN.

A copy of the proposed budget is available upon request. A copy of the Commission's work plan indicating how the funds will be allocated to projects is available at the NWRDC offices at 218-745-6733.

"Ritzy" is the name given by Rosie Shaver of rural Erskine to this paint mare whose registered name is "Shay D Bull." Rosie started her professional barrel racing career by borrowing this horse, then acquired the mare by trading foals to the owner. Rosie (Homme) is originally from Thief River Falls, a graduate of Lincoln high school and NW Technical College.

Three receive Phoenix award from SBA

Small-Business Administration has awarded the Phoenix Award, which recognizes individual effort helping communities rise from disaster, to Cheryl Gaddie, owner of Carpet Connection Plus in East Grand Forks, East Grand Forks Mayor Lynn Stauss, and Henry Tweten who became a volunteer advisor to the mayor on legal matters.

When the dikes holding back the Red River broke and the evacuation sirens sounded, Cheryl Gaddie along with the rest of the residents and business owners of East Grand Forks, evacuated the city. Physically and emotionally exhausted after spending hours over the previous weeks filling sandbags, she went to stay with a friend in Thief River Falls.

News came three days later that her building and her inventory of carpeting, floor covering and drapery had suffered extensive damage. Devastated and knowing that she had no insurance that would cover a flood, she called the SBA Disaster Assistance office for help.

The award presented to Gaddie was in recognition of her commitment to the community as one of the first entrepreneurs to rebuild her business after the devastating flood of 1997.

Although being in the carpet business in a town that had just been flooded was good for sales, Gaddie sold only quality products fairly priced.

"We believe people should put quality into their homes, but they shouldn't have to pay more than a fair price, especially after suffering through this flood," said Gaddie.

Gaddie was nominated for the Phoenix Award by Congressman Collin Peterson who commended her for initiative, resilience, and dedication to her community.

Mayor Lynn Stauss was presented the SBA Phoenix Award for leadership, and attorney Henry Tweten received the SBA Phoenix Award for outstanding volunteer.

In presenting the award to Mayor Stauss, said SBA Minnesota district director, Edward Daum, "When disaster strikes an entire community as it did here in East Grand Forks, victims look for someone to provide unwavering leadership and to keep alive the hope that they will survive and rebuild their city and their lives. Mayor Lynn Stauss provided just such leadership."

At an age when many retire, Henry Tweten stepped forward to help his community in time of greatest need. Even though his home, office and son's business suffered major damage, Tweten worked days and nights as a volunteer advisor to the mayor on legal matters.

Congressman Peterson wrote, "Henry Tweten will serve as a superb representative of all the volunteers from Breckenridge to the Canadian Border who worked tirelessly during the crisis and continue to serve today."

Awards were presented to Challenger Elementary Fifth grade students who were chosen to read their Drug Abuse Resistence Education (DARE) essays during the Challenger DARE graduation last week. The six Challenger elementary school students chosen to read their essays were Leah Trontvet, Alysha Teber, Casey Leach, Tyle Pream, Laura Newton, and Ben Benson.

Fifth grade graduation at Challenger Elementary School in Thief River Falls last Wednesday, included a musical performance by Fifth graders. The event also coincided with Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) graduation.

Brainerd 11-6 winner vs. Bemidji in North 8AA baseball finals

Fourth-seeded Brainerd beat top-seeded Bemidji 11-6 Friday in the finals of the North Sub-Section 8AA high school baseball tournament.

The champions got by Alexandria 3-2 in the single-elimination opening round, then exploded offensively in beating Bemidji 18-3 and Moorhead 18-1 in the double-elimination portion of the tournament to reach the finals.

Bemidji gained a title shot with a 4-2 loser-out victory over Moorhead.

Brainerd advanced into the two-out-of three-game Section 8AA finals against South Sub Section 8AA winner St. Cloud Tech.

Sprint cars featured in Saturday race card at Greenbush Race Park

First Northern Outlaw Sprint Car Special of the 1998 season Saturday wound up as a long night of racing at the Greenbush Race Park.

With six classes of cars operating, and a pair of rain-forced stoppages, the program ran from 6:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

Adding to the length of the card was an influx of drivers from other tracks, who showed up when weather curtailed racing at their regular sites. The additional class and extra drivers produced a 90-car field.

Regular five-class Saturday racing card is scheduled to return to the track this week. Racing starts at 7 p.m.

Three Prowlers head to state

Three Thief River Falls girls qualified for the 1998 Class AA Minnesota State High School track and field championships with top-two finishes during Saturday's Section 8AA meet at St. Cloud Apollo High School.

Heading to the state meet for the Prowlers will be senior Becky Mooney, junior Nicole Kopari and sophomore Rachel Mathson.

Kopari was a double-winner at the Section 8AA meet in the discus (137-3) and shot put (44-8). She will be the top seed in both events at the state meet.

Mooney and Mathson had second place sectional finishes in the 1600 and 400, respectively. Mooney turned in a 5:14.89, which shattered the school record she set at the 1997 state meet and bettered by seven seconds her best time of the 1998 season. Mathson went 1:00.59.

Eighth grader Chelsea Haviland almost gave the Prowlers four state meet entries. She tied for second in the pole vault, but lost out in a state meet-qualifying tie-breaking jump-off. There was still hopes of gaining a state berth by meeting the Minnesota State High School League qualifying standard for the first-year event, but that standard, announced by the MSHSL Monday, was 9-9 – determined by finding the best fifth place finish statewide in the sectional competition.

Mooney also competed at the Section 8AA meet in the 800, Mathson in the 200 and Haviland in the 1600.

Rest of the Thief River Falls Section 8AA participants, who advanced through North Sub-Section 8AA qualifications, included junior Taya Hunt (shot put) and eighth grader Jackie Mooney (3200) for the girls, along with senior Chad Skeim (discus), junior Kelly Cota (high jump) and sophomore Zach Bosh (pole vault) for the boys.

"Everything went just the way we hoped," reported Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson. "The performances were wonderful."

Section 8AA team titles went to the Alexandria boys and Moorhead girls.

Alexandria boys won with 185.33 points, followed by Elk River with 97.5, Brainerd 81, St. Cloud Apollo 79.5, Sauk Rapids-Rice 77, Sartell 76, Bemidji 72, Fergus Falls 53, St. Cloud Tech 48, Moorhead 45.33, Rocori 43, Little Falls 26, Detroit Lakes 22.33, and Thief River Falls 3.

Moorhead girls led the way with 136 points, followed by Elk River with 106.5, Alexandria 104, Sartell 89, Bemidji 89, Sauk Rapids-Rice 61, Thief River Falls 60, Brainerd 54, Detroit Lakes 53.5, Rocori 51, Little Falls 36, St. Cloud Apollo 36, St. Cloud Tech 22, and Fergus Falls 15.

The Class AA and Class A boys and girls state track meets will be held Friday and Saturday at the National Sports Center in Blaine.

State park open house to be observed June 7

A canoe flotilla, park-to-park hike ride, buffalo burgers and special celebrations to open something new and recognize something old are just some of the special events being offered by various state parks during the annual Minnesota state park open house from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Sunday, June 7.

Each year the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources invites the public to visit Minnesota's state park for free on the first Sunday in June. In addition to enjoying some of nature's most beautiful natural resources, visitors can take part in events scheduled at many parks in connection with the open house.

Special events include a two-hour canoe trip from Brainerd to Crow Wing State Park, a 21-mile bike ride from Father Hennepin State Park to Mille Lacs Kathio State Park, Buffalo Days at Blue Mounds State Park near Luverne that features a resident herd of buffalo, celebrations to open new facilities at Fort Snelling State Park in the Twin Cities and the Upper Sioux Agency State Park in Granite Falls.

Old Mill State Park near Argyle will host its March for Parks event on during the open house. Visitors are encouraged to participate in the annual event that raises funds for projects and facilities in the park. For more information about the march, call the park at 437-8174.

For more open house or state parks information, call toll free, 1-888-MINNDNR.

Thieves lose opener

Glyndon-Felton jumped out to an early lead, then answered a late-game Thief River Falls challenge to win a 10-9 amateur baseball game match-up Sunday.

It was the 1998 season opener for the Thieves, who trailed 7-1 before scoring five times in the top of the seventh inning. The comeback was cut short, however, when Glyndon-Felton scored three times in the bottom of the inning. Thief River Falls matched that, with a three-run eighth, but could not pull even.

"We had them on the ropes," said Thief River Falls coach Howard Dalager. "It was a nice effort in the seventh and eighth innings. We got some clutch hits."

Thief River Falls matched Glyndon-Felton's hit total at 10, but Thieves pitchers Courtney Skjerven and Craig Huot walked eight and served up four home runs, including a three-run shot and a pair of two-run fence-clearing blows.

"The walks and home runs hurt," acknowledged Dalager, who had a mostly young line-up on hand, with several veteran players missing the game for personal reasons.

Thief River Falls is scheduled to be back in action tonight (Wednesday) with a 7:30 p.m. game at Crookston. The Thieves will play a 3 p.m. game at Roseau Saturday before meeting Grand Forks Gerrells Monday in a 7:30 p.m. home opener at Irv Wilson Field. Carter Rogollo, the Thief River Falls native who wrapped up a banner career with the University of North Dakota baseball team this spring, is on the Grand Forks roster.

Andy Reierson will play WCHA hockey with UMD Bulldogs

Andy Reierson of Moorhead, grandson of Milt and Eileen Reierson and Ben and Dorothy Wold of Thief River Falls, has verbally committed to play hockey next year at the University of Minnesota-Duluth.

The 6-foot, 175-pound defenseman is a 1997 Moorhead High School graduate who played last year with the Fargo-Moorhead Ice Sharks in the United States Hockey League. He tied for the USHL lead for scoring by a defenseman with 30 points, was named to the all-USHL Second Team, the all-USHL Rookie Team and the USHL All-Star team.

At least a half-dozen Division I schools expressed interest in Reierson, who narrowed his decision between Duluth and St. Cloud State. He was a three-year regular at Moorhead High School, playing in two Minnesota Class AA state tournaments. The Spuds were state runner-up to Duluth East in 1995 and third in 1997, his senior season.

Reierson is the seventh player from last year's Ice Sharks roster to earn a Division I offer and the 13th product of former Spuds coach Terry Cullen to reach the Division I ranks.

Softball tournaments are set at Clearbrook

Annual Clearbrook Summerfest Invitational softball tournaments will be held Saturday and Sunday, June 27 and 28.

The event will feature both a men's and women's slow pitch tournament. Entry fee is $100 plus two red-stitched softballs for the men and $95 plus one green-dot softball for the women.

Men's tournament will be open to 36 teams; the women's tournament will be a 12-team affair.

Entry deadline is June 23. Send entry fees, with a check made out for the Clearbrook Sports Boosters, to Box 46, Clearbrook, MN 56634. For additional information call 218-776-3805 or 218-776-3812.

DNR NEWS

DNR Award

For his dedication to protecting and restoring Minnesota's environment, Rep. Tom Osthoff of St. Paul was recently chosen to receive the Department of Natural Resources' highest honor, the Meritorious Service Award.

"Rep. Osthoff has a deep personal conservation ethic and he consistently goes to bat for the most critical natural resources issues of our time," said DNR Commissioner Rod Sando. "He has won support and funding for ecological preservation, scientific research, minority and statewide fishing programs, and urban greenways and open spaces."

Osthoff, who has been a state representative since 1974, is both an avid angler and a strong supporter of the humanities.

Watermilfoil Control Efforts

Warm spring weather appears to be accelerating the growth of Eurasian watermilfoil in Minnesota lakes. Already this spring, milfoil was discovered in two new Twin Cities area lakes – Gleason Lake near Wayzata and Bass Lake in Plymouth. In lakes that were previously infested, the plant appears to be actively growing. Milfoil has now spread to 82 lakes, primarily in the Twin Cities area, and four rivers or streams.

This year control efforts will be made on as many as 65 lakes, according to Chip Welling, Eurasian Watermilfoil Program coordinator for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. For 53 of these lakes, classified as "maintenance management," the DNR offers funding and technical assistance for management initiated by lake associations or local units of government. On these lakes, the exotic usually has been present for a number of years and is widespread, though not necessarily abundant.

"Nevertheless, experience has shown that once introduced into a water body, milfoil is there to stay. Eradication is not a realistic goal," Welling said. "That's why boaters should get the habit of removing all aquatic plants from their equipment as well as draining all water from their boats, before leaving any lake or river."

Welling also encourages people to be on the lookout for Eurasian watermilfoil. Public monitoring and reporting of infestations of Eurasian watermilfoil remains a critical element of efforts to limit the spread of this exotic species. Those who believe they have discovered a new infestation are asked to call their local DNR office, or call the DNR Information Center toll free, 1-888-MINNDNR.

Meagan Taylor joins staff at Lace 'Em Up Camp slated at RLF

Former Roseau High School standout and current Iowa State star Megan Taylor has been added to the coaching line-up for the Lace 'Em Up Basketball Camp in Red Lake Falls.

Taylor is the all-time career scoring leader in Minnesota high school basketball. She was selected as the Big Eight Conference Rookie of the Year at the close of her 1997-98 freshman season at Iowa State.

Three current or former University of Minnesota players will also be part of the camp coaching staff, including Trevor Winter, Kyle Sanden of Thief River Falls and Mitch Ohnstad.

The camp, which will be held in the Robert Matzke Gymnasium, will run Monday through Friday, June 15-19. Students who were in grades 7-11 during the 1997-98 school year will attend from 8 to 11:30 a.m. and students in grades 2-6 will be in camp from 12-noon to 3:30 p.m.

A potluck supper will be held in the high school cafeteria Wednesday, June 17, at 6:30 p.m. when campers and the general public will be welcome to take part in the meal and visit with the camp staff members, who will be available for pictures and autographs.

Cost of the camp is $35. Camp director is Steve Philion, telephone 218-253-2499.

Matching DNR funds are available for local forest health projects

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Division of Forestry announces that it still has matching funds available for local communities and non-profit organizations through Minnesota ReLeaf. The Minnesota Legislature, including the Legislative Commission on Minnesota Resources, has approved funding for local projects to address specific community forest health problems.

Community Forest Health Program provides matching funds to increase or maintain the health of the forest ecosystem within Minnesota communities. In northwestern Minnesota, eligible community forest problems might include outbreaks of canker worms, forest tent caterpillars or ash yellows. Routine maintenance practice, such as pruning or hazard tree removal, will not be covered under this program.

Applicants may receive up to $10,000 to address specific forest health problems on either public or private property. Funds must be matched 1-to-1 by local sponsors. Eligible applicants include municipalities, townships, counties, school districts, SWCD's, or other local units of government or non-profit organizations. All funded projects must be completed by June 10, 1999.

For an application packet or further information, contact Jeff Edmonds, DNR Forestry, 615 Anne St. NW, Bemidji, MN 56601, or call 218-755-2891.

Projects can be funded that maintain or increase the health of a community's forest resource. These can include pest suppression actions, education programs focused on a specific problem, and arboricultural practices that mitigate a specific tree health problem.

Lakeshore vegetation removal rules posted

Aquatic plants are important to Minnesota lakes, according to Steve Enger, a biologist with the Department of Natural Resources. For that reason, aquatic plan control is regulated.

"Aquatic plants provide important habitat for fish and wildlife and aquatic insects," Enger said. "Aquatic vegetation helps to maintain water clarity by stabilizing the lake bottom and protecting shorelines from erosion. Emergent vegetation along lakeshores may keep Canada geese from becoming a nuisance in yards. However, aquatic plants may also interfere with the ability of lakeshore owners to boat, fish or swim adjacent to their property."

For those reasons, lakeshore property owners are reminded by the DNR that a few basic guidelines must be followed to ensure compliance with state rules governing aquatic plant control.

A permit is not required to cut or pull submerged vegetation, like coontail, under the following conditions:

■ The cleared area does not extend more than 50 feet along shore, or more than one-half the frontage width, whichever is less, and the area does not exceed 2,500 square feet.

■ All vegetation that is cut or pulled must be removed from the water, and the cleared area must remain in the save location year to year.

■ Water lilies and other floating leaf vegetation may be cut or pulled to create a channel 15 feet wide extending to open water.

A permit is required to:

■ Use herbicides to control aquatic plants.

■ Control any emergent vegetation, like bulrush, cattails or wild rice.

■ Control floating vegetation (water lilies) in an area larger than a channel 15 fee wide extending to open water.

■ Control more than 2,500 square fee of submerged vegetation.

■ Remove or relocate floating bog.

■ Use an automatic untended aquatic plan control device – Crary WeedRoller, for example.

An individual aquatic plant management permit from the DNR cost $20. In most cases, permits must be obtained annually.

Lakeshore property owners are becoming more interested in aquascaping, Enger said. This includes a variety of activities intended to make shorelines more natural by re-establishing aquatic plants. A DNR permit is required to transplant aquatic vegetation below the ordinary high water work on public waters. There is no fee for this permit.

"The DNR strongly supports protection and restoration of shoreline, but projects must be carefully planned so they do not cause more harm than good," Enger said. "The DNR is concerned that individuals considering this approach take steps to be sure that they minimize disturbance to existing native vegetation, maintain the genetic integrity of existing plant species, and are careful not to introduce harmful exotic plants. Just because a plant is offered for sale doesn't mean it's safe to put it in a lake."

People who are unsure whether or not their plants require a permit, or who would like additional information, may call the area DNR or regional DNR Fisheries office. For more information about aquatic plants, call the DNR toll free at 1-888-MINNDNR and ask for the Ecological Service Section. The free booklet, "A guide to Aquatic Plants Identification and Management," is available to help lakeshore homeowners identify aquatic plants and understand how plants benefit lakes, and to explain aquatic plant control regulations.

Four receive special recognition at NCTC graduation Thursday, May 28

Four individuals were singled out for special recognition during the Class of 1998 Commencement Program, which was held Thursday, May 28, at Northland Community and Technical College. A total of 435 students received degrees during the event.

Brent Waale, Lynn McGlynn, Dr. Sonja Siewert, and Steven Carriere were honored at the Northland Community and Technical College graduation last Thursday night.

Waale was awarded Student of the Year and was the student speaker during the Commencement Program. Speaking as a non-traditional student, Waale urged fellow students and visitors to continue the process of learning.

Waale was a full-time non-traditional student who maintained a 4.0 grade point average at Northland. Besides being a full-time student, he worked 25 to 30 hours a week as a night shift supervisor, and he was also a history tutor in the learning center. His past experiences and current leadership made him a students who will be remembered long after his college years, not only for participation and leadership in student organizations, but also for the impact he has made on the lives of others. While serving as President of Phi Theta Kappa, Waale initiated several campus-wide events. He demonstrated an unusual ability to relate to students, staff and faculty, and has used this ability to make valuable connections for school projects.

Lynn McGlynn was awarded Employee of the Year. An employee of NCTC for seven years, and secretary and test administrator for the aviation department, she was nominated for the award by appreciative students in the aviation program. "She is what keeps aviation and electronics running smoothly. Her help keeps all of us at the airport afloat over the massive sea of confusion life can be," said one student. Those she serves believe her constant sacrifices are what make her a great employee and a wonderful human being.

Dr. Sonja Siewert was named Faculty of the Year. Dr. Siewert has been a faculty member of NCTC for four years. She has taught chemistry, physics and geology. Students indicate that Dr. Siewert cares greatly about them. She knows how to make chemistry interesting, fun, and exciting. Lab sessions are meaningful as her students see how common chemicals react. Past students as well as current students find that Dr. Siewert takes the extra time to help them. She gives and instills understanding, especially to her non-traditional students. One student said, "Besides being a great teacher, Dr. Siewert is also a great friend."

Steven Carriere added his musical talent to the considerable talent of students and residents performing in the Northland Community Band during commencement. During the event he was named Alumni of the Year.

Carriere, a 1986 graduate of NCTC, currently serves as director of orchestras at Red River and Central High School in Grand Forks. While at NCTC, Carriere was an outstanding saxophonist and bassist with the college band and jazz band. Following graduation from NCTC, he enrolled at Bemidji State University. At BSU, he received numerous awards and scholarships based on his musical talent. After graduation from BSU, he began his career as a public school music director. He has the distinction of serving as president of the North Dakota Music Director's Association.

Students receiving degree included.

Four awards were presented during the Northland Community and Technical College graduation last Thursday night: (from left) Steven Carriere, Alumni of the Year, Dr. Sonja Siewert, Faculty of the Year, Brent Waale, Student of the Year, and Lynn McGlynn, Employee of the Year.

Over 430 students graduated from Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls on Thursday, May 28. In addition to the graduates, four individuals were singled out for special recognition during the event.

Friends and relatives waited for that special moment when Lincoln High School students received their diplomas. Graduation ceremonies were held Friday, May 29.

Lincoln High School students in Thief River Falls celebrated the moment they were officially recognized as graduates of the school by tossing confetti into the air. Graduation ceremonies were held Friday, May 30, at Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Grant to NCTC and Polaris helps with training needs

Minnesota Governor Arne H. Carlson announced on Monday that Northland Community and Technical College will receive a $375,000 training grant from the Minnesota Job Skills Partnership board to help meet the training needs of Polaris Industries, Inc., in the area of plastics injection molding processes.

A signing celebration was held Monday, June 1, at Polaris Industries, Inc., in Roseau to announce the grant, which will provide this training for over 100 employees at its new plant. The project is expected to result in the introduction of new higher-paying occupations, new higher education opportunities, new manufactured products and equipment to northwestern Minnesota.

"What is exciting about this training partnership initiative is that it will both contribute to the economic betterment of this region while also benefitting a major employer in the area," Governor Carlson said. "Additionally, the training institution will benefit from participating in this program by developing an associate degree in manufacturing technology."

Jay Novak, Minnesota Jobs Skills Partnership Board Chair and Commissioner of the Department of Trade and Economic Development (DTED), added that, "Polaris as a company will truly benefit from this project by acquiring some unique plastics injection molding process operations and maintenance training and the ability to maintain cost-effective products through new manufacturing processes."

It is expected that this project will also expand the institution's capacity to deliver plastic injection training to industry and technical college programs by offering the only such training press of its size in Minnesota.

The Minnesota Jobs Skills Partnership, with administrative support from the Business and Community Development Division of DTED, provides matching grants to educational institutions to develop and provide training for Minnesota businesses to meet the changing needs of Minnesota's labor market.

Pennington Co. DFL board meets

Pennington County DFL board of directors chairperson, Rick Nelson, has announced that the board will meet at 7 a.m. Tuesday, June 16, in the dining room of the Best Western in Thief River Falls.

Items on the agenda include setup for the fair booth coming up in July, a report from the headquarters committee by Jim Langland and Dan Johnson, a social activity report by co-chairs, Ty Birkeland and Mary Forney. Several other items will also be on the agenda.

Nelson reminds everyone who is interested in learning about the DFL party and organization, that they are welcome to attend any and all board meetings conducted throughout the year.

NWRDC hold annual meeting on June 23

Yolanda Martinez of NCTC named NMSCA president

Yolanda Martinez

Yolanda T. Martinez, a counselor at Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) in Thief River Falls has been selected as the new president of the Northwest Minnesota School Counselor's Association. Martinez was chosen for the position during the group's quarterly meeting in East Grand Forks on April 7.

Yolanda obtained her masters in counseling from San Diego State University and has served Northland students since 1991. Prior to accepting the NCTC counseling position, she was a counselor at the Evergreen House in Bemidji, Ventura County Mental Health in Ventura, CA, and El Concilio in Oxnard, CA.

Martinez has two children, Serena 15 and Sonny 12, and 13 grandchildren including Kory 11, who lives with Yolanda and her husband Kevin.

As president of NMSCA, Martinez will promote the goals of the state and chapter associations and conduct association meetings. Northwest Minnesota School Counselor Association consists of counselors and admission staff from northwest Minnesota.

Lyme disease may cause number of medical conditions

Lyme disease may cause a number of medial conditions, including arthritis, that can be treated if you recognize the symptoms early and see your doctor.

Early signs may include flu-like symptoms during summer or early fall, an expanding skin rash and joint or muscle pain. If left untreated, Lyme disease can cause serious nerve or heart problems as well as a disabling type of arthritis. Early treatment of Lyme disease symptoms with antibiotics can prevent these more serious medical problems.

"To diagnose Lyme disease, your doctor will ask questions about your symptoms," said Kurt Zimmerman, M.D., of the Minnesota Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation. "Your doctor also may conduct a number of tests to rule out the chance of other illnesses."

According to the Arthritis Foundation, people and pets who live and work near or enter wooded or marshy areas are most at risk. These areas are home to a very tiny tick that can carry a special kind of bacteria. When these ticks bite, they can pass along the infection that causes Lyme disease.

To reduce the risk of tick bites the Arthritis Foundation offers these suggestions: wear protective clothing; check yourself, children and pets for ticks; and clear away brushy or grassy areas near your home that attracts ticks.

For more information or a copy of the brochure "Lyme Disease", contact the Arthritis Foundation, Minnesota Chapter at 612-644-4108 or 1-800-333-1380.

Large number of accidents reported to law enforcement

Law enforcement officials investigated an unusual number of accidents during the past week in and around Thief River Falls.

Accidents. On May 27 at 3:19 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Third and Atlantic. T-Jay Lawrence Wojciechowski, Thief River Falls, was traveling east on Third Street and collided with the rear of a vehicle stopped in traffic. That vehicle was being driven by Stacy Lyn Hovet, Thief River Falls. Police estimated damages at $2,000 to the Wojciechowski vehicle and $1,200 to the Hovet vehicle.

On May 26 at 5:59 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Arnold Avenue and 10th Street. Gwen Carol Anderson, Thief River Falls, was driving a Blazer north on Arnold and attempting to turn east onto 10th Street, while Lon Erik Halvorson, Thief River Falls, was riding a bike north on the sidewalk. Halvorson collided with the bike. He complained of cuts and scrapes. Police estimated damages at $200 to the Anderson vehicle and $6 to the bike.

On May 29 at 1:41 p.m. police responded to a report of an accident at Third and Main. Ida Evangeline Nordvall, Thief River Falls, was traveling north on Main Avenue, and June Avis Ellingson, Thief River Falls, was driving a car east on Third. Ellingson was distracted by a child in a rear seat and drove through a red light colliding with the Nordvall vehicle. Police estimated damages at $800 to the Nordvall vehicle and $1,000 to the Ellingson vehicle.

On May 31 at 5:37 a.m. police investigated a report of an accident at a local motel. A U-Haul truck driven by Daniel Foster Tepper, Minneapolis, struck the canopy and parts of the canopy fell on a vehicle owned and parked by Donna Marie Kraskey, Minneapolis. Police estimated damage to the U-Haul vehicle at about $1,500, $500 to the Kraskey Tahoe, and $10,000 to the canopy.

On May 31 at 4:03 p.m. police responded to a report of an accident at Seventh and Horace. Cynthia Rae Kaushagen, Thief River Falls, was driving a pickup south on Horace, and Crystal RaeAnn Ringling, Thief River Falls, was driving a car east on Seventh and the vehicles collided in the intersection. Police believe the Ringling vehicle was a total loss. They estimate damage to the Kaushagen vehicle at $4,500. A passenger in the Kaushagen vehicle complained of a sore neck. Ringling was shaken up in the accident. Ringling was cited for failure to yield.

On May 30 at 6:45 p.m. police responded to a report of an accident at Eighth and Davis. Kerri Ann Byfuglien, Roseau, was traveling south on Davis, and a bicycle ridden by Jerry Ray Dudrey, Thief River Falls, was going east on Eighth. Byfuglien was turning left onto Davis from Eighth Street, and Dudrey started to have a seizure and his bike collided with the right rear of the Byfuglien vehicle. Dudrey complained of shoulder and back pain. Police estimated damage to the Byfuglien vehicle at $700.

Assaults. On May 27 at 4:13 p.m. a local resident reported a disturbance. Upon investigation, a woman alleged she had been pushed and had hurt her arm. Charges of gross misdemeanor fifth degree assault are pending against 28-year-old Todde Duaine Aubol, Thief River Falls.

On May 28 at 8:55 p.m. police received a 9-1-1 call about an assault at a local residence. Upon investigation police were told that 40-year-old Harold Rudolph Kokesch, Brooks, had forced his way into the home. Upon forcing the door open, it struck a woman and caused a cut to the right side of her face. Police were also told Kokesch went after a man in the home with a baseball bat. The man used a bench seat to protect himself. The female did need medical attention. Charges of assault are pending against Kokesch.

Burglary. On May 26 at 7:58 a.m. police received a report of a burglary at the building site for the Multi-Events Cultural Center. Someone had broken into the trailer and had taken a hammer drill, carrying case, drill bits and a 35mm Minolta camera. The theft loss was estimated at $375. The damage loss was estimated at $200.

Arrest. On May 27 Melissa Dawn Sonsteng, Thief River Falls, was arrested on a warrant for writing bad checks. She allegedly wrote bad checks to local businesses totaling $891.13.

On May 26 at 4:45 p.m. an officer attempted to stop a juvenile wanted on a burglary charge. The 17-year-old male was told to stop, but he ran away. He was found in a restaurant and handcuffed. While officers were attempting to put him in a squad car, he again ran away. A sheriff's deputy caught the juvenile near the Post Office. The juvenile faces charges of escape, and obstructing legal process. He was transported to the Crookston Juvenile Holding facility.

On May 26 at 9:36 p.m. an officer on bike patrol observed three subjects. Two of the underage subjects appeared intoxicated. He knew one of the subjects had been released on condition that he not use alcohol and be in his home by 7 p.m. Mark Stephen Groslie, 18, Thief River Falls, was charged with consumption under age. He attempted to run away, but was caught. When he was brought to the law enforcement center he became disruptive and resisted officers and staff. He was then charged with fifth degree assault for attempting to kick an officer. While in the holding facility at the law enforcement center he allegedly dismantled an overhead light fixture causing $100 damage and was charged with criminal damage to property. At 10:29 p.m. that same night he threatened and pushed a dispatcher injuring her arm. He was then cited for fifth degree assault.

Driving while intoxicated. On May 24 at 7:01 a.m. Terry Anenson, 25, Thief River Falls, was charged with driving while intoxicated and refusal to test.

On May 30 at 1:04 a.m. after receiving a report of a possible drunk driver, a vehicle was stopped at the drive-through of a local business. Charges of aggravated driving while intoxicated are pending against Mark Perry Supernois, 44, Thief River Falls.

On May 31 at 12:58 a.m. while on routine patrol an officer investigated a loud vehicle. Charges of aggravated enhanced driving while intoxicated are pending against Donald James Kostrzewski, 32, Thief River Falls.

Fire. On May 25 at 9:34 a.m. the sheriff's department received a report of a fire at a quonset in section 28 of Numedal township. The building was substantially damaged by fire. The assistant state fire marshal ruled that the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion due to either sunflowers between walls or heat building up in an aeration tube.

Forgery. On May 26 at 1:30 p.m. an individual reported that someone had taken his income tax refunds and had forged them. Charges for forgery are pending against Rhonda Lee Anderson, 40, Thief River Falls.

Drugs. On June 1 at 12:21 a.m. a police officer observed a vehicle being driven in a suspicious manner. Upon investigation, 18-year-old Melissa Marie Magner, Red Lake Falls, faces a possible charge of possession of drug paraphernalia in a motor vehicle.

Trespassing. On May 30 at 1:48 a.m. the sheriff's department responded to a burglar alarm at the Northland Community and Technical College aviation campus. Upon investigation, three individuals were found inside a helicopter parked outside the facility. Charges of trespassing are pending against: Christopher William Ragan, 19, Thief River Falls; Brian Dewayne West, 20, Thief River Falls; and Rachael Jensina Anderson, 20, Thief River Falls.

Consumption under age. On May 30 at 12:20 a.m. police on bike patrol stopped two females walking. Charges are pending against a 15-year-old and 14-year-old female for consumption under age.

On May 29 at 11:39 p.m. an officer on bike patrol observed two male juveniles in front of a residence. Upon investigation, charges for consumption under age are pending against a 13-year-old male. A charge of possession of a small amount of marijuana is pending against a 12-year-old male.

On May 31 at 1:49 a.m. police received complaints about juveniles causing a disturbance along Third Street. At Muzzy and Maple officers observed three males. Charges of consumption under age are pending against a 16-year-old and two 17-year-old males from Thief River Falls.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

Calls from public tie up phone lines during warning

When sirens alerted residents of Thief River Falls to the existence of a tornado last Wednesday, residents turned to their telephones. This prevented the law enforcement center from making a connection for cable interrupt to alert the public of the warning.

Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe and officials at the law enforcement center were upset with the number of phone calls that came to the law enforcement center. It appears that even the telephone line no one is supposed to know about is anything but a secret. Moe explained that the law enforcement center needs a telephone line to make a connection to the cable interrupt system. Once on cable interrupt they can make important announcements. Last Wednesday they would have liked to have announced the existence of a tornado, which had been reported four miles north of town. That wasn't possible until much later because all the lines were busy.

The next time severe weather strikes the area, Sheriff Moe would like residents seek cover immediately and then tune to their radio stations or televisions instead of calling the law enforcement center.

The following day, there were no damage reports. The Pennington County Sheriff's department and the Marshall County Sheriff's departments did not receive any damage reports.

One killed in accident near Viking area

Krista Leigh Anderson, 20, Karlstad, was pronounced dead at Northwest Medical Center after a one-vehicle accident reported to Marshall County Sheriff's department at about 3 a.m. on Sunday, May 31.

According to the accident report, the vehicle, operated by Chad Bruce Carlson, 18, Karlstad, was traveling south on County road 38 when it lost control on the curves near the intersection with County road 2. The vehicle slid through the intersection rolled over and came to rest on its top in a gravel pit. The gravel pit had standing water in it at the time of the mishap. There were two passengers in the vehicle at the time of the accident. Krista Anderson was one of these individuals. She was transported to Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls where she was later pronounced dead. Also a passenger in the vehicle, was Derick Kristopher Murphy, 19, Thief River Falls. Murphy was transported by Warren Ambulance Service to Northwest Medical Center.

The driver, Chad Carlson, was not initially located until about 5:40 a.m when he was found exiting a grove of woods about one and one-half miles east of the accident scene. He was transported to Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls by Warren Ambulance Service.

According to Northwest Medical Center, Murphy was seen in the emergency room and released. Chad Carlson is listed in good condition.

The accident remains under investigation by the Marshall County Sheriff's department.

Several animals being held at animal pound

Several pets are being held at the Thief River Falls Animal Pound. Each of the animals listed below will be kept for a minimum of 10 days from the date of impoundment listed. Owners or individuals willing to care for the pets may do so by contacting the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center at 681-6161. Pound fees, license fees and any other expense incurred by the department will be assessed prior to release.

The following animals are being held at the animal pound: a female sheltie/husky, impounded May 25, from the 200 block of North LaBree; two female tan labradors, impounded May 27 in St. Hilaire, a male gray and white cat, impounded May 28, from West First Street area; a male black cat, impounded May 28, from the 600 block of North LaBree area; a male orange cat, impounded May 29 from the 600 block of North LaBree; a female gray and white cat, impounded May 31 from the 1200 block of North Knight; and a male brown mutt, impounded May 31, from five miles east of Thief River Falls.

Two pets are being given away to good homes: a female black cat, and a female white long-haired cat, brought to the Law Enforcement Center on May 27.

Buyers warned about garden products promise

If a lush lawn and bountiful garden are on your wish list this spring, a University horticulturist has a warning for you. "Don't fall prey to the rip-off artists who bilk people out of their hard-earned money with tales of impossibly wonderful trees and shrubs, flowers and veggies, even grass," says Deborah Brown with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

"Buyer beware" should be your motto, she adds, when it comes to garden and landscape plants or products that are amazingly easy and productive, outperforming anything else you're familiar with. "Exaggerated claims are usually just that — exaggerated," Brown says. "Anytime you see fantastic claims in advertisements, your antenna should go up."

So-called tree tomatoes are an example. Brown says they are not really tomatoes at all. "They're oval and red, but they have sour flesh. In New Zealand, where they are popular, people slice them in half and eat them with sugar for dessert."

Zoysia grass plugs are promoted as spreading rapidly, choking out weeds and less desirable grasses. Brown says ads for zoysia grass fail to mention that it doesn't turn green until late spring when night temperatures no longer dip close to freezing. In addition, zoysia grass turns brown as soon as cool weather begins in autumn.

"Recently we've seen ads for less-than-hardy shrubs, rose of sharon, butterfly bush (buddleiea) and so called hardy peaches," Brown says. "The peaches can survive in southern Iowa, but they're not adapted to Minnesota at all. You might be able to keep them going with lots of extra work, but even then they die back to the ground each year."

She cautions gardeners to verify that a product is not a rip-off before sending in a mail order. "And keep in mind," she adds that patronizing local nurseries and garden centers not only keeps money in your own community, it gives you access to knowledgeable help and a place to turn if you run into problems."

St. Bernard's School held its Drug Abuse Resistence Education (DARE) class graduation recently. Students completing the course included (from left, back row) Mrs. DeMers, Angie Blom, Amanda Noreen, Lisa Watts, Andrew Yaggie, Dean Haugen, Justin Voecks, and DARE Officer Ray Kuznia; (front row) Kurt Stelboerger, Laura Paulson, Tricia Heaton, Tate Sorvig, Jeff DeMers, Zach Anderson, and Zach Skalsky.

Area students complete DARE

Fifth and sixth grade students in the Thief River Falls and Goodridge School districts, along with students from St. Bernard's have graduated from the Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) program.

The graduation celebrates the completion of a 16-week course designed to provide students with the knowledge and skills needed to avoid drugs and violence. Three separate graduation events were held and during each, a few select essays were read by students involved in the program.

Success is accomplished with the help of many people behind the scenes, but at the forefront of the program in Thief River Falls and Pennington County are DARE Officers Ray Kuznia, a Pennington County Sheriff's deputy, and Craig Mattson, a Thief River Falls police officer. These educators and officers presented diplomas to the following students.

Goodridge — Kacey Anderson, Elroy Johnsrud, Bobbi Dahlen, Mandy Kuske, Jonathan Miller, David Frederick, Peter Nelson, Jena Haugen, Clint Panek, Zane Hawk, Matthew Rindahl, Murray Hjellie, Ashley Stavnes, Adam Johnson, Aaron Swanson and Jessica Wellman.

TRF SuperValu wins Master Marketer award

SuperValu Foods in Thief River Falls was awarded a Master Marketer award at a regional convention in Las Vegas, NV, recently. The store received first place among 500 regional stores for its creative approach to promoting pet care.

Last summer the store held a Pet Fair during which area agencies and businesses also committed to quality pet care, and participated in the promotion to increase community awareness of pet care. Throughout the day, the Humane Society placed many pets in good homes, the area Kennel Club ran training demos, a local groomer taught proper pet care and a pet supplier provided free pet toys. The pet center manager was also on hand to discuss pet care and promote products available in the store.

The award was presented to Chuck and Pat Baxter, owners of the Thief River Falls SuperValu Foods store, and store managers Mike Howard and Rene Parcheta.

In honor of their achievement, SuperValu donated $1,000 to the school of the retailer's choice, which was St. Bernard's Catholic School in Thief River Falls. In addition, SuperValu donated $1,000 in the retailers name to the Asparagus Club Scholarship Program, which provides scholarships to young people wishing to work in the grocery industry.

F. Myrtle Vagle • 436-2133

The lovely pleasant weather we have enjoyed the past year in northwest Minnesota seems to require repayment by sending us scads of tent caterpillars. A couple of days ago I looked out the window at our chokecherry tree at a shiny object on the lower limbs and went to see what it was. There was a cocoon fastened on three limbs and one side was woven around the tree trunk. The whole tent was about six inches high and something was moving in it. I put on rubber gloves and dismantled it and in it were fuzzy looking worms bout 1-1/2 inches long. Several limbs were stripped of leaves. Evidently they had returned to the tent for the night. They went from the tent directly into a jar and when the county agent saw them he verified that they were tent caterpillars or Army worms.

Many tents were seen along the highway this morning and it would be a good idea to get with the program and destroy them before they hatch and serious troubles will face us with dead trees. In June they will turn to moths, mate, lay their eggs in any tree left that will grow leaves the next year, and die. But think of how many trillions there will be then.

The last few days most folks have been getting ready for the first big holiday of the season, Memorial Day, and the day that is of great importance in the lives of so many young people, graduation day. But it is also the first holiday for the newspaper people and this has to be in Friday. Did you ever ask anyone where they were heading out to for Memorial Day and they may say as far away as Texas to be in Texas by next Friday for graduation of their grandchildren. That news will have to wait, at least until next week.

Most of the smaller towns are having Memorial Day programs and many of us will be going out to the cemeteries to decorate the graves of our loved son.

Virgil Rasmussen from Fosston visited a few minutes with Roy Vagles on Wednesday afternoon.

At the birthday party for Agnes Vagle at the nursing home in Karlstad the ladies of the Women's Missionary group served a nice dinner and all had a great time. Next one on the list to turn 87 will be Elsie, in June. They are both a couple of real ladies.

Gully

Sanna Brovold • 268-4350

Another fun day in Gully on Thursday when we had a chance to visit with Bertha Christianson of Bemidji and Leonora Christiansen Fitzsimmons of Wilmar. Both were former Gully residents. Bertha is a former teacher from this area and later Bemidji State University. Lenore is Edwin and Nora Christiansen's daughter.

We were happy to see Esther Thoressan back in Gully on Wednesday and she seemed to enjoy visiting her many friends and neighbors. Esther's daughter, Eunice and her husband David McConaughy from Rolling Hills Estate, CA spent four days in Fosston and Gully area and enjoyed dinner at the Gully Cafe on Wednesday. They also visited with the Patty Thorssen family.

Paul and Lois Grover from Chisago visited with Effie Handy on Wednesday.

We had a chance to visit with Beverly Rude from Elk River and her brother, Herb Oyrdahl from Great Falls, MT on Sunday. They were in the area visiting with the Pete Hopperstad family and other friends and relatives.

Essay Winner Gives Views On Wetlands

Today's guest editorial is the essay written by Liza Phelps, a 16-year-old sophomore at Lincoln high school and the daughter of Ader Phelps and Eugene Olson, which won first place in the essay contest sponsored by the Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District. Our congratulations to Liza for her winning entry.

The Importnnce of Wetlnnds

by Liza Phelps

Wetlands perform many functions and are important both globally and locally. What is a wetland, really? Simply put, a wetland is a piece of land that is covered with no more than six feet of water at least part of the year, and provides a unique ecological niche. From swamps to ponds to the edges of some lakes to the prairie potholes common throughout the lower half of Minnesota—they are all wetlands.

Minnesota wetlands cover more than three times the area of Minnesota's lakes. (Wetland Riches) And you know that's a lot of water. A total of one-fifth of our state is wetland—almost 11 million acres. (Wetland Riches)

Wetlands in Minnesota fall into several classifications. Prairie potholes are depressions formed by glaciers and are quite common in south and central Minnesota. Bogs and fens are glacial lakes without an outlet, and over time have become mostly filled in with sphagnum and peat moss. (Explaining Wetlands) The water is very cold and acidic, and there is a low floral and faunal diversity. (Minnesota Wetland Resources) Decomposition is slow. Fens and bogs make up a total of six million acres of Minnesota wetlands. (Wetland Riches)

Wetlands are, along with rain forests, the most productive natural ecosystems on Earth. Wetlands are inhabited by over five thousand species of plants and animals. There is an abundance of food, shelter and water. Sediment and organic matter collect in wetlands and the richness of the soil is valued for agricultural reasons. Wetlands are being overdeveloped by farmers, and they are more fragile than they might seem. Minnesota currently has only about 57 percent of its pre-settlement wetlands. (Wetland Riches)

Because of the wetlands' incredible productivity, they generate a lot of revenue. The prairie potholes of Minnesota alone are worth an average of thirty-nine million dollars in waterfowl and small game hunting per year, over three million dollars in muskrat fur harvests, thirty million dollars in baitfish sales, one thousand dollars an acre-foot in flood control and five hundred dollars an acre for nutrient and sediment retention. (Regional Wetlands Concept Plan) Of course, the total value of a wetland cannot be measured, only some of it.

Wetlands can help improve water quality. This is done by trapping sediment, removing nitrogen and phosphates from the water (Beyond the Estuary) and by assimilating heavy metals. (Wetland Riches)

Wetlands serve as a habitat for birds, whether they live in the wetland permanently or use it in some part of their life cycles, be it nesting or as a rest stop during the birds' migration. Birds that use wetlands include ducks, geese, swans, bald eagles (Regional Wetlands Concept Plan), red-winged blackbirds, our state bird—the loon, pelicans (Wetland Riches) and cranes. (Wetland Metaphors)

Wetlands are also rich with fish, and therefore make excelling fishing area. Minnesota prairie potholes alone bring in thirty-three million dollars from baitfish. Common wetland fish are northern pike, muskies, perch, smallmouth bass, walleyes (Wetland Riches) and salmon. (Wetland Metaphors)

Besides hunting and fishing, wetlands have many other values. They reduce storm and flood damage by retaining and slowing down waters. Wetlands can reduce soil erosion by slowing down water, and can also recharge groundwater. (Wetland Riches) Bottomland swamps contain huge forests of valuable hardwood trees such as oak, maple and willow. (Regional Wetland Concept Plan) Wetlands in coastal areas prevent saline water from contaminating fresh water supplies. (America's Endangered Wetlands)

Wetlands also offer many natural products. Bogs and fens give us blueberries, cranberries and peat moss. Bottomland swamps offer timber. Marshes supply wild rice. And prairie potholes have furs and forage for livestock. Wild rice covers between 150,000 and 200,000 acres of Minnesota wetlands. (Wetland Riches)

Wetlands can function as recreational sites, too. People hunt and fish on wetlands. They may find joy in its scenic beauty and the diversity of flora and fauna found there, and in exploring the wetland. Fifty million people spend ten billion dollars each year on the observation and photography of wetland birds. (Wetland Riches) And there is the aesthetic value of giving inspiration to artists of all kinds to film, sculpt, draw, photograph or paint wetlands and their inhabitants.

Wetlands have value also in providing forage for both livestock and wild animals, in their inherent diversity of life, in being a habitat for threatened and endangered animals, in retaining waters (Regional Wetlands Concept Plan), in stabilizing shorelines (America's Endangered Wetlands) and in preventing algal blooms, which lower the dissolved oxygen content of water, and may result in fish (and other water life) dying. (Beyond the Estuary)

Hopefully, this essay has demonstrated to the reader the importance and worth of all wetlands, no matter location or size. Wetlands improve water quality, provide habitats for animals and plants, produce useful natural products and are a source of beauty and recreation. Wetlands are a vital component of the ecosystem, due to their filtering and cleansing properties, and are essential to the health of planet Earth.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

People always come up to me and say, "Jeff, how the heck are you doing?" So I usually reply, "Thanks for asking, I'm just great."

Then I usually wake up and realize that it's just a pipe dream. What people usually ask is, "How's Bergie doing?" So I though I would reply.

Tim Bergland is at a bitter-sweet part of his career. The Chicago Wolves, the team which Bergie plays for, is in the finals of the International Hockey League Turner Cup. They are playing the Detroit Vipers in the best of seven games for the overall championship. The Wolves are up 1-0 with a 4-2 victory on Saturday night. Their next game is tonight (Tuesday).

The bitter part now is that he broke his right, bottom hand on the stick (thumb). He was hacked in game two of the last series against Long Beach. He hopes to play in the third or fourth game of the championship series.

I went to Chicago in early April and saw Bergie play. The crowd was 11,000 people. The atmosphere was awesome. His team is full of future N.H.L'ers, past N.H.L.'ers, and just flat out good players. There are guys on his team making $500,000 a year. It's still "big time" hockey. My better half (Kate) and myself rubbed elbows after the game with a lot of the guys and wives at a local disco called "Boogie Nights". One thing is for sure, I still got it.

The Turner Cup is a very prestigious Hockey trophy. It also comes with a very nice ring. It could be his last shot at a championship. It would be his first in the 10 years he's been playing professionally.

Bergie has again been a very critical part of the team coming up with key goals and valuable penalty-killing.

Talking with a lot of Bergie's teammates I found out just what a valuable leader he is. No one in the league has more respect than Bergie. It's really been an unbelievable career. Go Get 'em Bergie.

I should really change what I said about me being great. I guess I'm just average!

Sincerely,
Jeff Stolhaug

Dear Editor:

Two ounces of cocaine will get you 45 days in jail, a $150 fine, and five years probation according to this week's Times. Two ounces at 31.103 grams per ounce at $100 a gram is approximately $6,200 — a pretty good chunk of change for a day's work.

How many times have we read about these slaps on the hands in the past few years and how many more times are we going to read the same reports in the future before someone gets it through their thick heads that the dope dealers are having a field day and laughing all the way in and out of jail on their way to the bank. Probation as a deterrent? 15 days? $150 fine? Give me a break please!

I started researching the past issues of The Times and Northern Watch about three or four months ago for similar cases and was amazed at what I found. There was literally a stack of them given to me and I had only gone through a handful. Now I see that, on a regular basis, nothing has changed since I was there.

Sorry about this Dave and Marv, but an ad in The Times states you are looking for feature stories that would be of interest to your readers and it sound to me like there has been one here for a long time called "Drug dealers find safe haven in Thief River Falls." You have the resources, time, expertise and hopefully the desire to finish what I started and see if the people of Thief River Falls and the surrounding communities want to let this continue or collectively do something about it. Did I really say that . . . "let this continue?"

Sincerely,
Ed Leeper

Dear Editor:

This past weekend I had the distinct pleasure of participating in the Thief River Falls Triathlon. This is an event for which your whole community should be proud. It has been directed for the last 14 years by Dr. James Langland, sometimes under very adverse circumstances including low participation secondary to floods and adverse weather conditions. I suspect few people realize how much is involved in being a race director for such an event. This past weekend, unfortunately, I did crash my bike during the race. I received immediate assistance from a police officer at the scene and also a ride back to the starting line from an anonymous passerby. I was able to subsequently complete the race although not competitively.

I have in the past competed in the Thief River Falls Triathlon. I have always been impressed with the volunteers and particularly this year having had a mishap I was very struck with the number of people who are out there to help the racers have a good experience. This includes not only police officers and the director of the race but also members of the Thief River Falls Swim Club. Sponsors of the race are the Dakota Clinic and Hugo's and everyone contributed to put on a fine class event. The Thief River Falls Triathlon this year is the only race in Minnesota which is sanctioned by the National U.S.A. Triathlon Governing Body and the only race whose results will be submitted for national ranking. I came from Little Falls and there were Canadians who came from two and three times the distance that I traveled to do this race. I think this race is truly an event for which your community can be proud. I look forward to returning to Thief River Falls next year.

Sincerely,
Christopher J. Schubert, M.D.

Dear Editor:

How disappointing that Norwest branch manager Roger Reuter has chosen to take the low road and attack not-for-profit credit unions. One would think that making record profits for the sixth year in a row would put him in a better mood.

That said, the issue is not, as Mr. Reuter states, about taxation. It's about banks trying to stop ordinary Minnesotans from having a choice of where they save and borrow their own money. Why would banks want to legally prevent people from choosing their own financial institution? Because they know that credit unions — as member-owned, democratically run financial cooperatives — give their members a better shake with lower loan rates, fewer fees and better, more personalized service. In other words, credit unions are a vital check on bank fees, preventing the big banks from gouging consumers even more than they do now.

But since Mr. Reuter brought it up, I feel obligated to point out that it is banks, and not the not-for-profit credit unions, which have been picking the taxpayers' pockets. In fact, over the past decade, taxpayers have bailed out banks to the tune of $360 billion dollars. And to add insult to injury, these taxpayer bailouts have come at a time when banks are enjoying record profits and control over 92 percent of the market (Incidentally, not a single credit union has ever needed to be bailed out with so much as a penny of taxpayer money.)

Moreover, it's more than a little hypocritical of for-profit banks to talk of taxes when they recently lobbied for and passed a tax loophole that will allow many banks to pay no income taxes at the corporate level.

In short, banks want credit unions out of the way so they can make even higher profits on the backs of ordinary working families. Your local credit unions are doing everything in their power to retain the right of consumers to choose their own financial institution. But we need your help. Call Sens. Grams and Wellstone today and tell them to support the Credit Union Membership Access Act in Congress.

Sincerely,
Kevin Chandler
President, Minnesota Credit Union Network

Community Church To Dedicate Additional Pews Sunday

"On Sunday morning at 11 a.m. as a part of the regular worship service the new pews recently added at the Community Methodist church will be formally dedicated. The pews which are located in the rear of the church, were given as memorials to members of the congregation who have passed away in recent years. The pews, which are constructed of oak and elm, were made by Northern Woodwork company of this city.

"The pews are given in memory of Lt. John W. Hess, two pews; Lt. K. Burns Mathewson, Ward Mathewson, Mrs. Andrew Bottelson and Mrs. William Korstad."

All Veterans' Graves To Be Decorated Saturday

"A committee of members of the Ecklund-Holmstrom post of the American Legion and of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post will decorate the graves of deceased veterans throughout Pennington county, Saturday, May 29, it was announced today by M. R. Levorsen, committee chairman. He asked that county residents notify him immediately if they know of a veteran's grave that has been missed or is not properly marked."

Girl Scout Troop Will Collect Waste Paper June 5

"To aid in financing their attendance at Girl Scout camp this summer, members of Troop 12 will conduct their second annual wastepaper pickup in Thief River Falls Saturday, June 5, starting at 1 p.m., Mrs. L. B. Hartz, troop leader, stated today. Local residents are asked to save as much paper as possible until June 5 and then to tie the paper secured in bundles or cartons and deposit it along the curb in advance of the hour of the pickup."

From the Editorial Page

"Real progress is finally being made in making the fairgrounds a recreation park. A lighted kittenball diamond south of the entrance is well-patronized. In the infield in front of the grandstand the baseball diamond is being rebuilt and the improved facilities should encourage both better ball and attendance. With this start it is reasonable to expect further development of the fairgrounds as a community park and play center, making it useful throughout the summer months. By the planting of trees and shrubbery, the purposes of both utility and beauty would be served."

New Five-Cent Stamp To Honor Swedish Pioneers

"A new five-cent stamp commemorating the 100th anniversary of the coming of Swedish pioneers will be issued through the Chicago post office by the Post Office department Friday, June 4, it was announced this week. The central design of the stamp depicts a Swedish pioneer moving westward with a covered wagon. The Thief River Falls post office has information for stamp collectors wishing to obtain first-day cancellations of the stamp."

New Solum Church Will Improve Cemetery and Church Yard Saturday

"The Bethlehem church of New Solum is planning a big day Saturday, May 29. Plans are being made to level the church grounds which have been rough since the basement was built last fall. The graves also will be leveled, many have been neglected for years. The Ladies Aid will serve a plate dinner at noon. 'Let us all join hands and make our church and churchyard a place that looks well-kept and that we might all be proud of,' said Mrs. Melvin Ihle, president of the Ladies Aid."

Third Base Ball Game This Season

"Last Sunday was one of the finest days this spring and every person in St. Hilaire who could secure a team [of horses] started for Thief River Falls to see the ball game. It was a large and enthusiastic crowd and we expected to win, but fell short. Thief River Falls had been warned that they would have to play better ball to win and they did. The game was by far the best of the season and shows that both teams are improving rapidly. The score was 6 to 10 in favor of Thief River Falls. The boys lined up as follows:

Memorial Day

"A faultless day, a faultless programme, an immense throng of people in fullest sympathy with the occasion, and everyone doing the part assigned in the most creditable manner, combined to make Memorial Day in this city an event of more than usual interest. Judge Montague of Crookston was the orator of the day, and even the Judge surpassed himself in the brilliance of his able and eloquent address. It was not a routine affair to keep alive the dying embers of a day gone by, to keep the living fire of patriotism glowing in every heart. The procession formed at the Central School house and was composed of the Ogahmah Band who rendered excellent music, the City Council, the Veterans of the Blue, the Home Guards, the Knox School, the Central School, and a long procession of people in carriages and on foot from the city and surrounding country. The line of march through the city to the cemetery was a striking feature of the days' doings, and too much praise cannot well be bestowed on Sexton Frank Tilton for the beautiful appearance of the entire cemetery entrusted to his care. The usual ceremony of strewing flowers upon the graves of dead heroes, the impressive services from beginning to its close, and the deep interest manifest by the vast audience may in the future be equalled, but will never be surpassed in the history of our city.

"The dust of fleeting years deepening upon the graves of our mighty dead and the feeble steps of heroes who still remain among us but intensifies the keen interest and sympathy the nation feels for those who stood or fell in that baptism of fire that saved the nation and struck the shackles from four million slaves, and one can almost feel that not only the living veterans, but those beyond the veil could feel the tidal wave of Decoration Day."

Card of Thanks

THANK YOU

We would like to express our sincere thanks for the kindness shown us following the death of our mother Emma Schey. Special thanks to Pastor Rivenese and Pastor Davis for the comforting words to Pastor and Mrs. Ludwig and Janis Ramsey for the songs to Kathy Rokke the organist, to Elsie Undgren for the reading. Special thanks to the Resurrection church, to all who contributed food and helped with serving lunch, to those who sent cards and memorials and food to the house.

God bless you,
Family of Emma Schey

REGULAR BOARD MEETING
May 11, 1998
7:00 p.m.
S.D.S.C. Conference Room A

A regular Board meeting of Independent School District #564 was held on Monday, May 11, 1998, at 7:00 p.m. in Conference Room A of the School District Service Center.

The following Board members were present: Carl Clark, Jean Larson, Cheryl Lee, Lyle Olson, Randy Twistol, Darla Twomey and Steve Young. Also present was Dr. Jerry Robicheau, Superintendent of Schools.

Chairperson Carl Clark called the meeting to order and Clerk Jean Larson established that a quorum was present.

A motion was made by C. Lee and seconded by D. Twomey to approve the agenda as presented. Motion carried unanimously.

A parent, Marsha Kezar, presented her concerns to the Board regarding the transfer of an LD teaching position at Lincoln to Challenger and the increased caseload that will result for the two remaining teachers at Lincoln. The administration was directed to respond to her concerns.

An invitation for Board members to file for election to the Region I-ESV Executive Board was distributed and reviewed.

The Board recognized Ben Bren of Thief River Falls for recently completing his graduation requirements through the Area Learning Center. Also recognized were the following organizations and business for their donations to school district programs: Fourtown-Grygla Sportsman Club - $2,300 to the Lincoln Scholarship Fund, Eagles - $200 for athletic trainer supplies, Universal Screenprint for sponsoring the softball tournament held in TRF on May 1 and the ODC for donating wood frames to be used for paintings by fourth-grade students.

Close-Up students Jason Leach and Grant Rohl and their advisor Charlie Cornell spoke to the Board about their trip to Washington, DC, in March. The twenty students who participated in the trip this year felt it was very valuable and exciting.

Elizabeth Quick presented information regarding a proposed summer program for English as a second language students. She is currently serving 20 students speaking three different languages. The program would run for five weeks for the younger students and six for the older students. She estimated 17 would enroll in the program and would provide the extra learning time these students need. The program would provide year-round services and be designed specifically for teens and elementary aged children.

Business Manager Harry Nelson reviewed the recommendation to increase the mileage rate from 31.5¢ to 32.5¢ effective July 1st. This is the rate used by the federal government and which has been set in the master agreement. Harry noted the rental agreement with Wayne Nelson of Roseau for Area Learning Center space is the same as last year and would be for one year. Harry also reviewed the recommended adjustments to the 1997-98 revenue and expenditure budgets.

Superintendent Jerry Robicheau reported on the MECC Joint Powers Meeting he attended last week noting that work has started at the Center and that a public meeting has been scheduled for May 20 at 6:30 p.m. Further details of that meeting will be announced at a later date. Jerry also noted that the proposed amendment to the Joint Powers Agreement would designate a fiscal agent to accept and expend the funds that are being raised for the project. Jerry reminded Board members of the Retirement Reception sponsored by the TRFEA scheduled for next Monday, May 18th, at 3:45 p.m. in the Lincoln Cafeteria. Commissioner Bob Wedl will present a special greeting. The Board decided to hold a dinner meeting with the commissioner following the reception.

A motion was made by J. Larson and seconded by L. Olson to accept the resignation of Kara LeMoine as EBD educational assistant at Franklin effective May 15, 1998. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by J. Larson and seconded by L. Olson to accept the resignation of Larry Dominick as cleaner in the district effective April 30, 1998. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by J. Larson and seconded by L. Olson to accept the resignation of Mark Bieganek as seventh grade football coach effective April 28, 1998. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by J. Larson and seconded by L. Olson to accept the resignation of Scott Brekke as ninth grade boys basketball coach effective May 5, 1998. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by J. Larson and seconded by L. Olson to accept the resignation of Tina Marie Dias as Assistant High School Speech Coach effective April 27, 1998. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by J. Larson and seconded by L. Olson to approve the employment of Shirley A. Weechler as cleaner in the District effective April 20, 1998, 0 hours/day with salary and benefits per negotiated contract. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by J. Larson and seconded by L. Olson to approve the employment of Kathleen Schmaltz as cleaner in the District effective April 0, 1998, 8 hours/day with salary and benefits per negotiated contract. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by J. Larson and seconded by L. Olson to approve the employment of Paula Newton as temporary ECSE Pupil Program Support assistant at Challenger effective April 1-June 3, 1998, 2.5 hours/day with salary and benefits per negotiated contract. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by J. Larson and seconded by L. Olson to establish and authorize the administration to post for an additional teacher in the Area Learning Center for the second summer session, 32 hours/week effective July 20-August 13, 1998. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by J. Larson and seconded by L. Olson to adjust the mileage rate paid to staff for use of their personal car for travel after July 1, 1998 to 32.5¢ per mile. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by J. Larson and seconded by L. Olson to approve the lease agreement between School District #564 and Wayne Nelson and Nelson's Auto Sales of Roseau for space for the Area Learning Center for the 1998-99 school year. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by J. Larson and seconded by L. Olson to approve the request of the Pennington County Fair Board to use 400 chairs at no charge for the county fair dated July 13-19, 1998. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by J. Larson and seconded by L. Olson authorizing Glenn Chlodo to act as the LEA (Local Educational Agency) representative in filing an application for funds as provided under Public Law 103-382 for the 1998-99 school year. Motion carried unanimously.

SPECIAL BOARD MEETING
6:00 p.m.
S.D.S.C. Conference Room A

A special Board meeting of Independent School District #564 was held on Monday, May 18, 1998, at 6:00 p.m. at the Evergreen Eating Emporium. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss educational issues with Commissioner of Education Robert Wedl.

The following Board members were present: Carl Clark, Cheryl Lee, Randy Twistol, and Steve Young. Also present were Superintendent Jerry Robicheau and guest, Commissioner Robert Wedl.

Chairperson Carl Clark called the meeting to order at 6:00 p.m. Acting Clerk Cheryl Lee established that a quorum was present.

A motion was made by S. Young and seconded by R. Twistol to approve the agenda as presented. Motion carried unanimously.

Discussion was held with Mr. Robert Wedl, commissioner of education. Topics discussed included funding for education, extended school year, and learning year. The requirement for a different accounting system was also discussed with a possibility for districts to look at this issue. Also discussed were the issues of post secondary options, alternative scheduling for school districts, college in the classroom, and a new initiative that Mr. Wedl sees in the upcoming legislative session that would deal with grades 11-13 and the concept of students receiving an AA degree once they leave high school. There was also discussion regarding tax credits for parents and has the school done any marketing for that provision.

A motion was made by C. Lee and seconded by S. Young to change the starting time for the May 20, 1998, School Board Meeting from 7:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. in Conference Room A of the School District Service Center. Motion carried unanimously.

The meeting was adjourned at 8:00 p.m.

Gully

Sanna Brovold • 268-4350

Orrin Straade from Babbitt has been in the area visiting friends and relatives. Memorial Day is a sad day for many but is also a chance for us to see friends and neighbors who come back home to the place where they have had to leave loved ones peacefully resting when the time comes to move on.

We are grateful for a good attendance at the Memorial Day Service at the Community Center on Monday forenoon and to those who worked to prepare an impressive and at times a solemn time for us. Lonnie Carlson, a Veteran and Legion Commander, welcomed everyone and introduced those taking part in the service. An opening prayer was led by Tari Stage, our church intern from Goodridge. "My Country 'Tis of Thee" was sung by Sarah Brovold. Seth Carlson played a piano solo and Ashley Kroening read a patriotic poem. The Community Club gave three prizes for the best essay on "Life in or near a small town." Those were won by Carrie Hanson, Kim Olson and Lee Forsberg. They each read their own essays for us. Cory Carlson and Carol Tharoldson sang "Star Spangled Banner and led the audience in singing "America the Beautiful." Nancy Lee was at the piano. The Gully Legion gave three scholarships. Those went to Nicole Stiele, Carrie Hanson and Lee Forsberg. Tari Stage spoke and also read a poem about the sacrifices and dedication of our men and women in the armed services. We followed the flag-bearers and Legionnaires to the park where crosses and flags reminded us of how many in our area have sacrificed and given their lives so we may have the freedom and privileges we enjoy, but often forget to be thankful for. Lonny Carlson announced the names of those veterans and we realized what a large percentage of our population is in this group and more crosses seem to be added each year. This year, Memorial Day in Gully was dedicated to the 80th anniversary of the end of World War I. The outside service ended with a scripture reading by Tari Stage and the audience joined in a closing prayer. The three gun salute and Thomas Erlandson sounding taps by the crosses and flags. A tasty noon meal was furnished by the Gully American Legion.

Carol and Les Torgerson stopped in to see Arnold and Sanna on Saturday. Carol stayed longer to help her folks with some complicated tasks for the "old folks" like getting storm windows off and screens on, planting a little garden and mowing inbetween trees, etc.

Linda Handy Turenne was the speaker at the Trail Memorial Day service. She among other things, stressed the "Stars of Service turning to Stars of Gold."

Immanuel honors Seniors and Confirmands

Immanuel Lutheran Church held its annual breakfast honoring the recent confirmands and graduates from high school and their parents on Sunday morning. The eighth grade mothers who prepared the meal were Wanda Wilson, Kristi Hodgson and Julie Hesse. Attending were seniors Ross Arlt, and parents, Lowell and Cindy, Kyle Delage and parents, Dick and Karen Delage, David Fox with Don and Shar Fox, Justin Konickson and Neil and Ginger Konickson and Joena Rowertz with Terry and Heidi Rowertz. Confirmands were Steph Barberich and parents, John and Stacey Barberich, Emily Hagen with Don and Connie Hagen, Alisha Larson and her mom, Lori Tillett, Todd Willett with Rebecca and Tom Willett and Philip Zimpel and his parents, John and Cathy Zimpel. Other guests were Pastor Johnson who spoke briefly and Jim and Deb DuChamp with Deb speaking for the Sunday School. Also, Goodwin and Lucille Kvasager with Lucille bringing greetings from the WELCA and Merlin Carlson speaking for the congregation.

Sunday School Recesses

Immanuel Sunday School was in session for the final Sunday of this term on May 17. During the church services both the primary and senior departments provided special music for the morning church service and Deb DuChamp, superintendent, handed out many awards for attendance and special achievements. Todd Willett was given a gift and special recognition for 12 years of perfect attendance, and the teachers who had served this year were given potted plants. Following the service Karen and Eldon Vigstol provided a decorated cake and ice cream in honor of Carolyn, Tammy and Kyrsten Bjarke who will be leaving soon to join their father, Jerry Bjarke in San Diego. The children and their mother, Barb, have spent a year here with grandparents, John and Clara Holley. The church was well-filled and it is the hope of the administration and congregation that families will continue to be in church regularly through the summer and be ready for the new term of Sunday school next fall.

Howard and Margaret Greenwald were Sunday visitors of Harvey and Mary Ann Gagner of Mentor. In the evening they visited with Mike and Sandy Greenwald.

Frances Schiefert and Lorena Westerlund visited on Sunday evening with Pel Larson.

Hazel Ollie and Sharon Iverson spent Sunday afternoon with Jennie Norman of Red Lake Falls and then attended the Evergreen Cemetery meeting.

Attending the graduation and reception for Troy Magnell, son of Randall and Nancy Magnell of Oklee were Lloyd and Wavell Sorenson, Rebecca Willett, Sheila Gerardy and children, Karl and Rita Sorenson and family and Art and Avis Froiland.

Kindergarten Graduation

Ten kindergarthers who have been in school under the guidance of Laurie Dudon had a little graduation program on Monday. A program was given followed by punch and cake. Students the past term were Kyrsten Bjarke, Trishia Braaton, Brett Gerardy, Casey Goulet, Jacob Malwitz, Thomas Morinville, Cole Nymann, Alexandria Schill, Ashley Schmitz and Jeffery Sorenson.

Lloyd and Wavell Sorenson and Willie Prostogaard attended the kindergarten graduation at the school. Grandsons, Brett Gerardy and Jeffery Sorenson were in the class. In the evening they attended the sixth grade graduation of Jennifer Magnell, daughter of Randall and Nancy Magnell and for Charles Magnell, son of Wesley and Penny Magnell at the Oklee School.

Rick Greenwald of Stacy is spending a few days at the home of his parents, Howard and Margaret Greenwald.

Recent visitors of Bernice Peterson have been June and Norman Vorsdahl of Winger, LaVurne Grimm and Doris Nelson of Oklee, Leroy Engesether of Bemidji and Mil Peterson of Plummer.

Community Club Meets

The Community Club met on Monday evening at the hall with 28 people in attendance. The main business was voting on senior scholarships. During the lunch Don Fox gave an interesting report on his trip to the national science exhibition in Fort Worth, TX with student winner, Sarah Hagge. Lunch was served by Howard LaFayette and Art and Gloria Fossum. Door prizes of $10.00 and $5.00 were won by Eddy Eskeli and Art Hanson 00 were won by Eddy Eskeli and Art Hanson.

Birthday for Ray

Friends who helped Ray Nenonen celebrate his birthday on Tuesday were Amelia Eskeli, Melvin and Rosemary Eskeli, Eddy Eskeli, Fern Eskeli, Fern Whitney and Lorena Westerlund.

Frances Schiefert helped sister-in-law, Ezella Schiefert of Red Lake Falls celebrate her birthday on Tuesday.

Ellie Byer visited Bertha Hughes on Tuesday afternoon at her home in Thief River Falls.

An Awards Day was held at Plummer High School on Tuesday with many awards given for attendance, music, athletics, math and science, speech, etc. Perhaps there will be more on this next week.

Avis Froiland spent Tuesday with Dergloit Langlie in Thief River Falls. Arlene Wagner of Fisher was there, too, on a visit. They were coffee guests later at Ed Langlie's, also of Thief River Falls.

ECFE Graduation

Children who graduated from the Early Childhood Family Education had a little program on Tuesday at school. Their teachers have been Margaret Hemrum and JoyAnn Dahl. The children had a number of songs to sing for the parents and grandparents which is always enjoyable. Students who are now ready for next fall's kindergarten session are Brady Bakken, Emily Bakken, Racheal Johnsrud, Shannon Lee, Kevin Longlin, Haylie Malwitz, Tyler Planie, Emily Rondeau, Dylan Styles, Lindsey Torkelson and Lacey Willett. Refreshments of cup cakes and punch were served afterwards.

Avis Froiland had a coffee guest, Wavell Sorenson, on Wednesday afternoon.

Correction: Frances Schiefert and I had a good laugh over my mistake last week in reporting her first grandchild. It should have been her 21st. Sorry about that, I should have known better.

International Science Fair

On May 9-17, Sarah Hagge, freshman at PHS, along with Don Fox, instructor, attended the International Science and Engineering Fair held in Fort Worth, TX. There were 1,122 projects displayed which included exhibits from 34 countries. The opening ceremonies were held at Billy Bob's located in the stockyards in Fort Worth. This is where huge cattle sales would take place as the cattle were herded down the Chisholm Trail. On the way home they stopped in Oklahoma City to see the remains of the Federal Building that was bombed. A person who was in the building at the time of the bombing spoke of his experiences. All in all, it was a very interesting week. This was the fourth ISEF attended by a Plummer student. Previous students were Rod Shand and Shannon Fisher who attended two different years. Thanks to Don for this interesting article.

Attending the graduation open house for Wyatt Vettleson on May 17 were Jim and Deb DuChamp, Bunny DuChamp, Marci DuChamp and Steve Kiealy, Chris DuChamp and Bobbi Barberich. Wyatt is the son of Wayne and Deb Vettleson of Oklee.

Albert and Evelyn Tarvo attended the open house for Concordia College graduate Amy Tervola, daughter of Kenny and Karen Tervola of New York Mills. She is a grand niece of the Tarvo's and this was on May 17.

George and Rosemary Berger of Dickinson, ND were recent visitors of her brothers, Joe and Helen Fisher and Al and Lorraine Fisher.

Kathy Juneau attended the Christian Women's meeting in TRF last Tuesday. The program centered around Sytionnde Mai, Norwegian Independence Day.

Sixth Grade Trip

The annual sixth grade trip to the Cities happened last week on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 19 - 20. Leaving early on Tuesday, they toured the Capitol building, Science Museum, Omni Theater, checked in at the Kelly Inn where they stayed and attended a Twin's game. Two from the class, Tiffany and Jordan, came home with home-run baseballs! Nick and Thomas, who gave me this story, said their favorite experience of the trip was "The Axe" at Camp Snoopy in the Mall of America, which they enjoyed on Wednesday before coming home. Students making the trip were Caleb Jacobson, Matt Olson, Jordan Juneau, Thomas Bjarke, Nick Brusiad, John Hagen, Tiffany Malwitz, Katie Bushollo, Ashley Konickson, Amber Wosllako, Lacey Gustafson, Kristen Vaaek, Stephanie Oualley, Haley Wollas and Jessica Kokasch. They were accompanied by their teacher, Dan Brusiad and bus driver, Florence Tvedt and arrived home safely on Wednesday. Thanks, Nick and Thomas!

Seniors Meet

Plummer Senior Citizens met on Thursday with the noon meal served by members M-Z. The list of birthdays included Alvin Johnson, Esther Waller, Lorena Westerlund, Walter Kalschke, Art Hanson, Burton Carlson and Wilma Arlt. Esther and Art were present and led the lunch line. Rick Greenwald was a guest. President Edna Hyde called the meeting to order and the flag pledge and reports were given. The Senior Olympics to be held in Crookston were discussed. Anyone interested should contact Hazel Ollie. Howard Greenwald asked for help in managing the nickel hunt at the county fair and a donation of money. Our club will sponsor this and voted to give $25.00. Members voted on the six applicants for two $100.00 scholarships to be given at graduation. Edna had a reading on what happens when you're old. $2.00 door prizes went to Harriet Norman and Hazel Ollie. The next meeting will be the annual picnic on June 18 with everyone bringing food and guests if you wish. The regional spelling bee will also be held that afternoon. The meeting adjourned and we had the local spelling bee. Contestants were Frances Schiefert, Clara Hesse, Evelyn Tervo, Ellie Dyer, Amelia Eskeli and Hazel Ollie. Winners were first Ellie, second Clara and third Hazel. Carole Konickson from the school was the pronouncer with Edna Hyde and Dunny DuChamp acting as judges. See you at the June meeting!

Wavell Sorenson attended the Awards Day ceremony at school last week. Her grandchildren Kassendra and John Sorenson were among the students who had perfect attendance.

Chris DuChamp attended the graduation of Dobbi Berberich on May 22 from Bemidji State University.

Kathleen Drasgalls of Bismarck, ND came on Friday to spend Memorial weekend with her parents, Carl and Eunice Koskela. On Monday evening the three of them were supper guests of Linda and Brent Hemley.

UND Aerospace to offer flight courses at NCTC

Students of Thief River Falls' Northland Community and Technical College will be able to learn to fly and earn college credit starting this fall quarter. UND Aerospace at the University of North Dakota will teach the course and credits will be transferable to aviation programs at UND or the University of Minnesota at Crookston.

"UND Aerospace has had a long-standing relationship with Northland Community and Technical College, with many graduates of their Aviation Maintenance program transferring to UND to complete four-year degrees," said UND Aerospace Dean, John Odegard. "We are pleased to be able to expand our partnership and offer flight training in Thief River Falls for their aviation students who want to add that skill or anyone who simply wants to learn to fly."

Under the new program, UND Aerospace instructors and aircraft will fly with Northland students from the Thief River Falls Airport. Ground school will be taught in the evenings from the University of Minnesota at Crookston campus via Interactive TV. UND Aerospace also provides a full range of flight training courses in Crookston as part of UMC's Agricultural Aviation degree offerings.

"This is an excellent opportunity for our students to take advantage of a quality educational program," said Northland Community and Technical College President, Dr. Orley Gunderson. "This is also an example of how higher educational institutions can work together to make the best use of our resources and provide new opportunities for our students. We've worked with John Odegard and UND Aerospace since 1981 and we're excited to be able to grow our relationship because it's so important for our students."

Northland Community and Technical College offers a wide range associate degree, diploma and certificate programs in technical and professional fields including Aviation Maintenance. For more information, contact Northland Community and Technical College at 218-681-0829 or 1-800-959-6282.

Stephanie Leach is Miss TRF candidate

(This is the fourth in a series of articles about candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the official Miss America Preliminary Scholarship Pageant to be conducted at the Lincoln high school auditorium at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, June 27. Other candidates will be featured in succeeding issues of The Times and Northern Watch.)

Stephanie Leach

Athletics and academics don't always mix well, but they made a good match at Lincoln high school for Stephanie Leach. She maintained a high grade point average while lettering in three sports and serving as a captain in two of them.

Daughter of Stan and Maggie Leach, 18-year-old Stephanie has an older sister Sarah, 21 and younger sister Rebecca, 16. Her dad is a special agent for the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension and her mother is a water plan coordinator.

A four-year academic letter winner at Lincoln, she was also a member of the National Honor Society in her sophomore, junior and senior years and on Envirothon teams which twice advanced to state competition. She has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students three times, was a student Rotarian in May and among 41 members of the Class of 1998 recognized as honor students for having 3.5 or higher grade point averages.

Stephanie was a varsity tennis player three years, placing third at the individual Sub-Section tournament as a junior and being a part of the Lincoln team which won the Sub-Section 8AA tournament last fall. The tennis team was academic state champion in 1995 and has also been a state runner-up.

In softball she also lettered three years, being named a captain, most valuable player and receiving the Coach's Award as a senior. She also earned two letters in varsity basketball.

Music has also been an interest for Stephanie who played French horn for three years and has taken piano lessons for four years. She has taken art classes for six years and exhibited pieces in two art shows.

Work starts on bridges

Pennington county highway department has announced that work will be starting soon on two bridge projects over Judicial Ditch 30. Completion of both is expected prior to the start of the 1998-99 school year.

Work was expected to begin this week on the bridge across JD 30 on County State Aid Highway (CSAH) 20, the Range Line road. Work will start soon after the week of June 15 on the bridge over JD 30 on CSAH 21.

Dakota Bridge is the contractor for both projects and has been allowed 50 working days to complete each project. Signs will be posted for traffic detours during the construction.

Ingrid Hanson, daughter of Mark and Audrey Hanson of Thief River Falls, will crown her successor as Region I Dairy Princess Saturday evening, June 13, at a coronation banquet in the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls. Candidates from throughout the region will be judged in interviews earlier in the day. The banquet is open to families and friends of the contestants.

Colder weather slows progress of state's crops

After nearly three months of above normal temperatures, cooler weather prevailed last week, according to the Minnesota Agricultural Statistic Service. Statewide the average was 10.1 degrees below normal.

Areas of frost caused minor crop damage and heavy winds from last weekend's storm caused some corn plants to break. Average height of corn as of Sunday, June 7, was 13 inches, compared with three inches for the past five-year average.

An average of 94 percent of the soybeans have emerged compared with 71 percent last year and 56 percent for the five-year average. Small grain crops are just beginning to head out in the earliest areas of the state. Spring wheat's 39 percent jointed, compared with nine percent last year and 19 percent for the five-year average.

Grad Rule issues take center stage for board

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Monday night, School Board 564 reviewed policies that fulfill the district's requirement for implementation of the Grad Rule. These policies will now be submitted to the state for approval.

A lot of questions about the Grad Rule and how to apply the standards still exist. Glenn Chiodo, district services, explained that they are doing everything they can to assist teachers. Currently, teachers are going through eight weeks of training. Nevertheless, teachers are very concerned about the Grad Rule.

Considerable discussion was devoted at the board meeting to some of the same issues concerning teachers. Carl Clark, board chair, raised the questions about assessing whether students can be tested to determine whether they have mastered a standard. He asked if a student takes a course and receives a passing grade, has the student mastered the standard?

Not necessarily, answered Chiodo. He explained that the standards cannot be assessed, as set up by the state, by taking a written test. The student must demonstrate — some how and in some manner — that shows or demonstrates to the teacher that they know and understand the standard. What concerns many teachers is that this means that not only will teachers have to find new ways of assessing performance, but find the time to assess each student and change the way they deliver information to students.

It dawned on some board members that the Grad Rule sounds suspiciously like Outcome Based Education. While it also seems the state is moving away from the credit system, board members are a little reluctant to drop it altogether at this point.

Chiodo said there are many questions about the Grad Standard that need to be answered. One issue would be how to treat transfer students, who may have met a 75 percent standard in another district. Should they, he asked, be required to re-take the tests to achieve the 80 percent required by this district? Other issues are more practical, such as how to note in a student's file that they were required to achieve 80 percent on the tests, and not just the 75 percent required by the state.

Clark said that it is frustrating because it has been coming at the district in bits and pieces over the past five years.

Safety Camp starts today

Pennington County Safety Camp gets underway today. About 120 children are expected to participate in this fourth annual event, which is designed to provide safety education to second and third grade children. This year, the event will held Wednesday and Thursday, June 10 and 11.

The Safety Camp program concept was conceived by the City of Eden Prairie Police, Fire, and Parks and Recreation Departments in 1990, but didn't get started in Thief River Falls until 1995. It was created in response to the realization that children in their town were at risk of becoming potential victims of serious injury.

Statistics show that each year, nearly 300 children are killed in bicycle-related accidents, and another 400,000 are treated in emergency rooms. Residential fires kill more than 1,100 kids and injury another 11,400. And, each year, nearly 1,400 children are killed and an estimated 170,000 are injured while riding in motor vehicles.

The initial goal of Safety Camp was to bring youngsters together for safety education, and teaching hands-on skills in a fun setting that would reduce the risk of being injured in an accident.

Each year, since the program began in Thief River Falls, over 100 community volunteers have donated their time and talents to make Safety Camp a hug success. Students participating in the camp, not only learn about bicycle safety, fire alarms, and seat belts, they learn about playground safety/fitness, in-line and skateboard safety, electrical safety, the Heimlich maneuver, poison control, lawn mower safety, Operation Lifesaver, Stranger Danger, 9-1-1 use, camping safety, and much more.

The enthusiastic volunteers and unique community partnership between local city leaders, law enforcement, school district, fire department, businesses and other organizations, believe it is important to promote safety. Not only does it reduce the threat of injury, but is an effective way to reduce the ever-increasing costs in our health care system.

Children participating in the event are in for a good time too. Canadian Pacific Railway, a major sponsor of Safety Camp, has once again agreed to give Safety Camp kids an exciting train ride. They will bring their historic coach to Thief River Falls and attach it to their bright red engines. Retired conductor, Monroe "Monk" Poole will be in authentic uniform and ready to punch the tickets as the Safety Camp kids board the coach for their ride to Plummer. While on board, the kids will listen to Canadian Pacific Railway instructors teach them about "Operation Lifesaver".

Registration for Safety Camp began at 7:30 a.m. this morning.

Linda Helgeland receives 4-H volunteer recognition

Linda Helgeland, an adult leader with the Smiley 4-H club in Pennington county, is the second consecutive Pennington county leader to receive the Outstanding Volunteer Award in the Northwest District of the Minnesota 4-H Adult Volunteers Association (MAVA).

Barb Natvik of Thief River Falls won the award in 1996 and Karen Benitt of Middle River was the 1995 winner.

Linda has been an employee of United Parcel Service for 22 years. She and her husband Bob are the parents of four girls—Lesley and Jocelyn who are 4-H graduates and Bryanna and Chelsey who are still active in the program.

The 4-H club program has had an important role in the Helgeland family life. Linda has been active on Share the Fun, fashion revue, awards, program planning, carnival, projects, 4-H promotion and inter-state exchange committees. She and her family have hosted 4-H exchange students from Idaho, New York, Kansas and Indiana.

Linda has served as treasurer of the county 4-H leaders council and is currently a project leader for rabbit and dog projects. She has led the club's effort in Community Pride projects, resulting in tree planting along the river, cleaning and painting of restrooms, planting and caring for flower beds and arranging for construction and installation of benches, all at the Pennington county fairgrounds.

She has supervised the Farm Safety Book project which has placed farm safety books in offices and businesses around Thief River Falls. She is a committee member of the Thief River Falls Safety Camp and has helped with the camp for second and third graders by putting together and helping her club perform a share-the-fun skit on farm safety.

Despite all of the 4-H activity, Linda still makes time to work each week as a volunteer in the career

Linda Helgeland of Thief River Falls is the 1997 winner of the Outstanding Volunteer Award presented by the Minnesota 4-H Adult Volunteers Association for the Northwest District. Previous area winners have been Barb Natvik of Thief River Falls in 1996 and Karen Benitt of Middle River in 1995.

Three local UPS drivers honored

Three drivers working out of the United Parcel Service center at Thief River Falls are among a number from the state and 2,800 nationally selected for national recognition this month for driving 25 years or more without an accident.

The local drivers include Roger Lundstrom, 32 years; Roger Amundson, 29 years, and Carryll Thompson, 28 years.

"Our drivers take great pride in their safety records," said Tom Walsh, UPS corporate health and safety manager. "They're among the safest drivers on the road and this recognition is deserved. In 1923 we established the UPS Circle of Honor which recognizes 25 years of accident-free driving."

The more than 83,000 UPS drivers will average more than 775,000 miles traveled before being involved in an accident, Walsh said. This compares with only 130,000 miles for the average U.S. motorist.

King size art project was undertaken by the students at Challenger elementary school in one of the last days for classes during the 1997-1998 school term. A large paper mat was spread on the parking lot on the west side of the school and youngsters took their turn at adding to the painting. Each student created a pattern from heavy paper which was wrapped around the roller of a paint spreader. Paint of the child's selected color was poured into the fountain above the roller and the pattern was repeated as the roller was pushed across the mat. Disposable slip-on boots were used to protect shoes and keep the painting clean.

Chalk drawing took an unusual turn—actually quite a few turns—in this outdoor art project at Challenger elementary school near the end of the school year. One student started the twisting trail across part of the parking lot and successive youngsters took their turns drawing parallel lines. Other students were involved in other art projects outdoors and inside the building throughout the day.

center at Lincoln high school and the main office at Franklin middle school. She is a Sunday School superintendent and member of the Evangelical Lutheran Church Women at Bethany Lutheran Church of rural Thief River Falls.

On a county basis Linda has received first, fifth and 10th-year adult leader pins and the "Hot Dog" award presented by the county 4-H leaders council for outstanding 4-H work. She has helped her club to a number of awards, including a Silver Award of Merit at the National Safety Congress, county Honor Club awards, county fair beautification and herdsmanship awards, champion banner and Community Pride projects and Mayor's Choice and Best Non-Commercial entry in the American Festival parade.

One of the organizers of the Northwest Rabbit Habit club, Linda is also a member of the Minnesota State Rabbit Breeders and American Rabbit Breeders Association. She has judged rabbits at county fairs and has coached award-winning rabbit project teams in the 4-H Knowledge Bowl competition.

She helps with fund-raising, has spent many late nights getting props and costumes ready for share-the-fun contests and, as the nomination form states, "is always willing and available at everybody else's convenience" to lend a hand where needed.

53 Plummer students on fourth honor roll

Music in the park brings summer fun to listeners

Special To The Times
by Bob Patterson

That good old American pastime of food and live music in the park returned to Thief River Falls last Thursday with a chance to catch JEM performing on the lawn at the gazebo. For those who appreciate the difference between live and recorded music it was a chance to enjoy some true Americana.

You might think JEM is an acronym for Just Enjoy Music, however, it represents the first name initials of John Davidson, Eric Bjornstad and Matt Bitzegaio. Matt is the same charismatic singer heard soloing at the mid-May performance of Stand by Me with the Jazz Gents.

The highlight of the evening was a new song in the JEM repertoire, Light In Your Eyes, rendered with just the right balance between sincerity and heart that is often demanded but seldom heard in music today. Their standard, Sweet Home, held back the chill of the night while it showcased Eric's guitar licks.

Matt's vocal talent and style require a subdued backup that is understood by Eric's sane underdriving of the guitar and John's handling of the beat. The group created a friendly space and filled it with come-alive lyrics from those familiar cuts with interpretations that brought them back to life.

Hopefully, JEM will stick together as a group as they extend their song list and hone their skills at the art of performing. Thief River Falls could use more of this type of summer fun.

view two individuals for the elementary school principal position, it was announced that Assistant Principal Maria Erlandson had submitted her resignation. Erlandson will be accepting position in another community.

Interviews for the position of Community Education director will be conducted next week. Five individuals will be interviewed for the position.

Guns and Violence

Supt. Jerry Robicheau reported that he participated in a meeting on guns and violence. In view of violent events in other districts across the nation, many individuals thought it would be wise to discuss the issue. Robicheau said it was not alarmist but a proactive approach to the issue. Their focus was not just on the district, but the entire community. During the meeting, they asked where does the community go from here, and could it happen here? Robicheau said the consensus was to create a Community Crisis Response Plan.

Iola Johnson feted at retirement party

35-year career ends with closing of American Legion dining room

Friendly, well-groomed and a strong work ethic are just some of the qualities possessed by Iola Johnson, a waitress for 35 years at the American Legion in Thief River Falls. Iola's career ended when the American Legion recently closed its dining room, and a retirement party was held in her honor last night. At home, a number of healthy house plants and a huge vegetable garden are evidence of her green thumb. The massive Boston fern she stands beside once belonged to her mother-in-law.

by Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

Friendly, well-groomed, a good work ethic — all are qualities a restaurant manager would seek when hiring a waitress. Those are the traits that American Legion manager Duane Nelson must have seen in Iola Johnson 35 years ago, and they are the characteristics enjoyed by customers until the American Legion closed its dining room recently.

At 70 years of age, Iola hadn't planned to retire. "I would have stayed on," she says, "though I don't know how much longer." Amazingly, she has never had any trouble with her feet or legs, an ailment that often plagues much younger waitresses. The American Legion — at least temporarily — gave out before she did.

Iola doesn't recall her first night on the job but remembers how her job came about. Manager Duane Nelson, it seems, would often suggest that she come to work there when she and her husband Ormond would stop by, and eventually, she took him up on his offer.

She began her waitressing career shortly after her youngest child was born. Seven years separate the oldest three children from the youngest three children. Iola says, "The older kids baby-sat." And she worked full-time right up until hours were cut "a while back."

Starting her job before the Legion served food, Iola first worked as a cocktail waitress. "You never thought of turning your back on your customers," she remembers.

In the beginning, food was served to customers at large round tables in the back room where the dance floor is now. Steaks and shrimp were the primary menu items with other entrees added as time went by. Iola divided her time between the bar and dining room.

In its heyday, the American Legion served between 100 and 150 meals each night. Business executives had accounts and entertained clients there. Five food waitresses were required to keep up with the brisk business. Three dances were held there every week.

The Johnsons have lived in their home ten miles northeast of Thief River Falls for 36 years, and Iola returned home from her shift around 2:30 a.m. Her children didn't suffer, however. On Sunday mornings she was up to take the children to church and teach Sunday school. "I didn't think about it," she says. "I just did it."

Living several miles from town occasionally presented weather-related driving dilemmas over the 35-year span. "I found myself in the ditch a couple of times," she said. In recent years, she's stayed with daughter Mary in town when the weather was bad.

While she admits the hours were long and the work was hard, Iola speaks of changing the mood of an unhappy patron as being the greatest challenge offering the greatest reward. "Sometimes a customer was crabby or angry about the food. I tried to get them to talk, even get them to smile," she says.

Throughout the years, Iola worked for a number of managers, but some of her co-workers were there for many years, and six or seven of them would gather after their shifts to relax and visit before going home. It is the people, co-workers and patrons, that Iola will miss. "I like people," she says. "I liked the job. I'm going to miss it."

What is Iola going to do now? "I worry about staying busy," she says. "I don't want to get too lazy!"

Judging from the size of her vegetable garden, one doesn't see that happening. She freezes vegetables at the end of the season, and last year's bountiful tomato crop enabled her to can spaghetti sauces, salsa and many jars of stewed tomatoes. She is hoping for a successful corn crop this year. Last week's frost warnings made her nervous.

Her green thumb extends into the Johnsons' large home where a huge Boston fern that once belonged to her mother-in-law occupies much of the dining room, and African violets bloom on a plant stand in front of the window.

Family photos line the walls of the house — studio portraits of beautiful babies whose graduation pictures reveal handsome men and women. Also displayed are wedding photographs and pictures of grandchildren.

With the exception of their oldest daughter, Jane, who lives in California, all of the Johnson children live fairly close to home. Douglas and his wife, Terry, live in Roseau. Donald and wife Peg are in Detroit Lakes. Jim is in Blaine, and Mark is in West Fargo. Mary and her husband, Dan Thorstad, live in Thief River Falls.

Iola speaks with pride of her ten grandchildren, five boys and five girls, who range in age between five and 20. A granddaughter in Roseau interviewed her for a report, and it was selected to be read to an audience. Another granddaughter presented her with a book filled with questions and places for a grandmother to record her history and memories, a project Iola looks forward to having the time to do. She speaks of Mary's seven-year-old Ben, an only child who is affectionate and always concerned about others.

Iola and Ormond both graduated from high school in Osceola, WI. After Ormond graduated from the University of Minnesota, it was a job teaching vocational agriculture in Hendrum and Halstad that brought the couple to northern Minnesota. After a short stint as an insurance salesman, Ormond enjoyed a 36-year career in sales at KTRF radio.

Ormond and Iola arrived home from their native Wisconsin Monday evening after visiting Iola's sister and attending the 50th wedding anniversary of a cousin.

Another trip is planned for the end of June. Ormond plays the baritone horn, and the couple will travel with the Northland Community Band to Australia, a trip Iola looks forward to "except for the 12 to 14 hour flight." Evidently, it's difficult for one who is accustomed to being busy to sit still for so long. The couple's own 50th wedding anniversary coming up next February was a factor in helping them decide to make the trip.

While she remembers going for a slide with a coffee pot in each hand, Iola doesn't recall too many other waitress-related disasters. None of her customers ever got their drink or supper served in their lap or down their back. She did chuckle when she told about how a co-worker served ribs to a customer who had ordered something else. When the person brought the mistake to the attention of the waitress, she replied, "Eat the ribs. They're hard to come by, you know."

Iola's memory was jogged by more humorous stories recalled by friends, family and co-workers at her retirement party last night, a gathering that she had looked forward to.

However, when the American Legion rebuilds Iola could easily be brought out of retirement if the establishment again serves food. As she has for so many years, she will still find time and energy to be a devoted wife, mother and grandmother, raise a big garden and work. And after 35 years, she possesses another important quality that employers seek — experience — and lots of it.

Dimich studies in Spain during spring semester

Kendra Dimich, daughter of Thomas and Judy Dimich of Thief River Falls and a junior at Concordia College in Moorhead, was one of 16 students studying in Spain during the spring semester as part of the college's World Discovery program.

The students studied at the Universidad de Navarra in Pamplona, a city of 150,000 that offers a wide variety of cultural activities. The student population is approximately 10,000.

20-mile detour on Hwy. 200 west of Zerkel

Minnesota Department of Transportation advises the public that a 20-mile detour is in effect due to bridge construction on Trunk Highway 200 west of Zerkel.

Motorists traveling between Roy Lake and Zerkel will need to use the detour which routes traffic south of Bagley from Highway 92 west onto county Road 27, then south on County Road 7 to County Road 167.

Barricades will be set up on TH 200 at Zerkel on the east end of the project, north of TH 200 on County Road 103 and at the junction of TH 200 and County Road 16 at the west end of the project. Access to areas beyond these barricades will be provided only to adjacent residences.

Beth Goddard's essay wins first place in state

Beth Goddard

After winning first place in the contest sponsored by the Thief River Falls chapter of the American Association of University Women, Beth Goddard's essay went on to win first place in the state AAUW competition.

Daughter of Tom and Wendy Goddard and a 1998 honor graduate of Lincoln high school, Beth was a writing student of Loiell Dyrud and a pioneer in girls ice hockey in Thief River Falls.

Minnesota AAUW presented her with a $50 award for her writing about Cammi Granato, a 1998 Olympic Gold Medalist and captain of the USA women's ice hockey team. She also earned a $50 award from Northern State Bank for gaining first place in the local Women of Influence essay contest "Women in Sports: Stretching the Limits."

Beth's winning essay was published as a guest editorial in the March 11 issue of the Thief River Falls Times.

Jana Juhl and Michael Dodds to exchange vows

Jana Juhl and Michael Dodds announce their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

Jana is the daughter of Duane and Wanda Juhl of Petersburg, ND. She is a 1989 graduate of McIntosh High School and is employed at Ben Franklin in Thief River Falls.

Michael is the son of Dorothy Ann Eckhart of Eagan and the late Robert Dodds. He is a 1979 graduate of Lafayette High School in Red Lake Falls. He is currently employed by Arctic Cat, Inc.

A wedding is planned for June 27 at the gazebo at Floyd B. Olson Park in Thief River Falls.

Zoo kicks off summer activities at public library

Prairie Winds Zoo of Adrian will kick off the summer children's program at the Thief River Falls Public Library on Thursday, June 18 at 2:30 p.m. Zoo Man, with the help of his many animal friends, will entertain and educate young and old alike.

The program will feature "Wookie," the zoo's golden panda. The panda is also known as a Kikajou, and participants will be amazed at what this animal can do. Zoo Man will also bring "Vicki" — an animal he describes as the "world's most beautiful." The 45-minute presentation will also feature reptiles, birds and mammals. This program is a Northwest Regional Library touring program.

"Rock 'N' Read" is the name of the library's summer program, and a number of other activities are planned including summer reading programs for school-age children, preschool story times, a summer incentive reading program, an independent library mystery program and weekly movies.

More enjoyable activities will follow the zoo program every Thursday at 2 p.m. from June 25-July 23. One of the programs is a children's talent show. If a child wishes to be part of the show, please contact Heidi Hoks at the library, 681-4325.

Story times, geared for children 3 to 5 years old, will begin at 10 a.m. on Thursday, June 25 and continue through July 16. Except for the first story time, library associate Theresa Geske will be the presenter. Theresa has a background in early childhood and is planning a host of activities, including reading books, crafts, songs and finger plays.

The "Rock 'N' Read" reading incentive program will holds its registration beginning at 2 p.m. on June 18, but children are welcome to register anytime during the summer after that also. When children register, they set a goal of how many books they wish to read. As books are read, the child or a parent keeps record on a special form kept at the library. Those achieving their summer reading goals and recording books read by July 20 will receive a certificate and small prize. Also, coupons will be given to those who have signed up, completed their goal (a minimum of five books) and attend the final summer reading program at 2 p.m. on July 23. The coupons can be used at the "Library Store" on July 23. Participating children will also be eligible for a number of raffles. A flyer with more information about how to become eligible for the raffles is available at the library. Information can also be obtained by calling the library.

Last year's Murder Mystery at the Library was so popular that the library plans a Musical Mystery at the Library this year. While it is similar to last year's program, it has been scaled down enabling students to complete it even if they go on vacation. This is an independent program for children in the fourth grade and older. Beginning June 10, packets can be picked up at the library. To be eligible for prizes, completed packets must be turned in by August 15. Prizes are detailed in the packet.

Weekly movies will be shown on Mondays from 1:30 to 2 p.m. beginning June 22 until July 27. A variety of movies for all ages will be shown.

There is no pre-registration or charge for any of the library programs. More information can be obtained by visiting the Thief River Falls Public Library at 101 East First Street or calling 681-4325.

Kotrba and Konickson to say vows June 27

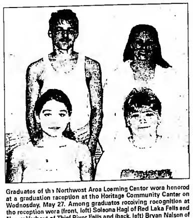
June 27 has been chosen as the date for the wedding of Desiree Ann Kotrba and Terry John Konickson.

Desiree is the daughter of John Kotrba of Gilbert, AZ and Arlene Kotrba of Verdi, NV. Terry's parents are John and Leona Konickson of Plummer.

The wedding will be held at 5 p.m. at Faith Lutheran Church in Goodridge. A reception and dance will follow at the Goodridge Community Center.

Dance at Heritage Center Thursday

Chuck Gust will provide the music for the Heritage Center dance from 7 to 10 p.m. on Thursday, June 11. Refreshments will be served.



Graduates of the Northwest Area Learning Center were honored at a graduation reception at the Heritage Community Center on Wednesday, May 27. Among graduates receiving recognition at the reception were (front, left) Soleona Hagl of Red Lake Falls and Nancy Verbout of Thief River Falls and (back, left) Bryan Nelson of Thief River Falls and Jaime Violette of Red Lake Falls.

A silent auction at Rendle's Ben Franklin in Thief River Falls held earlier this spring netted over $2,000 for the Violence Intervention Project. Bids for 20 of the popular toys were accepted between April 20 and April 26. Accepting a check from Paula Randle, manager of Rendle's Ben Franklin, is Donise Sovigny, director of the Violence Intervention Project.

Rachel Marshall and Enoch Evenson to wed

Everett and Diane Marshall of Thief River Falls are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter, Rachael Ann to Enoch Chevrant Evenson, son of William Evenson, also of Thief River Falls.

Rachael is a 1998 graduate of Concordia College in Moorhead. She earned a Bachelors degree in Art Studio, Theater, and English Writing. Enoch is pursuing a degree in Education. Both are graduates of Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls.

Following a July 11 wedding, the couple will make their home in St. Paul.

Redeemer Lutheran Church announces summer schedule

Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls began its summer schedule on Sunday, June 7 with services at 8:15 and 10:30 a.m.

The traditional 8:15 services will be held in the sanctuary with Holy Communion served on the first and third Sundays of each month.

During June, July and August, the 10:30 a.m. service will be held outdoors in the backyard at Redeemer. Services will vary from Sunday to Sunday — from old time gospel to contemporary Christian music. A guest will be featured on the last Sunday of each month.

Cathy Erickson and her band will provide music for the outdoor service on June 28. Dress is casual and worshippers are welcome to bring their own lawn chairs.

Everyone is welcome at Redeemer Lutheran Church at 1300 East Nora Street in Thief River Falls.

Northwest Area Learning Center held reception for graduates

A reception for graduates of the Northwest Area Learning Center (ALC) was held on May 27 at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls.

The program included a welcome and introductions by Wayne Johaneson, comments by Superintendent Dr. Jerry Robicheau, a brief history of the ALC by Peter Solem, recognition of graduates by ALC staff and closing comments by Jim Goldesberry.

Approximately 23 students received diplomas from the ALC this year. The mission of the Northwest Area Learning Center is to provide an alternative approach to traditional education that will help students achieve success in developing individual skills and talents as well as promote life-long learning. This will be accomplished by a "holistic" approach to the student's needs within a climate of mutual respect and friendship.

We Are So Thankful

Thank you to the many people who supported us during the illness and death of our dear mother, grandmother and great grandmother, who died May 18, 1998. Inga enjoyed the many cards, letters, and visits from her friends and neighbors during her stay at Valley Home and CNC I at Northwest Medical Center, Thief River Falls.

INGA COAN,

The staff at Valley Home and CNC were always kind and provided constant, loving care. Thank you.

Special thanks to Pastors Bob Dahlen and Terry Olson for their many visits and kind words. Thank you, Pastor Dahlen, for the special funeral services.

Many other people made the day of Inga's funeral a little easier. These included: the Faith Lutheran Church Women for the delicious lunch and the banner at the front of the church, the pall bearers, Joy Nordby for the beautiful music, and of course, Green Funeral Home. Thank you.

Thank you to all our neighbors and friends who brought food to our homes, sent flowers, called with comforting words, and showed your concern in a variety of ways.

God Bless You,
The Family of INGA COAN.

...Fingernails? (Have I Run Out of Ideas?)

Ah, spring, green grass growing, trees sprouting leaves, flowers being planted in fresh black dirt. Speaking of planting flowers in black dirt, what about those fingernails?

I always admired those fancy, glamorous long nails that other women have and I decided to grow some of my own. I did grow some. They grew long and luxuriant and hard as - nails, pardon the pun. They were so hard, in fact, that I sometimes used them to tighten screws. I typed with the tips of them. I stabbed them into stuff I wanted to pick up. Then I fussed with them, shining and filing and, in other words, spending entirely too much of my time on them. They weren't polished, because I have this thing about nails that aren't perfectly polished. But, although they were bare of polish, they were fancy and glamorous enough.

Then I planted my flower bed and potted some other flowers. I began to dislike my glamorous fingernails. They collected dirt. I cleaned and cleaned them and finally took a toothbrush to them, along with the Ajax cleanser. I wondered if they were ever really clean.

The fancy fingernails began to irritate me in other ways. Typing with the tips of them wasn't working - I was hitting the wrong keys. The nails were in the way when I washed dishes - I used them to scrape stuff out of the corners of pots and pans. They were in the way when I cooked - my pie crusts and rolled cookies had little half-moons in them. They poked right through my see-through food wrap and I couldn't handle the potato peeler any more. Slicing things was nearly impossible because the nails were always there in the way, ready to be sliced themselves.

I scratched myself with them. They got caught in clothing. They poked into my bath sponge and bars of soap. They poked my little grandson. I couldn't turn the pages of books. My thimble didn't fit. I couldn't button my shirts. They poked into the ends of my rubber gloves.

I began to hate the long nails. I decided to get rid of them, but this was not an easy thing to do. By this time, the nails had grown to such a length, and were so hard, that it would take some long soaking to even cut them with a trimmer, let alone file them back to their neat and short length, and I couldn't seem to find the time. I grumbled and mumbled around about them, getting more and more crabby as the days went on.

Friday I finally found time to get rid of them. Along with the nails went my attempt at being glamorous. Too bad, but I think I'm not the glamorous type anyway. My fingers are back to being my own.

So, I'm glad rid of my long nails and can now dig around in the dirt to my heart's content this spring, knowing my nails will be quick-to-clean. I'll simply admire other ladies' glamorous nails and let them have the fuss and bother of caring for them. Me, I'll stick to my short, practical, dig-in-the dirt nails, thank you.

Mike Melby Realty received a First Dollar award from the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors recently. Mike Melby, broker, Merilyn Nelson-Brink, associate broker, and Melinda Sorenson, realtor, opened an office in the "State Farm" building at 1304 North Main on April 15. Melby has lived in Thief River Falls his entire life. Melby enjoys working in his new office, and encourages everyone to stop by. Pictured from left are: Judy Melby, office manager, Roxi Sorvig, chamber of commerce, Mike Melby, Melinda Sorenson, and Merilyn Nelson-Brink.

18 MCC students receive Presidential Fitness awards

Eighteen students in grades seven through 10 at Marshall County Central high school in Newfolden received Presidential Fitness awards for meeting the standards set by the President's Council in the five categories of shuttle run, sit and reach, sit ups, push ups or pull ups and the mile run.

Earning the awards were sophomores Tiffany Bring, Kristi Kilen, Christina Hagen and Mandi Blawat, freshmen Julie Hodny, Kayla Gast and Waylon Hirst, eighth graders Josh Larson, Amanda Blazejewski, Alicia Halvorson, Andy Larson, Morea Steinhauer and Garrett Swan and seventh graders Savanna Oonarski, Janell Ouray, Stephanie Hagen, Kari Holmstrom and Megan Weleski.

National Fitness Awards are also presented when the student has reached the standards of the five categories, just missing the Presidential Award in at least one of the five events. Some of these award winners qualified for the Presidential award in four of the events.

Recipients of National Fitness Awards are sophomores Nick Ueland, Heather Monsebroten, Emily Kragness, Holly Augustine, Jessica Hodny, Jessica Kuznia, Brenda Lunke, Kyle Muetzel and Donna Skadsem;

Also freshmen Jenny Hogberg, Emily Moehring, Matt Waterworth, Tera Oavidson, Oustin Holmstrom, Kristen Johnson, Missy Jorgenson, ShawnOee Price, Amber Rybakowski and Keegan Halvorson;

Also eighth graders Rhandi Halvorson, Jana Lokstad, Oevon Passa, Jake Larson, Cody Moen and Sarina Nelson and seventh graders Jessica Berg, Ashley Peters and Angie Olson.

Midsommar program at Lake Bronson Saturday

Midsommar program will be presented by the Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society Saturday, June 13, at 2 p.m. at the Kittson county museum at Lake Bronson.

Entertainment will include the Oala Folk Oancers from Mora, Minnesota, whose costumes have been designed like those to be worn for special occasions in the Mora area of Sweden, home of the annual Vasaloppet cross-country ski race. A free-will offering will be taken for the dance group of 20 members who will stay at homes in the area.

Children are encouraged to attend and be part of the dancing around the Midsommar pole, which will be decorated with wild flowers and leafy branches. Oecorating will begin at 12:30 p.m. in front of the restored Soo Line depot on the museum grounds. The public is invited to bring materials for the decorating.

Betsy Hoppe from the Oala Folk Oancers is the group's instructor and will teach ring dances to the children's group at Lake Bronson.

Immediately following the program (persons attending are invited to bring lawn chairs), the society will serve coffee and sweets in the museum. Members are asked to provide a plate of treats for the event. A box will be placed on the table to collect contributions to the society.

The Midsommar program is being held in conjunction with Lake Bronson's Rhubarb Oay. Rhubarb cooking and baking contest will begin at 10 a.m. and is open to the public. A fund-raiser meal for the museum will begin at 11 a.m. and a steak fry will be held in the early evening, followed by entertainment in the center of town.

LIBRARY LINES

Heidi Hoks, Librarian
Thief River Falls Public Library

This month, check out our books on how to travel. Whether you're about to go on a trip this summer or planning for the future, you'll enjoy finding out more about different places and how to plan for vacations. For more information, contact the library at 681-4325.

Upcoming Events

Puppeteering classes are underway, but students in grades 5 - 9 can still attend and catch up. For those children in 4th grade and up who want to work independently, the library offers a Musical Mystery program. Packets and instructions can be picked up beginning June 10 at the library. The summer "Rock 'N' Read" library program (offered for preschool and school-age children) will be off to a "wild" start on June 18, with the Prairie Wind Zoo at 2:30 p.m. The following five programs will be held at 2:00 p.m. on Thursdays. Registration for the summer reading program will be held beginning June, 18, at 2:00 p.m. This is open to all ages. Preschool storytime will be held at 10:00 a.m. June 25 through July 16. Monday movies begin June 22, at 1:30 p.m. and continue through July 27. This is also open to all ages. There is no cost for any of these programs and there is no registration. For more information, contact the Thief River Falls Public Library.

Book Reviews of the Month

"N" is For Noose by Sue Grafton is the story of Kinsey Milhone's pursuit of the facts behind the sudden, strange death of a cop in a California town. #1 on the bestseller's list this week.

The Target is another coup for Catherine Coulter. The mother of a speechless girl and the hermit who finds her near his cabin are pursued by mysterious men.

You Belong To Me by Mary Higgins Clark. A popular radio talk show host finds herself endangered when she undertakes to expose a killer who targets lonely women on cruise ships. #2 this week on the bestseller's list.

Web Sites of the Month

http://www.mnbooks.org/kids/ - Minnesota Center for the Book - This site links you to literature sites including the Minnesota book awards and nominees, author sites and the Minnesota Historical Society homepage. It also has some fun hotlinks that inspire writers.

http://www.marycasanova.com/ - Mary Casanova's homepage -- Author Mary Casanova is a delight and so is her homepage. It includes biographical information, a short synopsis of each of her books and the story behind why she wrote each book in her own words, reviews of her works, a hotlink to schedule author appearances, a "Tips for Writers" section and a handy e-mail.

Question of the Month

Can people just drop kids off at the library? The library is a public building and as such is open to the entire public. To ensure the safety of children, the library has an unattended children's policy which states that children in 3rd grade or below must be accompanied by parent, guardian or caretaker in the library. The library staff love seeing children come in, but we also want them to have a safe time here. The full policy is posted on the bulletin board as you enter the library.

American Cancer Society Golf pass available

Need a great gift for Oad on Father's Oay? Try the American Cancer Society's 1998 Golf Pass. The Golf Pass provides over 250 free rounds of golf at 138 courses in Minnesota and 31 Wisconsin courses, too. For a $35 donation to the American Cancer Society, golfers can enjoy many of the top courses in the state.

The Golf Pass is a great Father's Oay gift that keeps giving all year long. It's actually two gifts in one. Oad gets over 250 free rounds of golf across Minnesota, and the American Cancer Society gets funding for local patient service programs, along with research, education and advocacy.

The $35 Golf Pass is available with a VISA, MasterCard or American Express by calling toll-free 1-800-PUTT-ACS (1-800-788-8227).

Local students to attend St. Thomas

Rebecca Mooney and Trevor Lee of Thief River Falls plan to attend the University of St. Thomas in St. Paul.

Rebecca L. Mooney is the daughter of Valerie and Kenneth Mooney of Thief River Falls. The 1998 Lincoln High School graduate received a $8,400 Distinguished Scholarship and a $1,300 Dean's Scholarship. She plans to study pre-medicine.

Trevor J. Lee is the son of Cheryl and Larry Lee of Thief River Falls. The 1998 graduate of Lincoln High School is the winner of two academic scholarships from St. Thomas. He plans to study entrepreneurship.

With more than 10,000 undergraduate and graduate students, St. Thomas is Minnesota's largest private college or university.

Hugo's in Thief River Falls recently completed a major renovation process that took nearly a year. The store size increased from 37,000 square feet to 51,000 square feet. The renovation included the addition of a sit down deli and salad bar, a full service meat case, 30 extra freezer doors, enlargement of all departments, the addition of a film processor in store, and a larger parking lot. The Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, represented by Roxi Sorvig (center), recently presented a More Progress Award to Hugo's, represented by Wally Walseth (left), and Gary Anderson, (right). They are pictured in front of the new deli and expanded gift and floral department.

Tracy Konickson receives Discover Card Scholarship

Tracy Konickson

Tracy Konickson of Plummer was among the winners of a $1,750 Discover Card Tribute Scholarship. The scholarships are given in cooperation with the American Association of School Administrators (AASA), to outstanding high school juniors.

The winners, chosen from a national field of just over 11,000 were announced recently and are being recognized for excellence in many areas of their lives, rather than just straight academics. Students must maintain a minimum of 2.75 cumulative grade point average and demonstrate accomplishment in four of the five following areas: special talents, leadership, obstacles overcome, unique endeavors, and community service. Winners may use the scholarship money for any type of post high school education or training, not just a four-year college or university program.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES
Hold Everything!

Proud parents are sure to display these personalized pencil holders at work or at home. And as a bonus, each one is easy and inexpensive to make! Cut a light-colored piece of construction paper to match the height and diameter of a plastic container. (A powdered drink mix container works well.) Use crayons to decorate the paper. If desired, use craft glue to attach a school photo to the paper. Laminate the paper with clear contact paper, then wrap it around the container and secure it with clear tape. Your little ones will present these gifts with love.

PARENTING TIPS
Loving Without Smothering

It can be hard to be a parent. Sometimes all the advice from "experts" can make you worry that you are not doing enough. This guilt can make you over-protective of your child. Try to be alert to how your behavior affects your child without becoming anxious about it.

If you make mistakes, try to learn from them and then let go. The wonderful thing about young children is that you get a new chance with each moment. They don't hold resentments.

Give your child a chance to be her own person. Oon't do things for her that she can do for herself. Don't protect her from the natural consequences of her own mistakes. Expect her to take responsibility for herself whenever possible.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

If you feel your child is able to hang her coat on a hook, for example, then tell her so. In a "matter-of-fact" voice, say, "I expect you to hang your coat on the hook when you take it off," and then let her do it. You may have to repeat your statement.

The News From Here

Allyson Mann

Aunt Jo

The other day I was writing a letter to Aunt Jo, my great-aunt who recently moved from northern Minnesota and now lives in a retirement community in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, when a letter arrived from her in the mail. I stopped writing immediately, just in case I wanted to respond to something she'd said:

May 30, 1998
Dear Allyson,

Received your letter in the mail yesterday and was shocked to hear the weather in northern Minnesota has been so nice! I remember Junes when the temperature had trouble climbing out of the sixties, never seventies in the month of May! El Nino is certainly affecting the nation's temperatures everywhere. The tornadoes Florida experienced this winter and early spring were frightening and disastrous. Maybe I should rethink my retirement plans and move back north!

Don't hold your breath!

You asked about my love life last time you wrote, and, finally, after all these years, I have something to write! I met the nicest gentleman at the Silver Star Ballroom last month! Jeannette and I were sitting at our usual table in front near the ballroom floor when a thin, white-haired man (what else!) in a dark double-breasted sports jacket stopped by to ask if I'd care to dance! I accepted, of course, and — well, that dance turned out to be only the first of many to come!

And what a wonderful dancer! Smooth, graceful, so light on his feet! He made me feel so elegant, so beautiful! And there wasn't a dance he didn't know! We tangoed, waltzed, foxtrotted, and, I must say, his rumba was divine! Poor Jeannette! Jack and I were so involved with one another, I completely forgot she was sitting at the table alone.

His name is Jack Knutson, a widower and retired High School teacher from the upper Midwest who woke up one morning, weary of the frozen winters, grabbed a suitcase and headed south. He said that after his wife died three years ago, he'd almost forgotten he was still alive.

But we've had such a wonderful time since our first dance! Two lonely souls with so much to talk about — and he's so courteous and kind! Looks so nice all the time, and always smells so good! I feel young again! I've even begun painting my nails! I think I'm in love! Maybe old age doesn't have to be such a terrible thing... Must go! Say hi to the kids. Send more news of the garden!
Love, Aunt Jo.

I put a new piece of paper in the typewriter:

June 3, 1998
Oear Aunt Jo,

Received your letter about Jack! I'm so happy for you! And painting your nails! Sounds like love! How romantic! I'm waiting to hear more!

The garden is coming along fine, in spite of the fact the weather can't make up its mind which season we're in. After no frost since mid-April, last night the temperatures sank into the low thirties and I lost the peas and beans! Luckily everything else fared better. Maybe God was watching over me, figuring the pain I'd endured while planting with the boys was enough for a spell. Unbelievable! Seventy degree temperatures throughout May, and barely out of the fifties in June!

And speaking of love, Richard and I got dressed up and went out last weekend — the fourth time this year! We decided that now the three kids are older, maybe it's time to get to know each other again. Do you think he'll recognize me — or I, him — anymore?...Must close! Write soon! Love, Allyson.

Paul Bedard, 73

Thief River Falls - Paul Bedard, 73, died Thursday, June 4, 1998 at his home in Thief River Falls.

Mass of Christian burial was held on Saturday, June 6 at 11 a.m. at St. Bernard's Catholic Church in Thief River Falls with Father Dennis Wieland officiating. Alex Primakov was the organist, and special music was provided by the Resurrection Choir. Cantors were Darrell Tveitbakk and Judy Dupree. Casketbearers were Matthew Dupree, Ryan Dupree, Shawn Colbert, Jerud Colbert, Andre Bedard and John Osler. Burial was in St. Bernard's Cemetery. The Green Funeral Home of Thief River Falls was in charge of the arrangements.

Paul James Joseph Bedard was born January 8, 1925 in St. Boniface, Manitoba, Canada, the son of Alphonse and Alphonsine (Poirier) Bedard. He was raised in St. Boniface and was baptized, confirmed and attended school at the Provencher School.

After playing junior hockey for the St. Boniface Athletics, Paul signed for semi-professional hockey, playing for clubs in Baltimore, MD, Ft. Worth, TX, and San Diego and Oakland, CA. During the off-season, he worked for the CPR Railroad, Weststeel Company and Buckstall Construction.

On June 23, 1945 Paul was united in marriage to Caroline Reichardt at St. Boniface Cathedral in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

In 1952 the couple immigrated permanently to the United States and settled in Thief River Falls. Paul was a player/coach for the Thieves Hockey team. He also worked for the City of Thief River Falls for over 30 years in the power and light department and at the Eagle's Club. Paul served as a hockey referee, youth hockey coach and volunteer fireman. He was a member of St. Bernard's Catholic Church, the Eagle's Aerie and "Old Timers" skaters in Thief River Falls.

He enjoyed fishing, camping, recreational skating, being with his family and telling stories.

Paul is survived by one son, Charles of Thief River Falls; four daughters, Janet (Steve) Colbert of Prior Lake, Suzanne (Harold) Dupree of Thief River Falls, Cynthia (Craig) Treb of Burnsville and Renee (Stan) Ringold of Buffalo; one brother, Pierre "Peter" Bedard of Ile de Chene, Manitoba; six grandchildren; and one great-grandson.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Caroline, on September 29, 1996; parents; one son, Lawrence Bedard; one brother, Gerald Bedard; and two sisters, Yvonne Bedard and Lucille Saunders.

Randall C. Culkins, 60

Thief River Falls - Randall C. Culkins, 60, died Sunday, June 7, 1998 at Hillcrest Nursing Home in Red Lake Falls.

Arrangements are pending with the Green Funeral Home in Thief River Falls.

A complete obituary will appear in next week's edition of the Times.

Julius "J.R." Kleinwachter, 83

Strandquist - Julius "J.R." Kleinwachter died Sunday, June 7, 1998 at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday, June 11 at 2:30 p.m. at St. Edward's Catholic Church in Karlstad with Father Bob Schreiner officiating. Corriene Jacobson will be the organist, and the song leader will be Jeanne Novacek. Mitch Walski will be the pianist. Members of the American Legion Posts of Strandquist will serve as casketbearers and provide military honors. Burial will be in St. Edward's Catholic Cemetery in Lincoln township of Marshall county.

Visitation will be held today (Wednesday, June 10) from 4 to 8 p.m. with a wake service at 7 p.m. at St. Edward's Catholic Church in Karlstad and for one hour prior to services at the church on Thursday. The Green Funeral Home of Thief River Falls is in charge of the arrangements.

Julius Rossler Kleinwachter was born on March 8, 1915 to Emil and Marie (Rossler) Kleinwachter at rural Strandquist. He was baptized and confirmed in the Catholic faith and attended Oakdale School west of Strandquist. Julius worked on the family farm with his brothers.

In 1934, he enlisted and served at the CCC Camp near Ely. In January of 1942, he enlisted in the United States Marine Corps and served in Saipan, Tinian and Iwo Jima during World War II. He worked in combat communications and attained the rank of corporal. He was in the Fourth Marine Division "G" Battery of the Third Regiment. Julius was honorably discharged in November of 1945.

He returned home after his discharge, and on June 21, 1949 he was united in marriage to Antoinette Stancyk at St. John's Church in Alma. The couple farmed and raised their family in Nelson Park township of Marshall county. In 1981 they sold the farm to their son, Ben, and moved to a home adjacent to the family farm where they have since resided.

Julius enjoyed farming, serving his local government and attending Marine Corps reunions. He served as a county commissioner and was on the elevator board, mental health board, ambulance board, FHA and AAA boards, Oakdale and Strandquist school boards and Nelson Park township board. He held almost every office at St. Edward's Catholic Church in Karlstad.

Julius is survived by his wife, Toni; three sons, Father John Kleinwachter of Ackley, Paul (Shirley) Kleinwachter of Big Lake and Ben (LuJean) Kleinwachter of Strandquist; two daughters, Patricia (Wayne) Larson and Betty (Terry) Pietruszewski, both of Strandquist; 13 grandchildren; one brother, Art of Strandquist; and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents; and eight brothers and sisters, Louie, Tony, Adolph, Emma, Anna, Sophie, Kathryn and Frank.

Donald Owen Lerum was born on January 1, 1926 at Strathcona, the son of Harold and Edna (Anderson) Lerum. He grew up on a farm in Greenbush. He spent most of his adult life in the Minneapolis area where he worked as a building contractor.

Donald is survived by one sister, Edna Mae (Kendall) Peterson of El Grenada, CA; one sister-in-law, Mayvis Lerum of Greenbush; ten nieces and nephews; and nine grand-nieces and grand-nephews. He is also survived by several close friends in the Twin Cities and many cousins in the Greenbush and Ellendale areas.

He was preceded in death by his parents; one sister, Herdis Lerum; one brother, James Lerum; and two nephews.

Esther Roddy, 85

Karlstad - Esther Roddy, 85, died Wednesday, June 3, 1998 at the CNC Unit of Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services were held on Saturday, June 6 at 10 a.m. at First Lutheran Church in Karlstad with Pastor Gary Halverson officiating. Kirstin Olson was the organist, and Ruth Halverson was the soloist. Casketbearers were Rodney Twistol, Randy Twistol, Lionel Johnson, Danny Johnson, Henry Johnson and James Fugleberg. Interment was in the Karlstad Cemetery. The Collins Funeral Home of Karlstad was in charge of the arrangements.

Esther Yvonne Anderson was born on December 22, 1912 near Karlstad, the daughter of Lars and Julia (Twistol) Anderson. She was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith and grew to womanhood in the Karlstad community, graduating from Karlstad High School in 1931.

Esther worked in restaurants in Crookston, Grand Forks and Minneapolis prior to moving to Los Angeles, CA. She resided in Palm Desert, CA for many years where she was employed in restaurants and also sold real estate. In 1981, Esther returned to Karlstad and resided at Oakwood Homes and was employed at the Karlstad Memorial Nursing Center for several years. She had recently resided at nursing homes in Karlstad, Erskine and Thief River Falls and for the past month at the CNC Unit of Northwest Medical Center.

Esther is survived by several cousins.

She was preceded in death by her parents and two brothers, Gust and Andrew.

Leslie Ostlund, 28

Redlake - Leslie Ostlund, 28, died Sunday, June 7, 1998 as the result of a car accident in Redlake.

Funeral services will be held today (Wednesday, June 10) at 2 p.m. at Grace Lutheran Church in Grygla with Reverend Roberta Johnson officiating. Grace Hammer will provide special music. Casketbearers will be Kevin Barrett, Mark Barrett, Alfred Berg, Delwyn English, Brian Holthusen, Dereck Lussier, Bobby Wold, Rodney Wold and Roger Wold. Burial will be in Rosebud Cemetery in Beltrami county.

Visitation was held at the Green Funeral Home in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, June 9 from 4 to 7 p.m. with a 5 p.m. prayer service.

Leslie Wayne Ostlund was born on September 26, 1969 in Redlake, the son of Vernon and Marcella (Holthusen) Ostlund. He was baptized in the Christian faith at Wannaska. He attended school in Goodridge. Leslie worked at a number of jobs which included logging and farming. He spent the last couple of seasons working as a farm laborer in Eden Valley and was presently working for the Red Lake Department of Natural Resources.

He enjoyed his many friends, and his hobbies included trapping, skiing, hunting and working on cars.

Leslie is survived by his parents; four sisters, Ametta (Dale) Zeidlik of Warroad, Sharon (Milton) Wickstrom of Alexandria, Dianne (Thomas) Frederickson of Warroad and Lee Ann Ringling of Badger; and many nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his grandparents; one sister, Charlene Bailey; and one brother, Delwyn Torgerson.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. What is the Social Security Administration doing to prepare for the computer problems expected in the year 2000?

A. The agency is aware of computer difficulties related to the year 2000 and has been working on them for several years already. In a May 1998 hearing before the U.S. House of Representatives Subcommittee on Oversight, Committee on Ways of Means, John Dyer, principal deputy commissioner of Social Security, testified that Social Security has worked to resolve the year 2000 (Y2K) problems since 1989. He said that today over 90 percent of SSA's mission-critical systems are Y2K compliant and that all of the mission-critical systems should be Y2K compliant by the end of 1998. Also, SSA is working on related telecommunication issues, and the agency strongly believes that those will be Y2K ready before the year 2000. Other areas actively being worked on include date exchange with agencies such as the Treasury Department and state agencies related to disability programs. At the present time, 65 percent of the data exchange issues are Y2K compliant and the remainder should also be compliant by the end of 1998. In short, the Social Security Administration has already made significant progress towards resolving the year 2000 problems and is still working on them.

Q. My disability claim was denied, and I know for a fact that SSA never contacted my doctors. Why?

A. Social Security benefits carry with them a work requirement and for disability benefits there must be a certain amount of work within certain time frames. An adult must have Social Security work credit, known of quarters of credit, during 20 of 40 calender quarters (five out of ten years) immediately prior to the time he allegedly becomes disabled. Your work record is very spotty, and your case was denied because you did not meet the work requirements. No actual medical decision would have been made. Also, your family income was too high for the need-based Social Security Income (SSI) program, and no medical decision was needed for that program either.

Q. How many people now pay into Social Security? How many people receive cash benefits?

A. Most types of employment and self-employment are now covered by Social Security although there are some exceptions. About 147 million workers in 1997 worked in jobs covered by Social Security, gaining protection for retirement, survivors and disability benefits. Depending on the type of benefit in question, people of all ages can receive SSA benefits. Nationally, about 44 million people receive cash benefits each month. As of December 1995, about 715,782 people in Minnesota received monthly Social Security, representing a dollar amount of $462,868,000. Other state and county information is available at the Social Security website www.ssa.gov.

Q. If I move to a different state will my Social Security amount change?

A. No. You should notify SSA of the change in your address so that we can keep your record current, but the amount of monthly Social Security benefits will not change because you move. An address change could change the benefit amount of a person receiving Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and a change must be reported by the person on that program also.

Q. How much interest income does Social Security earn on the trust funds?

A. Money not immediately used to pay monthly Social Security benefits or related expenses are, by law, invested in U.S. government bonds which are issued for the agency. Interest income from these amounted to about $43.8 billion in 1997 representing an effective interest rate of about 7.5 percent.

Thief River Falls Legion baseball title won by EGF

East Grand Forks beat Red Lake Falls, Thief River Falls and Grafton to win the seventh annual Thief River Falls Invitational American Legion baseball tournament played Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Irv Wilson Field.

It was a 1-2 season-opening tournament showing for host Thief River Falls. Post 117 defeated Blackduck 9-5 in the Friday quarterfinals but fell to East Grand Forks 14-7 in the Saturday semifinals and lost to Roseau 10-8 in the Sunday third place game.

"Even though we were 1-2, I thought we were pretty competitive," said first-year Thief River Falls coach Mike Wienen. "I think it will be interesting to see what will happen this year."

Jarod Reierson was 3-for-4, Paul Frank 2-for-3 and Jeff Risbey 2-for-4 in Thief River Falls' first-game victory over Blackduck. Andy Harbott hit a three-run home run and Andrew Solem picked up the pitching decision.

Frank, Harbott, Solem and Joey Pribula were all 2-for-4 in the semifinal loss to East Grand Forks. Harbott and Solem both had a pair of doubles and Reierson homered.

Solem finished the tournament with a 2-for-3 game against Roseau that included a double, home run and four RBI. Dayton Elseth was 2-for-5 with a home run and three RBI and Reierson tripled.

The tournament was sponsored by the Thief River Falls Baseball Association.

Thief River Falls' schedule listed a couple of quick tournament rematches this week, with Post 117 going to Roseau Tuesday and hosting East Grand Forks Thursday in 6 p.m. doubleheaders. The week also includes a 1 p.m. Saturday twinbill at Fergus Falls.

Kopari wins pair of titles

■ TRF junior state champion in discus, shot

Nicole Kopari, who went into the 1998 Class AA girls state high school track meet as the No. 1 seed in both the discus and shot put, lived up to those rankings in impressive fashion with two first place performances that blew away the competition.

The Thief River Falls junior began her state meet double Friday when she threw the discus 147-feet, 3-inches. That was almost 16 feet farther than second place Lisa Eidenschink of Detroit Lakes at 131-5.

Kopari followed that head-shaking victory margin with another eye-opening showing in the shot put Saturday that she won with a throw of 46-feet, 2 1/2-inches. Second place Tina Gillen of Northfield was some seven feet behind at 38-11 1/4.

So dominating was Kopari that all of her throws in both events were better than anybody else's top efforts.

"It was pretty impressive," said Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson. "Nicole threw at a consistently high level. It was just unbelievable. It was a pretty exciting moment. I've waited 18 years for a state champion, and to get two titles in one meet is unreal."

Both of Kopari's top distances came on her last throws. The 46-2 1/2 figure in the shot shattered her school record that stood at 43-5. Her school record in the discus is 153-10. She was unbeaten this year in the shot put, and missed first place just once in the discus.

Distances Kopari reached this year were major improvements over her sophomore season when she had a 39-foot toss in the shot and a 122 throw in the discus while placing fourth and fifth, respectively, at the state meet.

Nicole Kopari

The improvements came through hard work, pointed out Olson. "Nicole earned those state titles," he said. "She worked very hard during the season and during the summer to get where she is today."

Kopari complements her Thief River Falls practices with trips to Grand Forks to work with highly-regarded throwing coach Pat Peake. She is also a standout basketball player and a one-time top-notch swimmer, who gave up that sport this fall while trying her hand at volleyball.

She is the first Thief River Falls girl to win a state track title, and the school's first state champion in the sport since Paul Klungness won the long jump in 1962. Klungness won the event as a junior with a leap of 22-0 1/2. He also qualified for the state meet that spring in the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash and 180-yard low hurdles. The following year, Klungness suffered a leg injury while winning the Region 8 long jump – an injury that put an abrupt end to his season. He was knocked out of the finals in the 100, 220 and low hurdles that day, and was denied the opportunity to defend his long jump state title the following week.

It's also noted that Kopari is only the second double-event state meet champion in Thief River Falls sports history. The first was Dave Borning, a winner in both the 50 and 100 at the 1995 boys state swim meet. Borning was coached by John Kopari, Nicole's father. John himself won two state track titles at Duluth East – the high jump in 1961 and the high hurdles in 1962.

Senior Becky Mooney and sophomore Rachel Mathson, who joined Kopari to give Thief River Falls three 1998 state meet entries, did not place during the Friday-Saturday competition at the National Sports Center in Blaine. Mooney ran a school record 5:14.89 while finishing second in the 1600 meter run at the Section 8AA meet and was among the leaders after three laps at state before losing ground at the end and finishing with a 5:30. Mathson had a second place 1:00.59 in the 400 at Section 8AA and ran a 1:01.89 at state.

It was the fourth state meet appearance for Mooney, the third for Kopari and the first for Mooney.

Stillwater boys won Class AA team honors by a 100.65 margin over second place Mounds View, while the St. Louis Park girls beat runner-up Apple Valley 63-43. Kopari wound up in a tie for 14th place with 24 points in a field of 66 point-scoring teams.

Marshall County Central jumpers enjoy success

Marshall County Central has developed a reputation for turning out top-of-the-line high school high jumpers during the 1980s and 90s. The Nordics' current torch-bearer is 5-11 sophomore Kristi Kilen, the 1998 Section 8A champion and runner-up finisher in the Class A girls portion of the June 5-6 state meet at the National Sports Center in Blaine.

Kilen cleared 5-feet, 4-inches at state to tie Jacenta Spandl of Faith Academy in Moorhead for first place. But the tie was broken on the number of misses during the course of the competition, with the title going to Spandl. The same girls jumped the same height a week earlier at the Section 8A meet, but that time the tie-breaker went in Kilen's favor.

"Kristi jumped really well," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "Any time you accomplish what she did – second in the state – you've got to be happy with the results. Driving home after the meet, you realize what a big state it is and how big an accomplishment it is."

It was a major feat to get 5-4 at state – a height that would have placed Kilen in the top five in the larger school Class AA portion of the meet. She cleared 5-5 earlier this spring to set a school record.

"Technically, Kristi was not very good on Saturday," noted Ueland, "but she was physically strong. It was probably one of her poorest days, technique-wise, of the year, but she was strong enough physically to get through it."

The second at state and a third at the 1997 Section 8A meet were the only two outings that Kilen has failed to win over the past two years. She showed signs of things to come when she cleared 5-0 as an eighth grader to place seventh in Section 8A.

Kilen joins an impressive list of Marshall County Central regional/sectional high jump champions that began with Kevin Boe winning back-to-back titles in 1984 and 1985.

Jeremy Underdahl and Kinzie Anderson gave the Nordics a title sweep for boys and girls in both 1990 and 1991, with Underdahl setting a meet record by going 6-8 as a senior.

Tricia Pederson reigned as champion for four straight years, 1993 to 1996, and was joined in the winner's circle by Scott Zach in 1994.

Those regional/sectional winners also collected a number of state meet place finishes – a sixth by Boe in 1985, a second by Underdahl in 1991, a sixth in 1994 and a fourth in 1995 by Pederson.

"We're pretty pleased with the consistency of our high jumpers for a school of our size," noted Ueland. "Over the years, we've had some real good jumpers. It's kind of hard to understand, but if you have some success in a certain area, the other kids can see and understand what it takes. They see their classmates and teammates having success and feel they can do it too. They look at other events being won by kids from the rest of the state and feel like those performances are unobtainable. But if they see kids they know doing well, they know its possible."

Ueland credits much of the Nordics' high jumping success to the coaching efforts of Mark Jorgenson, who was running things when the champions began to emerge, and Kent Warne, who took over that part of the Marshall County Central program when Jorgenson stepped down.

While the Nordics' Parade of Champions continues, Ueland isn't claiming to be hiding a secret high jumping formula. "To be a good high jumper," he explained in very simple terms, "you've got to be able to jump, obviously, and you've got to be a good athlete. It also helps to be tall," he added.

Thieves lose pair to Crookston, Roseau

They were scheduled as nine-inning games, but Thursday the Thief River Falls Thieves amateur baseball team went 10 innings against Crookston and Saturday played only seven innings against Roseau because of the 10-run rule. The Thieves dropped them both – falling 3-2 at Crookston and losing 12-2 at Roseau.

A second inning home run by Ted Hasz and a three-run third inning provided Crookston with a 4-0 lead. Thief River Falls got a run back on a sacrifice fly by Blaise Larson in the sixth inning and then tied it when a run-scoring wild pitch capped a three-run rally in the top of the ninth.

The Thieves went ahead 5-4 in the tenth on a walk issued to Wade Chiodo, a two-base error and a one-out, RBI single by Craig Hunt.

Crookston won it with some good fortune in the bottom of the tenth that included a bloop single behind shortstop, a hit that caromed off the third base bag and a two-out, two-run double by Dave Clausen.

"It was a very good game – a tough one to lose," said Thief River Falls manager Howard Dalager.

Singles by Nick Chiodo and Wade Chiodo set up a two-run Thief River Falls first inning against Roseau, but that was the only offense for the Thieves, who gave up five runs in the second on three walks, three singles and a sacrifice fly. A three-run third inning home run by Bob Moser made it 8-2 and the winners ended it early with four runs in the seventh.

Chip Lohmiller to be at Sports Boosters Open

Former University of Minnesota and National Football League place kicker Chip Lohmiller will be a special guest at the second annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Open fund-raising golf tournament, scheduled to be held Friday, June 26, at the Thief River Golf Club.

The event will feature a California scramble format with a 12-noon shotgun start. There will be a social at 5 p.m. and dinner at 5:30.

Special prize drawings will be held, including weekends at the Imperial Palace in Las Vegas, tickets and hotel packages for the Twins and Timberwolves, along with club house merchandise.

The $55 per person entry fee covers the golf tournament, lunch, golf wind jacket and dinner. Prizes will be awarded to the top seven teams.

Proceeds will go to the Lincoln High School and Northland Community and Technical College athletic departments.

For additional information, or to receive a tournament application, call Rick Nelson at 681-0725, Rick Nikunen at 681-0722 or Jeff Loe at 681-7140.

Personal watercraft regulations...

Thief, Red Lake rivers affected by new rules

According to a new state law in Minnesota, which took effect June 1, use of personal watercraft on the Thief and Red Lake rivers in northwest Minnesota will be restricted to a slow, no-wake speed of 5 mph or less. The only exception is for law enforcement personnel in the performance of their duties.

The new law restricts personal watercraft (more commonly known by brand names such as Tiger Shark, Wave Runner, Jet Ski, etc.) to a slow, no-wake speed when operating within 150 feet of shore, or within 150 feet of any dock, swimming raft, swimmers, unmotorized watercraft, and any moored or anchored watercraft.

"The law make no exemption for rivers," explained Lt. Chuck Schwartz, district enforcement supervisor with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources at Thief River Falls. "River channels narrower than 300 feet, which describes most of the Thief River and Red Lake River, would restrict use of personal watercraft to a slow, no-wake speed. Anything faster would be illegal operation and grounds of a misdemeanor citation."

The change in the law came after much debate in the 1998 Minnesota Legislature over environmental and safety issues surrounding personal watercraft.

"The main environmental concerns were stream bank erosion and the effect of wave action on nesting waterfowl," said Schwartz, "but there is also a serious public safety issue with high-speed operation of watercraft on narrow, winding river channels.

"You never know when you might encounter a swimmer or another watercraft just around the bend," explained Schwartz, "and the shallow-water capabilities of these machines increase the risk of striking hidden objects, such as submerged rocks and logs."

In the Thief River Falls area, Pennington County Sheriff's water safety officers will also be patrolling the rivers to enforce personal watercraft laws. "The new restrictions will be jointly enforced by the Pennington County Sheriff's office and DNR conservation officers," said Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe.

Sparkler Sprint races are planned June 27

Fifth annual Sparkler Sprint and Little Sparkler Sparkler Sprint for children will be held Saturday, June 27, as part of the Thief River Falls American Festival.

Sparkler Sprint, which features both a 5K (3.1 mile) and 10K (6.2 mile) course, begins at 9 a.m. Registration fee is $12 in advance or $15 on the day of the race. All participants will receive a race shirt.

Little Sparkler Sprint for ages 7-under, which will cover a course measuring about one-quarter mile, will start at 8:30 a.m. Registration fee is $2, or $7 with a race shirt. All participants will receive a ribbon.

Medals will be awarded to the top three finishers in various age categories in the Sparkler Sprint, including 12-under, 13-19, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50-59, and 60-over. Trophies will go to the top male and female in the 10K and 5K races.

Trophies will also go to the fastest boy and girls in the Little Sparkler Sprint.

The races will take place at Centennial Park, located across from Northland Community and Technical College.

To register, contact the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce at 681-3720.

DNR NEWS

Trumpeter Swan Sightings

Trumpeter swans may be encountered in suitable habitat in all regions of Minnesota this spring. The original population disappeared from Minnesota in the early 1880s, but restoration efforts by the Department of Natural Resources Nongame Wildlife Program and Hennepin Parks have resulted in their return to larger wetland and lake complexes.

According to DNR Wildlife Specialist Steve Kittelson, most of the swans are in a broad band from Rice and LeSueur counties to northwestern and north-central Minnesota. Jackson County, location of current spring releases, and the Duluth area also hold a few birds.

"A glance at a Minnesota map indicates why swans are attracted to these regions," Kittelson said. "It is where most of the flowages, marshy lakes and remaining wetlands are located." The Jackson County releases are in cooperation with the Iowa DNR Spirit Lake releases across the border, and with the support and cooperation of the North Heron Lake Game Producers in Heron Lake.

Trumpeter swans released in Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin are marked with wing tags or collars and aluminum leg bands. The wing tags are orange or green; collars may be yellow or green. The markers have a code of letters and numbers unique to each individual swan. "This is where the public can assist in the restoration of this species," Kittelson said. "A constant effort is under way to track the free-flying released birds."

All swans seen from late-April to mid-September should be reported. Marked swans should be reported year round. Young hatched in the wild are not captured for marking in order to reduce disturbance to the sensitive breeding pairs, so people may encounter unmarked birds. Adults are white with black bills and feet; the young are grey with the first year. Adults weigh from 20 to 25 pounds, with some males over 30 pounds, and have a 7 to 8-foot wing span. Their call is resonant and horn-like.

"Don't assume someone else will report the sighting," Kittelson stressed. He said that the most important information to report is date, location, number of white adults and gray young, what markers are noted (with codes if possible), and your name and phone number.

"Nesting trumpeters should not be disturbed," Kittelson said. "Give the birds plenty of space. Young or eggs are vulnerable to predation, overheating by the unshielded sun, and other hazards when the adults are disturbed."

Harassment of swans and other wildlife should be reported to the local DNR conservation officer or to Turn In Poachers at 1-800-652-9093. Sightings can be reported toll free by calling 1-888-MINNDNR.

Strength, conditioning program sessions are planned for LHS, FMS

Summer strength, speed improvement and conditioning sessions have been scheduled in Thief River Falls, with programs designed for both Lincoln High School and Franklin Middle School age groups.

Strength training sessions in the Lincoln weight room for grades 9-12 will be held Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, June 8-Aug. 7. Session I will be 8-9 a.m.; Session II 9-10 a.m.; Session III 3-4 p.m.; and Session IV 4-5 p.m.

Grades 7-8 will lift at the Franklin facility Tuesdays and Thursdays, June 15-Aug. 14. The same schedule used at Lincoln will be in effect at Franklin, with Session I from 8-9 a.m.; Session II 9-10 a.m.; Session III 3-4 p.m.; and Session IV 4-5 p.m.

Aerobics program for both Lincoln and Franklin will be held Wednesdays at 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. in the high school auxiliary gym.

There will also be Lincoln/Franklin evening conditioning, plyometric, speed and agility sessions at Prowler Field from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Aerobics and conditioning programs begin the week of June 15.

Red Lake Nation honored for drug, alcohol abuse programs

Harold E. Hughes Award for Excellence for "Outstanding Rural Community" has been presented to the Red Lake Nation by the National Rural Institute on Alcohol and Drug Abuse. The award was presented recently at the University of Wisconsin—Stout in Menomonie.

"The Red Lake Nation has always worked hard to improve the lives of our people," said Bobby Whitefeather, chairman of the Red Lake Nation tribal council. "We accept this award as a symbol of our success in helping our members overcome the challenges of alcohol and drug abuse."

The Red Lake Nation has had its substance abuse program in place since 1970, according to project director Giles Hart, who has been working with the program since it began. Substance abuse treatment and prevention have long been a priority for the Red Lake Nation, he said, after a former hereditary chief declared in 1889 that the Red Lake Reservation should be drug and alcohol free.

"We've made a very diligent effort to keep our reservation alcohol and drug free, because we know the damage those things can do," Hart said. "Fortunately, our current chairman, Bobby Whitefeather, understands how important this is, so he has made it a priority."

Red Lake program director Richard Seki said the program includes drug and alcohol abuse prevention, in-patient and out-patient treatment, a half-way house and a group home. Hopefully, a half-way house for women with children will soon be added, he said.

One innovative component of the program is the recognition of the importance of American Indian healing traditions. "Our programs are culturally specific," Seki said. "We give our clients the option of including the American Indian culture into their treatment."

Seki, Hart, Whitefeather, six supervisors and two staff members attended the awards ceremony in Wisconsin.

The award is named for the late Harold E. Hughes, a reformed alcoholic who became a well-known governor of Iowa and U.S. Senator. Hughes became a role model to those who have successfully turned their lives away from alcohol, Seki added.

Experiment station herd leads DHIA during April

Small cow herd at the Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station at Crookston topped the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement Association for the month of April, according to Randy and Margaret Rasmussen, supervisors.

Average test for the 55-cow herd, 93 per cent of which was in milk, was 76 pounds of milk, 2.5 pounds of butterfat and 2.5 pounds of protein.

A close second was the herd of Todd and Jay Johnston of Angus with 90 percent of the 67-cow herd in milk and averaging 75 pounds of milk, 2.7 pounds of butterfat and 2.3 pounds of protein.

The experiment station's herd of large cows was in third place, with 92 percent of the 52-cow herd in milk and averaging 73 pounds of milk, 2.5 pounds of butterfat and 2.4 pounds of protein.

Warren Malwitz Dairy placed fourth in the association with 90 percent of the 99-cow herd in production and a daily average of 71 pounds of milk, 2.9 pounds of butterfat and 2.2 pounds of protein. The herd is milked three times a day.

Fifth place went to the Tom and Diane Kolstoe herd of 41 cows, 95 percent of which was in milk and averaging 68 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of butterfat and 2.0 pounds of protein.

Other herds in the top 15 included the following with number of cows in the herd, percentage in milk and average production of milk, butterfat and protein listed respectively:

Wayne Vettleson (herd milked three times a day), 137, 88%, 67, 2.5 and 2.1; Steve Nelson, 61, 92%, 67, 2.4 and 2.1; Tom Willett, 54, 87%, 66, 2.3 and 2.0; David Oslund, 242, 91%, 63, 2.0 and 2.0; and Walter Bros Farm, 222, 89%, 60, 2.2 and 1.9.

Also Wayne Nelson, 40, 88%, 60, 2.1 and 1.9; Gary and Grant Gulleckson, 55, 89%, 59, 2.0 and 1.8; Beyer Farms, 66, 92%, 55, 2.0 and 1.8; Arnie and Barb Schmitz, 40, 983%, 55, 2.0 and 1.7; and Randy and Jo Gast, 74, 89%, 55, 2.0 and 1.8.

Herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd since all cows are included in computing the averages. If the number of dry cows is large, the average will be low even if the cows in milk are good producers.

Older Workers week set by MN Governor

State Senator Roger Moe reminds residents that it is "Older Worker Week" in Minnesota June 8-12, as declared by Governor Carlson. Moe noted, that of course, many senior citizens either are no longer able to work or choose not to work past the usual retirement age.

"With our state experiencing a labor shortage in many areas of employment, older Minnesotans who decide to work beyond normal retirement age are making important contributions to the economy. Sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Economic Security, Older Work Week recognizes employees over age 55 for their sense of commitment, motivations and wealth of experience. Employers that make an extraordinary commitment to the hiring of older workers are also recognized during the week," said Moe.

Moe continued, "Issues affecting the elderly are magnified in our part of the state because northwestern Minnesota has one of the largest proportions of elderly residents in the entire United States. In fact, the fastest growing population segment in our state is the most elderly population. Over the past two years, the Legislature has taken steps to assure that the basic needs of seniors are met. All seniors should benefit from a variety of legislative actions in the areas of health care, housing and consumer protection.

"A Health Insurance Counseling Program was set up in 1997 to assist seniors in understanding and purchasing health plan contracts. This year, protections were expanded with the establishment of the Office of Health Care Consumer Assistance within the Minnesota Department of Health.

"A subsidized prescription drug program passed in 1997 serves low-income seniors. The program is slated to take effect on January 1, 1999. Those who are at least 65 and lack prescription drug coverage under their insurance plan, qualify if their income is no more than 110 percent of federal poverty guidelines. The state also is seeking a federal waiver to expand Qualified Medical Beneficiary to include prescription drugs and raise the income standard to 150 percent of poverty guidelines. In addition, effective July 1 of this year, more seniors will be eligible for medical assistance because the maximum allowable income for an individual increases from the current $420 to $467 per month.

"In the area of housing, a $10 million appropriation passed this year will be used in negotiations with owners of low-cost federally subsidized apartments who are considering converting their properties to market rate rentals. Seniors are also protected by a 12-month notice requirement when an apartment building is being converted to market rate rentals.

"Some individuals will benefit from a change in law relating to consumer protection. Creditors are now required to consider the credit history of a spouse, any joint accounts, or information that gives the applicant an opportunity to accurately demonstrate credit worthiness. This change will be particularly helpful in instances when a widow lacks credit history immediately after the death of his or her spouse.

"A telephone information number has been established for senior citizens. Seniors looking for information on local services, area support groups and health insurance should contact the toll-free Senior Link Line at 1-800-333-2433. The Link Line also has information on flood recovery services and a list of available home repair and improvement contractors in our area.

"Issues related to seniors will be more prominent than ever in the years to come due to demographic changes already under way. Legislative policies will need to continue to address the needs of this growing population."

Fire caused substantial damage to an empty apartment complex at Fourth and Knight in Thief River Falls Saturday evening. At about 6 p.m. a sheriff's deputy driving in the neighborhood spotted fire coming from the upstairs apartment and notified the fire department. Fire department personnel were not sure what caused the fire. The Minnesota State Assistant Fire Marshal has been called in to investigate the fire. The apartment complex is owned by Ron Northup.

Law enforcement receive fewer incidents reports

Law enforcement officials recorded fewer incidents reports during the past week.

Assault. On June 6 at 12:26 a.m. police were sent to a residence regarding a report of an assault. A woman was allegedly slapped, thrown against an outside wall and then kicked in the face. Charges for assault are pending against 26-year-old Jason Paul Allen, Thief River Falls.

Firearm. On June 5 at 10:44 p.m. an individual reported hearing a gunshot in the 800 block of North Knight. Police searching the area were about to leave when they heard a gunshot from across the street. They also heard the gun being pumped several times. Upon further investigation, Scott Anthony Casavan, 31, Thief River Falls, was cited for discharge of a firearm within city limits.

Accidents. On June 7 at 2:12 p.m. police received a report of an accident at First and Spruce. Elaine Leora Bugge, Thief River Falls, was driving a pickup west on Spruce, stopped at the stop sign and then began to creep into the intersection where her vehicle collided with a car driven by Helen Lavern Olson, Thief River Falls. Bugge's line of sight was blocked by foliage and a suburban and trailer parked on the corner. Police estimated damage to the Bugge vehicle at $200, and $1,500 to the Olson vehicle.

Thefts. On June 8 at 7:10 p.m. a woman reported that her $1,500 Camcorder was missing. She said she had left it at a party between June 4 and 5 and when she returned on Saturday morning, it was missing.

On June 8 at 11:54 a.m. police received a report that a 20-inch racing bike had been taken from Lincoln High School. The theft loss was estimated at $380.

Driving while intoxicated. On June 8 at 9:41 p.m. police received a report of a vehicle being driven in an erratic manner. The vehicle was located, and charges are pending for aggravated driving while intoxicated against 62-year-old Harold Junior Smith, Thief River Falls.

Consumption under age. On June 6 at 10:50 p.m. police received a complaint of kids drinking in a vehicle. The vehicle was located and the following cited: 18-year-old Bryn Gustavson Nelson, St. Hilaire, and 18-year-old John Cooper Holmgren, St. Hilaire, for consumption under age, and 18-year-old Richard John Meyers, St. Hilaire for possession of alcohol by an individual under 21.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

St. Hilaire man arrested Sunday

Bradley Gerald Konickson, 27, St. Hilaire, was not injured when the 1991 Oldsmobile Cutlass he was driving left State Aid 3 traveling east and hit an approach on the north side of the road.

Minnesota State Patrol received a report of the accident at 1:28 a.m. on Sunday, June 7. There was moderate damage to the vehicle which became hung up on the approach after it left the road. Konickson was not injured.

Pennington County Sheriff's deputy also investigating the accident took Konickson into custody. Konickson faces a charge of gross driving while intoxicated.

TRF man sentenced to 108 months for armed robbery

Michael George Guillemette of Thief River Falls was sentenced to nine years in prison following convictions on several charges that included armed robbery of the Petro Pumper, a gas and convenience store in Thief River Falls, on March 25.

Charges against 37-year-old Michael Guillemette stem from the armed robbery of the Petro Pumper in March, two residential burglaries in February, which included thefts of weapons, a computer and other personal property, and violation of a protection order, which occurred in February. All four charges were listed as felony violations.

Prison sentences on the four felonies vary, but were made concurrent, which means the lesser offenses will be served during Guillemette's nine-year sentence for armed robbery. On a charge of second degree burglary he was sentenced to 38 months in prison. On a charge of burglary in the first degree he was sentenced to 108 months. On the charge of violation of an order for protection he was sentenced to one year.

148 FMS students receive Educational Excellence awards

A total of 148 students at Franklin Middle School qualified and received awards for Outstanding Academic Achievement from the President's Education Awards Program. This is the first time the award for Educational Excellence has been awarded at Franklin Middle School in Thief River Falls. To qualify, students had to maintain a grade point average between 3.75 and 4.00.

A letter from the White House and signed by President Bill Clinton, congratulated the students and noted that "Mrs. Clinton and I are happy to join your teachers, family, and friends and recognizing this wonderful achievement. This award is a special recognition of your hard work and determination to make the most of your abilities."

Each student received a certificate signed by the President Bill Clinton and the U.S. Secretary of Education. Each student also received a letter from President Clinton.

Public Safety proposes rule changes for licences

Minnesota Department of Public Safety is proposing changes to its administrative rules governing what documents and information individuals must present when applying for a driver's license, instruction permit, or state identification card or when registering a full name on a vehicle title.

Two forms of identification will be required if the applicant for a license, instruction permit or state identification card does not already have a valid U.S. state or Canadian driver's license (with photo) that has not expired more than a year ago.

Changes in the existing rules are needed to bring them in line with the identity recommendations of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, which are being implemented by other U.S. states and Canadian provinces. The documents and information specified in the proposed rules are needed so the state can verify the full name, date of birth, and identity of the individual making application.

Over 3.3 million persons currently have a Minnesota-issued driver's license; 166,000 hold state identification cards. Eight thousand instruction permits and motorized bike permits were issued by the state last year.

Public Safety's Division of Driver and Vehicle Service is

Local residents attend Lutheran Brotherhood educational event

Duane Fillipi of Warren and Aaron Wedul of Thief River Falls recently attended Career I School, a week long educational event held at Lutheran Brotherhood's Minneapolis headquarters. Fillipi and Wedul are affiliated with Don Johnson and Associates in Fargo, ND.

Career I School is designed to enhance the sales and service skills of Lutheran Brotherhood district representatives. It is the first in a series of professional schools offered by the company. Through case studies and role-playing, attendees focus on such topics as financial needs, relationship marketing, underwriting, and administrative practices.

Two Rivers Area Theatre to perform "Once Upon a Mattress"

Two Rivers Area Theatre is busy in rehearsals for its summer production of "Once Upon A Mattress." The performances will be held in the Red Lake Falls Community Hall Thursday through Saturday, June 25-27 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, June 28 at 2 p.m.

"Once Upon A Mattress" is a musical comedy written by Jay Thompson, Marshall Barer and Dean Fuller. Music is written by Mary Rodgers with lyrics by Marshall Barer. Most people have heard the fairy tale of the princess and the pea but this musical comedy tells "how it really was!"

With an overbearing queen and a rather shady sorcerer conspiring against him, Prince Dauntless has almost no chance of ever getting married — even to the cute princess who swims the moat and scales the castle wall to meet him. She is smart but can she outsmart a queen who keeps changing the rules?

Staring Darei Delage as Princess Winnifred, Joe Linder as Prince Dauntless, Andrea Liston as Queen Aggravain, Mike Mueller as King Sextimus the Silent, Lowell Art as the Minstrel, Rob Conwell as the Jester, Lisa Mueller as Lady Larkin, Tim Pederson as Sir Harry, Morgan Walsh as the Wizard, JoAnna Swantek as the Nightingale/Lady-In-Waiting, Kevin Osmondson, Nathan Martell and Dan Linder as Knights, Lacey Schmitz, Katie Raymond and Heidi Rock as Ladies-in-Waiting, Sherry Knott as the Pantomime Queen, Alayna Seeger as a Princess/Kitchen wench, Drew Seeger, Aaron Liston and Andy Bertilrud as servants and Elizabeth Skala and Staci Johanneck as musicians.

Directed by Joyce Johnson, musical direction by Rob Conwell, choreography by Deb Fontaine, with instrumental ensemble led by Sherry Knott.

PHS Graduation

Plummer High School held its 70th Commencement exercises on May 22. Seventeen seniors received their diplomas with Laurel Hagge gaining the Valedictorian honors, David Fox the salutatorian spot and Erick Walter as the highest honor student. Following the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance" by the school band, Eric gave the welcome and opening remarks. A duet by senior Ross Arit and his father, Lowell singing "Angels Among Us" was very well given and the addresses by Laurel and David were excellent. In her speech Laurel named each of her class mates, citing an attribute of each one that helped to mold them into a family of friends. Don Fox, principal, was in charge of the scholarships and awards. Introducing John Holley who gave Eric Walter the Citizenship award and the $100 scholarship to David Holstad, both from the American Legion club; Ruth Wilkens with $100 scholarships to Laurel Hagge and Sylvia Lallier from the Legion Auxiliary; $500 scholarships to Laurel and David Fox from the Lions' Club; Karen Konickson of the Lioness Club presented $100 scholarships to Laurel and Sylvia Lallier; the Senior Citizens presented by Edna Hyde gave $100 scholarships to Sylvia and Eric Walter; Plummer Education Association gave an award of $100 to Laurel Hagge; the $500 scholarship from Northwestern Bank of Plummer went to Laurel, $200 from REA was given to Eric Walter; the Community Club scholarships of $100 went to Sylvia and David Fox and the Anita Carlson Memorial Music scholarship went to Laurel. Ross Arit received a $600 scholarship from NWTC and Laurel had received several scholarships amounting to $7,000 from Bethel College in the Cities where she will attend. Plummer School also received an award of $200 from Bethel College. David Fox also received an extra $200 award from Norwest Banks. Don Fox had a few remarks about changing courses that was very applicable. The high school choir sang "Friends" with several of the seniors in their final appearance with the choir. Superintendent Rick Lorenson then presented the class and diplomas were handed out by Joe McMullen, chairman of the school board. Quite often, it seems, a school board member hands a diploma to his/her child and this year it was Roger Walter presenting son, Eric his very important document, always a moving sight. Sylvia Lallier had a very nice closing for the program and the graduates marched out to the strains of "Fanfare" by the band. Platform guests along with the above mentioned were Board of Education members Joe McMullen, Betty Halvorson, Eldon Vigstol, Karen Fossell, Tony Gerardy and Roger Walter. Junior Honor Guard consisted of Jennifer Gallent, Tracy Konickson, Michael Mages, Erika Vettleson, Laura Konickson, Mark Lorenson, Steve McMullen and Tricia Willett. Congratulations to each of the seniors and to the honor guard. Best wishes for the future.

Jim and Shirley Jaeger of St. Paul arrived on Friday to attend graduation and the Memorial weekend ceremonies with Howard and Margaret Greenwald. On Sunday evening the two couples and Harvey and Mary Ann Gagnar of Mentor were supper guests of Ann Jaeger and her family.

Harold and Marian Vatthauer arrived home on Thursday after a week spent in Rochester with the family of son, Neildon, who are in the process of building a new home.

Lloyd and Wavell Sorenson attended the graduation receptions for Lori LeCoursiere, David Holstad, Eric Walter and David Fox on Friday night. On Saturday they were at Justin Konickson's reception and also took in a hayride at the Merle Gustafson farm. On Sunday they attended the Ross Arit's reception.

Barb Pine and daughters Danielle and Andrea of Hastings arrived on Friday to attend the graduation of nephew Eric Walter and to spend a few days with her parents Herb and Esther Walter and other relatives.

Birthday for Marisha

Happy birthday to Marisha Pahlen, four-year-old daughter of Steve and Stacy Pahlen! Coming to help her celebrate on Saturday was her grandmother Joanina Pahlen, Loren and Helen LaFayette, Jodi and Rodney Dudon, Chad Pahlen and Rebecca Demorais and Rachel Roue.

On Saturday evening, Mike and Sandy Greenwald entertained at an outdoor meal the following parents, Howard and Margaret Greenwald, Jim and Shirley Jaeger of St. Paul, Rodney and Sherrie Wayne of Goodridge, Rick, Bonnie and Chancey Greenwald of Stacy, Tracy, Ryan and Rylee Peterson of Tolstoy, SD, Mindy and Baron Juhl of Lake Bronson, Jolayne and Chuck Simpson, Lorena Westerlund and Vivian Olson.

Bonnie and Chancey Greenwald were Saturday overnight visitors of Howard and Margaret Greenwald. They left on Sunday along with Rick who had spending a few days with his parents, Howard and Margaret.

Jean Carpenter returned home on Saturday after spending three weeks at the home of her daughter, Cindy Thomas, and family of Manhattan, KS. She had flown to and from Fargo and daughter-in-law, Minette Carpenter from Fargo brought her home.

Margaret Penkow of Hankinson, ND was a Saturday morning visitor of Art and Avis Frolland. In the afternoon, Margie, Marty and David Minor of Grand Forks were there.

Bobbie Guidry and daughters Melanie and Corinna of Brooklyn Park visited on Sunday with her aunt, Bunny DuChamp and cousins, Jim and Bob DuChamp.

Mike and Sandy Greenwald were Sunday visitors of Jim and Jan Baune of East Grand Forks.

Visitors at the Carl Magers home over Memorial weekend were daughter Sarah and Wade Grinde of Spring Grove, Don Willett and boys of Warroad, Betty Hamilton and boys of Bloomington, Arne Willett and boys and Doug Willett and children.

Mike and Ginger Foster and daughters Katelyn and Danielle of Osakis spent the weekend in Roseau and on Sunday were dinner guests at Grandpa Art and Grandma, Avis Frolland on their way home. Other guests of the Frolands were Rick, Arlene and Ginger Frolland, Kerry and Griffith of Thief River Falls.

Hazel Ollie was a Sunday visitor of her daughter Sharon Iverson of rural Thief River Falls. Lorelee Iverson and Boston of the Cities were home for the weekend also.

Gully Community News

Sanna Bravold • 268-4350

On Friday we bid farewell to Arnold's brother, Elmer Brovold at the Lund Church in Gully with Pastor Bob Dahlen and Intern Tari Stage in charge of services with Marion Marquis as organist and a duet was sung by LaVonna Enerson and Donna Sherman. Pallbearers were Gary Nordlund, Nate Luce, Arlan Fore, Scott Brovold, Rodney Brovold and David Rindahl. We used to joke about Elmer having nine lives, he had so many close calls in his lifetime. But now after a lengthy illness and several trips in and out of hospitals, his strength and determination to survive finally ebbed out and on Monday, May 25, Elmer passed away at the First Care Nursing Home at Fosston. Elmer was a hard working farmer most of his life on the Brovold farm. In about 1939, he and a friend, Harry Hanson made a trip to Washington state and worked with Pete Erickson during that winter. Pete and his wife, Julia (Bjerklie) Erickson were originally from Hickory. The work was not any easier than farming Pete was a logger and Elmer and Harry cut logs. Elmer was born August 7, 1911 to Jacob and Thora Jepson Brovold in Johnson Township He married Millie Fossum on June 14, 1940 at the Fossum home near Oklee In 1994, Elmer and Millie moved into Gully. Elmer was rather quiet but he remembered well the equations needed to be a successful farmer. Rev. Dahlen mentioned Elmer's quiet living and how he struggled and worked hard among the thorns and the thistle. His last illness partly due to lung damage may have dated back many years when he went into the silo to loosen silage and was overcome by the strong poisonous gasses in the silo. Elmer was a kind and loving husband, father and brother, very honest and concerned for others. He was 86 years old and is survived by his wife, Millie, son, Bruce and Mary, daughter, Brenda and husband David Odegaard of Minneapolis, four grandchildren, Stacy and husband, Gary Nordlund of Clearbrook, Scott Brovold and wife, Lisa of Omaha, NE, Ginger Brovold of Gully and Tammy and husband, Nate Luce of Seattle, WA, four great-grandchildren, two brothers, Arnold and Lloyd, five sisters, Esther Rindahl, Doris and Marvin Rindahl, Luverne and Arlo Fore, Audrey and Carl Severson and Verna Gore of St. Paul and many nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his parents, sister, Mildred and a brother, Walter.

Visitors at the Effie Handy's home have been Marian Handy of Fosston on Saturday. On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Emerson and Sanny Borg of Milwaukee, Dolores Spencer of Thief River Falls, Lyn Turenne and Scott Handy of Fargo visited Effie.

Bob and Marlene Rutkowski of Minnetonka, Reuben and Wanda Rydeen of Clearbrook were Sunday evening visitors at Kenneth and Alice Farsberg's.

The Lund Ladies Aid will meet Wednesday afternoon, June 10 at the church with hostesses, Pat Carlson, June Bergh, Pearl Watne and Pam Dyrdahl serving lunch. Everyone is welcome.

Memorial Day Services

Memorial Day services were held under the auspices of the American Legion and its Auxiliary on Monday morning in the Plummer Park. It was a beautiful day and a good crowd attended. John Holley, Legion commander presided along with Ruth Wilkens, Auxiliary president. Honored guests and Gold Star mothers were Clara Hesse, Fern Hesse, Dorothy Myhre, Aste Westerlund, Crystal Mariell and Jo Raedel. These were seated and the colors advanced by the Legion Honor Guard. Two wreaths were placed on stands to honor the dead of all wars by John and Ruth, followed by everyone singing the national anthem. Chaplain Howard Greenwald gave the invocation and a community choir sang "This Is My Country", " Let There Be Peace On Earth" and led the audience in singing "God Bless America." Laurel Hagge and David Fox, Girl and Boys Staters, had readings and John Holley was the main speaker. Chaplain Greenwald and Auxiliary chaplain Fern Eskeli read the long roll call of deceased veterans and told of the cemeteries where they are buried. Howard gave the benediction after which the retirement and salute to colors were given by the Honor Guard Eric Walter and Jolene Saibel and the Honor Guard and others marched to the Creamery Bridge where the wreaths were put in the river as a tribute to the veterans. A potluck dinner was served in the clubrooms for all. Boy Scout leaders Roy Holmes and Barry Rewertz handed out the programs and took part in the march to the river. A very fitting Memorial service.

Show Your Colors, America

Sunday, June 14, is Flag Day—a time to fly the flag of the United States of America with special pride and recognition of the spirit of this nation. It is also a time when individuals and organizations seeking a constitutional amendment to make desecration of the flag a federal offense increase their emphasis on the importance of the flag as a national symbol.

We have stated editorially previously that we agree with the U.S. Supreme Court decision that destruction or despoiling of the U.S. flag is protected by the right to freedom of expression under the Constitution. We think any such acts are reprehensible and they sadden and make us angry at the persons who perpetrate them, but we believe that such action must be tolerated as one of our cherished freedoms.

We also understand the devotion to the flag by most Americans, particularly military personnel who served under it, and we are also sympathetic to their efforts to secure an amendment against flag desecration. Today's guest editorial is by Major General (Retired) Patrick Brady, who was awarded the Medal of Honor for his service in the Vietnam War, during which he rescued over 5,000 casualties of war.

REMEMBER OLD GLORY
SHOW YOUR COLORS, AMERICA!

Guest Editorial
by Major General Patrick Brady
Chairman of the Board of Directors
The Citizens Flag Alliance

Flag Day was once a day when America honored the inspirational, unifying and patriotic effects of our flag—not as a piece of cloth but as the vault for the values of America, the symbol of our soul, our honor, our dignity and our unity.

It has been the tissue for the tears of widows as they wept over the coffins of loved ones, the armor and the inspiration of soldiers in combat. It is the shield of justice for soldiers of peace, men like Martin Luther King. And it is the greatest training aid we have to teach our children patriotism, citizenship and respect. But today, because of the Supreme Court, the flag is just another piece of cloth to be burned and soiled with impunity.

One week after Flag Day 1989, the U.S. Supreme Court took away the right of the American people to protect their flag, a right we held since our birth. This was a right defended by James Madison and Thomas Jefferson. A right supported by a vast majority of the U.S. House of Representatives and 80 percent of the American people.

Later this year, the U.S. Senate will debate and vote on a constitutional amendment which will return to the American people the right to protect their flag. This amendment does not change the Constitution, it simply restores it to where it was for 200 years, and reclaims it for its rightful owners. We, the people, understand the value of free speech and we would die for it. What we do not understand is how desecrating a flag is speech.

Edward F. Hutton, in a beautiful vignette on what the flag means, wrote: "When you see our flag in front of a home, it says for all the world to read, 'Here lives a family that is American in spirit as well as in name.'"

We are very close to victory in the U.S. Senate but it is a battle that will not be won without your help. The Citizens Flag Alliance recently launched a campaign called Show Your Colors, America! As part of this effort, I ask that you fly your flag not only at home but at work, in your schools and on the street corners of your communities to show your American spirit and how important our flag is to that spirit.

The Senate will join the House in passing a flag-protection amendment if they see strong support by the people. We are asking you to show your support, and also to show you care by showing your colors. But most important, it will be a symbolic step in recapturing the virtues and the spirit so vital to our children and our future. Our children learn so much when they see our flag and if enough Senators see enough flags they will join the people and allow us to recapture Old Glory.

Supreme Court Justice John Harlan once said, "Love both of the common country and the state will diminish in proportion as respect for the flag is weakened. Therefore, a state will be wanting in care for the well being of its people if it ignores the fact that they regard the flag as a symbol of their country's power and prestige, and will be impatient if any disrespect is shown toward it."

We should approach the battle in the Senate with these words in mind.

The concept of patriotism is not a hollow idea. It is a complex and powerful thing. It is the glue that holds us all together. With one flag, one pledge and one national anthem, we are bound together as Americans.

This Flag Day I hope you will join me and show your colors in thanks to those whose sacrifices brought us that bounty that is America, and as a sign of your dedication to recapture Old Glory in the future.

Group of Neighbors Aid Disabled Highlanding Farmer

"While Theodore Hemm of Highlanding was confined at University hospital in Minneapolis a week ago, a group of 12 neighbors gathered at his farm with nine tractors and disked and seeded approximately 50 acres. Those assisting included Sig Sigurdson, Walter Johnson, Vern Vaughan, Leo Johnson, Ernest Hedeen, Andrew Pimrite, Clifford Vad, Harold Haugen, Henry Paulson, Anton Johnson, John Bakken and C. Thorson. Lunch and dinner were served to the workers by Mrs. Anton Johnson and Mrs. Walter Johnson."

1948 Prowler Yearbook Distributed Last Week

"Copies of the 1948 Prowler Lincoln high school senior yearbook were distributed to eager students last Thursday as the school term came to an end. The profusely illustrated book comprises 104 pages, with an attractive cover of gold and blue. Allen Hitterdal served as editor, Jean Sandberg as assistant editor, and Philip Jensen as business manager, while Miss Gertrude Berg and W. G. Claffy were faculty advisors."

County Board Will Open Bids For Razing Foundry Site

"Sites for several new homes in this city will be available shortly as a result of the recent action of the Pennington county board in calling for bids on wrecking the old foundry at the corner of West Second street and State avenue North, and for the purchase of the six lots comprising the site. Bids, the official call for which appears elsewhere in this issue, will be opened next Tuesday afternoon, June 8, at the courthouse."

Fish Rearing Pond To Be Completed Tonight

"To complete unfinished work on the fish rearing pond on the local golf course, club members and others interested in fish propagation are asked to report with spades or shovels at the golf course this evening at 6 o'clock, it was announced by John Anderson and Ole Ness, in charge of the project. They added that a Dutch lunch will be served to the workers after the job is completed."

Local Movies of 1936 To Be Shown At Avalon June 10-12

"A newsreel made up of Thief River Falls scenes taken in 1936 will be presented at the Avalon theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 10, 11 and 12, Ward Nichols, manager, announced today. The film, which will be shown in connection with the regular show, will include pictures of Lincoln high school activities, local business places and their proprietors, service clubs and other scenes."

Legion Municipal Band Plays At Middle River

"The Thief River Falls Legion municipal band, directed by Glen Ahre, participated Monday afternoon in a Memorial Day program in Middle River. The local unit made an attractive appearance with its members attired in snappy new brown and tan uniforms."

"There will be a meeting of the citizens of St. Hilaire in the village hall Saturday evening at eight o' clock for the purpose of making arrangements for the Fourth of July celebration."

Teachers Rehired

"School closed Friday after a very successful nine-month term. Enrollment was almost twice as many as heretofore and the addition of the intermediate department made grading more easily systematized. The work throughout the year has been entirely satisfactory to the patrons and peoples of the school in all particulars and the school board showed their appreciation of the good and faithful work done by rehiring the present core of teachers by a unanimous vote. Prof. O'Brien, who is now hired for the fourth time, is an educator of marked ability, a strong disciplinarian and a thorough gentleman. By his untiring efforts our school has been bought to a high standard. Miss Mary Kyle, now hired for the fifth time in St. Hilaire, is enough in itself to warrant that she possesses all the qualifications of a first-class primary teacher. The core of teachers was materially strengthened at the beginning of last term by Miss Grace H. Morgan. She was so successful in her work and is held in such high esteem by her pupils and the patrons of the school that she was induced to remain with us for another year."

An Insult

"THE PRESS of Thief River Falls comes out in its last issue with the rankest kind of insult to the ballplayers and citizens of St. Hilaire under the heading of an article entitled 'A Plea for Respectability' signed by 'A Citizen.' If this article voices the sentiment of the people of Thief River Falls we will never go there again to play ball on Sunday or any other day and will not again appear upon their diamond until a public apology is made by THE PRESS and the ballplayers of Thief River Falls who are asserting that we made 'beer bedizened noises' and giving our village the name of a cow pasture."

FROM THE NEW CITY

THE NEWS, HENRY W. LEE, EDITOR JUNE 10, 1898
THIEF RIVER FALLS, RED LAKE COUNTY, MINNESOTA

THE POP TICKET IS UP
But It Will be Knocked Down By the Voters Next Fall

"The Populist county convention was held at Red Lake Falls Tuesday and a ticket was put up that can easily be beaten. The best men in this county who were candidates before this convention were turned down and the cities of Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire were not even given a place upon the ticket. The township of Rocksbury, however, captured three plums.

"Hon. W. T. Mullarky, who has been auditor since the organization of the county, was defeated simply because he is a Democrat. It is generally conceded by all that Mr. Mullarky is one of the most efficient men in the county today, and men of all parties, excepting of course, the 'ward healers and politicians', have been in favor of his reelection. It did not seem possible that the Populists would dare to turn him down, but they did. And this alone will be the cause of Populist defeat in this county this fall. Mr. Mullarky will be nominated by the Democrats, endorsed by the Republicans and voted for by almost every citizen in the county.

"The Democrats and Republicans will probably fuse and put a full ticket in the field this fall. At the Democratic county convention a committee of five will probably be appointed to confer with the Republicans and then a full ticket will be put in the field. Such men as W. T. Mullarky, A. P. Toupin, L. J. Simmans and others will be nominated for officers.

"Harry Ives captured the delegation to the senatorial convention, and he will probably receive the nomination for senator.

> It was not our pleasure to attend the Populist county convention at Red Lake Falls Tuesday, and we cannot, therefore judge the personnel. The delegates to this convention were selected on last Thursday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 3 - a time when a honest men were at work - and this fact caused the leading Populist paper in this county, the Red Lake Falls Gazette, to introduce them as follows some weeks ago:
> "Only the loafer, the bum, the man of leisure, or the independent proprietor are at liberty to participate in a caucus held at such an hour, leaving the election of delegates in the hands of ward healers and professional politicians."

"The following is the ticket nominated:

Auditor	Adam Zeh
Treasurer	O. T. Tandberg
Register of Deeds	Sam Gibeau
Sheriff	H. Norland
Judge of Probate	J. T. Knight
County Attorney	V. R. Brown
Supt. of Schools	F. Jeffers
County Surveyor	P. O. Heglund
Clerk of Court	Joseph Perrault

"The Democratic primaries were held last evening and delegates were elected to the county convention. They were all in favor of a fusion with the Republicans and it is understood that a committee of five will be appointed at the convention today which will confer with the Republicans."

Out in Society

Dorcas Picnic

"Last evening about thirty-five members of the Dorcas society enjoyed a 6 o'clock picnic supper at Squaw Point. The diversions of the evening were roasting wieners and playing games, concluding with a marshmallow toast."

Music Pupils Hold Picnic

"Mrs. C. O. Erickson and about fifty of her music pupils enjoyed a picnic on the O. E. Erickson lawn, south of the city, on Tuesday afternoon. Games were the chief diversion of the afternoon and at 6 o'clock a fine supper was served. Everyone reports a good time."

W. C. T. U. To Picnic

"The W.C.T.U. [Women's Christian Temperance Union] will hold a picnic Saturday afternoon, June 9, on the Poston lawn at the end of Main avenue. This is flower mission day. Everyone is urged to come."

Zion Lutheran Church

"George Larson, Pastor. Confirmation services with offering 10:30 a.m. Parochial school picnic at Rindal church 2 p.m. Communion services at Zion church 7:45 p.m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:45. Girls' Sewing Circle meets on Wednesday evening, the 13th, with Mrs. Frank Olson. Zion Ladies Aid meets Thursday afternoon, the 14th, Mrs. Bjoland and Mrs. Fossum entertain. Zion Young People's meeting Thursday evening, the 14th. Mrs. Tilfred Reierson and Mrs. Lester Hendry entertain. Parochial school every day."

Marshmallow Toast

"Last Thursday evening twenty-five young folks from the Squaw Point residence enjoyed a party at Squaw Point. Games and songs were enjoyed, during the evening, topped off with toasted marshmallows."

The Presbyterian Church

"Charles Gerlinger, Pastor. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will attend the morning services. The sermon will treat of Christ's Relation to Social Problems. The evening sermon will be the last of the series on 'Paul, the Interpreter of Christianity.' Children's Day service will be held at 10:00 Sunday at the Sunday school hour. Morning service 11:00, Intermediate and Senior C. E. [Christian Endeavor] 7:00, evening service 8:00. The Summer Bible school begins Monday and will hold its sessions forenoons from 9 to 11:30."

Treatment admissions increase due to adolescent drug use

Chemical dependency treatment admissions increased 24 percent in Minnesota over the past five years, but the largest increase was in adolescent admissions — up 170 percent — according to Patricia Harrison, Ph.D., researcher for the Minnesota Department of Human Services. The primary drug abused by adolescents under 18 admitted for treatment was marijuana, primary drug abused by adults was alcohol.

Harrison say the increase in adolescent admissions for chemical dependency treatment parallels an increase in marijuana use by teenagers, documented in a recent DHS Minnesota Student Survey. In 1995, 27 percent of high school seniors reported using marijuana, up from 19 percent in 1992. The biggest increase in marijuana use occurred among ninth graders — up from 9 percent in 1992 to 21 percent in 1995.

"Given the increase we have seen in marijuana use among adolescents, it's no surprise that we're also seeing an increase in treatment admissions," said Harrison. "It should also be a red flag that despite claims by some that the drug is relatively harmless, it's been cause for an increasing number of teenagers' admissions for treatment."

In contrast to the dramatic rise in adolescent admissions, adult admissions rose 15 percent. Of all those admitted for chemical dependency treatment, 70 percent were male, 73 percent white, 13 percent black, 8 percent American Indian, 3 percent hispanic, and less than one-half-percent Asian. Chemical dependency treatment admissions totaled 41,481 in 1997, compared to 33,440 in 1993.

Illegal drugs were identified more often as reason for treatment in 1997 than in 1993 (39 percent vs. 29 percent). But alcohol remained the primary drug of abuse for most patients (71 percent in 1993; 61 percent in 1997), followed by marijuana, up from 11 percent in 1993 to 19 percent in 1997. Methamphetamine as the reason for treatment was up from one percent to 4 percent, cocaine decreased slightly from 13 percent to 12 percent. All other drugs combined (including opiates, stimulants, tranquilizers and sedatives) accounted for only 4 to 5 percent of treatment admissions during the five-year period.

The type of drugs patients were most likely to abuse was strongly related to age. Alcohol accounted for 94 percent of admissions for patients 55 and older; 84 percent of admissions for ages 45-54; 71 percent of admissions for ages 35-44; 61 percent of admissions for ages 25-34; 47 percent of admissions for ages 18-24; but only 23 percent of admissions for those under 18. For those under 18, marijuana accounted for 68 percent of admissions. For people ages 18-24, marijuana, after alcohol, was the primary drug abused. For adults 25 and older, cocaine, after alcohol, was the primary reason for admissions.

The type of drugs patients were most likely to abuse varied among racial/ethnic groups as well. For whites, alcohol was the most common drug abused (65 percent), followed by marijuana (19 percent) and cocaine (7 percent). For African Americans, the most common drug was cocaine (43 percent) followed by alcohol (35 percent) and marijuana (16 percent). For American Indians, alcohol was the primary drug (70 percent), followed by marijuana (22 percent) and cocaine (4 percent). For Hispanics, alcohol was the primary drug abused (55 percent), followed by marijuana (24 percent) and cocaine (12 percent).

In addition to the drug patients abused most often, many patients acknowledged using other drugs as well. Almost half of people admitted under age 25 used at least three drugs in the six months before entering treatment. Multiple drug use decreased with age.

Harrison said the most common age for chemical dependency treatment in adolescents is 16 or 17. Most are referred for assessment after drug use at home or in school, and are referred from a variety of sources, including parents and school counselors.

Clever props assisted "Kids on the Fifties", a group of third through sixth grade students, present music of the 50's. The program, held on June 1 and 2, was directed by Keri Frisch and Ruth Christensen, with Crystelle Johnsrud as pianist. It was produced in cooperation with the School District 564 community education department with partial funding from a grant from Northwest Regional Development Commission.

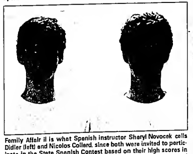
Family Affair I is Spanish instructor Sheryl Novacek's description of Matt Lutovsky receiving the highest score at Lincoln high school in the Level II National Spanish Exam and being invited to participated in the State Spanish Contest. His older brother Jeff and older sister Brenda have received similar awards in prior years. Mrs. Novacek said she has frequently encouraged Mr. and Mrs. Lutovsky to have more children, but it appears that Matt will be the last of their Spanish scholars at Lincoln.

Spanish students Beth Nelson (left) and Teryn Preem were invited to participate in the State Spanish Contest based on their high scores on the National Spanish Exam at Lincoln high school. Beth, the daughter of Joel Nelson and Kim Nelson, received the highest score on the Spanish III exam. Teryn, the daughter of Jon and Robyn Preem, was the high scorer on the Spanish I exam. Beth will be a senior and Robyn a sophomore at Lincoln next year. Spanish Instructor is Sheryl Novacek.

Whatever a man sows, that he will also reap.

Four students at Our Saviour's Christian Academy in Thief River Falls received awards from the Association of Christian Schools International (ACSI): Daniel Eaton, academics; Karie Johanning, academics, leadership, athletics and Christian service; Mercy Myhrer, academics, athletics, leadership, Christian service and drama; and David Bray, for leadership, and athletics.



Family Affair II is what Spanish instructor Sheryl Novacek calls Didier (left) and Nicolas Collard, since both were invited to participate in the State Spanish Contest based on their high scores in the National Spanish Exam. They are the sons of Scott and Beatrice Collard and transferred to Lincoln high school for the 1997-98 school year. Mrs. Collard lived in France for many years as a child and has upper-level graduate degrees in the language, and both sons are fluent in French. For this reason, they were categorized as students with outside experience in the National Spanish Exam. At the State Spanish contest, Didier competed in Level II and Nicolas in Level III.

Jump Rope for Heart project at St. Bernard's school in Thief River Falls recently raised $573 for the American Heart Ass'n. First grader Tyler Petersen raised the largest amount of pledges and received her award from Sister Kathy Kucher, principal.

Whatever a man sows, that he will also reap

Memorials

In Loving Remembrance of
Mrs. Tillie Bratland
Passed away 1-15-1985 in TRF, MN.
To our mother on "Mother's Day"

You have never lost your mother
Tho you've said your last goodbye
Tho there's heartbreak in the parting
No one's mother really dies!
If you love to hear the old songs
For the memories they bring
It's because you had a mother
Who taught your heart to sing
If you stop to help a neighbor
Search your heart and you will find
It's because you had a mother
Who taught you to be kind
If you go to church when weary
Seeking God to guide your way
It's because you had a mother
Who taught you how to pray
No, you've never lost your mother
Tho you've said your last goodbye
Through your thoughts and deeds she's living
No one's mother really dies

Love you mom,
Your family

Job Shadowing part of LHS Foods Class

Recently, students from Rita Soiney's Exploring Foods class had the opportunity to explore careers in the food industry. During the four days, students participated in job shadowing and actual participation in the business.

Students felt the experience was very worthwhile. They learned a lot, but the time was too short. Soiney, Family Consumer Science Instructor at Lincoln High School stated, "We received much support from the various businesses, school and staff to imitate this program. Next year, the same program will be implemented with more job training involved."

Businesses involved in the program this year were: Hugo's Produce and Deli, Danny's Pizza, Taco John's, China King, Lee's Buffet, Pennington Main, and Subway.

Josh Stanson and Brandon Langlie work with the produce manager for Hugo's during a job shadowing project. The students from Rita Soiney's Exploring Foods class at Lincoln High School had the opportunity to explore careers in the food industry during the project. During the four days of the project, students participated in job shadowing and actual participation in the business.

Mai Pong and Wan Quing Li work with Deann Thompson at Taco John's during a job shadowing project. The students from Rita Soiney's Exploring Foods class had the opportunity to explore careers in the food industry during the project. "We received much support from the various businesses, school and staff to imitate this program. Next year, the same program will be implemented with more job training involved," said Rita Soiney, Family Consumer Science Instructor at Lincoln.

Eron Liden from Subway works with Becky McKercher and Taddi-Ann Erickson during a job shadowing project. The students from Rita Soiney's Exploring Foods class at Lincoln High School had the opportunity to explore careers in the food industry during the project. Students felt the experience was very worthwhile, they learned a lot, but the four-days they spent on the project was too short, according to Rita Soiney, Family Consumer Science Instructor.

The weather in northwest Minnesota is bringing in the birds in big flocks and all kinds and colors. The other day when we drove up, at first glance we thought the dandelions had taken over the lawn, but it was a big flock of bright-yellow canary birds that had found the bird feeder with sunflower seeds in it. About eight of them were on the feeder kicking out seeds to that bunch on the ground. We sat and watched them for awhile, hardly daring to believe our eyes.

A blue jay had a nest in the cotoneaster hedge near the sidewalk and when Walter came with his cane on Sunday, the young ones who were just out for the first time made such a commotion. The whole jay family got up in arms. They must have thought he was going to get them with that cane. Finally the little ones hid in the peony bushes and Walter escaped into the house.

June has taken its place in the year and we are sure summer is settling in. The lawns need cutting twice a week and that keeps Roy so busy that he keeps out of mischief. He was talking to his brother, John, on Saturday evening and on Sunday he called John's daughter, Ardis, where John has been staying since the first of February and she says that John may go to a nursing home in Aitkin, nearer to most of his children. We are sorry that he isn't planning to come back up here.

Elphie Adils had a visit from Virgil and Louis Erickson from the Cities on Friday. They had visited Ivan Kimbrough in Grand Forks and were planning to stop at Park Rapids to see his sister, Ethylynn, on the way home.

Elphie says that there will be no meeting on Thursday due to the funeral of Julius Kleinvachter that day. The meeting will be at 1:00 o'clock on Friday instead.

Shirley Lofrooth and Elsie Lofrooth attended the Confirmation at Bethesda Lutheran Church on Sunday for Stephanie Pottis and Elliott Lofrooth, Elsie's great-grandchildren. David and Elaine Grovum of Thief River Falls, who were there also, took Elsie home and spent some time there.

Shirley Anderson and son, Kristopher went back to Rochester this morning for more treatments. We wish you a lot of good health when this is over.

Sunday afternoon, Isaac and Betsy Thompson stopped at Stanley and Ruby Swanson's 50th anniversary and then went to the Heritage Christian School commencement and to Terry Sollvedt's for David's reception.

Peter and Pearl Thompson visited with LaVonne and Brian Johnson on Friday and later visited with Danny and Becky Johnson.

Marlys Lofrooth, Pearl Thompson and Isaac and Betsy Thompson visited Elsie Lofrooth on Sunday evening.

Sanford and Doris Bagaas visited a short while Friday evening at Isaac Thompson's.

Sanford and Doris Bagaas visited a short while Friday evening at the Isaac Thompson's home.

Becky Johnson visited Elsie Lofrooth on Tuesday.

Area people who drove to Osage last week to Tod and Lori Johnson's home for Jaimee Lynn's high school graduation party and 10th birthday were Jim Johnson family, Ron and Kathy Johnson, Nicole and Sarah Minski, Marion Johnson and Cathy Johnson and Michelle all of Hallock, Grandma Marian Johnson, Frances Peterson, Lois Lindstrom, Matt and Barb Berg, Terry Johnson and friend, Gail and great-grandma, Elsie Lofrooth, all of Karlstad. Also attending from Strandquist were Shirley Lofrooth, Marlys Lofrooth, Grandpa and Grandma Morris, Marcelyn Lindstrom, Dianne Lindstrom and Kenny and Mary Stusynski and family of Stephen were also there from this area.

Judy and Lois Kleinvachter and a host of relatives and friends gathered at June Kasprowicz's home to celebrate Brian's recent graduation from prosthesism school. They enjoyed an afternoon of games and a very delicious meal.

VFW Post 2793 recently presented St. Bernard's school in Thief River Falls with classroom flags at a ceremony in front of the school. Following the presentation the students joined in the Pledge of Allegiance and song "The Star Spangled Banner." The school administration expressed thanks to the VFW for flags to be displayed in each of the classrooms.

Franklin middle school student council has taken on the project of providing a sign to identify the school, similar to the sign outside Lincoln high school. The polished granite sign with concrete footings will be 62x30 inches in size (the Lincoln sign is 56x30) and will cost about $2,600 installed. Funds have already been accumulated by the student council from its vending machine profits at Franklin. Council president Chelsea Haviland (left) presents a $25 check to Kay Steiger who submitted the winning slogan for the sign—"Promoting Prowler Pride." They are standing at the approximate site where the sign will be located south of the main entrance.

Bergland receives Distinguished Minnesotan Award from BSU

Bob Bergland, former U.S. Congressman from Northwest Minnesota and former secretary of agriculture in the Carter administration, has been named the recipient of the 1998 Distinguished Minnesotan Award from Bemidji State University.

Bergland is the 18th recipient of the award, which is annually presented to a current or former resident of the state who has performed exemplary service to the people of Minnesota or the United States. He will receive the award in a ceremony on May 21 but will not be able to attend BSU commencement on May 22 due to a prior commitment.

The descendant of Norwegian immigrants who settled in the northern part of Minnesota in the 19th century, Bergland was born and raised in Roseau, where he attended public schools and graduated from high school in 1946. He then enrolled at the University of Minnesota where he completed its agricultural program.

After serving a few years as a field representative for the Minnesota Farmers Union, he and his wife purchased a farm in 1950. When first starting out, he took a variety of jobs to stay in operation amid the fluctuations of good harvests and bad harvests, high crop prices and bottomed-out commodity markets, and the uncertainties provided by the weather. His work experience included stints as a logger, machinery salesman, carpenter and construction foreman.

In 1961, Bergland was named chairman of the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, an arm of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Two years later he was promoted to Midwest regional director of the service.

He ventured into politics for the first time in 1968 by challenging Odin Langen's 10-year hold on Minnesota's 7th Congressional District seat. A narrow loss that year was enough impetus to regroup for the 1970 campaign, when he defeated the incumbent Langen by 15,000 votes.

Re-elected three times, his greatest margin of victory was 1976 when he won with 73 percent of the total ballots cast. He was assigned to committees on agriculture, small business, and science and technology.

The inconstancy of farming life was instrumental in molding his approach to life, his politics, and his commitment to making things better for rural communities. He gained a reputation as a defender of higher crop support prices, a grain-reserve plan, and increased food aid for the poor. By his third term, Bergland became a congressional leader in formulating farm policy and advocating for protections from the boom and bust cycles that plagued small farmers.

Following the election of Jimmy Carter as president in 1976, Bergland became the first farmer named as the secretary of agriculture in more than 30 years. During his four-year tenure on the cabinet, he was seen as and administrator who balanced the needs of the farmer with those of the consumer.

Along the way, he streamlined the department by abolishing over 10 percent of agricultural's advisory committees; revamped the food stamp program to benefit 2,500,000 of the poorest people while cutting or reducing benefits to others who were less needy; and promoted better agricultural predictions based on past weather patterns rather than an assumption of normal weather.

After serving the Carter administration, Bergland became president of Farmland World Trade, an international trading arm of Farmland Industries of Kansas City. Two years later he was appointed general manager of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association and remained active in that post until retiring in 1993.

Now living on the home farm in northern Minnesota, Bergland was elected to the board of regents of the University of Minnesota in January of 1997 and chairs the committee on finance and administration.

Great Plains EMS received a First Dollar award from the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce. The ambulance service in Thief River Falls was purchased in 1996 and became Great Plains EMS in 1997. It is owned by Orion Group Inc., Tom Klyva, president, Mark Lindquist, medical director, and O.J. Doyle, lobbyist. They also own the ambulance service in Crookston. Recently, Great Plains EMS in Thief River Falls, moved to the former Stone's Radio near Sixth and Atlantic. It is a 24-hour advanced life support emergency service provider and employs 17 people. Pictured above are Roxi Sorvig of the Chamber of Commerce, Jim VonSchalck, manager, Mike Molby, Chamber Ambassador, and Josh Magnor, provisional paramedic.

MSU alumni scholarships go to local students

Moorhead State University students Rachel Larson and Ross Cleven have been awarded MSU Alumni Foundation Community College Transfer Scholarships for the coming academic year.

Rachel Larson is the daughter of James and Carol Larson and a graduate of Marshall County Central High School.

Ross Cleven is the son of Vern and Evonne Cleven and a graduate of Lincoln High School.

The MSU Alumni Foundation Scholarship program was established through donations from friends and alumni of the university. Recipients are selected by university faculty in recognition of exemplary academic performance.

English Dept. at NCTC names Poetry winners

Winners of the English Department Poetry Contest have been announced by Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC).

The winners and their poems are listed below:

Crack of Spring
First place
by Beth Olson

Dirt crunches beneath my spikes as I make my way to the dusty plate. I block out the twitter of the crowd and scoop a handful of iron-stained soil in preparation. I sift the moist dirt through my blistered fingers. Beads of sweat tickle my brow as a perfect strike bounds over the plate. . .followed by another. . . my lungs cry out from the crisp, dusk air as the first crack of spring soars high over the left field fence.

Los Niños Serán Los Niños
Second place
by Kathy Olson

Los Niños Serán Los Niños is what las madres say.
But if El Niño were my little boy, he wouldn't go out to play.

I know that boys like mud and look for it outside,
But when El can't find it readymade, he creates his own mudslide!

Boys like wind to fly their kites, but whoa! — enough's enough!
Tornadoes and/or hurricanes are playing pretty rough.

And thunder, lightning, rainstorms, ice — El really goes too far.
He needs a visit to the woodshed for a little conversar!

El Niño
Third place
by Brent Waale

What a tempestuous child, this El Niño
His spoiled tantrums are both felt and seeño
Though his temper abates
He assumes all the traits
Of an adult without his caffeiño

Spring Is. . .
Honorable Mention
by Gabby Lee

Spring is all that's forbidden by age. It is the sticky
Sweetness left on my fingertips after I've feasted
On a ripe watermelon.

Spring is the wind blowing through my hair one minute
And sprinkles of rain surrounding me the next. It is
The sound of children's voices exploring the sunshine,
After a winter's cruel captivity.

Spring is the Ultimate Season

El Niño 1998
by Dan Carpenter

Like a spastic child throwing a fit,
El Niño ravages the coasts with a scream, bouncing tornadoes left and right, knocking landslides around like toy blocks, and bullying millions of fish, driving them hundreds of miles north, like little kids pushed off merry-go-rounds.
But, true to his name, he turns from saboteur to savior and, like a favorite toy, saves Minnesota from the bitter cold of last winter.

Country Prom
by Jessica Krankkala

Twinkles of diamonds sparkle her dull face as she struts across the stage in a flashy orange evening gown.

Her auburn hair is loosely gathered in a rhinestone clip that accents her white rose corsage dipped in silver glitter.

Her lover meets her in the middle of the stage and welcomes her with a red rose and a sweet kiss

He parades on the stage in his white tux with tails and his imitation, snake-skin cowboy boots,
(not to mention his filthy, brown cowboy hat).

Spring Prom: a celebration of individuality.

Farm Alarm
by Jennica Gallagher

Sparrows crowd around the John Deere air-seeder, looking for spilled wheat, as sun springs over the flat horizon.

Snow is gone
A tall, bibbed farmer struts out the front door to wake the tractors from their six months' nap

Spring Killed the Winter!
by Jennifer Kotas

The snow and frost have vanished, and encompassed we are with spring.
The pink clouds kissed the morning stars, and celestial rains they bring

Romantically birth begins and blossoms to the sky and illuminates the human soul with delight.
Convey peace into the mortal mind,
and kill the winter with a halo of light

The gates were open, so spring let loose from the grave.
"Spring killed the Winter!" but departure was so brave.

Lincoln choir's New York City trip reviewed

By Leah Kenner
Lincoln Choir Member

You may see kids around town with black sweatshirts that say "Concert Choir New York Tour '98." Doesn't that trigger your curiosity? Seventy-one of us students from Lincoln High School and eight chaperones did things in N.Y. that most of us will never get to do again.

We began this adventure at one o'clock in the morning on May 7. We had to check in all our luggage and load up the buses to head to Fargo. The first flight departed at 5:45. The rest of us on the second flight lounged around the airport eating, sleeping and talking until we boarded our DC-9 around 6:30. The second flight, after three hours lay over in Minneapolis, finally arrived at our destination -- New York City! We were all looking forward to getting to the Grand Hyatt Hotel, so we could shower.

Upon arriving many of us were disappointed to find that we didn't have rooms. The hotel had reserved enough rooms, but on different floors. It was a necessity to all be on one floor, so we had to wait until more rooms on the twentieth floor became available. Those of us without rooms felt like Mary and Joseph as we knocked on friends' doors asking if we could shower or get ready in their room.

We had to freshen up and put on some funky threads because we were headed out on the town to see "Bring in 'Da Noise, Bring in 'Da Funk." It is about how music and dance, specifically tap, carried African-Americans through hard times from the Civil War to the present. This show was packed with rhythmic syncopation and incredible singing. I think it's safe to say we were all disappointed to see it end.

We awoke the next morning knowing it was the only night that we'd have over five hours of sleep. As we got ready, we were supposed to guzzle water and sing in the shower to warm up our voices for our first performance. At a specified time, all 71 of us crammed into Reese's room to warm up before we headed to St. John the Divine. We walked there, robe clad, in the rain. We posed for a group picture, all wet and happy as we were. Finally, we were in concert formation in front of the huge, open cathedral, ready to sing. It was a whole new sound. We could still hear the full chord echo a few seconds after we sang it. It was hard to focus on Reese as our curious eyes begged to gaze about.

In the cathedral gift shop, I encountered an excited Italian man who thought our performance was incredible. He asked me, in broken "English", if we had other performances. I told him we were singing at St. Patrick's Cathedral and Carnegie Hall. He said, "I will pray for you." (He meant that he will pray that we perform well at other places also.)

That night was another highlight. We changed into formal clothes and off we went to eat Italian Cuisine. The waiters at the restaurant wanted to hear us sing, so we sang. Everyone in the restaurant clapped for us when we finished. Who said New York people weren't nice? We headed to the Metropolitan Opera House after our song. We were going to see "Russian and Lyudmila" performed by the Russian Kirov Opera Company. It was definitely a taste of high society entertainment. Some kids loved it, others caught up on their sleep during a couple of acts.

The next morning, Saturday, May 9, we looked out our curtains hoping for sunshine to flood our room. No such luck, it was still raining. Heading to breakfast, most of us decided to spend the five bucks and buy a cheap umbrella from street venders to stay dry. We also found Oakley's for ten dollars, and Tommy Hilfiger and Gucci watches for fifteen dollars. (Some of the watches stopped working after a couple days. I wonder why?) Walking down the sidewalk we could buy flowers, sunglasses, t-shirts, jewelry, and hot dogs or pretzels. This city has a lot to offer without ever entering a store.

We rode the subway frequently, yes, it was dirty and packed, but it sure beat walking five miles. I got the feeling that the subway people didn't like it when we came. There were only about 80 of us, dressed normally in formals or choir robes (some people congratulated us on graduating). I thought we blended in nicely. Instead of taking the subway, or a bright yellow, fast-moving taxi, we could have taken a romantic jaunt via horse and buggy. How's that for transportation? Maybe a bit slow.

If a person had nothing to do in this city he could always stand and watch street musicians. It's sad to see them playing for dimes because most of them are talented. We also saw a "family" of young black boys and a couple of men dancing. They danced in rhythm to rap. It made me smile. They had so much energy, but a part of me felt sad. They are so young and already these cute little boys, who should be in school, are out on the street helping support their families.

We made it to our first Mozart rehearsal that afternoon. At Carnegie Hall our choir and about 130 other singers rehearsed Mozart's "Mass in C Minor." With 200 people to be organized into two parts with five sections in each, plus height order, it went miraculously fast. Four hours gets to be a long time when you're tired. We were glad we had to leave half an hour early to perform for the 5:30 p.m. Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Upon arriving at St. Pat's, we were herded up a never-ending spiral staircase to sing in the gallery. When the boys sang "Prayer of the Children" it was heavenly. I could almost hear the wings of angels fluttering over them. I can see them now--eyebrows up, faces radiant with pride. In our mass songs, our 71 voices blended into pure holiness. I didn't want it to end. I wanted to sing for these people and sing praise to the Lord forever. A man later told Mrs. Reese we were the best choir he had ever heard sing at the Cathedral.

The day wasn't over yet. We changed and hurried down the crowded sidewalks to get to the new Broadway Musical "Titanic." I must say it was nothing like the movie. It was much more realistic. It was exciting to see such extensive set work. It was a three level set with social classes, upper, middle and lower on each level. Like every night in this city, we headed back to the hotel so tired we couldn't walk straight, yet in some way too hyper for slumber.

We rose, oh so early, to be standing in the rain on the cold Sunday of May 10 at NBC Studios for the "Today" Show. We were there by 7:30 a.m.! We actually did get to sing on air.

After my first real breakfast--I got sick of breakfast bars and rice cakes--we went to the Metropolitan Museum of Art." That place is so huge we needed a map to find our way back. I wish we could've taken pictures. I could spend all day gazing at all the great art and still not see it all. Mrs. Reese reluctantly let us take taxis back to the hotel because we were soaking wet and catching colds. We left in groups of four with orders to tell the driver to go to the Grand Hyatt on 42nd and Park Avenue. We checked in with a chaperone when we got back.

I was curious about something in this city; where were all the gas stations? I decided to ask the cab driver. He explained to me that the city is divided east and west by Fifth Avenue. The East side was the business district. To find gas stations you have to go to the West side. Interesting enough. My curiosity was satisfied.

After freshening up and wringing out our wet clothes, we went to our last rehearsal. We headed to the church for rehearsal, discovered we were going the absolutely wrong way, turned around, and still managed to beat the other choirs. They must have been walking instead of jogging like we do.

After a refreshing hour break from rehearsal as Dr. Griffith worked with Choir 1, my energy was renewed -- or so I thought. As Dr. Griffith, our conductor, continued to drill the other choir, I could tell I was losing it. The warm atmosphere and the soothing sounds of Mozart drifting calmly through the building was the end of me. I could feel myself going. I jerked awake, struggling to concentrate. I eventually gave up. First it was my eyes; I fought in vain to keep them open. Next it was my head. A sudden "Kyrie" by the first sopranos on a high G joltingly brought me back to consciousness.

I learned to appreciate the rain God gave us. Stepping outside after rehearsal, I felt revived by cold rain on my face.

We ate our only relaxing dinner that night at "Jekyll and Hyde." It had a haunted house theme all the way around. We sang for them too. What do you expect from a choir? Our curfew was at ten, preferably in bed by then, but that wasn't realistic. Tomorrow was our big day. We needed the sleep to restore our energy.

We had the morning to sleep or shop. Then we headed to our final rehearsal at Carnegie Hall. It was our first and last rehearsal with the orchestra and the four soloists. We were finally there, and we were ready. During the performance we smiled and kept our eyes on Dr. Griffith through the 120 pages of Mass in C Minor. All our practice was well worth it.

The performance was Carnegie Hall quality. After our performance, we stripped off our robes to reveal formal ejollies" for the cruise on "The Spirit of New York." We danced and laughed until one-thirty in the morning. It was a fabulous view of the city all lit up, and the Statue of Liberty from the deck. We were all disappointed when the boat docked. It was the highlight of many of the kids' trip.

Tuesday, our last day in N.Y.C., was clean-up and check-out in the morning, then we could shop. The rest of the day was spent waiting for flights, running to flights, and being on flights. Then, it was over. We slept in our own beds that night.

We dragged our tired bodies to school the next day. I thank the Lord I didn't have any tests. I surely would have failed. Only the involuntary parts of my body were functioning. I would day-dream about sleeping.

Although the trip is over, it will live on in our memories and pictures. It's not something that will be forgotten. It was worth everything we put into it, but it's you, the community, we have to thank for our success. We couldn't have done it without you; that's the truth. Your support was unimaginable. We also need to thank our parents. Although they may not have understood the importance of the extra rehearsals, they did understand that we loved what we were doing. Most of all, I praise and thank God for having an experience I'll cherish and never forget.

LHS students participate in mock interviews

Several ninth grade social studies students from Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls recently participated in mock interviews with local business leaders. Part of the unit involves teaching employability skills which will have a long-term benefit for students and future employers.

In preparation for the event students were required to prepare application forms and were introduced to interviewing techniques. They discussed employability skills such as dependability, attitude, appearance, ability to get along with people, honesty, and communication.

The interviews were held in the Lincoln guidance office. Students were instructed to apply for an entry level position for a realistic summer job.

A total of 28 business leaders donated their time to conduct the interviews. In all, they worked approximately 45 hours to make it possible for nearly 180 ninth graders to experience a realistic job interview, said Cal Lindberg, social studies instructor.

Interviewers were instructed to review the student applications, conduct mock interviews, and finally provide feedback to the student through an interview rating sheet which was provided. Fifteen minutes was scheduled for each student.

In evaluating the program, one interviewer wrote that this program was a "great opportunity for kids to experience an interview with people they don't know. Very helpful I feel, to getting them ready for the real world."

Another said of the program that it's "a good way to introduce students to a real life interview. It helps give them a feel for what they can expect when actually applying for a job."

Students also gave high marks to the program. One wrote that, "I thought this was a great learning experience because I will know what to expect on my next job interview." Another wrote, "He seemed interested in what I said. I liked that. He didn't just sit there."

Lindberg said Mock Interview Days will continue to be a regular part of the curriculum.

Business leaders conducting the interviews included: Barb Jauquet Kalinoski of Northwest Regional Library; Jane Mattson of the Evergreen Eating Emporium; Trevor Swanson of Purdy's Shoes; Dan Olson of Northwest Medical Center; Gary Anderson of Hugo's; Jeff Olson of Erl's; Marty Johnson of First National Bank; Jarod Kalsnes of Paint and Glass Interiors; Melba Laidley of Arctic Cat; Roger Reuter of Norwest Bank; Dave Clausen of Dan Rauscher; Mike Parker of Northwest Medical Center; Nanci Kezar of Home Sweet Home; Sandy Case of Maurice's; Janell Hudson of Northwest Medical Center; Tim Erickson of Northern State Bank; Mark Johnson of Northern State Bank; Beatrice Collard of Arctic Cat; Mike Carpenter of Lori's Hallmark; Doug Dallmann of Universal Screenprint; Kermit Genereux of Genereux Realty; Nicole Olson of Norwest Bank; Jon Larson of Edward Jones; Mike Barry of Pennington Square; Cindy Hesse of Kmart; Tom and Paula Greelis of Family Bowl; Brett Anderson of Thrifty White; and Scott Bomholdt of Lincoln High School.

Thank you Thief River Falls For your kind support. Because of your generous donations, time, and financial support, 71 students from Lincoln High School were able to experience New York City at its finest! This trip will never be forgotten. Taking a class beyond the walls of the school is a unique and rewarding experience. Thank you again for making dreams come true Thief River Falls.

Sincerely,
Darcy Reese and the LHS Concert Choir

Community band to present dinner and concert June 21

Northland Community Band will present its Bon Voyage Concert Extravaganza Sunday, June 21, beginning at 6 p.m. in the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls.

The band will perform selections from the repertoire for the upcoming South Pacific Performance Tour June 29 through July 12. Admission for the dinner and concert will be $15.

Chorale and Shaker Dance, written by Minnesota native John Zdechlik, will be the overture for the concert to be presented by the band at the Sydney Opera House International Music Festival during the band's Australian tour. It will be one of the selections presented during the Bon Voyage concert.

Marches to be performed here and in Australia will include The Stars and Stripes Forever by John Philip Sousa and Big Four, written by K. L. King. Big Band Dixie, a medley of Dixieland tunes will feature local and Grand Forks area musicians within the band.

Soprano soloist Jane Olson Anderson, who was featured with the band as it toured Austria and Hungary in 1990, will perform America The Beautiful. Sounds of Sinatra, honoring the late Frank Sinatra, will also be performed along with many other band favorites.

The evening will begin with a roast beef dinner with Australian and New Zealand character at 6 p.m., followed by the main concert. Following the main concert a "Big Band" featuring musicians from the community band will present several numbers including A Night in Tunisia, Down Basie Street, Sentimental Journey and others.

The evening will conclude with a jam session including local favorites Bob Davidson on the Cordovox, Hartley Brown on the saxophone and clarinet, Jim Mattson on drums and Jackie Helms as vocalist. There will be an opportunity for dancing for everyone, according to Les Torgerson, director of the Northland Community Band.

"Don't miss this very special opportunity to celebrate music in Thief River Falls as the Northland Community Band presents its music from the upcoming concert tour in The Land Down Under," Torgerson said.

Tickets are available from the business office at Northland Community and Technical College, Kezar Music in downtown Thief River Falls and from band members.

The concert schedule for the upcoming South Pacific Performance Tour by the Northland Community Band has just been released. The band will leave for Auckland, New Zealand, June 29, and return from Australia, July 12.

Their overseas performances are slated for Auckland, New Zealand on July 2, and in Sydney at the Australian Maritime Museum on July 4, the Opera House on July 5, and the Darling Harbor on July 8. The performance at the Sydney Opera House is part of the Ninth Annual International Music Festival. The Northland Community Band will represent the United States in the Military Band and Community Band division. Overseas performances will conclude with an outdoor performance for the City of Cairns, Australia at City Place Stage on July 11.

Northland Community Band, directed by NCTC Director of Music Les Torgerson, features musicians from the Thief River Falls area, Grand Forks, Bemidji and many other communities.

Mention of the martial arts conjures up visions which the average person would scarcely consider to be art. Michelle Larson has studied martial arts for more than two-thirds of her 20-year life and has developed the "arts" phase of the sport into winning performance.

Michelle is the daughter of Rick and Char Brekken of Crookston, a 1996 graduate of Crookston Central high school and has completed her second year of the Certified Occupational Therapy Assistant course at Northwest Technical College in East Grand Forks. Rick is a fireman with the City of Crookston and Char a secretary with the Polk County Highway Department. Michelle has three older brothers, Troy, Joel and Adam.

In 1996 Michelle competed among 5,000 competitors in the U.S. Junior Olympics in Orlando, FL, and placed in the top 10 in her Black Belt karate division in patterns. Last November she was awarded the "Sword of Grace" for ability, manners, personal sportsmanship and dedication at the Northwest Black Belt Association tournament in Fargo, ND, where she also won grand champion honors in the Black Belt Patterns division. She tested for and earned her Second Degree Black Belt certification in March of this year.

Not surprisingly, Michelle will perform the art of Tae Kwon Do for her pageant talent number, setting a pattern with Nunchakus to music and including board and brick breaking.

An honor student at Crookston Central, Michelle the Presidential Academic Fitness award and certificates of achievement in science, English and zoology, and a citizenship award.

Selected as Miss Crookston in 1996, she was first runner-up in the Miss Marshall County Pageant and the Miss Thief River Falls Scholarship Pageant in 1997. She has held a

Paul Monley, 26, charged with murder in stabbing

Christopher Scholin, 19 is victim in Friday fight

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Paul Jermaine Monley, 26, Thief River Falls, was charged Monday in the stabbing death of 19-year-old Christopher Scholin of Thief River Falls.

At 12:37 a.m. Friday, Police were sent to Riverview Trailer Court to investigate a report of a stabbing. When police arrived they learned that Scholin had been stabbed in the chest with a large knife, and taken to Northwest Medical Center by private vehicle.

In investigating the incident police began searching for Paul Monley. They requested the assistance of the public through the media, and at about 2 p.m. East Grand Forks police had located Monley at an East Grand Forks residence. Monley was arrested without incident.

According to the amended criminal complaint filed with the Ninth District court Monday, June 15, Paul Monley and Sarah Waale had been arguing at a residence at Lot 16 of Riverview Trailer court Thursday evening. She left the residence and went to Scholin's residence at Lot 37 Riverview Trailer court. Monley followed and got into an argument with Scholin which turned physical. Monley left and later returned with a towel wrapped around his arm. As the two began to fight again, Monley unwrapped the towel and displayed a large knife which he used to stab Scholin in the heart and liver. Monley then fled the scene with Sarah Waale.

After his arrest in East Grand Forks Monley was transported back to Thief River Falls where he appeared before Ninth District Judge Larry Jorgenson. Monley was advised of his rights, the charges against him, and bond was established. At that time, Scholin was still alive and the charges against Monley were attempted murder in the second degree, attempted manslaughter and assault in the first degree. Assistant Pennington County Attorney Al Rogalla requested that he be held without bond or on a high bond because Monley was originally from Gary, Indiana, had demonstrated that he was a flight risk by running to East Grand Forks, and was a danger to the community.

Judge Jorgenson appointed Mike LaCoursiere, public defender, to represent Monley, and set bond at $300,000. Judge Jorgenson did not issue a gag order on officials connected with the case but admonished them to use common sense about what they say to the media. He said Monley was entitled to a fair trial.

Friday afternoon, Scholin was transferred to Dakota Hospital in Fargo. He died from his injuries on Saturday.

Monday, Monley and officers escorting Monley to the courtroom for his arraignment were met by members of Scholin's family in the hallway of the courtroom. It was an emotional confrontation which resulted in yells of "You're going to Hell," and "Rot In Hell."

Paul J. Monley
Charged with murder

During the arraignment, which included an amended complaint to reflect the death of Scholin, John Scholin, Christopher's father, stood up and interrupted the proceedings tearfully demanding that Monley not be let go.

At the conclusion of the hearing, two officers blocked John Scholin, other family members, and friends from confronting Monley again as he was being escorted out of the courtroom.

Monley has been charged with murder in the second degree, and manslaughter in the first degree. The maximum penalty for murder in the second degree is 40 years. The maximum penalty for manslaughter in the first degree is 15 years, $30,000 or both. Bond was left at $300,000, and Judge Jorgenson set the next hearing for 10 a.m. on July 6. Monley did not enter a plea on the charges.

A complete obituary for Chris Scholin appears in this edition of The Times.

New Region 1 Dairy Princess is Jenny Kinnunen, 18, daughter of Melvin and Ruth Ann Kinnunen of Menahga. She was crowned by reigning Region 1 Dairy Princess Ingrid Hanson of Thief River Falls at the coronation banquet Saturday, June 13, at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls.

Jenny Kinnunen is new Region I Dairy Princess

Jenny Kinnunen of Menahga, one of two candidates from Wadena county, won the title of Region I Dairy Princess Saturday, June 13, and received her crown during a coronation banquet at the Best Western Inn.

First runner-up was Tricia Waggoner of Bagley in Clearwater county and second runner-up was Amanda Aakre of Hawley in Clay county. Miss Kinnunen was also the winner of the Miss Congeniality award voted by the candidates.

Other contestants for the regional title were Rita Schaefer and and Jerilyn Aschnewitz, Frazee, Melinda Warling, Audubon, Kirsten Trimble, Tenstrike, Lauren Bentley, Ulen; Wendy Griewe, Gary, Heather Tostveit, St. Hilaire, Shana Haglund, Red Lake Falls, Kristi Kompelien, Roseau; and Jonessa Palmer, Menahga.

Crowning her successor as Region I Dairy Princess was Ingrid Hanson of Thief River Falls. Also a special guest and a speaker at the coronation banquet was Kari Skiba of North Branch, reigning Princess Kay of the Milky Way. In atten-

Fire departments participate in training exercise

Fire departments from Thief River Falls, Goodridge, Red Lake Falls, Alvarado and Warren participated in a training exercise Tuesday. Part of the training exercise involved burning down a residence two miles north of Thief River Falls.

The "structural burn" exercise was conducted by instructors from Custom Training and Continuing Education, Northland Community and Technical College, in cooperation with the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities. The purpose of the training session was to give firefighters an opportunity to deal with a "live fire" situation. More importantly, it allows firefighters to actually observe how a fire spreads in a structure and how it reacts within its environment.

A team, consisting of three firefighters and a qualified instructor, entered the structure. The instructor proceeded to build a fire based upon the experience level of the firefighters. It was up to each team to bring the fire under control. As a precautionary measure, a back-up or safety team, also consisting of three firefighters and instructor, were in close proximity to the structure. Following each session, the firefighting team left the structure and participated in a "question and answer session with the instructor.

The "structural burn" indicated to those present, the importance of fire safety in the home. During the course of a fire, interior temperatures will range from an average of 200 degrees to 1,800 degrees. The average person, dressed in street clothes, can only withstand about 130 degrees. Deadly gases, which are produced in just a matter of minutes, can be so toxic that they can kill a person in only one or two breaths. For these reasons, it is very important to prevent fires and practice your escape plans.

Fire officials remind the public, that if a fire occurs in their home, it is very important to leave the structure immediately. Seconds count! Always have two ways of getting out of the house or building your are in. Have an escape plan. And, above all, make sure that your smoke detectors are installed and working. These simple steps could save you and your family's life.

Supt. Sal Hoffert resigns Grygla, Goodridge posts

Supt. Sal Hoffert has resigned his position as superintendent of the Grygla/Gatzke/Skime and Goodridge school districts effective August 31. His retirement will follow 37 years in education in North Dakota and Minnesota.

Applications for the position of superintendent for the two districts have been received for the past several weeks with the application period closing Wednesday, June 10. More than a dozen applications have been received. It is the intention of the boards of the two districts to continue to share a superintendent.

A committee comprised of two board members, two teachers and two non-instructional personnel from each of the districts and the principals of both districts will review the applications and report to the respective district boards.

Supt. Hoffert came to Grygla as superintendent in 1977 and assumed the Goodridge superintendency upon the retirement of Dr. David Brown in 1988. His wife Ann has also retired this year after 21 years of teaching English, elementary music and Title I reading and mathematics in the Grygla school.

Sal began his career in education following his high school graduation in North Dakota and attendance at summer school for his rural teaching certificate, teaching eight students in five grades in a rural school. He recalls that many of his rural students spoke German and would use that language to discuss topics they didn't want him to hear about. Throughout the school year he didn't tell them of his own German background and familiarity with the language. There were some wide eyes among the students when he spoke to them in German on the last day of school.

Hoffert earned an elementary teaching certificate for North Dakota in 1959 after a two-year program at Minot State College and his four year bachelor's degree with a business major from Mayville State College in 1964. He earned a master's degree in administration from North Dakota State University in Fargo, ND in 1967 and his administrative specialist degree from Tri-College at Fargo in 1977.

Supt. Hoffert said he attended summer school for 11 summers and earned his master's degree and administrative specialist degree by attending evening, weekend and summer courses. With his school attendance and administrative duties, he said he only had two summers off since he was a junior in high school. One of those was in the military when his National Guard unit was activated for a period from 1959 to 1961.

He taught for six years before moving into school administration, serving for 10 years as superintendent in the Crary and Wimbledon schools in North Dakota.

His administration at Grygla and Goodridge has been marked by the difficulties of maintaining smaller, rural districts during a period of decline for agriculture and constant changes in the state's educational system and legislative programs. He has been appreciated by both Grygla and Goodridge boards for his fiscal responsibility and ability to provide solid educational programs within the financial capabilities of the districts.

Presentation of an engraved school bell in appreciation for his years of service as superintendent of Goodridge schools was made to Sal Hoffert at an awards day program in the school gymnasium recently. From left are board members Marlin Kotrba, Tom Scheef, Supt. Hoffert, chairman Aldon Hyland and Joe Phillipp.

All three of the Hofferts' children are graduates of the Grygla school. They include Anastasia Pole of Bedford, WI, who has two daughters, ages five and three, son David of Grygla, who is employed at Marvin Windows in Warroad, and daughter Roslyn, who teaches in the Thief River Falls school system and will be married September 19 to Shawn Gruven of Goodridge.

Sal says his living location following retirement is as yet undetermined, since he lives in a house owned by the Grygla school district at the present time. Until a successor is hired, it is not known if the house will be needed by the new superintendent. Hoffert has agricultural property in the Goodridge and Grygla areas as well as in North Dakota.

Supt. Sal Hoffert of the Grygla and Goodridge school districts has submitted his resignation effective August 31 and will be retiring after 37 years in education. Application period for the position closed Wednesday, June 10, and a committee from both districts has been formed to review applications.

Levinson's MotivAider to be subject of infomercial

Thief River Falls inventor Dr. Steve Levinson will have his most successful invention, the MotivAider, featured in an infomercial to be filmed in Thief River Falls later this week.

Jim Caldwell of Future Thunder Productions, Inc., will be in Thief River Falls with a film crew from Minneapolis Thursday through Sunday to film the half-hour production which will later be test marketed and perhaps aired nationally late this fall.

The MotivAider is a timing device which emits a vibrating signal to remind the user of whatever positive thoughts or performance he or she wants to remember. It has been successfully used for a number of years on a relatively limited distribution basis.

Jim Caldwell

Caldwell told The Times that he was made aware of the product by a professional colleague who knew of its successful use back in 1992. He says he believes it is a "socially useful tool that America is ready for" and is so convinced of its potential that he is financing the production himself.

While in Thief River Falls Caldwell will do much of his filming and interviewing at Northwest Medical Center—where Dr. Levinson is director of the mental health unit—and at Challenger elementary school as well as with several business leaders. He will also make a trip to Bemidji to do a feature part of the infomercial on a MotivAider user who claims the device has totally turned her life around.

"My goal is to speak with people who know Steve, to get a sense of his character and to secure testimony from local people," Caldwell said. "One of the people I want to talk with is Joyce Kopari, who uses the MotivAider in her program at Challenger elementary school."

Focus of the infomercial will be on how the MotivAider is used by people in actually following through on good intentions. "This subject of follow-through is a subject that has never really been dissected before," Caldwell said.

The infomercial is a an informative type of program which showcases a product and is a vehicle for sales through television. If successful it can air hundreds of times a week for months in various areas of the country. Caldwell said he has seen this type of promotion take a business from a standing start to $75 million in sales in a matter of weeks. He produced an infomercial for an automotive cleaner and polish which sold $1.2 million worth of product in 24 hours.

Levinson said that test marketing of the infomercial will indicate its success in creating demand and allow his company to compile product for anticipated need.

"It's an exciting concept that has enormous potential," he said. "The MotivAider has found acceptance far beyond what we ever envisioned when it was created for a rather narrow field of use. We know that there are thousands, probably millions, of people who could benefit from its use if only we could bring information about it to them. We are hoping this effort with Future Thunder will accomplish that purpose."

Caldwell said that he and his film crew will likely be seen around the community during several days at the end of the week. He said he has no objection to people watching the filming if they are interested in doing so, but will have little time to talk to people since there is a short period of time to accomplish a lot of work.

Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Keri Skiba of North Branch, and Region 1 Dairy Princess Ingrid Hanson were co-hostesses for the Minnesota ADA Region 1 Dairy Princess contest Saturday, June 13, at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls. Both were speakers at the coronation banquet Saturday evening.

Regional royalty received their awards Saturday at the Region 1 Dairy Princess contest at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls. dance were approximately 70 people, including the candidates and their families and friends. The regional winner was also presented with a set of luggage and a bouquet of roses. Runners-up were presented with single long-stemmed roses and along with Miss Congeniality received engraved plaques. All contestants also received corsages and individual gifts.

As retiring Region 1 Princess, Ingrid Hanson received an engraved silver tray commemorating her reign.

As the new Region 1 Princess, Miss Kinnunen will represent the region at the Princess Kay of the Milky Way competition in late August at the Minnesota State Fair. She will be in Thief River Falls Saturday, June 27, to assist with the awards distribution at the 49th annual Northwest Dairy Day, and will ride in the American Festival parade.

Norma Hanson of Goodridge, who chaired the committee making arrangements for the princess contest, will serve as the contact person to arrange appearances by Princess Jenny during her reign. She may be contacted at 218-378-4380.

During the afternoon Linda James of the American Dairy Association of Minnesota presented a workshop on becoming a dairy princess and conducted a mock interview. The candidates also were put together in teams and asked to present a promotion on the contents of a paper bag which they were given. Other time during the day was spent in interviews with the judges and viewing the videotape of the 1997 Princess Kay of the Milky Way coronation program and several Minnesota ADA promotional tapes.

The new Region 1 Dairy Princess is 18 years of age and a 1998 graduate of Menahga high school. She is the daughter of Melvin and Ruth Ann Kinnunen and has an older brother, Mike, 22 and younger sister, Kristine, 15. At the Wadena county dairy princess contest this year she was selected as first runner-up.

Jenny's father grew up on the farm where they now live and dairy cattle have always been part of the farm operation. The Kinnunens milk 55 to 60 head of primarily grade Holsteins, raise their own replacement heifers and also have an Angus beef herd and feed out dairy steers. On DHIA test the herd has a current average of about 18,500 pounds of milk, 750 pounds of butterfat and 650 pounds of protein.

Jenny has been involved in just about everything the Menahga high school had to offer. She was especially active in Future Farmers of America (FFA), Future Leaders of America (FLA) and athletics (she lettered in basketball, volleyball and track). She was vice president and president of the National Honor Society and participated in yearbook and drama.

She earned her State Farmer degree in FFA and placed first in the state dairy placement proficiency competition. Her entry has been sent to national competition where the top four will be selected for interviews at the national convention in November in Louisville, KY. Jenny participated in the national convention as a junior when she was chapter reporter.

She was Region 2 vice president of FFA in 1997-98 and also Region 9 treasurer of FLA. A member of the Pine Cone 4-H club since she was seven years old, she has held the offices of secretary, treasurer, vice president and president and carried a variety of projects including dairy animals and dairy demonstrations and has also done dairy judging.

At Sebeka Ag Appreciation Week she has participated in dairy demonstrations for the past seven years and has qualified for a state fair appearance. She has also qualified for state fair trips with dairy animals but has never shown at the state fair.

This summer she is also working in the admissions office at the Dakota Clinic in Park Rapids. She said she had a wonderful time at the regional princess contest Saturday and is looking forward to coming back to Thief River Falls for Northwest Dairy Day and the American Festival parade.

Students named to Dean's list

Several area students are among the 874 students named to the 1998 Spring Semester Dean's list at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks.

The Dean's list includes students whose grade point averages are in the top 15 percent of the enrollment in each of the University's degree-granting colleges and schools. A student must have completed no fewer than 12 semester hours of academic work for the semester, of which eight or more hours must be graded work rather than "satisfactory/unsatisfactory."

Area students named to the Dean's List include: Brad Alan Mossestad of Plummer, Stephanie Marie Brumwell, Gary Dean Schindler, Julene June Solheim, and Heather Ann Thibert of Red Lake Falls; Aaron J. Douglas and Terry Lynn Lisell of Roseau; Nancy Kay Lacina, Traci Dawn Lindberg, Rebecca Leigh Mattson of Thief River Falls; and Christian Claire Hallett of Warroad.

Ice Cream... a summertime treat rich in history

by Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

"I scream, you scream, we all scream for ice cream!" What would summertime be without this delightful frozen treat? June is dairy month, and it's impossible to think about dairy products without ice cream—an American tradition—coming to mind.

The History of Ice Cream

While we consider ice cream to be an American tradition, the history of the frozen dessert began long before our country's founding.

Its origins are known to reach back as far as Alexander the Great, although no specific date can be linked to its actual invention. Ice creams' evolution, according to incidents recorded over the centuries, indicate that ice cream's evolution was a combination of people's attraction for cool, sweet foods and their creativity.

Biblical references show that King Solomon was fond of iced drinks during harvest. In the Roman Empire, Nero Claudius Caesar (A.D. 54-86) frequently sent teams of runners into the mountains to get snow which was flavored with honey, juices and fruits.

More than a thousand years later, Marco Polo returned to Italy from the Far East with a recipe that closely resembled what is now called sherbet. Historians estimate that this recipe evolved into ice cream in Italy sometime during the 16th century. Italian Catherine de Medici who became the wife of Henry II of France introduced similar frozen desserts in France in 1553.

England discovered ice cream around the same time as the Italians. Called 'cream ice,' it appeared regularly at the table of Charles I during the 17th century.

Ice cream was made available to the general public at Paris' first cafe, Cafe Procope, in 1670.

Ice cream became more and more popular in Europe throughout the 18th century, described as 'food fit for the gods" in M. Emy's book, The Art of Making Frozen Desserts, in 1768.

Ice Cream in America

America's first official account of ice cream appears in a letter written in 1700 by a guest of Governor William of Maryland. The first advertisement appeared in the May 12, 1777 issue of the New York Gazette when confectioner Philip Lenzi announced that ice cream was available "almost every day."

Records kept by a New York merchant show that President George Washington spent about $200 for ice cream during the summer of 1790. Inventory taken at Mount Vernon after Washington's death revealed "two pewter ice cream pots." It is said that Thomas Jefferson had a favorite 18-step recipe for an ice cream delicacy resembling today's Baked Alaska.

During the 18th century, ice cream was a rare and exotic dessert enjoyed only by the elite. Dolly Madison served a strawberry ice cream dessert at President Madison's second inaugural banquet in 1812 at the White House.

Insulated ice houses were invented around 1800, making ice cream more available. In 1845, Nancy Johnson of New Jersey invented a hand-operated ice cream freezer, and after a short time, the market was flooded with similar inventions, allowing Americans to enjoy ice cream in their homes.

Baltimore milk dealer Jacob Fussell pioneered the manufacturing of ice cream in 1851, producing ice cream in his plant from excess milk and cream. In 1899, five million gallons of ice cream were produced in the United States. In 1909, ice cream production had grown to 30 million gallons and by 1919 to 150 million gallons. Today's annual rate is more than 900 million gallons. Like other American industries, the ice cream industry grew because of technological innovations in steam power, mechanical refrigeration, the homogenizer, electric power and motors, packing machines and new freezing processes and equipment. Also, motorized delivery vehicles dramatically changed the industry.

Availability Leads To New Creations

Ice cream's wide availability in the late 19th century led to new ice cream creations. The American soda fountain and the "soda jerk" profession emerged with the invention of the ice cream soda in 1874. In response to religious criticism for eating "sinfully" rich ice cream sodas on Sunday, merchants of the late 1890's left out the carbonated water and invented the famous ice cream "Sunday" — the spelling later changed to "sundae" to remove any connection to the Sabbath.

The first ice cream cone was produced in 1896 by Italio Marchiony, and he was awarded a patent in 1903. The following year, the ice cream cone was introduced at the St. Louis World's Fair when a merchant ran out of dishes and offered a waffle-like pastry rolled into a cornucopia shape as a substitute.

Ice Cream Becomes An American Symbol

Ice cream had become so identified with American culture by 1921 that the commissioners of Ellis Island decided to include ice cream — a truly American taste — in all arriving immigrants' first American meal. As of 1929, per capita consumption of ice cream in the United States was roughly nine quarts per year. The small vendors who operated plants and sold ice cream on streets, called "Hokey-Pokey Men," began to give way to larger dairy corporations.

During World War II ice cream became an edible symbol for morale, and each branch of the service tried to outdo the others in serving ice cream to its troops. The first "floating ice cream parlor" was built in 1945 for Navy sailors in the Western Pacific. When the war ended, and dairy rationing was lifted, Americans celebrated with ice cream, and in 1946 Americans consumed over 20 quarts of ice cream per person.

Ice Cream—The Last 50 Years

In the 1940s and 50s the ice cream industry settled and production leveled off through the 1970s. As more pre-packaged ice cream was sold through supermarkets, traditional ice cream parlors and soda fountains began to disappear. Today, specialty ice cream stores and unique restaurants that offer ice cream dishes have surged in popularity. These businesses are popular with those who remember the old-time soda fountains and ice cream parlors as well as a new generation of ice cream enthusiasts.

Recently, ice cream has experienced a renaissance. Consumption has steadily increased each year since 1981. "Superpremium" ice cream has added a new dimension to the "ice cream experience."

If current trends continue, the old saying, "As American as apple pie," may be changed to,"As American as pie a la mode!"

From cow to carton: How ice cream is made

High quality ice cream requires careful preparation, and each manufacturer develops its own special recipe. And while the questions of whose ice cream is best, most exotic or of the highest quality are long-standing ones, the basics of ice cream production are the same.

The primary category of ice cream ingredients is derived from milk, and the dairy ingredients are the most important in terms of characteristics of the frozen product. The federal standard states that ice cream must have at least 10 percent milkfat, the single most critical ingredient. The use of varying percentages of milkfat affects the palatability, smoothness, color, texture and food value of the finished product. Gourmet or superpremium ice cream often range in excess of the 10 percent minimum.

Other dairy products needed to make ice cream include nonfat solids, which contribute to the nutritional value, and solids, which provide balance for the product.

Other ingredients used are extensive and are important in determining the finished product's characteristics and qualities. The sweeteners used vary from cane or beet sugar to corn sweeteners or honey. Stabilizers, such as plant derivatives, are commonly used in small quantities to prevent the formation of ice crystals and help make a smoother ice cream. Emulsifiers are also used in small amounts and provide uniform whipping qualities to the ice cream during freezing, as well as a smoother and "drier" body and texture in the frozen form.

Basic ingredients, excluding any bulky flavorings, are agitated and blended in a mixing tank and pumped into a pasteurizer where the mixture is heated and held at a predetermined temperature for a predetermined period of time. The hot mix is then "shot" through a homogenizer, where pressure of 2,000 to 2,500 pounds per square inch breaks the milkfat globules down into smaller particles, allowing the mixture to stay consistent and smooth. The mix is then quick-cooled to about 40 degrees and frozen.

During freezing the mix is aerated by "dashers," revolving blades in the freezer. The small air cells incorporated by this whipping action prevent ice cream from becoming an inedible solid mass of frozen ingredients. The amount of aeration is called "overrun," and is limited by the federal standard stating that the finished product must not weigh less than 4.5 pounds per gallon.

The next step is the addition of bulky flavorings, such as chocolate chips, fruit and nuts — either "dropped" or "shot" into the semi-solid ice cream after it leaves the freezer.

After the addition of flavorings, the ice cream is packed into containers and quickly moved to a "hardening room," where sub-zero temperatures freeze the product to its final state for storage and distribution.

Plain Vanilla Ice Cream
(for electric ice cream makers)

2 cups heavy cream
2 cups light cream
1 cup sugar
1-1/2 tsp. pure vanilla extract
1/8 tsp. salt

Pour cream directly into cream can of electric ice cream maker. Add sugar, vanilla and salt. Stir with wooden spoon or plastic spatula until sugar dissolves. Process according to appliance directions.

Tin Can Ice Cream
a fun activity for kids of all ages
at picnics, scout events or Bible school

1 3-1/2 ounce package instant pudding
2 6 ounce cans evaporated milk
1 to 1-1/2 cups milk
Miscellaneous flavorings
1 1 pound coffee can
1 3 pound coffee can0
Rock salt
Crushed ice
Duct tape

Add pudding and evaporated milk to 1-pound coffee can. Add enough milk to fill can 3/4-full. Cover can and secure with duct tape. Place 1-pound can into 3-pound can. Layer salt and ice between cans. Put lid on 3-pound can and secure with tape. Roll back and forth on floor or ground for 15-20 minutes. Enjoy!
Note: Flavored pudding, flavored extracts, crushed chocolate chips or candy, fruit bits can be used to flavor the ice cream.

Marcia Erickson and Leslie Hill wed May 2

Marcia Ann Erickson and Leslie John Hill were united in marriage May 2 at the First Baptist Church in Thief River Falls. Reverend Carroll Erickson and Reverend Ron Gullman officiated at the 2 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Reverend and Mrs. Carroll Erickson of Thief River Falls, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hill of Minneapolis and Denver, CO.

Prelude music, by organist Judy Johnson, included "Hornpipe" by Handel, "Canon in D" by Pachobel and "Trumpet Air" by Purcell. Processional music was "Trumpet Voluntary" by Clarke and "Bridal Chorus" by Wagner. Vocalists were Peter Johnson and Twyla Hicks. They sang "Let Us Praise the Almighty," "The Greatest of These is Love," "When I Look At You" and "Commitment Song." Recessional music was "Wedding March" and "Sing Your Praise to the Lord."

The church was decorated in ivory and rose blush. Baskets of green adorned the platform where ivory candles and cascading spring flowers graced the candelabra. Ivory lace and blush rose and ivy pew bows decorated alternating pews, the windows and the foyer.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose to wear her mother's formal ivory gown of silk peau de soie. Simulated pearls and sequins extended from the sweetheart neckline to the hemline in front. The long buttoned sleeves extended to points over her wrists while a small bow decorated the back beneath the modified V-neck. The semi-cathedral length train was detachable. A floral wreath trimmed with seed pearls held her fingertip length double layer veil. She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses, white stephanotis, Alstromeria lilies and white gardenias backed by white wheat and ivy.

Debbie Spencer of Colorado Springs, CO was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Jennifer Satterfield of St. Paul, Jerene Kabat of Andover, June Danielson of Sauk Centre and Lori Muckenroth of Thief River Falls, all friends of the bride.

They wore long-sleeved blush rose crepe full-length gowns. The empire bodices featured a lace overlay and round neckline which dropped to a modified vee in back. The carried round bouquets of silk roses.

The flower girl was Stephanie Spencer of Colorado Springs, CO, niece of the bride. She was dressed in an ivory street-length gown with lace at the sleeves and hem. She also carried silk roses.

The groom was attired in a black cable full-dress tuxedo with white bow tie and vest. His boutonniere was white stephanotis.

John Hill, father of the groom, was the best man. Groomsmen were Tony Sieberlich, Dave Bentz, Steve Fredrikson and Michael Johnson, all of Minneapolis and friends of the groom. The wore black tuxedos with pink vests and bow ties and boutonnieres of pink roses.

Ushering the guests were Nathan Egge of Prescott, AZ and John Wallberg Jr. of Dallas, TX, both friends of the bride. They were dressed to match the groomsmen but with gold vests and bow ties.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride chose to wear a street-length ivory jacket-dress, and the groom's mother wore a plum two-piece dress. They both wore wrist corsages of white gardenias and lilies.

Marilyn Fischer of Fresno, CA, aunt of the bride, was her personal attendant.

The reception, held at the Heritage Community Center, following the ceremony and was hosted by John and Marilyn Wallberg, friends of the bride. Presiding at the guest book were Andy Mantufel and Lori Seifert, friends of the couple. Gift pages were Jon and Ana Kabat of Andover. Laura and Debbie Morgan of Minneapolis poured punch. Gloria Lee of Thief River Falls served coffee. The wedding cake was cut by Marilyn Fischer of Fresno, CA and Betty Langlett of Thief River Falls. Orlette Gjerde was the flower hostess of Thief River Falls. Decorations were done by Judy Johnson and Diane Rud, both of Thief River Falls.

Serving the bride's table were Leah Kenner and Nicole Wiseth, friends of the bride.

The videographer was Darrell Fischer, uncle of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to London and Paris, Marcia and Leslie are at home in Minneapolis where both are employed.

Collectors Day is June 20 at Engelstad Pioneer Village

Up to 20 different collections will be on display at Engelstad Pioneer Village from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, June 20 at Collectors Day.

Collections will include santas, antiques, toys, needlework houses, belt buckles, John Deere toys, money and tokens, quilts, postcards, jewelry, hats, roosters, guns, pins, rugs, wood work, Red Wing pottery, bulls and antique cars.

Admission is $3 or a Pennington County Historical Society membership. Children under the age of 12 will be admitted free if accompanied by an adult.

The Ice Cream Wagon will visit and offer refreshments for sale during the event.

Stephen church to celebrate Swedish heritage

Salem Lutheran Church of rural Stephen will celebrate its Swedish heritage at the annual Midsummer Festival on Saturday, June 27.

The all day celebration will begin with worship at 11 a.m. Ruth Halvorson of Karlstad and Grace Hammer of Thief River Falls will present a program of scripture and song. Following the church service, an old-fashioned dinner will be served, including homemade pie for dessert. The afternoon's activities will include a fancy work auction, games and a refreshment stand. Lunch will be served at the conclusion of the festivities.

Midsummer in Sweden was traditionally observed on June 24, and for 75 years, Salem Lutheran Church held its festival on that day. The festival is now held on the Saturday closest to the 24th. Salem Lutheran Church was organized in May of 1883, and its present building was erected in 1887.

The congregation invites friends to worship and then join the fellowship and fun at its 1998 Midsummer Festival.

All classmates living in Thief River Falls are urged to attend the meeting.

RLF ClayWorks to hold free lectures June 18

Red Lake Falls ClayWorks will be holding two free lectures on Thursday, June 18. At 6:45 p.m., Red Lake Falls ClayWorks will demonstrate clay tile-making techniques in the Lafayette high school art room. At 8 p.m. master potter Richard Bresnahan will speak on "Sustainable Living" with focus on the integration of the aesthetic, scientific, humanistic and moral approaches to living in relation to nature. This lecture will take place in the Lafayette High school band room.

Richard Bresnahan teaches pottery at St. John's University. His training in both the U.S. and Japan enables him to link and celebrate diverse cultures. The St. John's Pottery Program uses materials all from within a 10-mile radius of the University. The studio is as environmentally sound as possible, recycling water, using energy efficient lighting and gas, and reusing shipping materials.

Both lectures are part of a Minnesota Arts eXperience (MAX) grant awarded to the Red Lake Falls School District. Of the land, Pottery Plus, is a workshop for K-12 teachers, grade 9-12 students and other artists learning the value of using Minnesota clay in the classroom. MAX workshops are funded through the Lola and Rudy Perpich Minnesota Center of Arts Education, a state agency providing teaching and learning opportunities centered in the arts.

SPEAKING OF . . .

...Be Careful

It seems as though every time we turn around we find out about a new scam that we have to beware of. Most of these scams are taking place through the telephone. Recently, we find we have to be careful of what we say to get rid of those annoying pests who call us the minute we walk in the door after work or while we are preparing dinner. We mustn't say the word, "yes" in any way or they will switch our telephone service without our even knowing about it, or do something else equally bad to us.

I have always been irritated by those telephone interruptions and have made a practice of saying, "I don't take this type of call. Please put it in the mail," and then hanging up right away. If they persist, I say, "Take me off of your list, please, or I will be forced to contact the authorities." (Oh, yes, I am a snip!) Then, if all else fails and they call again, I sometimes scream at them. However, some part of this seems to work and lately I have had less and less calls and more and more mail, but mail is easy to deal with.

A couple of weeks ago I had a new scam pulled on me. I opened a credit card statement, thinking there would be a zero balance, and found a charge of $63.89. What? I hadn't charged anything. In the "Purchases" section of the bill, I saw that a catalog company named "Damark" had charged me for a club renewal. Now this made me mad. I had not renewed any club membership. I was not contacted about this renewal and it was put on my credit card without authorization.

I called Damark and talked to someone named Veronica. After reaming her up one side and down the other, telling her what a fraudulent practice this was and that I wanted my charge card credited right away and nothing more to do with the Damark company, she told me that she was not an employee of Damark, but was a telephone service representative; in other words, an answering service. Nonetheless, she said she would give my message to Damark immediately and promised that things would be taken care of. I said I expected all charges, including any late fees by my credit card company, paid by Damark. "Yes, yes, right away" she said.

Three weeks later, while paying my monthly bills, I called the charge card company to see if my account had been credited for the $63.89. It had not. I told the charge card person all about my problem how angry I was at Damark and asked would I have to pay a late charge for this.

I learned that Damark had 15 days to credit my account. I learned that by calling Damark immediately (and keeping track of the date, time and person I talked to) I had privileges from my credit card company. They called Damark for me while I stayed on the line. Then the credit card person came back on the line and asked if I wanted to speak to the Damark representative. "I sure do!"

First, finally getting hold of someone employed by Damark, I reamed her up one side and down the other, using pretty much the same words I had used at Veronica. I mentioned "fraud" and "poor business practices," and got her name, "Cinda," the company's address and telephone number. Oh, the company was in Minneapolis. "Ah," I said to Cinda. "So Damark is a Minnesota company. I'm really glad to hear that. You must know we have a rather active attorney general's office in this state. I will certainly be contacting the attorney general's office about this matter because I feel it is fraudulent."

After more ranting on my part, Cinda said, "But I'm sure someone contacted you by phone or mail about the charge." I said, "No, Cinda, I have had no mail from Damark and I don't accept telephone solicitation calls of any kind." (Thank goodness for my "no" policy on telephone solicitation calls.) This shut Cinda up on that subject, so she tried to explain whey they had not credited my card in a reasonable length of time, saying it was because they had so many telephone calls and had to hire a service. I said, "No doubt you've had so many calls because of complaints about these credit card charges you are making." Cinda had nothing more to say after that. In fact, Cinda was suddenly gone from the other end of the phone.

My credit card person came back on the line. She said because I had called Damark immediately and they did not respond in 15 days, there would be no extra charges or late payment fees placed on my charge card. I thanked her profusely for this and for her time and effort and she said, "Have a nice day." And I did.

The moral of this story, if there is one, is that we have to be aware of what is going on. Evidently we can be duped in more ways than just by telephone. We must stand up for our rights, because no one else is going to do so. Even if it is a pain in the neck, we must take the time to look into anything we feel is wrong and take whatever steps are necessary to make things right. And keep an eye on those credit card charges, the next $63.89 that Damark charges may be to one of your cards. Don't let them get away with it!

Clearwater Church receives grant for 100th anniversary celebration

Clearwater Lutheran Church of rural Oklee has received a $1,000 grant from Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) to be used toward its 100th anniversary celebration on July 5.

The grant was awarded through AAL's Milestone program, a program designed to help congregation members increase awareness and appreciation of their heritage.

Services are no longer regularly performed at Clearwater Lutheran Church, but there are four other churches in the parish, Oak Park, Nazareth, St. Petri and Mt. Olive. Reverend Steven Sparley is the parish pastor.

Centennial activities will include worship services on Sunday, July 5 at Oak Park Lutheran Church followed by a dinner. A program will be held in the afternoon, and refreshments will be served. Tours will be given a Clearwater Lutheran Church.

Gayla Waale (left), president of the Thief River Falls chapter of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) recently presented Sharri Kruger of Roseau with the 1998 AAUW scholarship. Sharri is a 1998 graduate of Northland Community and Technical College. She will use the $200 scholarship as she continues her education at Moorhead State University, studying secondary math education.

Heierens to celebrate 50th anniversary Sunday, June 21

Friends and relatives of Emil and Audrey Heieren are invited to a 50th anniversary open house on Sunday, June 21 from 2 to 5 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran Church.

A program will begin at 2:30 p.m. No gifts please.

ACTIVITIES

Spool Streamers

Collect empty thread spools to make these sensational streamers. To make one, thread three different colors of corrugated ribbon through the hole in the center of a spool. Tie the ribbons in two knots, one on each side of the hole through the spool, to secure the spool in place. Complete the streamer by brushing clear fingernail polish on the ends of the ribbons to prevent fraying. Children will love using these streamers in movement and music activities and when they become dingy, just pop them into the washing machine.

PARENTING TIPS

Traffic Safety

As parents, we realize that traffic safety is important. Motor vehicles are the leading cause of death for preschool children. Children need to be educated to recognize and safely deal with traffic hazards.

Two things parents can do to help prevent accidents are:

1. Teach children about and model safe walking behavior.
2. Closely supervise children near traffic.

Several characteristics of "normal" young children makes traffic safety a challenge. For example, young children are in a hurry to explore their environment and want to be independent. But children lack the experience to judge the speed of an oncoming car. Furthermore, the child's height restricts his/her view around parked cars. Children are impulsive and may dart out after a toy (often a ball) without thinking about safety rules. As parents, we need to remember that it takes years of experience, maturity and practice for children to learn how to be safe in traffic.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Help your child understand where the boundaries are. The word "curb" for example, means nothing, until you explain it to your child. Remember that your child may need to see and touch the curb to really understand the meaning.

The News From Here

Allyson Mann

The Vegetable Garden

I can't begin to describe how difficult it has been to garden with the boys — Well, the truth is I probably could, but I'm not sure I want to relive that again, and although there is one word that could describe how it's gone, perhaps I should only say, whatever it's other redeeming qualities, gardening this spring with my sons has been … not much fun.

But, as for the garden itself, everything's coming up fine, most things having appeared as anticipated and seasonably on time. So, in spite of the trauma, the surprises were few, except for a yet to be answered question about one particular row:

"What's all this?" my husband asked, pointing to a row of beets two inches high, surrounded by what looked like parsley or carrots, and something else —

I bent down and tasted a few sprigs. "Swiss chard."

"Swiss chard?"

"Yes," I sighed, "altogether it looks like beets, parsley, dill — and Swiss chard."

"You had a little too much help planting?" he asked.

"The amount of help I had while planting this garden was unbelievable," I said.

"Do you want to talk about it?"

"No, I don't. Not really," I said.

"Oh, come on," he coaxed. "It might be good if you did."

I doubted it, but accustomed to my husband's dogged persistence I took a deep breath and began. "It all started out well enough, and according to plan, and, really, it wasn't until I'd planted the bean seeds that everything went completely downhill."

"Go on."

I continued, "When I finished the beans I went onto the peas, and that's when the baby pulled up the markers and all the rows disappeared!

"No!"

"Yes!! Except it hardly mattered, because right after that both boys laid down and started making dirt angels, kicking up most of the seeds!"

"That's tough!"

"So, the next day I went out and began all over again — this time getting as far as the cucumbers before Morgan snapped off the green pepper plants."

"Ouch!"

"Then Toby poked holes in each and every packet of seeds, pouring them onto the ground where they scattered in the wind."

My husband smiled a bit.

"And that's more-or-less how it went for the next week-and-a-half, with me contemplating my sanity between intense crying jags. But the single, most mind-boggling event was to occur when the dog dug up fifteen feet of seed potatoes looking for her ball!"

My husband inhaled sharply, "That dog!"

"So, all in all, I think I planted the garden a total of three times — the very fact of which might explain this phenomenon!" I said, gesturing widely to the row of beets, parsley, dill and Swiss chard. "Although, in truth, I'm not entirely sure."

"Meaning?"

"Well, there were times I stood up to chase the dog out of the way, only to turn back and discover my seeds packets gone!"

"Toby?" my husband asked.

"My first thought, too, but I stood up and turned around so many times, I could have been planting for days in the very same row!"

"That's pretty bad."

"Mind-blowing," I said.

"Well, do you know what you'd do differently, were you to do it again?"

"Have you do it," I told him. "Which begs the question, where have you been all this time?"

"Me?" he asked.

"Yes!" I said, "You!"

"I decided to keep as far away from this garden as I possibly could!"

"Well, you saved yourself a lot of grief," I agreed.

"I just didn't think we should both go insane!"

Randall Culkins, 60

Thief River Falls - Randall C. Culkins, 60, died Sunday, June 7, 1998 at Hillcrest Nursing Home in Red Lake Falls.

Funeral services were held Friday, June 12 at St. Pauli Lutheran Church in St. Hilaire with Reverend Terri Skildum officiating. Music was provided by Grace Hammer. Casketbearers were Earl Arnold, Orville Nelson, John Houske, Rob Houske, Vernon Dokken and Wally Wiskow. Burial was in Clearwater Cemetery in Wyandotte township. The Green Funeral Home of Thief River Falls was in charge of the arrangements.

Randall Curtis Culkins was born on May 20, 1938 in Thief River Falls, the son of Patrick and Ruth (Larson) Culkins. He was baptized and confirmed in the Christian faith at Clearwater Church in Wyandotte township of Pennington county. He attended school in St. Hilaire.

Randy lived and farmed on the family farm in Wyandotte township throughout his life. He was a member of the NFO and MN Farmers Union. He enjoyed farm life, hunting, fishing, being outdoors and especially visits with his friends.

He is survived by three brothers, Donald, Sidney and Russell (Thelma), all of Thief River Falls; two nephews, one niece, one grandnephew and one grandniece.

He was preceded in death by his parents.

Hansel K. Klemetson, 81

Thief River Falls - Hansel K. Klemetson, 81, formerly of Greenbush, died Monday, June 8, 1998 at Altru Hospital in Grand Forks, ND.

Funeral services were held on Friday, June 12 at 10 a.m. at United Free Lutheran Church in Greenbush with Pastor Dennis Gray officiating. Linda Berg was the organist, and vocal music was provided by Joyce and Danny Beito. Hansel's children, Audrey, Joyce, Beverly, Wayne, Gary and Roger were the casketbearers. Military honors were accorded by the Greenbush American Legion Post and the VFW Post of Thief River Falls. Interment was in the Badger City Cemetery. Arrangements were with the Collins Funeral Home of Greenbush.

Hansel Kenneth Klemetson was born on July 21, 1916 at Hillsboro, ND, the son of Tellef and Ingeborg (Halvorson) Klemetson. He attended school and grew to manhood there. He was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith.

On December 30, 1941 he was united in marriage to Bertha Roberts at Greenbush. In July of 1942, Hansel enlisted in the U.S. Army and served in Normandy, northern France, Rhineland, Ardennes and central Europe. After he was discharged in December of 1944, the couple moved to Greenbush. They farmed in Barto township near Greenbush, and Hansel worked in logging at the Northwest Angle. Other employment included the Greenbush Elevator and Wicklund Construction. He was employed at Polaris Industries at Roseau for 20 years. Bertha died on December 25, 1992, and in 1996, Hansel moved to Thief River Falls where he has since resided.

Hansel is survived by three daughters, Audrey (Frank) Christinson of Cavalier, ND, Joyce (Mike) Burkel of Thief River Falls and Beverly (Greg) Underdahl of Newfolden; three sons, Wayne (Diane) Klemetson and Gary Klemetson, both of Thief River Falls, and Roger (Faye) Klemetson of Badger; 17 grandchildren; nine great-grandchildren; three brothers, Arthur and Tellef Jr., both of Hillsboro, ND, and Billy, of Bismarck, ND, and several nieces, nephews and other relatives.

He was preceded in death by his wife, parents; one son, Harlan in 1988; one grandson, Tyler; and two sisters, Helen and Thelma.

Mabel Nelson, 83

Thief River Falls - Mabel Nelson, 83, died Saturday, June 13, 1998 at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. today (Wednesday, June 17) at the Evangelical Free Church in Thief River Falls with Reverend Edsel Lindquist officiating. Audrey Hanson will be the organist, and vocal music will be provided by Jennifer Halverson. Casketbearers will be Harvey Hanson, Richard Kruta, Dean Ornquist, Wayne Nelson, James Hutchinson and Luvern Sorter. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery in Thief River Falls.

Visitation was held from noon to 7 p.m. on Tuesday with a 7 p.m. prayer service at Green Funeral Home in Thief River Falls and for one hour prior to services on Wednesday.

Mabel E. Curtiss was born on June 5, 1915 to George and Minnie (Wagner) Curtiss on a farm near Middle River on what is now Aggasiz National Wildlife Refuge. Mabel's family moved to a farm in Whiteford township in Marshall county where she grew to adulthood. She was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith and attended country school. Mabel's childhood home was destroyed by a tornado, and a new home was rebuilt there. Mabel worked for many years for area farm families, taking care of their children.

On October 6, 1934 she married Leonard Nelson in Holt. The couple farmed near Middle River until 1957 when they moved to Thief River Falls.

Mabel worked at Oakland Park Nursing Home, Northwest Medical Center, the Best Western Inn, Hanging Gardens and Gary's Rainbow Bakery. She also did some domestic work and babysitting for people.

She enjoyed rummage sales, sewing and baking. She especially enjoyed spending time with her family and friends.

Mabel is survived by one daughter, Donna (Paul) Halverson of Thief River Falls, three grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Leonard, in 1985; her parents, five brothers, Ray, Harry, Glen, Robert and Eldon, and three sisters, Thressa, Maud and Alice.

Wendell Swan, 67

St. Peter - Wendell Swan, 67, died Wednesday, June 10, 1998 at the Veterans Hospital in Minneapolis.

Funeral services were held on Saturday, June 13 at 2 p.m. at Nazareth Lutheran Church in Holt with Reverend Nancy Werner officiating. Yvonne Larson was the organist, and Don Lunke provided vocal music. Casketbearers were Brent Reichel, Mark Johnson, Loren Grondahl, Jerry McMillan, Tim McMillan and Matt McMillan. Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery in Newfolden. The Green Funeral Home of Thief River Falls was in charge of the arrangements.

Wendall Swan was born on August 26, 1930 in Newfolden, the son of Arthur and Annabel (Windahl) Swan. He was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith. He attended rural schools and high school and grew to manhood in Newfolden.

On November 4, 1953 he was united in marriage to Delphine Grondahl at Nazareth Lutheran Church in Holt. Wendell served in the United States Air Force in 1953 and was honorably discharged in 1954. Following his discharge, he was the manager of the Greenbush Creamery for six years. The couple moved to St. Peter where Wendell was employed as an engineer at the St. Peter Regional Treatment Center. He retired in 1980 due to health problems.

Wendell enjoyed fishing, hunting deer, elk and antelope and telling stories. He especially enjoyed spending time with family and friends. He was a member of the American Legion.

Wendell is survived by his wife, Delphine of St. Peter; two daughters, Nancy (Mark) Johnson of Cleveland and Nanette Swan of St. Peter; two grandchildren, two great-grandchildren; three sisters, Joyce Knutson of Iron, Sonju (Gaylord) Peterson of Thief River Falls and Dorothy Pedersen of Viking; three brothers, Vernon (Betty) Swan of Newfolden, Robert (Beverly) Swan of Aurora and James (Mary Ann) Swan of Holt, and several nieces and nephews.

A memorial service was held at The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Bloomington on Monday, June 15 at 11 a.m.

Alfreda B. Anderson was born on July 13, 1924 at Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada.

Alfreda thrived on opportunities to serve others and enjoyed her family, animals, travel adventures and ice skating. She was a member of the Bloomington Ward of The church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

She is survived by one son, Roger (Jeanne) Anderson; two daughters, Sheila (Peter) Bruce and Lynne (Scott) Anderson-Stokke; and four grandchildren.

Alfreda was preceded in death by her husband, James.

Goodridge school fully handicapped accessible

Goodridge high school recently completed the final part of its nearly 10-year project to make the building entirely accessible to handicapped persons who require the use of a wheelchair. The elevator which serves the top two floors of the three-story building was put into use late in the school year.

Total cost of the combined projects exceeded a quarter of a million dollars, all provided by the School District 561 taxpayers, according to Supt. Sal Hoffert, who notes that there were no state or federal funds available for the district in meeting the accessibility standards.

Work started in 1988 to provide a ramp system on the first floor of the building. Over a number of years this system was developed to include an exterior entrance ramp, two small ramps inside the building and an extensive system of ramps inside to make all areas of the lower level accessible. Total cost of these projects was about $82,000. Virtually all high school students use the ramp system in moving from class to class during the school day.

The elevator recently put into use cost a total of $165,000, including the elevator and controls and the construction of an addition to the building in which the elevator can operate. This elevator can be accessed at the top of the ramp system and carries passengers to the top two floors of the school.

"We have always had at least one student who has required the use of a wheelchair to attend classes for as long as I have been familiar with the district," Supt. Hoffert said. "And the custodians also appreciate having the elevator available to move their equipment and supplies from level to level."

Taking the accessibility project in steps has enabled the school district to reach its goal in that area without adversely affecting other parts of the school operation. The projects will be paid for this fall, but Supt. Hoffert is reluctant to say that it will reduce the district's tax levy. It is still too early to tell, he said.

Costly as the handicapped accessibility project was, it was less of an expense than the work required to meet fire codes for the school. The latter required expenditures of nearly $300,000 and included the construction of a new cafeteria and music room. Previously the music and lunch rooms were located in the basement with no exterior exits.

Also included in the expense was remodeling, installation of fire doors, sprinkling systems in some areas and an alarm system. Unlike the handicapped project, however, nearly half of the cost of the fire code update was paid from fund sources outside the school district.

The superintendent emphasizes that the money spent on fire safety and handicapped accessibility projects did not detract from the school's instructional program for the district's approximately 230 students.

"We consider Goodridge and Grygla schools to be leaders in the technology area," Supt. Hoffert said. "Our buildings are wired for technological applications, there is a new computer in every teacher's classroom, we have a computer available for approximately every three students and access to the Internet is available 24 hours a day."

Somewhat surprisingly, School District 561 has reaped the benefits of the state's open enrollment policy, Supt. Hoffert noted. One might expect open enrollment would benefit the larger school districts with more comprehensive programs. Yet 38 of the Goodridge district's 250 enrollment (16.5%) comes from Thief River Falls and Oklee districts, primarily on the eastern edge of the Thief River Falls district and northern part of the Oklee district.

"State aids vary according to the grades the students are in," Supt. Hoffert noted, "but on average—with basic aid, transportation, food assistance and other aids included—each student will bring about $6,000 in state funds into the district. That can have quite an impact on any district and especially a small one."

At $6,000 per student, the open enrollment students add $228,000 to the Goodridge district cash flow. The Goodridge district does provide bus pickup for many of the students adjacent to the Goodridge school district boundaries.

Board chairman Aldon Hyland and Supt. Sal Hoffert share satisfaction in completion of the handicapped accessibility project at Goodridge high school. They are pictured in the recently installed elevator which serves the top two floors of the high school.

Handicapped access is now available to all areas of the Goodridge high school, thanks to the installation of an elevator to serve the top two floors of the building. Making the building accessible for wheelchair users has been a 10-year project costing more than a quarter of a million dollars. The recently installed elevator is accessed from a previously completed ramp system through the door at right in the photo above. Pictured from left are board members Marlin Kotrba, Tom Scheef, Joe Philipp and Aldon Hyland, principal Elden Winge and superintendent Sal Hoffert. Unable to be present were board members Alan Swanson and John Gallagher.

East Grand Forks runner Jared McCouley slid into the tag of Thief River Falls third baseman Derek Berg in the third inning of Thursday's American Legion baseball doubleheader at Irv Wilson Field. McCouley drove in two runs with a double on the play, but was cut down trying to take an extra base. Thief River Falls won the twinbill opener 11-10, but East Grand Forks took the nightcap 11-8.

TRF, EGF split doubleheader

Scoreboard operator was kept busy Thursday as Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks combined for 40 runs in an American Legion baseball doubleheader at Irv Wilson Field.

Thief River Falls pulled out a bottom of the seventh 11-10 victory in Game 1, but East Grand Forks gained a split in the Tony Sipe League match-up with an 11-8 win in Game 2.

The opener was a wild one. First two batters of the night reached base on errors and scored for a quick 2-0 East Grand Forks lead. A hit-batsman and an error helped make it 4-0 in the second inning.

Thief River Falls got back in it when Andrew Solem led off the bottom of the second with a first-pitch home run over the right-center field fence and Andy Harbott followed with a fly ball to center that was mis-played into a three-base error. He trotted home when Jeremy Swanson bounced a ground ball single into right.

An RBI double to center by East Grand Forks' Scott Johnson made it 5-2 in the top of the third, but Thief River Falls' Nick Swanson and Joey Pribula chopped the difference to 5-4 with a run-producing double and ground-out, respectively, in the fourth.

The game took a major turn in the fifth when Derek Berg reached base on an error, Dayton Elseth doubled down the right field line and Solem was hit by a pitch to load the bases for Harbott, who turned the opportunity into a grand slam home run when he hit the scoreboard in left-center on a 1-1 pitch from Matt Johnson.

Thief River Falls' sudden 8-5 advantage turned into what looked like a secure 10-5 lead in the sixth when Paul Frank beat out an infield single and scored on a double into the right-center field gap by Berg, who later crossed the plate on a two-out single inside the bag at third by Solem.

However, the game was far from over as East Grand Forks struck for five runs in the top of the seventh to tie it, and came within an umpire's call from taking the lead.

Walks issued to Ben Horken and Paul Stinar were sandwiched around a single by Jared McCouley to load the bases. Scott Johnson promptly made it 10-8 with a three-run double to right-center.

An error and a hit batsman reloaded the bases for the visitors, and they pulled within 10-9 when Aaron Eckhoff picked up an RBI on a four-pitch walk issued by Joey Pribula, who had just came on in relief of Solem, the Thief River Falls starting pitcher.

With two out and Horken, the No. 2 hitter, returning for his second at-bat of the inning, Pribula quickly went ahead on the count 0-2. Next two pitches were fouled off to keep the game going. Then on a 1-2 delivery, Pribula threw a wild pitch that allowed Travis Foster to score from third.

Harbott chased the ball down, but the catcher's throw to Pribula got by the pitcher as he covered the plate. Danny O'Neil, who had advanced from second to third on the wild pitch, tried to give East Grand Forks a second run on the play as he raced around third and headed toward home as Frank dashed in from shortstop to retrieve the ball. In a close play at the plate, O'Neil was called out on a tag by Pribula.

East Grand Forks coach Steve Gust argued the call, ignored the umpire's warning and was ejected when he continued to protest the decision.

The controversial finish to the top of the seventh left the game deadlocked at 10-10. But it didn't stay tied very long. The bottom of the seventh began with an error on a ball off the bat of Jeremy Swanson, who went to second on a single down the third base line by Ben Steenman, moved to third on a fielder's choice force at second on ball hit by Nick Swanson, and scored when Pribula drove the ball over the head of the center fielder.

"We like to make it interesting," quipped first-year Thief River Falls coach Mike Wienen. "But I don't care how we win, just so long as we win."

The runs and hits continued in Game 2 when East Grand Forks used seven pitchers before finally securing an 11-8 win. Thief River Falls, after four errors in the opener, had six more in the nightcap.

"We're hitting the ball," noted Wienen. "We spend a lot of time hitting in practice, and it shows. But our pitching and our defense is hurting us right now."

The split put Thief River Falls at 2-5 one week into the 1998 season. East Grand Forks, a 14-7 winner over Post 117 the previous weekend in the semifinals of the Thief River Falls Invitational, went home with a 10-4 record.

"We're happy with the win," acknowledged Wienen. "East Grand Forks has a pretty nice team."

Beth Goddard named as TRF girls golf MVP

Head coach Bruce Jean announced that Beth Goddard has been named the most valuable player on the 1998 Thief River Falls girls high school golf team.

Nicole Wiseth was selected as the Prowlers' most improved player and Becky Hoven was presented with the Coaches Award.

Athletic letters went to Goddard, the lone senior on the team, sophomores Jenni Gonsiorowski, Katie Jude, Heather Juhl, Kristin Naplin, Jennifer Sirsig, Hoven, and Wiseth, along with freshmen Katy Hook and Kim Schneider.

TRF still has trouble winning baseball games...

Prowlers show improvement

There wasn't much change over a year ago record-wise, but Thief River Falls head high school baseball coach Brent Polum was nevertheless encouraged by what he saw as improvement in the Prowlers' level of play through the course of the recently-completed 1998 season.

Polum inherited a program that struggled to a 3-15 finish last spring. The Prowlers lost another 15 games this year while picking up two more wins. More importantly, according to the first-year head coach, their performance on the field took forward strides.

As a measuring stick, the Prowlers went from a 15-5 season-opening loss to Red Lake County to a top-notch winning performance in a 2-1 late-season rematch, and finished the regular season with a solid third place showing at the Mike Bugliosi Classic in Hibbing. The year ended with an opening round 5-2 North Sub-Section 8AA tournament loss to Fergus Falls.

"I thought it went well," said Polum while reflecting upon his first season with the Prowlers. "I think we definitely improved. We had a very good performance at the end of the year in the Hibbing tournament. The won-loss record is not a big thing. Our goal was to be a better team than we were last year. And we got a lot of positive comments from other coaches, who said they liked what they saw in our team, as far as discipline and things like that."

Thief River Falls had a tough time of it against North Sub-Section 8AA foes this spring – an 0-7 showing that included two losses each to Fergus Falls, Moorhead and Bemidji and a single meeting setback at the hands of Detroit Lakes. "We're in a tough division," pointed out Polum, whose team had trouble on offense this season. The Prowlers hit just .246 as a team, with Paul Frank (.327) and Derek Berg (.316) the only regulars hitting .300 or better. Brett Johnson (.364) and Jeff Houske (.316) were .300 hitters with a limited number of at-bats.

The Prowlers also had trouble on defense, and the pitching staff carried a 7.87 earned-run average.

"We really never got the timely hits or the timely defensive plays," explained Polum. "The kids weren't used to being in that position – where you have to make a play to win a game."

Polum, began his fourth season as the head coach of the Grand Forks Royals American Legion baseball program as soon as the Prowlers' season came to a close, did not present individual awards this spring. Athletic letters went to seniors Andy Harbott, Hamilton Keefe, Chris Mumm, Casey Skjerven, Jeremy Swanson, Nick Swanson, and Frank, juniors Wade Chiodo, Matt Myers, Joey Pribula, Jarod Reierson, Andrew Solem, and Berg, along with sophomores Mike Dowers, Josh Jenson, Brett Johnson, and Duane Wolff.

Two share MCC/T-C softball MVP award for the 1998 season

Miki Waterworth and Heather Ryan were co-recipients of the most valuable player award as the Marshall County Central/Tri-County co-operative high school softball team handed out post-season honors for the recently-completed 1998 season.

Ryan was also named the team's top offensive player (.509 batting average) and was presented with the Hustle Award, while Waterworth was cited as the team's top defensive player (.986 fielding percentage).

Other awards went to Jill Anderson, named most improved; and Christina Hagen, who received the Dedication Award.

The Jerald Hagen-coached Newfolden-Karlstad combination finished the year 4-14.

Ryan was named to the All-North Border Conference team and was joined by Waterworth on the All-Sub-Section 31A squad.

Starting dates listed for NCTC fall sports

Starting dates and schedules for the 1998 Northland Community and Technical College fall sports programs were announced this week by Athletic Director Rick Nelson.

Football and volleyball players will be asked to report Friday, Aug. 14, about two weeks earlier than normal. "Due to the change from quarters to semesters, classes will begin on Aug. 24 this year, which makes it necessary to start fall practices earlier," explained Nelson.

Both teams will have new head coaches this fall following the resignation of Gene Klinke and Shari Olson. Dan Willoughby will take over the football duties. A new volleyball coach will be named later.

■ Friday, June 19 - 14-15-year-olds No. 1 vs. Red Lake Falls, 10 a.m., Irv Wilson Field; 13-year-olds at East Grand Forks Invitational.

■ Saturday, June 20 - VFW at Crookston, 5:30 p.m.; 13-year-olds at East Grand Forks Invitational.

■ Sunday, June 21 - 13-year-olds at East Grand Forks Invitational.

A head-first slide by East Grand Forks' Travis Foster tied the game on a wild pitch in the top of the seventh inning in Thursday's American Legion baseball doubleheader opener against Thief River Falls at Irv Wilson Field. Pitcher Joey Pribula covered the plate on the play. The throw by catcher Andy Herbott got by Pribula, but the ball was retrieved by shortstop Paul Frank, who threw a strike to Pribula to get Danny O'Neil trying to score from second on the play. The out ended a five-run, game-tying East Grand Forks rally that tied the game 10-10. But Thief River Falls won it in the bottom of the seventh on an RBI single by Pribula.

DNR NEWS

Personal Watercraft

New laws, which went into effect June 1, will affect how and when personal watercraft may be operated.

Kim Elverum, Department of Natural Resources Boat and Water Safety Program coordinator, noted the following summary of the major restrictions, some of which have been in place since 1991:

■ Personal watercraft must travel at a slow-no wake speed (5 mph or less) within 150 feet of non-motorized boats, shore (unless launching or landing skiers directly to or from open water), docks, swim rafts, or any moored or anchored boat.

■ Operation of personal watercraft will only be allowed from 9:30 a.m. to one hour before sunset.

■ Personal watercraft will not be able to jump the wake of another craft within 150 feet of the other craft.

■ A personal watercraft rules decal issued by the DNR will need to be on the craft in full view of the operator.

■ All persons on board a personal watercraft must wear a Coast Guard approved life jacket.

■ Operators may not chase or harass wildlife.

■ The age for adults accompanying 13 to 17-year-olds who do not have a watercraft operator's permit is raised from 18 to 21 years old; those 14 to 17 years old can operate alone with the operator's permit. If they have a permit and are 13, they also need to be in visual supervision of someone at least 21.

■ If the craft is equipped with a cutoff lanyard, the lanyard must be attached to the operator or the operator's life jacket.

The DNR mailed each personal watercraft owner a copy of a new personal watercraft pamphlet and a rules decal on May 26, and mailed multiple copies to most personal watercraft dealers and rental operations. Additional copies are available free from the DNR by calling 1-888-MINNDNR in greater Minnesota, at regional DNR offices, sheriff's departments, and at most personal watercraft dealers.

"At this point, our primary goal is to educate the public about the new laws and gain voluntary compliance," Elverum noted. "As with any new requirement, enforcement officers will use discretion in dealing with any violations."

Cass County Deputy Honored

Cass County Sheriff's Deputy Nikki Hollinbeck was recently presented with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources' Water Patrol Deputy of the Year Award for her accomplishments in boat and water safety in 1997.

Kim Elverum, DNR boat and water safety coordinator, said, "Nikki's efforts in educating young boaters, her work with the lake associations, and her patrol activities on busy Gull Lake near Brainerd made her a great choice for this award."

Along with her work on boating, Hollinbeck is a DNR volunteer firearms safety instructor and snowmobile safety instructor. She was recently certified to teach bowhunting education.

Hollinbeck, who lives near Nisswa, is a graduate of Bemidji State University. A peace officer since 1995, Hollinbeck previously worked for the Pequot Lakes Police Department.

Department of Public Safety provides suggestions on what to do when power goes out

Summer of 1998 is underway, and Minnesotans have already had their share of storms and power outages. In the event July brings more of the same, the Minnesota Department of Public Service (DPS) suggests what to do — and how to prepare for — when the power goes out.

"Recent power outages underscore how essential electricity is to our well-being," said Kris Sanda, DPS Commissioner. "Despite our reliance on electricity, there is much we can do to cope during periods of power loss and also to help speed recovery. Regardless of whether your utility is investor-owned, a municipal, or a rural cooperative, the following recommendations apply."

Call your utility if the power goes out, first checking to see if there's a blown fuse or other problem in your home. Prepare ahead of time by checking now for the number to call. It's also helpful to have a battery-powered radio so that you can keep informed on how repairs are going. Report downed power lines (and avoid them) and other unusual occurrences, such as seeing lightening strike a utility pole or hearing a loud bang. This information can help the utility diagnose the problem.

Check the electrical service to your home. Overhead services attach directly to your home or to the service mast. Violent thunderstorms accompanied by strong winds, hail, and falling trees often damage not only utility power lines but also the electrical service mast on individual homes. The utility is responsible for repairs on the supply side of the service point where the property owner is responsible for repairs on the customer side of the service point. "Service point" is the point at which the utility connection is made to the customer-owned electrical equipment.

"Power cannot be restored to a home until damage on the customer side of the service point has been repaired," said John Schultz, executive director of the State Board of Electricity. "For homes supplied by overhead utility cables, the service point is the attachment point on the home or service mast. For homes supplied by underground service cables, the service point may be at the supply side of the meter or at the property line, depending on your serving utility. Check with your utility to determine where your service point is."

Electrical work performed on the customer side of the service point is subject to electrical licensing and inspection laws, said Schultz. An owner-occupant of a single family home may perform electrical work without being licensed, but the electrical work must be inspected by a state or municipal electrical inspector before power can be restored. Anyone other than the owner-occupant performing electrical work must be licensed as — or be an employee of — an electrical contractor. Electrical contractors are required to be bonded and insured and their work must also be inspected.

Schultz said that you may call the Board of Electricity at 612-642-0800 to verify that your contractor is licensed.

Keep the refrigerator cool and freezer food frozen while the power is out with the help of dry ice. Seven pounds of dry ice will keep the average refrigerator cool for three to four days, and 30 pounds will maintain the freezer for the same time period. For where to buy, look in the Yellow Pages under "Ice."

A standby generation system can be installed with the help of an electrical contractor. To supply electricity for the whole house you need a 4 to 6 kilowatt generator, which costs about $1,500 to $4,000. A 5 kilowatt automatically controlled standby generator can cost $3,500, not including installation costs. For whole-house backup power, the size of the generator is crucial. As a rule-of-thumb, the generator should have three times the wattage of the equipment that is to run backup power. For example, you need a 1.5 kilowatt generator to run a .5 kilowatt refrigerator.

Warning. If you plan to connect a generator to your home's electrical system, you must contract your electric utility for information concerning an automatic disconnect or transfer equipment that must be installed to isolate your generator system from the utility system. Improper connection and use of a generator can feed electrical power back into the utility's power lines, creating a hazard for utility line workers. The installation of subpanels that include approved transfer assemblies to provide service to critical circuits during a power outage ensures electrical safety for both the property owner and the utility line workers.

For more information on what to do in case of power outage, call your local utility and ask for its specific recommendations. For information on energy use in general and on ways to use energy efficiently, contact the DPS Energy Information Center at 296-5175 (area code 651 as of July 12) in the Twin Cities area, and toll free 800-657-3710 from elsewhere in Minnesota.

Year 2000 Computer problem explained

At midnight on December 31, 1999, when most people around the world will be celebrating the dawn of the new millennium, some small business owners will not be so happy.

They will be the ones who failed to fix the Y2K computer problem for their companies. Their computers and computer-based equipment may not work correctly after January 1, 2000, without modification, and their companies may be in crisis as a result.

So what is this "millennium bug" or year 2000 problem all about and how do you know if your company is at risk?

• The problems. It has to do with computer code. When computer memory was at a premium, designers saved space by using just two digits to represent a year - 98 for 1998, for example. When the date changes at midnight December 31, 1998 to January 1, 2000, these older, unmodified systems will read the year as 00. The internal clocks of these computers' and microchips could take this to mean 1900, not 2000, and begin operating on an outdated calendar. The result will be harmless in some instances, but extremely serious in others.

• Who's affected. Users of large mainframe computers that run custom-designed systems such as government agencies, financial institutions and manufacturers are vulnerable. Small companies with non-Y2K complaint hardware and software are also at risk.

So are small firms with manufacturing, inventory and accounting systems where data dated after January 1, 2000, has already been entered. Owners of equipment with embedded computer chips involving dates or times could also be affected. This includes cash registers, telephones, elevators, refrigeration systems, gas and water facilities and security systems, as well as a wide range of manufacturing and production equipment.

Some small businesses may experience little or no Y2K impact. This group includes small firms with Y2K compliant hardware and software. No company, no matter how small, should assume it is "Y2K OK" without self-assessment and testing. Remember, even the smallest firms are dependent on outsiders - suppliers, customers, banks, utilities, property managers, - who may falter due to their own Y2K problems.

• What to do. Make sure your equipment is Y2K compliant. That includes machinery with embedded chips as well as your hardware and software. If you cannot get Y2K compliance documentation, you may need to replace equipment or bring in a Y2K specialist. Perform Y2K compliance testing on all critical programs, including your latest computers and software.

Test now in 1998, to ensure that you can continue your business without interruption and minimize cost. Delaying to 1999 could increase your testing and verification cost sharply.

Make contingency plans. How will you stay in business after January 1, 2000, if your company, or companies or suppliers that you rely on, aren't Y2K compliant on time? Ask your vendors for assistance.

To ensure that parts, supplies, orders, invoices and checks continue to arrive on time after January 1, 2000, verify Y2K compliance from vendors suppliers, customers and financial institutions.

• The Road to "Y2K OK" Y2K is obviously a technological problem, but it is much more than that. A small business owner must treat this as a critical business issue and act accordingly. SBA recommends that every small business owner and manager take the following steps:

1) Self-Assessment - Take stock of your business, internally and externally, and figure out if you have a problem. Make a realistic assessment, and act on the facts. Don't spend time and money on unnecessary fixes. SBA's Y2K Internet site explains how to conduct a self-assessment. Go to www.sba.gov and click on the Y2K icon in the middle of the page.

2) Take Action Now. It is already too late to start early. You need time to assess your Y2K vulnerability, fix any problems you uncover, test and document the results. Ask your vendors for assistance. Make contingency plans.

3) Stay informed. Logging on to various Internet Y2K sites is an excellent way to stay current.

Fewer incidents reported to local law enforcement

Fewer incidents were reported to law enforcement officials during the past week. It was a mixed blessing for officials who were busy investigating a stabbing death.

Accidents. On June 8 at 11:08 p.m. police received a report of a hit and run accident on Third Street, 50-feet west of Tindolph Avenue. Several witnesses reported seeing a gray Lumina traveling at a high rate of speed west on Third Street when it swerved and went onto the median where it hit a light pole. The vehicle then left the scene. Officers investigating the accident, found the vehicle's license plate at the scene. The vehicle was registered to a Steven Allan Weber of Beulah, ND. Charges are pending.

On June 15 at 10:45 a.m. police received a report of an accident at First and LaBree. Raymond Lavym Morrissey, Gatzke, was driving a car north on LaBree, and Mae Emma Theroux, Red Lake Falls, was driving a car west on First Street. Theroux failed to stop at the four-way stop sign at the intersection and the vehicles collided. Police estimated damages at $1,000 to the Morrissey vehicle, and $500 to the Theroux vehicle.

Assaults. On June 11 at 1:19 p.m. police received a report of an assault at a rural North township church. According to police, the suspect hit the church pastor in the face. Ralph Alvin Isaak, 48, Goodridge, was taken into custody and faces charges of fifth degree assault and disorderly conduct.

Driving while intoxicated. On June 15 at 12:27 a.m. the sheriff's department stopped a vehicle on Highway 1. Charges for gross driving while intoxicated are pending against Curtis Leroy Campbell, 34, Thief River Falls.

Consumption under age. On June 13 at 11:53 p.m. police cited a 15-year-old male from Thief River Falls, and a 16-year-old male from St. Hilaire, for consumption under age.

On June 13 at 1:40 a.m. police on patrol cited a 16-year-old male from Thief River Falls, and a 16-year old from Middle River with consumption under age.

On June 12 at 11 p.m. the sheriff's department cited Tyrone Theodore Benson, 21, Thief River Falls, with furnishing alcohol to minors, and a 17-year old female with possession of alcohol by a minor. Travis Brian Easley, 20, Goodridge, was cited for possession of alcohol.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

CORRECTION:

A news report on an accident at First and Spruce incorrectly listed in the directions the vehicles were traveling. Elaine Bugge was traveling west on First when a car driven by Helen Olson traveling south on Spruce entered the intersection and the vehicles collided. Olson's line of sight was blocked by bushes and another vehicle parked at the corner. The Times regrets the error.

Rainbow Nursery north of Thief River Falls was host again this year to participants in the Falls D.A.C., Inc. who visited the nursery late last week. The visitors are served a lunch by host and hostess Orville and Verna Hvidstan. Varna is shown with Judy Fisher as Judy selects the four plants given to each D.A.C. participant to plant at the D.A.C. The Hvidstans have hosted the group for more than a dozen years.

Selecting plants during their annual visit to Rainbow Nursery north of Thief River Falls are participants in the program at Falls D.A.C., Inc. Each of the center visitors is given his or her choice of four free plants from the nursery greenhouse to be planted in several locations at the D.A.C. Orville and Varna Hvidsten have hosted the DAC for similar visits for about the past dozen years.

Two residents sentenced to state prisons

Last week, two Thief River Falls men were sentenced to terms in a state prison. Mark Steven Groslie was sentenced on a conviction for felony assault and burglary in the third degree. Rory Glenn Wallestad was sentenced on a conviction for felony conspiracy to commit armed robbery.

Groslie, 19, Thief River Falls, was sentenced in a Ninth District court for assaulting a dispatcher, and his part in a robbery at the Lantern Restaurant and Lounge last January. He was sentenced to 17 months on the assault charge, and 24 months on the burglary charge. He was given credit for 11 days on the assault charge, and 133 days for the burglary charge. The sentences are to be served concurrently.

Rory Wallestad, 33, Thief River Falls, was sentenced to 54 months for conspiracy to commit armed robbery of the Petro Pumper. He was given credit for 74 days already served. He was also ordered to pay restitution, jointly and severally, of $1,075 with Michael Guillemette, who committed the robbery.

Children's Theatre group presents play in Oklee

Oklee/Plummer Community Children's Theater will present the two-act fairy tale The Pied Piper of Hamelin by Vera Morris on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 23 and 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the Oklee high school gymnasium. The play is under the direction of Michael Swenson.

The cast includes Megan Gunderson as Town Crier, Mindy Lundeen at Rattytatty, Kirsten Hagge as Dilly, Dale Rystad as Innkeeper, Bekki Paquin as Flower Stall Lady, Stephanie Berberich as Duchess Dingaling, Maureen Munt as Bongo, Andrew Venleson as Rat King, Kayla Hamm as Kittykat, Lynnete Lundeen as Ohnoxious Rat, Tony Lundeen at Hungry Rat, Kelly Opdahl as Rat Queen, Lindsey Bernard at Old Widow Whiskers, Tanya Melby as Pattycake, Andy Swenson as Mayor, Sarah Hagge as Mayor's Wife, Laura Sparley as Mayor's Daughter, Kirsten Sparley as School Teacher, Lauren Bernard as Dance Tutor and Brittany Berberich as The Pied Piper.

The story takes place in Hamelin, Germany, many years ago when the entire town was overrun with rats. Rats were everywhere and in everything. The mayor didn't want to do anything about it because it would cost money that he wanted to spend on himself and his wife. The townspeople were exhausted from trying to fight these rats and they had almost given up hope of ever being a town free of this scourge.

Suddenly, magically the Pied Piper appeared and gave them the offer that they couldn't refuse. For 1,000 gilders he and he alone would get rid of the rats.

After the Pied Piper got rid of the rats and wanted to get paid, the town refused to accede to his demands. When they refused, the Pied Piper played a new tune on his flute to take all of the children from the town. The town learned its lesson about how to be humble and to be willing to make any sacrifice to get their children back.

Will the Pied Piper make the deal? Will the children come home? The answers will be given at the performances June 23 and 24.

Admission will be $4 for seventh graders through adults and $2 for kindergarten through sixth grade. Preschoolers will be admitted free of charge.

Mrs. Arnald Larson • 874-4331

Thursday Vernice Larson went to Thief River Falls and met Carol Ness and did some shopping and also went out for lunch.

Saturday forenoon, Roy and Laura Roppe went to Moorhead to the Orland Roppe home and also attended the graduation reception for Gretchen Roppe and were overnight guests there.

Harvey Skyberg visited with his niece Robbin Mathson on Monday morning the 8th and also enjoyed a nice visit as always over coffee and goodies.

Marie Olson of Karlstad, Ivadelle Keller of Sierra Vista, AZ, Prudence Nystuen of Lakeville and Cordelia Agrimson of Richfield had cake and ice cream at the Huglen home in honor of Marie Olson's 85th birthday which was in May.

Sunday visitors and dinner guests at the Lyle and Becky Olson home were Traci Olson and Brandi Olson of Moorhead, Greg Baumon and Aaron Johnson of Osakis. Afternoon visitors were Linda Johnson and Cassie.

Floyd and Adeline Nelson were after-church dinner guests at the Clara Hanson home.

Sunday evening Milton and Beverly Erickson visited at the Jason Erickson home and also at the Jerry Gillund home.

Friday evening Arnold and Vernice Larson visited and enjoyed coffee with Roy and Laura Roppe.

Saturday, June 6, Curt Thompson, Sam Spearhawk, Jeremy and Jayme spent the day at the Galilee Bible Camp and Amber came along and spent the day with her Grandma, Elaine Thompson. We had a lovely day together. I enjoyed having the grandchildren come whenever they can and miss them when they go.

Cordelia Agrimson of Richfield recently visited her brother and sister, Raynard and Valborg Huglen.

Lillie Olson visited with Brad and Mona Olson on Tuesday evening.

Matt Schaumberg spent Wednesday, Thursday and Friday with his grandparents, Milton and Beverly Erickson, at their home.

Saturday forenoon, Vernice Larson visited and had coffee with Sybil Peterson.

Rick and Geraldine Dalby of Atlanta, GA arrived at the Orland Roppe home in Moorhead on Friday evening to visit and attend the Gretchen Roppe graduation reception. Afterwards they came to Newfolden to spend a week with Geraldine's parents, Roy and Laura Roppe.

Harvey Skyberg was an evening visitor with Curt and Elaine Thompson over a cup of coffee and goodies last Saturday evening.

Saturday afternoon visitors and luncheon guests with Sybil Cwikla were Karl Josmo, Collin and Taylor and Vernice Larson.

Rev. and Mrs. Erling Huglen of Roseau stopped at the Huglens on Sunday, June 7 and had supper after attending the Golden Wedding anniversary of Stan and Ruby Swanson in Karlstad. Raynard and Valborg were visitors there also.

Saturday evening visitors and luncheon guests at the Sybil Peterson home were Arnold and Vernice Larson.

Jane Schaumberg visited with her parents, Milton and Beverly Erickson on Friday.

Sunday afternoon, Arnold and Vernice Larson, Sybil Cwikla, Sue Dendelinger and Evan were among many who attended the 50th Golden anniversary for Stan and Ruby Swanson at the Community Center in Karlstad. Congratulations, Stan and Ruby.

Early Tuesday morning on June 8th, Grandpa Curt Thompson picked up our granddaughter, Amber Wilson, who will spend a few days with Grandma Elaine while Curt is at camp working. On Wednesday, Amber baked blueberry muffins and chocolate chip cookies and they got real good. On Thursday, Elaine had to go back to Fargo to the doctor and Amber will go along and we will take her home again on our way home. We had a great time together.

Mrs. Hal Sandberg of Madelia and Mrs. Stan Swenson of Karlstad and Mrs. Cordelia Agrimson of Richfield had afternoon coffee with Valborg and Raynard Huglen on June 8th. Mrs. Sandberg, the former Arlene Dunham, taught history in Newfolden High School in 1943-1944.

Mark and Jane Schaumberg and Matt and Beverly Erickson attended the Sheep Days in Greenbush on Saturday.

Sunday evening, Arnold and Vernice Larson visited and enjoyed lunch with Carol Ness. Brad Ness and Justin Ness were there also.

Harvey Skyberg and Edward Hanson drove to Karlstad one evening last week and enjoyed supper there.

Mrs. Cordelia Agrimson and Ross and Valborg and Raynard Huglen recently drove up to Minnesota Hill for brunch on a Monday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lavern Mollstrom.

Monday evening visitors and luncheon guests at the Arnold Larson home were Shirley Lofrooth and Marlys Lofrooth.

One day last week Harvey Skyberg was a visitor and had coffee with Gib and Clarice Trontvet.

Valborg and Raynard Huglen made a quick trip to Plentywood and Westby, MT to visit with friends. They report that the area is dry this spring with farmers hoping for more rain.

Tuesday Vernice Larson and Carol Ness rode on the Van to Fargo to go the clinic.

Ernest Hanson walked over to visit with Harvey Skyberg one day a few weeks ago. Harvey enjoyed his visit.

Wendi and Cathy Senger attended graduation at Olivia for their grandson, Mathew Senger, son of Duane and Mary Senger. Others from here attending the graduation were Bob and Joan Senger, Jeannie and Larry Sorenson and Doreen and Sarah Brovold. They visited at the Duane and Mary Senger home after graduation.

Alice Forsberg visited at the Dene and Barbara Peterson home near Bagley on Sunday afternoon. She also visited at the Alvin and Sybil Bergman home.

Arnold and Sanna Brovold visited at the Harry and Nora Hanson home in Hickory on Sunday afternoon. Others there were Luella and Clifford Arveson, Henry and Betty Burrack, Dean Hanson and Evelyn Hanson of Clearbrook and Joann and Wyatt. We were there to bring greetings to Harry after his bout with pneumonia. We all enjoyed a good lunch.

Carole Theroldson, Robyn, April Tanya and Austin Holly Wagner and Amanda Hinden and Bernice and Shirley Schultz all attended a graduation reception for Marion Mackowick of Moorhead on Saturday. On Thursday evening they all attended a baby shower in honor of Jeff David Wandschneider, infant son of David and Barb Wandschneider of Longby.

Visitors at Effie Handy's on Sunday were Walter Handy of Bemidji, Lyn Turenne of Thief River Falls and Darrol Dolalie of Dully.

When Jim Knutson unloaded his combine on the former Tholda Arntson farm in Hickory this week, those that saw seed dropping out of it were surprised at the early harvest of soy beans until Jim informed them about having the combine so well shedded the beans were still in good shape since last year.

The Crash Test Dummies express shock and dismay at the results of a test. Two dummies placed in the cabin of a car were sent spinning, which simulated a vehicle rolling over at 30 miles per hour. The dummies were thrown from the car cabin, as humans would be if they were involved in a similar accident and were not wearing seat belts. The display, which made its point, was provided by the Minnesota State Patrol during Pennington County's Safety Camp.

Right To Remain Rural Is Campaign Theme

Doug Johnson has about as much chance to be elected governor of Minnesota as he does to set a world record in the hundred meter dash, but he has already come out with some campaign material that should strike a chord with rural Minnesotans.

Johnson is a state senator from Tower and represents the largest geographical district in the state. His candidacy received little more than a second glance at the recent DFL state convention where the attention was focused on the high profile sons of former successful Minnesota politicians, specifically Hubert H. (Skip) Humphrey III and Mike Freeman. He refers to himself as the only "common person" in the DFL gubernatorial primary and says he would bring common sense to the governor's office.

One of his proposals is to do more downsizing and decentralization of state government.

"There's hardly a farm within 20 miles of the capitol, but that's where the Department of Agriculture is headquartered," he says. "St. Paul is not a fishing or hunting hot spot, but too many DNR employees go to work there. When I'm governor we'll do our best to bring the business of state government to where the business is."

Johnson says his idea is not an attack on the state capitol but rather a vote of confidence in all Minnesotans. While many state-related jobs are in St. Paul for good reason, he said, computer and telecommunications technology make many of the old arguments to keep state agencies in one place outdated.

"When we asked the Department of Revenue if we could place its delinquent tax and child support collection department in a remote place like Ely, the bureaucrats gave us all the reasons why it wouldn't work," he said. "We kept after them and now they're doing the state's work in Ely, and I'm telling you it does work."

Johnson's proposal for decentralization is part of his use of the Right to Remain Rural as a theme in his campaign. He says he too often hears people saying their children would like to run the farm or stay in their small communities but there are just not enough opportunities. As governor, he would like to tell these people that "you don't have to move to the city to get a job with us."

Johnson decided to forgo a run for governor four years ago so he could continue to live with his ailing mother and be her primary caregiver. She died in 1996. And despite reduced strength in his right leg from a childhood bout with polio, Johnson refuses to call himself disabled, saying his "bad leg" has helped him tap abilities he may never have realized. Winning 10 state House and Senate elections since 1970 would be among his accomplishments.

We also like Johnson's political sense of humor, such as pointing out that his past experience as a fishing guide should stand him in good stead as a successor to a governor who caught his first fish this year in a string of governor's fishing openers. And that his use of the slogan "Doug for Gov." separates him from all the last-name candidates on the DFL primary ballot.

Johnson doesn't sit well with the powers that be in the DFL party because he has a tendency to wander toward the centerline instead of the left shoulder of the political road. But he walks where most Minnesotans would like to travel, and DFL primary voters should not overlook the value of that route.

Minnesota State Fair Is Big Business

Last year the Minnesota State Fair set a new attendance record of 1,683,454 for its 12-day run with the largest daily attendance being 202,259 on Saturday, August 30. These statistics are among many noted in the annual financial report recently distributed to the state's media.

The State Fair is big business. Operating revenues in 1997 totaled $22,604,428—an increase of more than $2.5 million from the previous year. When one considers that non-fair events provided only $1,467,170 of the operating income, the volume of money handled during the 12-day fair becomes all the more impressive.

According to the annual report, outside gate tickets sales totaled $8,086,645, grandstand ticket sales totaled $1,858,021 and carnival ticket sales were $5,043,567. Total ticket sales for all areas including coliseum, parking and tram totaled $15,741,617.

The fair paid out $632,160 in premiums to exhibitors, expended $2,052,338 in plant operations and another $845,894 in plant maintenance, and claimed total depreciation of $1,290,246.

Imagine having to pay a telephone bill of $100,180! It might not seem so bad if you had telephone income of $190,797. Both figures applied to the State Fair in 1997.

According to the report the State Fair is alive and well financially. The year ended October 31 with cash on hand, in checking accounts, in trust fund and cash equivalents of $4,653,119.

We're glad to see the State Fair continue to do well and be an entertainment focus for people throughout Minnesota and surrounding states. It is a well-run, class event with virtually all of the bases covered. Yet each year something new comes along to add to the mix and keep people coming back for more.

"Most certainly," wrote executive vice president Jerry Hammer in the annual report, "there would be no fair without the amazing efforts of many truly amazing people. On behalf of the thousands who work so very hard each year to make the State Fair a reality, our sincere thanks to our guests and participants for their ongoing love affair with the Great Minnesota Get-Together..."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor:

I would like to thank the community of Thief River Falls, who supported me during this school year. Being an exchange student is a very hard experience, and I would never be able to make it through without the help that I got from people who didn't even know me. Among those people are school staff, Arctic Cat people, my tennis and track coaches and many others.

I especially would like to thank Sharon Fugleberg, Darcy Reese, Joan Bolar and the Charles Winjum family, who were hosting me, for the love and great support I received from them.

I enjoyed being in America and even borrowed some American habits. I never thought that I would be able to get attached to a town and people that I had never seen and known before as much as I got attached to Thief River Falls and its people. But everything has its end and when you read this letters, I'll be 180 degrees around the world. I'll never forget anything or anybody, and I'll miss them very much. I'm not saying "good-bye," but I'm saying "see you later."

Sincerely,
Jamilya Ismailova

"St. Hilaire will celebrate [the Fourth of July].

"Friday was payday at the mill.

"Ice cream social at Brink's Hall tonight.

"What St. Hilaire wants a little worse then anything else is a bank.

"The front of the Holmes Furniture building is being improved by a fresh coat of paint.

"The annual school meeting will be held at the Village hall Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

"Arrangements are being made to have a record breaking fourth of July Celebration in St. Hilaire. Program of sports to be published later.

"The baseball dance at the Hotel Markham last Saturday evening was well attended and all report as having an enjoyable time. The music was first class.

"The drug store front has received a beautiful coat of paint and now looks as all business buildings should look. The interior has been also repainted and repapered.

"The rolling stock for the St. Hilaire Lumber company's logging road on the reservation passed through here last Thursday. At Thief River Falls it will be loaded on steamers and taken to the Red Lake Agency. It will require numerous trips before the 60-odd cars reach their destination.

"Leonard Holmes has carpenters at work enlarging the capacity of his elevator. A new powerhouse has been added, the second story of which will be used as an office and a large room for the purpose of storing binding twine and machine extras."

W. C. T. U. Picnic

"Last Saturday afternoon the W.C.T.U. [Women's Christian Temperance Union] enjoyed a picnic at the Poston lawn, north end of Main avenue. About 50 ladies and children were present. Saturday was Flower Mission day and Mrs. Poston's birthday anniversary, so a large white cake with brown frosting and a white frosting bow topped with 63 candles was made for the occasion. Lunch was served at 4:30."

In Honor of H. C. Durrin

"Winslow chapter No. 182 of the Eastern Star entertained at a banquet Monday evening at the Evelyn hotel in honor of Worthy Patron H. C. Durrin of this city. Mr. Durrin was elected Worthy Grand Patron at the grand chapter held at St. Paul last month.

"The dining room and tables were beautifully decorated, and at each place pansies and a nut basket in a shape of a star, painted in the Star colors, formed very attractive decorations.

"Between the courses Miss Maude L. Johnson led the guests in community singing. Other musical numbers on the program were a piano solo by Mrs. C. O. Erickson, a vocal duet by Mrs. M. W. Prichard, Jr. and Mrs. C. A. Nason accompanied by Mrs. N. K. Harris at the piano. E. M. Bennes acted as toastmaster. After welcoming the out-of-town guests, he called upon Mrs. E. O. Mogensen, Worthy Matron of the local chapter, who gave a short talk and was followed by the Worthy Matron of Warren, Mrs. Powell. Mrs. J. M. Bishop, who has been Grand Martha of the Grand Chapter of Minnesota gave a very nice talk. Then Mr. Boyland of Eldora, Iowa, was called upon. Mr. Durrin, honor guest, also gave a very interesting talk.

"After the program those present adjourned to the Masonic hall, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with bouquets of wildflowers and the remainder of the evening was spent in playing cards.

"A number of members of the chapter at Warren were here and their visit was much appreciated by the members of the local lodge."

Ice Cream Social

"The Trinity Ladies Aid will have an ice cream social Saturday afternoon in the church parlors. Everyone is invited."

Sunday School Picnic

"Mrs. George Biddick entertained her Sunday school class of the Methodist church at a picnic at Lovers Lane Monday afternoon. Sixteen pupils were present. The afternoon was spent in playing games, following a big outdoor lunch at 6 o'clock."

Lutheran Church, Goodridge

"H. Lutz, Pastor. Sunday, June 17: No services. The congregations are invited to attend the Mission Festival at St. John's Lutheran Church at Thief River Falls. Sunday, June 24: English services at Erie at 10 a.m., at Neptune at 3 p.m., and at Big Grove at 8 p.m."

Swedish Baptist Church
Markley Avenue

"The Red River Valley District of the Young Peoples society of the Baptist Churches will hold its annual conference Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 15, 16 and 17, in the Baptist church of this city. Young Peoples societies and the pastors from all the Baptist churches in this district will attend the conference and an interesting program will be rendered. The Friday meeting will be at 8 p.m., Saturday at 2 and 8 p.m., and Sunday at 10:30 a.m., 2:15 and 8 p.m. Rev. John Nordell of Karlstad, Rev. G. E. Wallendorf of St. Paul, Rev. P. O. Exstrom of Drayton, North Dakota, Rev. H. Mossberg of Viga, and Rev. A. O. Lundeen of Karlstad will be the speakers of these meetings. A cordial invitation is extended to all."

Rocksbury Farm Bureau Picnic Set

"All members of the Pennington county Farm Bureau and their families are invited to participate in the annual picnic of the Rocksbury Farm Bureau at Valhall next Sunday, June 13, it was announced today.

"Free coffee will be served during the noon hour and a program will be presented at 1:30, including a one-act play, 'Swept Clean Off Her Feet,' by the Kratka 4-H club and coached by Mrs. Ted Lendobeja. Ball games and other sports will complete the program for the day."

New Solum Church People Improve Yard, Cemetery

"A large gathering assembled May 29 at Bethlehem church in New Solum township, Marshall county, and, using tractors, scrapers and other tools, leveled off the church yard and greatly improved the appearance of the cemetery, in which 120 persons are buried. The Ladies Aid served a bounteous dinner at noon and lunch in the afternoon."

Big Job Of Pouring Base For 2,800 H.P. Diesel Engine Takes 31 Hours

"After 31 hours of uninterrupted work, a large crew of employees of the Minneapolis Bridge Construction company under the supervision of Stanley Michalski, last Thursday evening at 8 o'clock completed the complicated task of pouring concrete for the base of the new 2,800-horsepower Diesel unit to be installed shortly in the municipal power plant. A total of 278 cubic yards of concrete was poured, involving the use of 1,530 bags of cement, in addition to which nearly seven tons of reinforced steel was utilized."

Carnegie Library Open House This Week and Next

"The Carnegie public library will hold open house this week and next between the hours of 12 noon and 6 p.m., Mrs. Hazel Halgrim, librarian, stated today, at the same time extending an invitation to local citizens to call and inspect the facilities of the institution, including the rearranged lower floor with its attractive rural school library section. The library board and staff Tuesday were host to members of the county board, school board and city council at open house."

Record Turnout At Tindolph Park Pool Two Days Last Week

"The Tindolph Park swimming pool has been a popular resort during the ten days it has been open to the public, a total attendance of approximately 1,000 turning out the first two days of the season, Quentin Jones, swimming instructor at the pool, stated this week. In addition, many others used the attractive playground and picnic facilities.

"Jones reported that many youngsters have signed up for swimming instructions, giving promise of a most successful season in this respect. The pool is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. until August 1. Alice Lind and Wes Hovie are serving as lifeguards, while Don Sponheim and Audrey Hylden are in charge of checkroom and concessions in the commodious new bath house. Patrons of the pool are urged to check all valuables with the attendant. The morning schedule of swimming instructions, Jones said, calls for junior life-saving and boating 9 to 10 a.m.; intermediate swimmers 10 to 11, and beginners 11 to 12."

From the Editorial Page

"Along with a lot of other facilities that must be expanded to meet the needs of a growing community is our school system. Community growth and an increasing birthrate are combining to make our present facilities inadequate. The need for a program of expansion is near enough to justify planning. It is another community problem we have got to start thinking seriously about. The bumper wartime crop of babies that is now causing an enrollment bulge in the lower grades will spread gradually through the system. National figures indicate no letdown as yet in the birthrate figures, so we may expect a steadily increasing enrollment over a period of years. Fortunately our school district is in excellent financial condition and a start has already had made in establishing a fund to meet future construction costs. We have already started to pay the bill."

Drinking water test report shows little contamination

Results of monitoring tests for the past year have once again revealed little evidence of contamination problems in Minnesota's 956 community water supply systems, according to the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH).

Test results for calendar year 1997 are summarized in the newly released fourth edition of the department's report on the state of Minnesota's drinking water. MDH has published the report annually since 1995.

"Like our previous drinking water reports, this latest report offers a highly reassuring picture of our state's drinking water infrastructure," says Minnesota Health Commissioner Anne Barry. "Once again, we rarely found detectable levels of contamination—and violations of applicable state or federal drinking water standards were rarer still. And whenever problems were discovered, we quickly took action to prevent any potential health problems.

"In short, the problems we found were minimal, and the system worked," she said. "Based on this report, we believe that the people of Minnesota can continue to have confidence in the high quality and safety of their drinking water."

The report covers test results for all community water supply systems—that is, systems that provide water to people in their homes. These community systems include all 706 of the state's municipal water systems and 254 systems that provide water in settings like manufactured home parks, apartment buildings, housing subdivisions, colleges, hospitals and correctional facilities.

Findings in the report published this year include the following:

- During 1997, MDH conducted 66,178 separate tests for up to 118 different pesticides and industrial contaminants. Only one community system exceeded applicable health standards for any of these contaminants. A municipal system in northern Minnesota was slightly above the federal maximum contaminant level of five parts per billion (ppb) for tetrachloroethylene. The problem was quickly corrected by taking one of the city's water wells out of service.
- Twenty-seven systems—including 20 municipal systems—tested positive for bacterial contamination. Residents of the affected communities were advised to boil their water before using it for drinking or cooking, until these systems could be disinfected and retested.

Twenty-two of the 27 systems were back on line in less than 14 days and the other five were able to resume normal operation within a few weeks. The largest of these systems provided water to about a thousand people, and all but eight of them served fewer than 500 people.

- One non-municipal system tested slightly above the federal MCL of 50 ppb for arsenic. The affected system was able to resolve the problem by installing a treatment system.

Arsenic is one of 13 inorganic chemicals for which community water supply systems are routinely tested. Arsenic is naturally present in the groundwater in many parts of Minnesota.

- Three municipal systems—including a multi-county system that serves a number of communities in southwestern Minnesota—exceeded the MCL of 10 parts per million (ppm) for nitrate.

Nitrate contamination is primarily a problem for infants, whose immature digestive systems can convert the nitrate into nitrite. Nitrite can reduce the oxygen-carrying capacity of the blood, resulting in a serious condition known as methemoglobinemia—and otherwise known as "blue baby syndrome."

Residents of communities with nitrate problems are warned not to let infants consume the water until steps can be taken to correct the situation.

"Obviously we are pleased that so few of our communities have experienced any serious problems with their water supply systems," Commissioner Barry said. "Our continued success in this area is a testament to the careful planning and engineering that have gone into our state's drinking water infrastructure—as well as the dedication and professionalism of the people who operate our community water supply systems.

"We recognize that we can never be complacent about something as important as drinking water quality," she added. "We need to remain vigilant, and to be alert for new problems and challenges. But based on our monitoring data, we are clearly doing a good job of providing clean, safe drinking water to the citizens of Minnesota.

Efforts to keep people informed about the quality of their drinking water will be expanded next year, Commissioner Barry noted.

Beginning in 1999, community water supply systems nationwide will be required to provide their customers with "consumer confidence reports." These reports will be used to notify consumers about any contaminants that may have been detected in their drinking water during the preceding year. If any of the contaminants have exceeded applicable drinking water standards, the reports will also include information about potential health effects.

Systems serving more than 10,000 people will mail the reports to their customers and systems serving between 500 and 10,000 people will release the required information to their local media. Smaller systems must simply notify their customers that the information is available.

The consumer confidence reports are required under 1996 amendments to the federal Safe Drinking Water Act. Reports on each year's test results must be provided to consumers by the summer of the following year.

"We applaud the adoption, at the federal level, of this new reporting requirement," Commissioner Barry said.

"In many ways, the consumer confidence reports are merely the logical extension of what we've been doing since 1995 with our annual drinking water reports. "We believe that the public can only benefit from receiving this information. We believe it will give people a better understanding of water quality issues—and of what's being done to ensure the safety of their drinking water. And here in Minnesota, we have every confidence that the news will continue to be good."

State provides information about Graduation Standards

The following information was provided to The Times from School District 564 and Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning. It seeks to answer many questions about Minnesota's Graduation Standards.

In 1993, Minnesota Law required the development and implementation of Graduation Standards. The law responds to changing demands in our workforce and communities in three ways: it raises the level of achievement required, makes education relevant to academic, workplace and community productivity and success, and includes all of our children.

It also responds to frustrations coming from higher education, parents and communities and concerns of employers forced to invest substantial dollars in remedial classes.

New Meaning for a High School Diploma: Parents, employers, higher education and policy makers together have redefined what a Minnesota diploma means in their Graduation Standards.

Basic Skills: All students are required to pass basic literacy tests in mathematics, reading and written composition. Students who do not pass these tests do not graduate. Schools are required to respond to failing students with targeted, intensive instruction. Basic education includes:

- Reading (grade 8): Demonstrate ability to read, understand and respond to newspaper and magazine articles at a level of difficulty comparable to "To Kill a Mockingbird."
- Math (grade 8): Solve story problems by applying the skills and concepts of estimation, shape and measurement, whole numbers and fractions, rates, ratios and proportions, tables and graphs, and chance and data handling.
- Written composition (grade 10): Write on an identified topic for an adult audience. Scoring is based on content, purpose, clarity and attention to grammar and spelling.

High Standards (Profile of Learning): All students will complete work in each of nine learning areas that together describe a well-rounded education. The level of learning assessed will demonstrate an ability to apply complex ideas and concepts in new and relevant situations. Sample assessments have been developed to provide districts examples that they can use with students or refer to as they develop their own assessments. Students complete several tasks to prove that they know and can do what is required to meet each of the 24 High Standards they select from the 10 learning areas which include: 1) read, view, listen; 2) write and speak, 3) literature and the arts, 4) math applications, 5) inquiry, 6) science, 7) people and cultures, 8) decision making, 9) managing resources, and 10) languages (optional).

The 24 standards to be completed included three electives.

Each standard defines the content students must learn and requires that they apply this knowledge. More than one standard can be completed in a course (24 standards, not 24 courses).

A local district determines what classes to offer to provide opportunities for students to achieve the standards, what curriculum to use, what methods and materials to use, what teachers to employ, etc.

The standards provide learning targets (goals) for primary, intermediate, middle and high school. As a result, for the first time Minnesota will have an overall plan for learning kindergarten through grade 12.

Connection to Statewide Testing: Statewide testing will assess student achievement against Graduation Standards across districts and schools.

Progress toward High Standards in mathematics and reading will be tested in grade 3 (Spring 1998).

Progress toward High Standards in mathematics, reading, and written composition will be tested in grade 5 (Spring 1998).

Students' basic literacy (math and reading) is already being tested in the Eighth grade.

Students' basic competency in written composition will be assessed in grade 10 beginning in the 1998/99 school year.

In addition, a statewide assessment that addresses each of the required learning areas of the High Standards will be designed for the high school level (first administration 2000).

Implementation: Fall 1998 - all districts provide opportunities for students to achieve the High Standards and assess their performance. 2000 - Class of 2000 must pass basic literacy tests in reading and math. 2001 - Class of 2001 must pass basic literacy tests in reading, math and writing. 2002 - First class graduates having completed 24 high standards and participated in basic skills tests and statewide assessment of 10 learning areas.

Outcomes: Minnesota's Graduation Standards have the potential to raise the level of achievement for all of our students. What students must know and do to succeed in work, academics, and community life will be the focus of both instruction and assessment.

Minnesota's parents will have accurate information about the performance of students, schools and districts.

Minnesota's employers and higher education institutions can depend on graduation signifying achievement, not seat time or days spent in school.

Concerns

Concern: The Profile of Learning requires all students to complete large numbers of state-dictated projects, rather than traditional classes.

Response: The Profile of Learning does not require the use of state dictated projects. What it requires is that students learn specific content at high levels and demonstrate that they can apply what they have learned. Many teachers currently use assignments that ultimately are the package. State performance packages (collections of student tasks) are provided only as examples and the use of them is not required. The profile of learning identifies what students must know and be able to do. Local districts decide how that will be done.

The public, our post secondary institutions and our businesses have asked for this higher level of student engagement. Under our proposed rule students can't slide by simply by showing up for class and putting in their time. They will actually have to demonstrate what they have learned.

Concern: One standards = one course = one package.

Response: Rigorous, complex activities in one course may address multiple standards. Twenty-four standards do not equal 24 different courses. While it is unlikely that more than two or three standards would be met in one course, it would not be uncommon for two standards to be met in a single course.

Concern: High school standards must be earned during high school.

Response: Programs or courses which offer accelerated content to students before grade 9 should count toward completion of high school standards. In some cases work completed through independent study or electronically under the direction of a teacher could also be determined to meet a standard.

Concern: Teachers must teach two different systems: traditional lesson plans and the Profile of Learning. This will lead to a paperwork nightmare because of state-mandated projects and paperwork instead of a systematic study of academic content.

Response: Many effective teachers have discovered that the curriculum and lessons they present and the assignments they have students do in their courses fulfill standards of the Profile of Learning for which they are responsible. There are not state-mandated projects. Teachers should continue to use the rigorous, relevant academic assignments that have resulted in high levels of student achievement in the past.

The record keeping required by the rule is: standards completed by the student, scores earned, date completed. There are no requirements for what types of records are needed. This could be a paper system, however we are working with vendors on the development of electronic systems.

Concern: The standards place AP and IB programs and other programs for gifted and dedicated students at risk.

Response: Implementation of the Profile of Learning opens new options and frees time for advanced or in-depth studies. No student should be denied access to AP, IB or other gifted programming due to the structure of the Profile of Learning.

Concern: We have to phase in more slowly.

Response: Undoubtedly, reform of this magnitude requires substantial training and preparation. Early in 1996, the phase-in design was distributed to all districts. 1996: inquiry training, pilot and implementation. 1997: math, science, decision making, people and cultures, resource management (summer training, fall implementation); 1998: arts and literature; read, view, listen, write and speak; world languages (summer training and fall implementation).

Many districts have made graduation standards and student performance their first priority with regard to both site and district initiated professional development. All districts agree that there is much to be done. Our public schools are ready to introduce their K-12 students to these new requirements.

Concern: This won't work unless colleges are on board.

Response: The Department of Children, Families and Learning is working closely with post-secondary institutions and is encouraged by their response.

Concern: Minnesota lawmakers voted to place our schools under the authority of Goals 2000. They voted to have the State Board of Education establish results oriented graduation standards, but they have never informed the public about what they have done.

Response: Minnesota's law which established "results-oriented graduation standards" was passed in 1993 and pre-dates goals 2000. Prior to that time Minnesota had been examining a results or competency based (rather than time-based) education system. Operating in compliance with Minnesota's rule making process, a series of public meetings have been held and citizen advisory groups have been involved throughout the process. Many changes have been made as a result of these meetings. An example of which is removing the requirement for state developed packages to allow local districts to use their own performance measurement procedures. Still many Minnesotans have minimal knowledge of the standards or the process by which they were derived.

Concern: The learning packet in "individual and Community Health" is required, and includes nothing about good nutrition, exercise or the hazards of smoking and drug abuse, but requires students to know where all birth control centers and abortion clinics are located.

Response: The Profile of Learning leaves the design of health curriculum to local districts. Schools design the assignments and activities that students will complete as they study health. The standard includes nutrition, physical fitness, reduction of accidents and disease, and reduction of alcohol, tobacco, and drug use and abuse. Local districts also determine how prevention of sexually transmitted diseases is taught in their schools. Nothing in the Profile of Learning prevents an abstinence-only sex education program. The Profile of Learning complies with Minnesota Statute 121.203 regarding health education but makes no additional requirements.

Concern: Private and home schools will be required to comply with the graduation standards.

Response: Private schools wishing to participate in statewide testing or to implement the Profiles of Learning are welcome to do so but nothing in rule or law requires it.

Concern: The requirement that students study diverse perspectives teaches students that all beliefs and actions are equal including homosexuality.

Response: The Profile of Learning requires that students "evaluate events and actions from diverse United States and world perspectives." This does not require any particular opinion about diverse perspectives, and leaves the decision regarding what perspectives will be addressed to the local district. Minnesota's proposed rule specifically includes "race, culture, gender, and disability". The rule does not preclude and does not include sexual orientation. Neither does it require that any specific number of perspectives be evaluated.

Entrance to the new attractive city council chambers is located near the parking lot and elevator entrance of the renovated Soo Depot building. Thief River Falls City Council held its first meeting in the room last week.

Strandquist Community News

F. Myrtle Vagle • 436-2133

The inch and a half of rain that came to northwest Minnesota on Sunday was as welcome as a robin in Spring. The ground was getting a bit dry and Roy is whistling today because he doesn't have to water the lawns and garden.

He is now trying to figure out a way to keep all those big black birds out of the feeder so all those pretty little birds can eat in peace. There can be a half dozen different kinds of small birds feeding at one time and no trouble but when those blackbirds come all the rest have to clear out. Maybe someone can give him an idea how he can accomplish this dilemma but on second thought he gets some weird ideas by himself, like a giant flyswatter.

The Strandquist seniors are going to play Bingo this Thursday when they meet on June 18th and then the next Thursday June 25th they are planning a party to celebrate Ida Braces's 77th birthday. Ida is a resident at the nursing home in Karlstad and will be taken to the Strandquist Center for the party. No presents are requested but it is possible we can think of some small token which will add to the festivities.

On Wednesday evening Betsy Thompson went to Thief River Falls to attend the farewell party which provided a send off for her granddaughter, Miss Thief River Falls, Kori Thompson, for the state pageant in Austin. She will spend this week being judged and we are looking forward to seeing her winning the Minnesota Pageant next Saturday evening.

Those who came to wish Lois Kleinvachter a happy birthday Tuesday evening were Keya Tumwall, Betty Piotruszewski, June Kasprowicz, and Kelly Lofrooth, Amanda and Jessica.

Elphie Adlis stopped in to chat awhile with Elsie Lofrooth on Friday before going to the Center and get the coffeepot ready for their meeting.

Jenny King was an overnight guest of Kristin Kleinvachter on Friday and Saturday night. Lindsey Berg was her guest.

A BIRTHDAY TRIBUTE TO MOM
Martha Hasby (June 16)
Another birthday without Mom
Today is Mom's birthday without candles and cake,
And since she's not with us we won't celebrate.
We can't send her a card, her hands we can't touch,
We asked God to give a message to the one we love so much.
Grant us one wish and make it come true,
Please have your choir of "angels" sing,
"Happy Birthday to You".
With love,
Fran and Ivy

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE

Date: May 11, 1998

YOU ARE NOTIFIED THAT:

1. THE RIGHT TO VERIFICATION OF THE DEBT AND IDENTITY OF THE ORIGINAL CREDITOR WITHIN THE TIME PROVIDED BY LAW IS NOT AFFECTED BY THIS ACTION.

2. THIS IS AN ATTEMPT TO COLLECT A DEBT, AND ANY INFORMATION OBTAINED WILL BE USED FOR THAT PURPOSE.

3. Default has occurred in the conditions of the mortgage dated November 22, 1990, executed by Martin B. Johnson and Darcia O. Johnson, husband and wife, as mortgagors, to Bank of America Federal Savings Bank, as mortgagee, and filed for record November 22, 1990, in Book 269 of Records, Page 699, as Document No. 149536 in the office of the County Recorder of Pennington County, Minnesota. The land described in the mortgage is not registered land.

4. The mortgage has been assigned as follows: not applicable.

5. The original principal amount secured by the mortgage was: $49,779.00

6. No action or proceeding at law is now pending to recover the debt secured by the mortgage, or any part thereof.

7. The holder of the mortgage has complied with all conditions precedent to acceleration of the debt secured by the mortgage and foreclosure of the mortgage and all notice and other requirements of applicable statutes.

8. At the date of this notice, the amount due on the mortgage, and taxes, if any, paid by the holder of the mortgage is: $51,231.99

9. Pursuant to the power of sale in the mortgage, the mortgage will be foreclosed, and the land described as follows:

Lots 10 and 11 of Block 14 in Oakland Addition to Thief River Falls will be sold by the County Sheriff of Pennington County, Minnesota, at public auction on July 30, 1998, at 10:00 a.m. at the sheriff's main office, 102 West First Street, in the City of Thief River Falls, County of Pennington, State of Minnesota.

10. The time allowed by law for redemption by mortgagor or mortgagor's personal representatives or assigns is six months after date of sale.

11. THE TIME ALLOWED BY LAW FOR REDEMPTION BY THE MORTGAGOR, THE MORTGAGOR'S PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVES OR ASSIGNS, MAY BE REDUCED TO FIVE WEEKS IF A JUDICIAL ORDER IS ENTERED UNDER MINNESOTA STATUTES, SECTION 582.032, DETERMINING, AMONG OTHER THINGS, THAT THE MORTGAGED PREMISES ARE IMPROVED WITH A RESIDENTIAL DWELLING OF LESS THAN FIVE UNITS, ARE NOT PROPERTY USED IN AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION AND ARE ABANDONED.

12. The mortgagor(s) released from financial obligation on the mortgage is/are: None.

REGULAR BOARD MEETING
May 26, 1998
7:00 p.m.
S.D.S.C. Conference Room A

A regular Board meeting of Independent School District #564 was held on Tuesday, May 26, 1998, at 6:00 p.m. in Conference Room A of the School District Service Center.

The following Board members were present: Carl Clark, Jean Larson, Cheryl Lee, Randy Twistol, and Darla Twomey. Also present was Dr. Jerry Robicheau, Superintendent of Schools.

Chairperson Carl Clark called the meeting to order and Clerk Jean Larson established that a quorum was present.

A motion was made by C. Lee and seconded by J. Larson to approve the agenda as amended. Motion carried unanimously.

The May 1st enrollment report was briefly reviewed. The Thief River Falls Education Foundation was recognized for making the following donations to school district programs: $1,000.00 for Community Ed Golf; $398.00 for 4th grade Math Facts Die; $479.97 for a traveling turtle project at Challenger; $2,220.00 for Junior Great Books training; $1,500.00 for Lincoln science lab tasting equipment and $2,362.50 for 3rd grade SRA Reading Labs. The St. Hilaire Community Club was also recognized for donating $500 for scholarships at Lincoln.

Educational Services Coordinator Glenn Chiodo reviewed the basic skills test results with the Board noting that our students did very well on the tests scoring above the state averages. The state average was 71% in math and 68% in reading. ISD #564 students scored 77% in math and 72% in reading. Testing dates for those students who missed the first test have been scheduled for July 21 and 22.

Videos produced by Media Arts students Erin Delmore and Jessica Nelson were shown. The videos were part of a class project and were produced for the purpose of using them to promote Lincoln and Challenger to prospective parents and students. A video is also being produced for Franklin but it wasn't ready for viewing at this time. The students did an excellent job on the videos.

Board members who attended the special Board meeting with Commissioner of Education Bob Wedl reviewed with the group what was discussed. Topics included education credits, the Learning Year or year-around schools and the concept of college in the high school.

Jean Larson noted that the Continuing Ed Committee met on May 9 and approved a number of credits for staff members.

Jerry Robicheau and Carl Clark reported they attended the MECC Joint Powers public meeting noting the project is ahead of schedule by about three weeks because of the nice weather. They also noted that roughly $100,000 has been raised through Fund Development for the next phase of the project.

Superintendent Robicheau asked the Board to consider scheduling an inservice in June to assess accomplishment of the goals for the 1997-98 school year and to revisit the Strategic Plan and begin establishing goals for the 1998-99 school year. The inservice will be scheduled at the next regular meeting of June 8. Jerry also noted that the postings for the elementary principal and community ed director close the end of the week and interviews will be scheduled either next week or the following week. Jerry reminded Board members of the appreciation coffee for transportation and district wide maintenance staff scheduled for Wednesday morning, May 27.

Lorraine Waine attended the reception for Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dahlen held at the Community Center in Goodridge on Saturday evening.

Kristien Solberg visited with Kramer Hanson on Monday at the Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lundeen home.

Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Johnson were visitors and coffee guests at the Larry and Gilda Kotrba home.

Travis Kotrba spent the weekend visiting with his parents, Ronnie and Gail Kotrba.

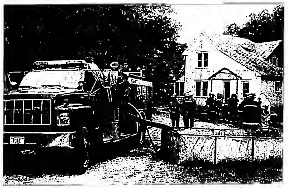
After church visitors on Sunday, and coffee guests at the Gary and Norma Johnson home were Leonard and Bernice Johnson.

Bruce Solberg was a brief visitor on Sunday at the Larry and Gilda Kotrba home.

Firefighters from Thief River Falls, Goodridge, Warren, Alvarado, and Red Lake Falls participated in a structural fire training exercise north of Thief River Falls Tuesday evening. Above, firefighters were practicing spraying water through an opening the width and size of many windows. It is a practical drill useful in at least two ways — getting water onto a structural fire, and venting smoke from a building.

GOODRIDGE AREA FIRE DEPT.

Goodridge Area Fire department was one of several fire departments participating in a structural fire training exercise north of Thief River Falls Tuesday evening.



Red Lake Falls Fire department was one of several fire departments participating in a structural fire training exercise at the house pictured above, located north of Thief River Falls. The exercise was held Tuesday evening.

Mary and Donna Ronstrom and Donna Donorski had a visit with Elsie Lofrooth.

Marlys Lofrooth brought April Sjovall and her grandmother Norma Sjovall and Elsie Lofrooth to Thief River Falls to meet little Austin.

Donald Lofrooth who was born on June 10th to Greg Lofrooth and Ramona Sjovall.

Bud and Merle Stoffen picked up Judy Kleinvachter and went for a drive on Sunday and had lunch in Warroad.

Vance and Adrienne Lofrooth brought Elsie Lofrooth an early birthday gift, a beautiful hanging plant.

Visitors at Judy Kleinvachter's this past week were Kelly Lofrooth, Claudia Berggren and Jessie, Marie Stoffen, Joan Gehrls, June Kaspiowicz, Kaye Turnwell, Nathan and Fay Olson and girls of Inver Grove.

Elsie Lofrooth had an interesting evening on Tuesday when her grandson, Lowell Lofrooth's wife Shelly and her sister came to visit and look for buttons. Elsie had only about 4 gallons of buttons to go over which took them a couple of hours.

Judy Kleinvachter visited Elmer Holmstrom and Evelyn Albaugh on Tuesday.

These birds seem to wish to buy this place as they are putting deposits on most everything around here. First they took over the clothesline so all has go in the dryer. The sidewalks and porch railing came next. But the worst thing that almost wrecked our happy home was the seasickness I experienced from the splatter on the windshield which moved forth and back like a watch swinging in the hands of a hypnotist all the way home from Roseau. It lasted for hours. No more parking under trees.

Firefighters gathered to review some of the rules before entering a structure set on fire as a training exercise for firefighters. The exercise was held Tuesday evening at a residence north of Thief River Falls. At least five fire departments participated in the exercise.

Agricultural survey determines planted acres

To gather reliable, objective information, the National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture will be surveying farmers and ranchers for the June Agricultural Survey.

The Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service will be conducting the survey and a representative will contact local producers between May 29 and June 12. This survey is particularly vital because it will provide the first clear indications of the potential production of major commodities in 1998.

The information gathered is widely used. Producers rely on the data to reach valid production, marketing, and investment decisions. Industry analysts, extension personnel, and farm organizations use the information in a variety of ways that benefit farmers. Results of the June Agricultural Survey will be released in the Hogs and Pigs report on June 26, and on June 30, the Acreage and Grain Stocks reports will be released.

"We safeguard the confidentiality of all survey responses," says Michael Hunst, State Agricultural Statistician. "Information from individual operations is combined with other responses to provide the needed data." NASS works with farmers and ranchers to provide meaningful, accurate, and objective statistics that help keep U.S. agriculture informed."

Dakota Clinic - Foot Notes by Mark Yuska, DPM (Podiatrist)

Athlete's Foot

Athlete's foot is a skin disease caused by a fungus, usually occurring between the toes. The fungus most commonly attacks the the feet because shoes create a warm, dark, and moist environment which encourages fungus growth. The warmth and dampness of areas around swimming pools, showers, and locker rooms, are also breeding grounds for fungi. Because the infection was common among athletes who used these facilities frequently, the term "athlete's foot" became popular. Not all fungus conditions are athlete's foot. Other conditions, such as disturbances of the sweat mechanism, reaction to dyes or adhesives in shoes, eczema, and psoriasis, also may mimic athlete's foot.

The signs of athlete's foot are drying skin, itching, scaling, inflammation, and blistering. Blisters often lead to cracking of the skin. When blisters break, small raw areas of tissue are exposed, causing pain and swelling. Itching and burning may increase as the infection spreads. Athlete's foot may spread to the soles, especially the arch, of the feet and to the toenails. The infection may be spread by contaminated bed sheets or clothing to other parts of the body as well.

It is not easy to prevent athlete's foot because it is usually contracted in dressing rooms, showers, and swimming pool locker rooms where bare feet come in contact with the fungus. However, you can do much to prevent infection by practicing good foot hygiene. Daily washing of the feet with soap and water, drying carefully, especially between the toes, and changing shoes and socks regularly to decrease moisture, help prevent the fungus from infecting the feet. Also helpful is daily use of a quality foot powder. Avoid walking barefoot and use shower shoes. Reduce perspiration by using talcum powder. You may need a medication to prevent excess foot perspiration and odor.

Fungicidal and fungistatic chemicals, used for athlete's foot treatment, frequently fail to contact the fungi in the horny layers of the skin. Topical or oral antifungal drugs are prescribed with growing frequency as many over the counter preparations may not be potent enough. The feet should be bathed frequently and all areas around the toes dried thoroughly.

If an apparent fungus condition does not respond to proper foot hygiene and self care, and there is no improvement within two weeks you may want to seek medical care. Your podiatrist will determine if a fungus is actually the cause of the problem. If it is, a specific treatment plan, including the prescription of antifungal medication, applied topically or taken by mouth, will usually be suggested. Such a treatment appears to provide better resolution of the problem when the patient observes the course of treatment prescribed by the physician; if it is shortened, failure of the treatment is common. If the infection is caused by bacteria, antibiotics, such as penicillin, that are effective against a broad spectrum of bacteria may be prescribed. There are cases where there may be both a fungal infection and bacterial infection occurring together.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

1. Rules and regulations will be strictly adhered to.
2. ENTRIES FOR PREMIUM PRIZES ARE LIMITED TO RESIDENTS OF NORTHWEST MINNESOTA
3. All entries in all departments must be in place on the entry day, July 16 from 9 A.M. to 6 P.M. as judging will start promptly at 9 o'clock, July 17. Flowers are to be in by 5 P.M. on entry day.
4. Only one entry will be allowed to an exhibitor in one section on any class other than livestock, provided, however, that no animal shall be entered in more than one class except to make up herds or teams. Limited to 2 entries in each class.
5. No purse will be awarded where there is no competition, unless specially recommended by the judges, and no unworthy exhibit shall be awarded a prize.
6. The association management will use diligence to insure the safety of livestock or articles after their arrival and placement, but under no circumstances will it be responsible for any loss, injury or damage done to, or occasioned by or arising from any animal or articles on exhibition, and the exhibitor shall indemnify the Association management thereof against all legal or other proceedings in regard thereto.
7. On receipt of entries a card will be prepared for each animal or articles, specifying the class, section, articles and number of entry, the card must remain attached to the articles during the whole period of exhibition.
8. All exhibits, including livestock, shall be left on display until 5 P.M. on the last day of the fair, July 19. No ticket shall be removed from the article until that time. The Fair Association will not be responsible for exhibits or property left on the grounds after 7 P.M., Sunday, July 19.
9. No exhibits or coverings containing them will be admitted with the name or initial on them.
10. Articles on exhibition shall not be handled except by officers of the department to which they belong.
11. The board of directors reserves the right to make any changes in the premium list and in the rules and regulations that it may deem advisable.
12. The interpretations of the rules and the settlement of all questions and differences that may come up in connection with the contest shall be vested in the board of directors.
13. The board of directors reserves the right to prorate premiums if the amount exceeds $10,000.00
14. All bills or materials borrowed for the fair must receive the O.K. of the secretary of the board of directors, otherwise the fair management will not be responsible.
15. All premiums and other checks issued by the Fair Association must be cashed before September 1st, so that the checks may be audited for drawing the state appropriation.

16. No person will be permitted to distribute advertising matter on the grounds except from their places of business or exhibit. The tacking or posting of any advertising, bills, cards, etc., other than within the spaces occupied by exhibitor, is strictly prohibited. The distribution of handbills, flyers, heralds, etc. will not under any circumstances be permitted. Anyone violating this rule will be liable to a fine or expulsion from the grounds, as the board may elect.
17. The management reserves the right to exclude from the grounds any person or persons whom it may deem undesirable, or expel from the grounds such person or persons who shall violate any rules.
18. Exhibitors will please bring in only the articles listed in the Premium Book. No special will be accepted.
19. The fair board has the right to accept or reject any exhibit.
20. The fair board reserves the right to regulate all raffles.

LIVESTOCK

1. Entries in the livestock and poultry department shall be sent in by mail prior to July 10. This is necessary in order that stalls may be assigned according to the number of entries and that the fair management may know how much barn space is available. The animals must be in place on the first day of the fair.
2. Registered cattle will be shown against Registered cattle within their own breed, and age limits. Papers are required at entry time. All grade cattle will be shown against all grade cattle within their breed and age limit. No papers required for grade cattle.
3. Exhibitors must keep their barn and stalls open and stock uncovered between the hours of 10 A.M. and 5 P.M. during each day of the show. Exhibitors of livestock must keep their stock, stalls, and pens in good, neat condition and open for inspection from 10 A.M. to 10 P.M.
4. Each exhibitor of livestock must pay an entry fee of $1.00 for each entry of cattle, 50¢ for each entry of sheep and hogs. No entry in the livestock department will be less than $2.00.
5. Livestock must be bona fide property of the exhibitor at least sixty days before exhibition.
6. In championships, "Senior" designates cattle two years old or over, "Junior" under two years. Only first prize winners in single lots in open competition may compete for championships. Champion winners only may compete for grand championships.
7. 4-H club boys and girls who enter livestock in the open class will be required to pay entry fee, as herein specified.
8. All livestock including horses, cattle, sheep and goats will be examined by the official show veterinarian each day of the fair. Certificates for all livestock consigned from other states shall comply with the rules and regulations of the Livestock Sanitary Board for the importation of livestock into Minnesota and with such further provision as are required in the following sections for each species of livestock. All swine must be tested for pseudorabies within 30 days of the show as designated by the Livestock Sanitary Board.
9. All poultry, except waterfowl and pigeons, besides being apparently healthy, must meet one of the following conditions in order to qualify for exhibition:
   1. Officially tested for pullorum and typhoid diseases and found negative within 90 days prior to opening or exhibition, or
   2. Originate directly from parent stock classified within 12 months of opening date of exhibition as U.S. Pullorum-Typhoid Clean or a comparable classification.

   The exhibition must show compliance with one of the above by means of an official form issued by an authorized agent of which is recorded the result of this test, or an appropriate statement certifying to origin, together with identification of each bird by band number.
10. Any livestock removed from the fairgrounds before 5:00 P.M. the last fair day, without notification of the superintendent, are subject to withholding of premium of animal taken home.
11. All bulls must have an extra neck tie in addition to any halter tie. No cattle are to be tied by leather show halters in stalls.
12. Anyone may exhibit livestock in Pennington County whose home county allows Pennington County residents to exhibit there.

LIVESTOCK DEPARTMENT

LaVerne Hamre, Superintendent, 681-5938
Mike Sorteberg, Assistant, 681-7172
All livestock exhibitors must provide their own straw

All cattle will be examined by the official veterinarian on entry day. Cattle coming from another state must have appropriate papers to cross state lines.

OPEN CLASS DOG SHOW, WEDNESDAY, JULY 15 AT 7 P.M.; 4-H SHOW FOLLOWED BY OPEN SHOW

Lot 1 – Grooming and behavior dogs will be judged on their general physical condition, appearance, grooming, general handling by exhibitor and overall manners of the dog. Dogs will be expected to walk quietly on leash and sit on command. This class is for people and a dog who have not had any obedience training
2 – Pre-beginner – no formal obedience training for either handler or dog.
3 – Beginner Class A – A person with their dog who is in their first year of obedience training
4 – Beginner Class B – A person having previous obedience training or handling a dog with previous training.
5 – Graduate beginner – A person who has won a blue ribbon in the beginner class but not completed novice training. Dogs will do long sit, long down, stand and recall of leash.
6 – Novice Class A – A person with more than 2 years training with their first dog
7 – Novice Class B – A person who is training a second dog, or who has previously trained a dog to a CO title
8 – Junior Novice Showmanship – 13 years and under (as of January 1). Judged entirely on the member's ability to groom and show their dog by the breed standards of that dog. A crossbred dog should be shown and groomed by the breed standards it resembles. Conformation of the dog is not evaluated in showmanship.
9 – Senior Novice Showmanship – 14 years and over (January 1). Judged entirely on the member's ability to groom and show their dog by the breed standards of that dog. A crossbred dog should be shown and groomed by the breed standards it resembles. Conformation of the dog is not evaluated in showmanship

CLOVER

PLUMPNESS OF KERNEL – indicates (1) Weight per in size and shape, meet favor with the judges

MIXTURE – No other seeds should be in the sample and all kinds of foreign matter (weeds, seeds, dirt, etc.) are objectionable

COLOR – Bright cheerful lustre is preferred to dull dead color

POTATOES

1 Do not wash exhibits. Brushing with a soft brush will remove the soil and leave the skin in its natural condition
2 Select the exhibit at digging time if possible. Wrap each potato in paper as soon as selected, and store in a dry, dark, cool cellar.
3 Select the tubers of the average size for the variety that are in uniform size.
4 Select tubers of good type for the variety. Round blunt or block ends are characteristic of most varieties. Avoid pointed tubers or irregular shapes
5 Select only clean, bright specimens or those free from scab, black scurf, stems and rots, mechanical injury and sunburn
6 Select full weight as called for in the premium list, and correctly label the sample

Off-peak electricity is one way your municipal utility helps ensure that your electric rates remain stable now and in the future. Your municipal utility is a member of the Northern Municipal Power Agency – both are part of the Minnkota Power Systems.

Programs offered:

Water Heater Rebates
We offer a $120 rebate for the installation of an energy efficient off-peak electric water heater. The water heater must meet the following minimum standards.
a) 4,500 watt dual element system
b) Tank insulation of R-16

Financing Programs

Off-Peak Electric Heat
Up to $8,000 is available at 5% interest. Electric heat must be off-peak

Heat Pump System
Up to $5,000 is available at 7% interest.

Guaranteed Rate
Off-Peak rate is below fuel oil & propane prices!

All loans are for a term of up to five years

4-H CLUB DEPARTMENT

Howard Person, County Extension Educator
Van Swanson, County Extension Educator
Glenice Johnson, County Extension Educator

1. This Department is open to bona fide members of the 4-H clubs of Pennington County.
2. All projects should be done by individual club members.
3. Only complete exhibits as called for in the premium list will qualify.
4. Livestock shown (dairy, beef, swine, sheep, goat, rabbits and poultry) must be the property of the exhibitors or owned jointly by agreement with parent or guardian or for dairy, dairy goats, and beef leased by agreement. All registered animals must be registered in the exhibitor's name and/or exhibitor's family name. Horses and dogs shown must be owned or leased by exhibitor.
5. Club members may show livestock in the open classes as well by paying the entrance fee . . . rule 4, "open class livestock"
6. No entry fee charge to club members except as indicated in rule 5. BRING YOUR OWN GRAIN, HAY AND STRAW.
7. All entry registration forms are due to the county extension office by June 29.
8. Exhibit tags should be on all exhibits. (Given out on entry day.)
9. Members may enter only one exhibit in a class and a science exhibit (for projects where science exhibits are listed) except for livestock and livestock science exhibits where entry is limited to one per lot. Members may NOT enter the SAME animal in more than one lot. Any other exceptions will be indicated under the project area.
10. Exhibits will be placed in blue, red and white ribbon classes, except where stated otherwise.
11. All health regulations governing the open class will be in effect.
12. Please cash all checks by August 15.
13. All 4-H Market animals (steers, barrows, wethers, commercial heifers, commercial cow-calf, gilts) must be identified with an official state-wide ear tag in order to be eligible to exhibit at the 1998 State Fair. Animals are to be identified with this ear tag at the time of initial weigh-in and identification of 4-H Market animals in the county.
14. Unless otherwise stated, all science exhibits and any displays for all project areas where a display may be exhibited may NOT be larger than 12" deep, 24" wide, 36" high. Any flat poster exhibit may not exceed 22" x 28". Displays not meeting these guidelines will receive no better than a red ribbon.
15. Members may only enter exhibits in the project areas and units that they are enrolled in.
16. 4-H members must be present for conference judging to win a State Fair trip.
17. A 4-H member selected for a trip to the State Fair must have completed 6th grade but not have passed their 19th birthday by January 1, 1998.
18. If you exhibit an oversized exhibit, you must get permission from the County Extension office and if you qualify for State Fair, you are responsible for getting it there and back.
19. All framed pictures should be ready to hang when shown.

LIVESTOCK HEALTH REQUIREMENTS

The following is a list of the livestock health requirements.

ALL LIVESTOCK

WARTS, RINGWORM, CONTAGIOUS DISEASES – All animals must be free of warts, ringworm or other contagious diseases to be entered in a show. If they arrive at a show with these diseases, they will be sent home.

SHEEP
No health certificates required.

HORSES
No health certificates required. A Coggins test for Equine Infectious Anemia is highly recommended. (The Board of Animal Health is presently reviewing this law. If it becomes mandatory prior to the fair, we will notify you with a separate mailing.

RABBITS AND WATERFOWL
No health certificates required

POULTRY
PULLORUM-TYPHOID – An official form to show a record of a negative test for pullorum-typhoid disease conducted within 90 days or an official form to show they originate directly from parent stock tested and found negative within 12 months

SWINE
BRUCELLOSIS – A negative test within 90 days is required for all swine except those under 6 months of age, and swine from a validated brucellosis-free herd.

PSEUDORABIES – All swine must have a negative blood test within 30 days of the event except for herds that are certified pseudorabies free. Statements on health certificates must indicate no clinical pseudorabies has existed on the premises from which said animal has been removed for a period of not less than 6 months prior to date of removal.

DOGS
RABIES – If over six months of age – must be accompanied by a certificate of rabies vaccination issued by a licensed veterinarian. Must also have parvo and distemper shots.

DEPARTMENT O – LIVESTOCK

Science exhibits listed under Department 5.
Science exhibits will be judged entry day.

CLASS 1 – DAIRY

Premiums – Blue $10; Red $7; White $5

Lot:
1 – Heifer calves born September 1, 1997 to February 28, 1998
2 – Junior yearling born March 1, 1997 to August 31, 1997.

5 – Cow, 3 years old and over born before September 1, 1995
6 – Dairy Production – Exhibitors may enter any two year old or older animal currently enrolled in central processed DHIA record at time of fair. Add information to animal entry. The ribbon awards will be based on the value of product in the last completed lactation based on 305 days M.E. Only official verified central processed DHIA record will be considered for this recognition. The cow must be currently enrolled in central processed DHIA record at time of the fair. The value of the milk produced will determine the ribbon placing, not milk yield.
7 – Dairy Performance (Genetics) Index – This class is limited to 4-H'ers showing animals less than three years old that have not completed a 305 day lactation record. The animal must be sired by a bull with a published sire summary or by a young A.I. bull with a pedigree index available on the sire summary tape. The dam must be identified by register or ear tag number, herd code computer number and farm name. The PTA protein $'s of the sire plus the PTA protein $'s of the dam, divided by two will be used to determine ribbon placings.

Foods project members may enter one exhibit in each lot listed under the unit or units that they are enrolled in. NEW! The Extension Office now has a computer program that can calculate the nutritional value of a recipe. Please call or stop by if you want this done.

Lot 1:

Food Revue – This event is held before the fair. The Food Revue is a competitive event with a judge who will ask you questions about your exhibit. This event is open to all 4-H Foods project members. Ribbons will be given at the event and a premium to be given at the county fair. Please remember to include this on your fair registration form. The State Fair trip winner must have completed sixth grade this year.

50% of your score is based on your knowledge of food preparation, management, nutrition and meal planning. Be sure to figure out the cost of preparing your meal.

The following guidelines will help you prepare for the Food Revue.

1. Select a tested recipe from a reliable cookbook, 4-H foods bulletin or other dependable source.
2. Practice preparing the favorite recipe until it can be done easily and a good project is achieved. Be able to tell how it is done, if asked. Put the recipe on an 8-1/2" x 11" poster. (Ingredients and directions for preparation.)
3. Plan a menu for the family for a meal or snack including the favorite food. Put the menu on an 8-1/2" x 11" poster.
4. Plan for table coverings or mats, dishes, glassware, silver and centerpiece to use for serving the food. Set up the display including the recipe and menu posters. For members planning a snack, only the plate, glass and flatware required for eating the snack need to be included.
5. The Food Revue Competition will be judged on food knowledge, management knowledge, nutrition knowledge, menu, food and table setting. The judge may or may not taste the food.

Lot 2. – (6th grade and over) Article made of wood
- Wooden article – repaired, finished or refinished.
- Metal articles – one article made for use in home, garden, yard or farm.
- Exhibit on properties, uses or processing of wood

CLASS 43 – ELECTRIC

A wiring diagram or schematic must accompany all electric and electronic exhibits

Lot 1: – Article made in the 4-H electric project
- Science exhibit explaining some phase of electricity. Display may not exceed 12" x 24" x 36"

CLASS 44 – BICYCLE

(To be eligible to participate in the State Fair Bike Event, youth will have to have done the following:)

1. Have attended Pedal Power Camp in the last three years or be recommended by agent for outstanding bike project work
2. Have conducted two community activities within the calendar year
3. Have participated in one bicycle club or community activity within the year. (This includes exhibiting and receiving a blue ribbon at the county fair.) Unlimited number of state fair trips

Lot 1: Mechanical exhibit – examples: choosing a bike, traffic laws, hand signals, parts of a bike, how to repair a flat tire, styles and models of bikes, etc

CLASS 45 – SMALL ENGINES

NEW (Eligible for State Fair)

Lot 1: Mechanical exhibit – examples: types of engines, parts identification, how a carburetor works, safety, types of air cleaners, spark plugs, trouble-shooting, etc

CLASS 46 – AEROSPACE

MODEL ROCKETRY

Lot 1: – Model rocket built from kit (flyable). Rockets should be ready for flight except engine need not be installed. Recovery system should be in place and operative. Members should be familiar with the model rocketry safety code approved by the National Association of Rocketry
- Model rocket built from own design (flyable). Same rules apply as listed above plus member should know how to test the rocket for stability and how to make corrections if it is not stable
- Model rocket built from kit or own design (static or stationary model not designed to fly). Member will be evaluated on construction techniques and general knowledge of rocketry

MODEL AIRPLANE

Lot 2: – Model airplane built from kit (flyable). Models should be balanced and ready for flight. Do not include fuel for gas powered models. Radio equipment may be excluded for RC models
- Model airplane built from own design (flyable). Models should be balanced and ready for flight. For gas powered model do not include the fuel
- Model airplane built from kit or own design (static or stationary model not designed to fly). Member will be evaluated on construction techniques, knowledge of what makes an airplane fly and information about the aircraft represented by the model

FLYING

Lot 3: – Display of aviation principles – Display of in-flight procedures

ALL AEROSPACE UNITS – SCIENCE EXHIBITS

Lot 4: – Display of special interest in area of aviation or space

CLASS 47 – SAFETY

Members may use own ingenuity in designing the poster, or display. Poster or display should show some phase of the project carried on by the member

Lot 1: (Not eligible for State Fair)
- Safety education display or poster

Lot 2: – Written and oral presentation of a health and/or safety project activity, completed in the county or community by the member entering the exhibit to which the person entering belongs. 4-H members who enter this lot should be prepared to give a 5-10 minute illustrated talk on the safety activity using charts, slides, models, videos, etc., during entry day also

CLASS 48 – HEALTH

Members may use own ingenuity in designing the poster, or display. Poster or display should show some phase of the project carried on by the member.

Lot 1: (Not eligible for State Fair)
- Health education display or poster.

Lot 2: – Written and oral presentation of a health project activity, completed in the county or community by the member entering the exhibit or by a group of members or a 4-H club to which the person entering the exhibit belongs. The new health/safety record should be used for the written report. 4-H members who enter this lot should be prepared to give a 5-10 minute illustrated talk on the health activity using charts, slides, models, videos, etc., during entry day also

CLASS 49 – FOREST RESOURCES

The exhibit shall not exceed 12" deep x 24" wide x 36" high

For information and ideas on beginning projects for this class see 411-BU-3647 "Forest Resources Project Beginning Level Member Record and Activity Book." Exhibits should include a project title and your name

BEGINNING LEVEL – ADOPT-A-TREE

Lot 1: – Tree Identification – Collect six leaves or needles with twigs and identify them with their common name. Leaves (or needles) with twigs should be mounted on stiff backing such as cardboard or tagboard. Common name should be printed near the identified leaf/needle
- Forest Products – Display photographs of six products/uses from the forest. Photographs should be mounted on stiff backing such as cardboard or tagboard. Include the name of the products/uses to identify the photographs
- My Favorite Tree – Prepare a report with drawings about your favorite tree. Report should include name of tree, drawings or pictures of tree, facts and uses of the tree and other appropriate information. Report should be bound, with a project title and your name on the front page

INTERMEDIATE LEVEL

See 4-H Forest Resources Intermediate Member's Manuals for further project descriptions

Lot 2: – Forestry and You – Displays showing layers of the forest, renewable versus non-renewable resources, forestry careers.
- Name that Tree – Displays showing leaf and twig identification, taxonomic keys, tree road maps
- A Day in the Life of a Tree – Displays showing tree growth, annual ring cross-sections, make a seed collection
- Change in the Forest – Displays showing forest succession, wildlife specialists versus generalists
- Finding Your Way – Displays showing compass courses, maps you make
- Measuring the Forest – Displays showing tree and forest measurements.

ADVANCED LEVEL

Lot 3 – Fire – Displays showing fire's affect on the forest.
- Silviculture – Displays showing how trees grow, forest types, harvesting methods.
- Insects and Diseases of the Forest – Displays showing entomology of the forest, pathology of the forest
- Wood products – Displays showing forest products, including maple syrup production, wood products, Christmas trees.
- Multiple Resources – Displays showing other resources of the forest, including recreation, wildlife and watershed.
- Specialized Woodlands – Displays showing specialized woodland management, including shelterbelts/windbreaks and urban forestry

CLASS 50 – EXPLORING THE ENVIRONMENT

No State Fair trip for this project.

Lot 1 – Environment – Choose one living thing in the forest, field or stream. Develop a display to describe its "ecosystem".
- Environment – Display on environmental pollution – describe the pollution, causes, effects on people and other living things, methods to correct the situation
- Safety – Display showing safety practices and/or study equipment to use when taking a hike in the forest, through the field or stream.
- Plants – Identify, mount and label a plant book of 10 different Minnesota plants. Select a theme such as trees, shrubs, weeds, wildlife food or shelter, human food, survival food for humans, poisonous plants, wild flowers, aquatic plants, plants for beauty, food, medicine and/or flavorings, etc
- Plants – Diary of a favorite tree, shrub, or other plant
- Plants – A display showing how plants grow including effect of soil, water, air and sun on growth
- Insects – Identify, mount, and label 10 insects of Minnesota. Use a theme like: Insects of the forest, insects of the field, aquatic insects, insects beneficial to people, insects harmful to people
- Soil – Display showing features of soils such as color, structure, texture, differences in forest and field soils
- Animals – A display of 10 animal signs – animal tracks, animal homes or animal foods
- Animals – An animal book of 10 wild or aquatic animals of Minnesota including pictures/drawings and information on habits, foods and shelter needs.
- Animals – A display describing the ecology (food pyramid) of a farm pond.
- Birds – Bird book of 10 Minnesota birds including pictures/drawings of birds and information on habits, foods, nesting, coloration, differences in species between forest and field
- Erosion – Display showing erosion control practices such as minimum tillage, terraces, contour strips, grassed waterways, field windbreaks, water control structures, etc
- Careers – Display on careers on themes such as forestry, entomology, agriculture, and/or wildlife
- Other

CLASS 51 – SHOOTING SPORTS

This exhibit may not exceed 12" deep x 24" wide x 36" high, except that a gun, bow and arrow, or taxidermy item may be included in a display and will not be considered in the calculations of the dimensions.

Lot 1: A display showing one of the following
- Safety – Safety techniques applied to shooting activities. Examples are: range commands and safety; eye and ear protection, cleaning a firearm, dressing for safety, first aid and survival skills or
- Archery Shooting Skills, Shotgun Shooting Skills, Air Pistol Shooting Skills, Rifle Shooting Skills, or Muzzle Loading Shooting Skills – Examples: basic safety rules, basic parts and functions of each piece of equipment, care and maintenance, accessories or positions. No explosive materials allowed or
- Wildlife Biology/Wildlife Management – basic concepts of wildlife management. Examples: waterfowl wing board, birdhouse trails, game animal habitat requirements, history of game management, etc
- History and classification of trapping, hunting, firearms, and nongame wildlife
- Sportsmanship – ethical behavior and responsibility. Effects of values to wildlife of modern game laws and regulations or
- Game Identification – a display illustrating key field identification features of a group of game animals; distinguishing various species of puddle ducks, diving ducks, big game, etc., differences among 5 look-alike species of upland game birds, etc
- Junior Leadership – Show your work as a Junior Leader in your Shooting Sports Club
- Game Cookery – Game that is preserved or prepared for current table use with nutrition information included
- Taxidermy and associated activities.
- Project activities not applicable to the items listed above – gunsmithing, orienteering, wildlife photography. Because of limited floor space, exhibits must not take up more than 20 square feet of space
- Other

CLASS 52 – WILDLIFE

A display may not exceed 12" deep x 24" wide x 36" high except that a birdhouse or bird feeder may be included in a display and will not be considered in the calculations of dimensions

Lot 1: A display showing one of the technical facets of wildlife biology
- A display showing the life cycle of your favorite animal.
- Birdhouse with information such as: bird to be used for, number of broods per year, size of clutch, incubation time, age before flight, benefits to man, winter habitat, etc
- Homemade bird book of 10 local birds including pictures or drawings of birds and reports of habits, nesting, food, etc
- Homemade bird feeder with information such as species of bird intended for, types and/or samples of feed used, where and how it will be mounted.
- A display of life-size pencil drawings or plaster casts of at least 5 animal tracks showing individual footprints and trail patterns.
- An animal book of 10 wild animals of Minnesota. Describe habitat, food and shelter needs.
- A wildlife management plan – show practices related to land use and forest management for wildlife.
- Mammal skulls properly cleaned and labeled with the proper common and scientific names (genus and species) for each animal.
- Animal tagging (branding) process and an explanation of the usefulness of the process.
- Animal aging technique with an explanation of the process and its usefulness. Tooth wear for deer, wing or feather wear for gallinaceous birds (except ring-neck pheasant) and waterfowl are examples of appropriate techniques.
- Special projects – a display or exhibit showing a concept or idea you've studied in the wildlife project. This exhibit must relate to wildlife and/or ecological chain

CLASS 53 – FISHING

Exhibit may not exceed 12" deep x 24" wide x 36" high, except that a fishing rod or taxidermy mount of any length may be included in a display and will not be considered in the calculations of the dimensions

A display showing one of the following aspects of the fishing project.

Lot 1 – Fish Identification – 10 fish of Minnesota: describe their habitat and food needs
- Life History – Develop a panel display explaining the life history of a Minnesota fish.
- A model or exhibit identifying the internal and external parts of a fish.
- Safety – Safety practices and techniques that are related to fishing or boating.
- A fisheries management plan – show practices related to the development and control of fish populations.
- Water quality – Examples of how it affects the fish ecosystem
- Fishing knots – Identify how and where each knot is used.
- Fishing equipment – Fishing equipment which is made or repaired. Examples are: lures (flies, spinners, plastic baits, plugs, or jig), fishing rods and reels, ice fishing rig or other fishing equipment
- Natural baits – use examples of at least five kinds of natural bait and how they are used, captured, cared for and transported
- Artificial lures – display how the lures use color, flash, sound, smell or action to attract fish
- High technology fishing accessories – advantages and limitations of at least two types
- Fish cleaning and preparation – care of, cleaning fish, nutrition and recipes
- Fish trophies – show fish carvings, fish prints, fish casts, head mounts of fish or fish taxidermy.
- Careers – vocations and careers that relate to fisheries
- Other displays – other displays which demonstrate what the member has learned and accomplished in the fishing sports project

CLASS 54 – ENTOMOLOGY

Exhibits selected for State Fair must have at least 50 adult insects representing 8 orders and be in a display case 18" x 24" x 3" and must be placed horizontally. State Fair exhibitors can only come from the Junior and Senior division. Judging of exhibits must not be affected by the display case, except for the selection of exhibit for the State Fair. Members who have been in the project longer than one year must improve and increase their collection each year. Specimens must be properly pinned, mounted, labeled, and identified to the correct order. Live exhibits (bee or ant colonies) will be accepted for the State Fair if the exhibit can be self-sustaining for 14 days without special care

BEGINNERS

Lot 1: Collection of at least 25 different kinds of adult insects. You are not required to identify specimens but place them into insect order.

JUNIOR AND ADVANCED

Lot 2 – Collection of at least 50 adult insects representing at least the eight major orders of insects or
- Single order collection such as Coleoptera, Lepidoptera, larval collections, life history displays, exhibit of economic pests of a specific crop such as insects attacking corn, etc

CLASS 55 – GEOLOGY

ROCKS AND MINERALS

Lot 1: – 24 rocks, minerals, or fossils from within the state of Minnesota. Specimens should be approximately 2" x 2" or smaller and attached to backboard 18" x 24" or displayed in glass topped cases of the same model as used by entomologists. Label each specimen using the label described on page 7 of the geology manual. Size of label may be reduced to fit display case, if needed. Secure specimens so they will not fall if case is set on its edge. Member must have a knowledge of how specimens are identified as to rock or fossil type.
- 48 rocks or minerals on a theme such as metamorphism, weathering, quartz minerals, ores, or a theme of your own choosing. Use same label and display suggestions as listed above. Secure specimens. Member must have a knowledge of how specimens are identified as to rock or fossil type.
- Soft Rock Special – 24 fossils of which 50% are of Minnesota origin. Label each specimen with class name (such as brachiopod, pelecypod, etc.) and the general name (such as strophomena), horizon (such as Decorah shale) and location. Secure specimens. Glass topped box recommended. Member must have a knowledge of whether a fossil represents a plant or animal as well as what fossils are used for
- Iron Ore Display – display the 9 ore bearing minerals in Minnesota: hematite, goethite, limonite, magnetite, taconite, pyrite, manganite, pyrolusite, rhodonite. Glass topped box recommended. Secure specimens. Member must have a knowledge of how these iron minerals form and how iron and steel are made
- Display of at least 5 different polished rock types used to make decorative items such as paper weights and jewelry. Include at least one rock from Minnesota. Member must be able to identify the types of rocks used and have an unpolished specimen of each rock type accompanying the polished version. Include information on techniques and procedures used. Display case must be 18" x 24" and have a locked glass top. Rock specimens and jewelry must be attached to case so they will not fall if case is set on its edge
- Other

OUR WORLD OF WATER

Posters should not exceed 22"x28". Displays should not exceed 12" deep x 24" wide x 36" high

Lot 2 – Display to show one or more of the unique physical properties of water
- Display to show the hydrologic or water cycle
- Display showing the quantities and uses made of water by families, municipalities, industries, animals and plants.
- Display on water quality or management – pollution, conservation, water quality standards, etc.

Lot 3 – Science exhibit to show the science how's and why's dealing with the principles of geology and natural earth sciences. The exhibit should not exceed 12" deep x 24" wide x 36" high.

CLASS 56 – WATER/WETLANDS

Lot 1:
- Exhibit to show one or more of the unique physical properties of water.
- Display to show the hydrologic or water cycle.
- Display showing the quantities and uses made of water by families, municipalities, industries, animals and plants.
- Display on water quality of management – pollution, conservation, water quality standards, etc.
- Other

CLASS 57 – PHOTOGRAPHY

Premiums: Blue $3, Red $2, White $1
Science Exhibit: $2, $1.50, $1

4-H members must be enrolled in the unit in which they exhibit. All photos must be taken/produced by exhibitor during the current project year. Snapshot size photos or still video prints (4"x6" maximum) should be mounted on 14"x22" neutral tone (off-white, tan, gray, charcoal or black) poster board. Adhesive photo corners should not be used for mounting. Enlargements should not exceed 11"x14" and should be mounted with appropriate size matting (i.e. 5"x7" print with 8"x10" mat, 8"x10" print with 11"x14" mat, 11"x14" print with 16"x20" mat). Maximum size mounting is 16"x20". Neutral tone mats are suggested when mounting enlargements. Shrink wrap or other protective coverings will be removed before display and judging. Lettering should not distract from the picture(s). Additional artwork is not acceptable.

Photographs may be cropped. Exhibits with frames or glass will not be accepted. Enlargements are acceptable only in lot specified.

Exhibitor's name, address, phone number, age, county, club and exhibit class and lot number should be clearly printed on the back of the exhibit.

ADVENTURES WITH YOUR CAMERA (Prints Processed Commercially)

Exhibitors should know materials in 4-H Photography Manual I – "Adventures With Your Camera".

Lot 1: – A photo story of five to seven photographs
- Four close-up photographs of different people
- Four pictures – one each of a person, landscape, building and animal.
- Four pictures illustrating at least 2 different seasons of the year (need not be the same scene).
- Four of the best photos you have taken this year

EXPLORING PHOTOGRAPHY (Prints or Slides Processed Commercially)

Exhibitors should know materials in 4-H Photography manuals "Adventures With Your Camera" and "Exploring Photography".

Lot 2 – A Photo Story of five to seven pictures.
- Five candid action photos of different people.
- Four photos, one of each texture, pattern, shape and contrast.
- Four photos illustrating at least 3 different seasons of the year (need not be the same scene)
- Create a panorama of 3-5 snapshot-size pictures by using a 35mm camera or still video camera. Note: maximum mounting board size is 14" x 36" for this lot only
- One enlargement of any subject.

ADVENTURES WITH ADJUSTABLE CAMERAS
(Prints or Slides Processed Commercially)

Exhibitor should know information in 4-H Photography Manuals "Adventures with Your Camera", "Exploring Photography" and "Adventures with Adjustable Cameras".

Lot 3: – A photo story of five to seven photographs
- Do four of the following:
  - Indoor picture using existing light
  - Photo taken with accessory close-up equipment
  - Photo showing effective use of depth of field
  - Candid or action photo of a person
  - A photo of a person outdoors using fill-in flash or reflector fill
  - Outdoor nighttime exposure of 2 seconds or more
  - Indoor, still-life picture using more than one light
- Four photos illustrating at least 3 different seasons of the year (need not be the same scene)
- Four to six photographs on a common theme (patriotism, human emotions, environmental issues, my hometown, etc.).
- One enlargement of any subject. Note: size determined by rules section above.
- Computer enhanced enlargement of any photograph. Original photographic print must be placed in an envelope and attached to the back of the exhibit

DARKROOM TECHNIQUES
(Prints or Slides Taken and Processed By The Member)

Negatives of the prints must accompany the 4-H'er at the time of the conference judging. Exhibitor should know materials in 4-H Photography Manuals "Adventures With Your Camera", "Exploring Photography" and "Darkroom Techniques"

Lot 4: – A photo story of five to seven prints/slides
- One enlargement of any subject – 10-20 of your best slides, exhibited in a plastic slide sheet

SLIDE SHOW

Exhibitor should know materials in 4-H Photography Manuals "Adventures With Your Camera", "Exploring Photography", "Adventures With Adjustable Cameras" and the "Slide Show Booklet"

Lot 5: – Slide show of 20 or more 35mm slides with written script. Slides should be in plastic slide sheets
- Same as above but should include computer generated slides also

ADVANCED SKILLS IN PHOTOGRAPHY

Exhibitor should know materials in 4-H Photography Manuals "Adventures With Your Camera", "Exploring Photography", "Adventures With Adjustable Cameras", "Slide Show Booklet" and applicable advanced skills pamphlets

Rules for Advanced Skills Lot:

Negatives of all exposures taken to prepare the exhibit (including those not used) must accompany the 4-H'er at the time of conference judging. Individual enlargements should be exhibited on museum quality matting. Other required materials (as stated for each lot) must accompany the 4-H'er at the time of the conference judging

Lot 6: – Photo Journalism – A typed feature story (3-5 pictures) photographed with proper cropping marks and captions. Text length 300 to 500 words
- Portrait Photography – Minimum of three portrait enlargements, not more than one of each of children, couples, groups, individuals, animals, etc. Diagrams of camera and light set-up for each enlargement must accompany the 4-H'er at the time of the conference judging
- Commercial Photography – Minimum of three enlargements, not more than one each: buildings, products, landscapes, still-lifes, animals, etc. Diagrams of cameras and light set up for each photo must accompany the 4-H'er at the time of the conference judging
- Advanced Darkroom – Minimum of three enlargements not more than one of each subject. A quality contact print of the negative must be attached to the back of each print exhibited. Evaluation will include the 4-H'er explaining the techniques/controls used to make the enlargements
- Close-Up Photography – Minimum of three enlargements not more than one of each subject using at least one of the following techniques: bellows, extension tubes, screw-on close-up filters, microscope or macro lens. Include narrative describing magnification, camera, close-up accessories and lighting set-up of each photo exhibited
- Minimum of three computer enhanced enlargements of different photographs. Original photographic prints must be placed in an envelope and attached to the back of each exhibit.

Photographic reproductions of selected 4-H photography exhibits may be made during the State Fair for possible use in future 4-H photography training seminars.

Lot 7. – Science Exhibit

CLASS 58 – VIDEO PRODUCTION

All videos exhibited must have been made by the exhibitor or their video production team during the current project year. At least 50% of the finished video must be shot by the exhibitor during the current project year. Portions from other sources must be documented by the exhibitor. The member's name, address, telephone number, age, club, exhibit class and lot number should be clearly printed on the tape cassette, its cover and all other items required as part of an exhibit. Please let us know that you will be exhibiting a video before judging day, so we can have a monitor and VCR available. Members may exhibit in Lots 1-3 and/or Lot 4 depending on their level of expertise. All exhibits must be recorded at "SP" (Standard 120 minute speed)

Any 4-H video exhibit which appears to contain copyrighted material will not be publicly displayed unless the exhibitor has written permission from the producer to use the material in the video.

BEGINNING VIDEO

Lot 1 – Create a poster (22" wide x 28" high) which illustrates one of the following:
  - how a video camera works
  - how a VCR works
  - how to take care of video equipment
- Read the instruction manual for your camera. Then make a 3-5 minute video which demonstrates the functions of your camera. Bring your instruction manual with you for conference judging
- Make a video which shows your most creative camera work this year. Include at least 10 different shots using various techniques. (Shots from different "shoots" should be copied onto a single tape for judging – they need not be related or tell a story). A 3-5 minute segment of the exhibitor's choice will be used for evaluation

INTERMEDIATE VIDEO

Create video on one subject. A 3-5 minute segment of the exhibitor's choice will be used for evaluation. A one page explanation, outline, or storyboard describing production pre planning is required as a part of the exhibit. OPTIONAL: Title/credits, if used, should not exceed 30 seconds. Soundtrack, if used, should enhance the video

Lot 2 – A video tape made by using the functions built into your camcorder or camera and recorder system (no editing)
- A video tape made by using two video recorders (one for playback and one for recording) to copy the scenes you have shot into the proper sequence (simple editing)
- A video tape made by using a device which controls both playback and record decks to copy the scenes you have shot into the proper sequence (editing controller)
- A video tape made by using a combination of computer technology and traditional video

ADVANCED VIDEO

A notebook which includes pre-production plans, the projected audience, program objectives, the storyboard, script and production activity log is required as part of the exhibit in this unit. Titles/credits and a soundtrack are required

Exhibits in these lots may be produced by two people who share production responsibilities equally. A log should be kept which clearly shows each person's responsibilities and activities throughout the production

Lot 3 – Create a 60-second Public Service Announcement. All titles/credits should be in addition to the primary 60 seconds.
- Create a video which can be used to inform, sell, train, or entertain viewers on one specific subject. A 3-5 minute segment of the exhibitor's choice will be used for evaluation
- A video production output to tape, which incorporates computer technology. A 3-5 minute segment of the exhibitor's choice will be used for evaluation

TECHNICAL VIDEO PRODUCTION TEAM MEMBER

This lot is for members who have worked as part of a video production team (school, cable co., etc.) on a regular basis (minimum of 4 productions during the current project year). The exhibitor must be currently enrolled in the video project.

Lot 4 – Create a video which shows a summary of your best work as a video production team member during the current project year. A written report of your activities, responsibilities, and the equipment you have worked with as a team member is required as a part of your exhibit. This report should be brought to the conference judging. A 3-5 minute segment of the exhibitor's choice will be used for evaluation

CLASS 59 – CITIZENSHIP

Premiums: Blue $3, Red $2, White $1

The Citizenship Project Summary Record from that unit must be part of the exhibit and placed in the 4-H Citizenship notebook.

The notebook should be the standard size 3-ring, loose leaf hard cover style. Member's may use their creativity as to how they wish to put the notebook together. The member's name, county and unit number should be clearly written on the inside of the front cover

The project or activities exhibited and reported may be what the 4-H'er did as an individual and/or the results of their taking major leadership responsibilities for club centered 4-H Citizenship activities, learning experiences and community projects

ME, MY FAMILY AND FRIENDS AND MY NEIGHBORHOOD

Lot 1: A poster or display showing some aspect of a Citizenship project

MY CLUB AND GROUPS

Lot 2 – Present at least three activities such as a. The members pledge written
  b. The meeting check list
  c. Description of the mock meeting conducted to demonstrate how to conduct a meeting
  d. Description of how club selects officers and how committee members are determined
  e. Others as determined by exhibitor
- Select and present evaluation sheets from 5 or 6 local 4-H meetings and how you scored them. Include a 200-250 word short story telling how you evaluated the meetings and significant changes made

MY COMMUNITY

Lot 3 – Select and present at least five community component studies which you or your club conducted under your leadership. Include copies of your interview outline, and if available, pictures of you conducting an interview.
- Report on three Community Projects and/or activities which you or your club completed under your leadership. Include Plans of Action as well as the evaluation of each.

MY HERITAGE

Lot 4 – The family tree and community – Describe the process and any difficulties and surprises that you encountered as you studied and developed your family history. Report on their settlement and life as part of their community. Include at least two other activities, i.e. family memories, family traditions, maps made, etc., and pictures taken to complete selective activities in parts II and III. (You may use pages 12-13 of unit V or other sheets printed for family genealogy record)
- Knowing/Understanding by State – Illustrate through words and pictures what you have learned from parts IV and V. Include three or more activities from Unit IV or V and three more activities from Unit V

MY GOVERNMENT

Lot 5 – Identify and describe three examples of the activities you used as a project member and/or junior leader to illustrate and/or teach Part I – American Democracy and Part II – Division of Power in a Democracy. Part I describe at least one other Citizenship activity that either you or your club did to understand or practice better government or demonstrate how our democracy works.
- Select and present at least three examples of activities you or your club under your leadership did to help the club to better understand Political Parties in a democracy (Part III) and Voters in a democracy (Parts III and/or IV). Also list career possibilities related to government which have been discussed with the club.

MY WORLD

Lot 6 – Demonstrate three new skills or activities completed from the "Things to Do" suggestions in Unit VII. Presentations may use finished products, notebooks, maps, charts, slide/tapes, video, song/dance, etc., to illustrate what you have learned
- Part I/Part II
- Part III/Part IV
- Part V or presentation of 4-H International cross-cultural home stay experience

CLASS 60 – INTERNATIONAL - GLOBAL CONNECTIONS

Premiums: Blue $3, Red $2, White $1

Lot 1:
- Educational Display

CLASS 61 – CLOWNING

Premiums: Blue $3, Red $2, White $1

Lot 1:
- Homemade Prop With Written Explanation: Bring your homemade prop along with a written explanation describing how you made it, how you use it, the audience reaction, and any other information you feel is important. Display in an 8-1/2" x 11" booklet with binder. Pictures showing how you use your prop should be included.
- Scrapbook of Current Year's Clowning Experiences: Included should be at least 3 different experiences such as fairs, parades, nursing home, day care visits, project training meetings, 4-H promotion, etc. The scrapbook must contain a written statement about what you have gained from your clowning experiences. It should be in a 3-ring type binder (10" x 12" maximum size) and correctly labeled.
- Display: (3-dimension - 12" deep x 24" wide x 36" high) Educational/instructional poster could include but is not limited to: type of clowns, history of clowning, developing a prop, putting on a face, developing a character and a clown kit (make-up, costume, wig, props, etc.). Personal experiences poster could include but is not limited to: teaching others, leadership skills and interacting with others.
- Costume/Make-up Application: This exhibit must include your costume and a written description and picture of complete character on one 8-1/2" x 11" page displayed in a 3-ring clear plastic page protector. You will apply make-up for the judge and then dress in complete character for final judging. Your costume and description will be displayed during the fair.
- One-person Skit or Performance: A 3-5 minute skit wearing a costume appropriate for the skit. Examples are a magic show, juggling performance, pantomime, balloons, etc.
- Clowning Journal: A written documentation of the current year's clowning experiences, NO PICTURES. It must include information on what you have gained from your clowning experiences. Use an 8-1/2" x 11" notebook/binder with a cover page.

CLASS 62 – CREATIVE ARTS

Emphasis is on the creative process and the employment of design elements and principles. The art object should demonstrate an exploration and experimentation with materials, tools and practiced skill.

STATE FAIR TRIP MUST NOT BE A KIT OR CRAFT ITEM.

All art to be appropriately finished, ready to mount in exhibit (i.e. matted, framed, hooks, bases, rods, etc. as necessary)

Ages 5th Grade & Under

Lot 1: Picture or art object which is original.

Ages 6th Grade & Over

Lot 2: Picture or art object which is original.

CLASS 63 – SELF DETERMINED

Premiums: Blue $3, Red $2, White $1

An American Festival has entertainment for all ages

Two day festival Saturday and Sunday, June 27 and 28, offers a variety of events for all interests

Varied entertainment with something for everyone of all ages is included in An American Festival to be staged Saturday and Sunday, June 27 and 28, in Thief River Falls. Many of the events will be at the Pennington county fairgrounds and most will have free admission.

Events will include a tractor pull, dairy cattle show, flea market, fun run, Miss Thief River Falls Pageant, craft show, kite show, parade, lumberjack shows, amateur talent contest, karaoke, car show and many others plus a $10,000 fireworks display as a concluding event.

Lumberjack Show

Scheer' Lumberjack Show of Champions from Hayward, WI, will present two shows Sunday, June 28, beginning at 2 and 7 p.m. in front of the grandstand at the fairgrounds. There is no admission charge. The shows will include log rolling, underhand chopping, cross-cut sawing, ax throwing, chain saw carving and other events, including rock climbing.

Amateur lumberjacks on local teams will also compete against one another and the clock in five events—ax throwing, cross-cut sawing, firewood carry, cant hook log roll and choker and chain race. Two teams will be competing at the same time with the winners advancing to the finals.

Entries in the amateur lumberjack contest to date include Tony Dorn, Inc., Larry Korpi, Kezar Music, City of Thief River Falls, Evergreen Eating Emporium, Rauscher Investments, Hartz Foods and Northwest Beverage. A total of 12 teams will be accepted on a first come, first served basis by pre-registration only.

Parade

Sunday's American Festival parade will form from 11:30 a.m. to 12 noon on Barzen Avenue south of highways 1 and 59 on the west end of the city. The parade will begin at 12:30 p.m. and proceed south down Barzen Avenue to First Street, east on First Street to Knight Avenue, north on Knight Avenue to Fourth Street and west on Fourth Street to the fairgrounds.

More than 60 entries have already been received for the parade and advance registration is encouraged by calling the Chamber of Commerce office at 681-3720. Lincoln high school and Bemidji high school bands are among the parade entries. Trophies will be awarded for first through third places in the crowd favorite category and for the Chamber of Commerce choice, mayor's pick, best commercial, best non-commercial and best farm implement entries.

Sparkler Sprint

Sparkler Sprint is either a 5K (3.1 miles) or 10K (6.2 miles) running race which begins at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 27. There are divisions for males and females in 12 and younger, 13-19, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50-59 and 60 and older. Entry fee is $12 prior to June 26 or $15 on race day. All runners will receive a t-shirt with medals to the first, second and third place males and females in each division. Course records are held by Tom Ellingson at 16:44 and Becky Mooney at 20:56 in the 5K and Gary Schafer at 35:11 and Darla Miller in 44:26 in the 10K.

A Little Sparkler Sprint will begin at 8:30 a.m. and is open to children seven years of age and under. All participants will receive a ribbon. Registration is $2 to enter or $7 including a t-shirt.

Fireworks

More than $10,000 in fireworks will be fired on Sunday at dusk

Juvenile protection hearings may now be open to the public

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Some juvenile protection hearings opened to the public on Monday, June 22, in Pennington county and 11 other counties in Minnesota. Previously closed to public scrutiny, some of the juvenile proceedings have been opened to the public and media in accordance with a three-year pilot project approved by the Minnesota Supreme Court.

Proceedings open to the public and to the media in general, include those related to children in need of protection and services, child abuse and neglect, truancy, runaways and child prostitution.

"Our goal is to open some juvenile protection hearings so that the community has a better understanding of the systems that serve families and so that the courts and related agencies can continue to improve," said Chief Justice Kathleen Blatz.

Ninth District Judge Dennis Murphy said the impetus for the change is the result of a number of factors. He said part of the reason has to do with concerns about "timely response" in Hennepin county. There's also a perception that because the proceedings have been closed to the public, that something has been hidden. This gives the public, he said, an opportunity to see first hand what happens in these proceedings.

There's also a hope that the openness or publicity will force parents to be more responsible. This could result in fewer reports of abuse.

Outsiders are also hoping that the publicity will result in a change to the presumption that children should remain with parents. They believe that for a child to have a chance at succeeding, the child should, in many cases, be removed from the home a lot earlier in the process.

But, there are also concerns being expressed about the new openness.

Pennington County Attorney Dave Olin said he could only speculate as to who or why anyone would be interested in attending these hearings. He also expressed concern that in a small town, the name of a parent would identify the juvenile.

In reflecting on the ramifications, Judges Murphy and Jorgenson are also concerned about what impact publicity could have on those whose interest should be with the child. Will it delay help? Will people try to use it to their advantage?

CHIPS

Monday afternoon in Pennington county, the first juvenile proceeding open to the public and attended only by two representatives of media was held and no one from the public. It was not an unusual case, according to Judge Larry Jorgenson. The issue before the court was a request to extend out-of-home placement in a foster home.

It was obvious officials are still uncomfortable and a little unsure of what can or can't be said in the presence of the media or public. Court officials and attorneys took extra precautions to not name the girl or her foster family.

The 14-year-old girl, her attorney, her father and step-mother were there along with her grandfather, her foster parent, County Attorney Dave Olin, and representatives of social services, as well as court personnel. It was a relatively short hearing, perhaps 15-minutes in length, during which the father and step-mother expressed no objection to the request. In fact, the father said she was probably better off in foster care.

The grandfather, who had provided as much care for the child as he could until he developed serious health problems, requested the

Construction is progressing at Cultural Center

Construction at the Multi-Events Cultural Center is progressing well, according to Bruce Ugelstad, architect for the firm representing the Joint Powers Board.

During a meeting of the Joint Powers Board Monday, June 22, Ugelstad said project utilities were 80 percent complete, the site grading progressing quickly, and the ditch diversion completed with the exception of grass for the ditch. The main issue for Ugelstad right now involves grading under the track. He said it was critical to have the asphalt for the track in by August. He hopes it will be done in the first week of July. After the surface has cured, it will be covered by a polyurethane material. Track meets might be held on the track next spring. Four 90-foot tall mast lighting poles could be in place by next week, and gravel will soon cover the parking lot. Ugelstad said, construction on the building on schedule.

Several board members expressed concern about grass seed and fertilizer to cover the exposed ditch diversion. During the second bid-letting grass seed and fertilizer for the ditch was not included because of a lack of funds. Funds raised following the bid letting will help pay for the costs. Board members, however, were also concerned about erosion control devices. Some devices (bales of hay and sheets of plastic) have been installed.

Upon further discussion, it was decided to wait to seed the ditch until August. It's getting too late to plant and contractors would not be able to put topsoil on the ditch until

Tiffany Lee enters Miss TRF Pageant

Tiffany Lee

(This is the last of eight in a series of articles about candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the official Miss America Preliminary Scholarship Pageant to be conducted Saturday, June 27, at 6:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. The winner will advance to Miss Minnesota competition in June of 1999.)

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Music has held a fascination for Tiffany Lee since she first started taking piano lessons in second grade, and the interest has expanded to voice lessons and performance as well as playing wind instruments.

Seventeen-year-old Tiffany is the daughter of David and Diane Lee of rural Thief River Falls. Her father is employed in the parts department at Evergreen Implement Company and her mother has an American Family Insurance agency. A 1998 Lincoln high school graduate, Tiffany has one brother, Ryan, age 11.

When Tiffany reached Franklin middle school she began playing trumpet in the school band. Her instrument selection may have been influenced by her dad, who also played trumpet. At Lincoln, however, she switched to French horn and was a member of the wind ensemble for two years as well as playing in the marching band and pep band.

She was a member of the Fine Line dance team from seventh through 10th grade, participating in several state competitions. As a junior and senior she sang in the Lincoln concert choir and was a member of the cast of the high school musical Guys and Dolls. She also went with the choir to New York City this spring to sing in Carnegie Hall and other locations.

Tiffany has taken voice lessons from Ada Smerek and Diane Johnson. She has sung solos and in the choir in church and sung at school and for funerals. For her Cast members of the children's musical "Charlotte's Web" include (from left), front, Nick Haven, Kari Frisch, Tiffany Sorenson and Ashley Schneider (kneeling); standing, Shari Knutson, Deb Jacobson, Ben Erickson and Diane Haven. Produced by the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council, the musical will be presented tonight (Wednesday) through Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Northland Community and Technical College theater. Admission is $6 and tickets may be purchased at Budget Electronics or at the door.

Community Arts Council sponsors Charlotte's Web

Charlotte's Web, the classic children's story by E.B. White, will be presented by local children under the direction of Kari Frisch June 24-27 at 7 p.m. at the Northland Community and Technical College theater in Thief River Falls.

Tickets for the Wednesday through Saturday performances are $6 each and available at Budget Electronics in downtown Thief River Falls and at the door one hour before each performance. The production is sponsored by the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council with supplementary funding through the Northwest Regional Development Commission.

The musical tale of Charlotte's Web tells of the unlikely friendship which takes place between a forlorn pig named Wilbur and a wise spider named Charlotte. They are joined by other barnyard characters as they sing and dance their way to a happy ending. The whimsical production has appeal to people of all ages.

Cast members include Ashley Schneider as Wilbur, Christina Schneider as Charlotte, Tiffany Sorenson as Fern, Nick Haven as Avery, Deb Jacobson as Homer Zuckerman, Shari Knudson as Edith Zuckerman, Ben Erickson as John Arable, Kari Frisch as Martha Arable, Yvette Dahlin as Goose, Peter Hoks as Gander, Melissa Zimmer as Lamb, Keila McCarty as Sheep, Amy Abercrombie as Owl, Philip Hoks as Bat, Carrie Dahlin as Templeton, Diane Haven as Lurvey and Kathy Olson as the announcer.

Technical direction is provided by Deb Jacobson with Jason Leach handling the lights and Matt Gustafson in-charge of sound.

Production of Charlotte's Web is the first in what local arts council members hope to be the start of an annual summer theater series.

"We're excited to be kicking off what we hope will become a strong tradition in Thief River Falls," said Jane Anderson, arts council president; "Many other area communities have had successful summer theater programs for years. Thief River Falls has the talent to do the same. Now we just need the support of the community to continue the program."

In addition to the children's play, the arts council will also present The Music Man at the end of July. Tickets for that production, directed by Heidi Hoks, will go on sale July 1.

Kari Thompson named Miss Congeniality

Miss Thief River Falls 1997-98, Kari Thompson of Red Lake Falls, was selected by contestants as co-Miss Congeniality at the Miss Minnesota Scholarship Pageant Saturday in Austin.

Kari shared the honor and $500 scholarship with Kimberly Findlay, Miss Morris.

Named Miss Minnesota was Megan West, Miss Winona, whose pageant talent number was a vocal solo. Miss Hiawatha Valley, Rebekka Eisenmenger, was first runner-up, Miss St. Paul, Jessica Kimpell, was second runner-up, and Miss Coon Rapids, Paige Swenson, was third runner up.

Two special scholarships were also awarded—an academic scholarship to Miss Austin, Gina Cummings, and the community service scholarship to Miss South Central Minnesota, Allyson Kath.

Kari said her week in Austin was made especially pleasant by her host family, Doug and Deb Reetz and their four children, Paul, Jim, Kelly and Christin. The family provided most meals and transportation as well as any other needs and gave us moral support as well.

"We were kept very, very busy every day," Kari said. "We had to learn several dance numbers this year because we had choreography in swimsuit and evening gown as well as the opening production number, so there was a lot of rehearsal required for those.

"We attended three noon luncheons where we introduced ourselves and told a little about our platforms, were taken by limo to make television promotion videos and live radio interviews, had a Friday night dance and social and a Saturday morning parade."

A little added excitement took place Saturday afternoon after the 14 contestants reported to the high school for a final pre-pageant rehearsal. The rehearsal had been underway only a few minutes when the order was given to go to the basement of the school.

"The weather was really threatening outside and we spent a couple of hours in the cafeteria in the base-

An American Festival has entertainment for all ages

Two day festival Saturday and Sunday, June 27 and 28, offers a variety of events for all interests

Varied entertainment with something for everyone of all ages is included in An American Festival to be staged Saturday and Sunday, June 27 and 28, in Thief River Falls. Many of the events will be at the Pennington county fairgrounds and most will have free admission.

Events will include a tractor pull, dairy cattle show, flea market, fun run, Miss Thief River Falls Pageant, craft show, kite show, parade, lumberjack shows, amateur talent contest, karaoke, car show and many others plus a $10,000 fireworks display as a concluding event.

Lumberjack Show

Scheer' Lumberjack Show of Champions from Hayward, WI, will present two shows Sunday, June 28, beginning at 2 and 7 p.m. in front of the grandstand at the fairgrounds. There is no admission charge. The shows will include log rolling, underhand chopping, cross-cut sawing, ax throwing, chain saw carving and other events, including rock climbing.

Amateur lumberjacks on local teams will also compete against one another and the clock in five events—ax throwing, cross-cut sawing, firewood carry, cant hook log roll and clinker and chain race. Two teams will be competing at the same time with the winners advancing to the finals.

Entries in the amateur lumberjack contest to date include Tony Dorn, Inc., Larry Korpi, Kezar Music, City of Thief River Falls, Evergreen Eating Emporium, Rauscher Investments, Hartz Foods and Northwest Beverage. A total of 12 teams will be accepted on a first come, first served basis by pre-registration only.

Parade

Sunday's American Festival parade will form from 11:30 a.m. to 12 noon on Barzen Avenue south of highways 1 and 59 on the west end of the city. The parade will begin at 12:30 p.m. and proceed south down Barzen Avenue to First Street, east on First Street to Knight Avenue, north on Knight Avenue to Fourth Street and west on Fourth Street to the fairgrounds.

More than 60 entries have already been received for the parade and advance registration is encouraged by calling the Chamber of Commerce office at 681-3720. Lincoln high school and Bemidji high school bands are among the parade entries. Trophies will be awarded for first through third places in the crowd favorite category and for the Chamber of Commerce choice, mayor's pick, best commercial, best non-commercial and best farm implement entries.

Sparkler Sprint

Sparkler Sprint is either a 5K (3.1 miles) or 10K (6.2 miles) running race which begins at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 27. There are divisions for males and females in 12 and younger, 13-19, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50-59 and 60 and older. Entry fee is $12 prior to June 26 or $15 on race day. All runners will receive a t-shirt with medals to the first, second and third place males and females in each division. Course records are held by Tom Ellingson at 16:44 and Becky Mooney at 20:56 in the 5K and Gary Schafer at 35:11 and Dala Miller in 44:26 in the 10K.

A Little Sparkler Sprint will begin at 8:30 a.m. and is open to children seven years of age and under. All participants will receive a ribbon. Registration is $2 to enter or $7 including a t-shirt.

Fireworks

More than $10,000 in fireworks will be fired on Sunday at dusk

Juvenile protection hearings may now be open to the public

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Some juvenile protection hearings opened to the public on Monday, June 22, in Pennington county and 11 other counties in Minnesota. Previously closed to public scrutiny, some of the juvenile proceedings have been opened to the public and media in accordance with a three year pilot project approved by the Minnesota Supreme Court.

Proceedings open to the public and to the media in general, include those related to children in need of protection and services, child abuse and neglect, truancy, runaways and child prostitution.

"Our goal is to open some juvenile protection hearings so that the community has a better understanding of the systems that serve families and so that the courts and related agencies can continue to improve," said Chief Justice Kathleen Blatz.

Ninth District Judge Dennis Murphy said the impetus for the change is the result of a number of factors. He said part of the reason has to do with concerns about "timely response" in Hennepin county. There's also a perception that because the proceedings have been closed to the public, that something has been hidden. This gives the public, he said, an opportunity to see first hand what happens in these proceedings.

There's also a hope that the openness or publicity will force parents to be more responsible. This could result in fewer reports of abuse.

Outsiders are also hoping that the publicity will result in a change to the presumption that children should remain with parents. They believe that for a child to have a chance at succeeding, the child should, in many cases, be removed from the home a lot earlier in the process.

But, there are also concerns being expressed about the new openness.

Pennington County Attorney Dave Olin said he could only speculate as to who or why anyone would be interested in attending these hearings. He also expressed concern that in a small town, the name of a parent would identify the juvenile.

In reflecting on the ramifications, Judges Murphy and Jorgenson are also concerned about what impact publicity could have on those whose interest should be with the child. Will it delay help? Will people try to use it to their advantage?

CHIPS

Monday afternoon in Pennington county, the first juvenile proceeding open to the public and attended only by two representatives of media was held and no one from the public. It was not an unusual case, according to Judge Larry Jorgenson. The issue before the court was a request to extend out-of-home placement in a foster home.

It was obvious officials are still uncomfortable and a little unsure of what can or can't be said in the presence of the media or public. Court officials and attorneys took extra precautions to not name the girl or her foster family.

The 14-year old girl, her attorney, her father and step-mother were there along with her grandfather, her foster parent, County Attorney Dave Olin, and representatives of social services, as well as court personnel. It was a relatively short hearing, perhaps 15-minutes in length, during which the father and step-mother expressed no objection to the request. In fact, the father said she was probably better off in foster care.

The grandfather, who had provided as much care for the child as he could until he developed serious health problems, requested the Cast members of the children's musical "Charlotte's Web" include (from left), front, Nick Haven, Keri Frisch, Tiffany Sorenson and Ashley Schneider (kneeling); standing, Shari Knutson, Deb Jacobson, Ben Erickson and Diane Haven. Produced by the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council, the musical will be presented tonight (Wednesday) through Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Northland Community and Technical College theater. Admission is $6 and tickets may be purchased at Budget Electronics or at the door.

Construction is progressing at Cultural Center

Construction at the Multi-Events Cultural Center is progressing well, according to Bruce Ugelstad, architect for the firm representing the Joint Powers Board.

During a meeting of the Joint Powers Board Monday, June 22, Ugelstad said project utilities were 80 percent complete, the site grading progressing quickly, and the ditch diversion completed with the exception of grass for the ditch. The main issue for Ugelstad right now involves grading under the track. He said it was critical to have the asphalt for the track in by August. He hopes it will be done in the first week of July. After the surface has cured, it will be covered by a polyurethane material. Track meets might be held on the track next spring. Four 90-foot tall [illegible] lighting poles could be in place by next week, and gravel will soon cover the parking lot. Ugelstad said, construction on the building on schedule.

Several board members expressed concern about grass seed and fertilizer to cover the exposed ditch diversion. During the second bid letting grass seed and fertilizer for the ditch was not included because of a lack of funds. Funds raised following the bid letting will help pay for the costs. Board members, however, were also concerned about erosion control devices. Some devices (bales of hay and sheets of plastic) have been installed.

Upon further discussion, it was decided to wait to seed the ditch until August. It's getting too late to plant and contractors would not be able to put topsoil on the ditch until

Tiffany Lee enters Miss TRF Pageant

Tiffany Lee

(This is the last of eight in a series of articles about candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the official Miss America Preliminary Scholarship Pageant to be conducted Saturday, June 27, at 6:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. The winner will advance to Miss Minnesota competition in June of 1999.)

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Music has held a fascination for Tiffany Lee since she first started taking piano lessons in second grade, and the interest has expanded to voice lessons and performance as well as playing wind instruments.

Seventeen-year old Tiffany is the daughter of David and Diane Lee of rural Thief River Falls. Her father is employed in the parts department at Evergreen Implement Company and her mother has an American Family Insurance agency. A 1998 Lincoln high school graduate, Tiffany has one brother, Ryan, age 11.

When Tiffany reached Franklin middle school she began playing trumpet in the school band. Her instrument selection may have been influenced by her dad, who also played trumpet. At Lincoln, however, she switched to French horn and was a member of the wind ensemble for two years as well as playing in the marching band and pep band.

She was a member of the Fine Line dance team from seventh through 10th grade, participating in several state competitions. As a junior and senior she sang in the Lincoln concert choir and was a member of the cast of the high school musical Guys and Dolls. She also went with the choir to New York City this spring to sing in Carnegie Hall and other locations.

Tiffany has taken voice lessons from Ada Smerek and Diane Johnson. She has sung solos and in the choir at church and sung at school and for funerals. For her

Community Arts Council sponsors Charlotte's Web

Charlotte's Web, the classic children's story by E. B. White, will be presented by local children under the direction of Kari Frisch June 24-27 at 7 p.m. at the Northland Community and Technical College theater in Thief River Falls.

Tickets for the Wednesday through Saturday performances are $6 each and available at Budget Electronics in downtown Thief River Falls and at the door one hour before each performance. The production is sponsored by the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council with supplementary funding through the Northwest Regional Development Commission.

The musical tale of Charlotte's Web tells of the unlikely friendship which takes place between a forlorn pig named Wilbur and a wise spider named Charlotte. They are joined by other barnyard characters as they sing and dance their way to a happy ending. The whimsical production has appeal to people of all ages.

Cast members include Ashley Schneider as Wilbur, Christina Schneider as Charlotte, Tiffany Sorenson as Fern, Nick Haven as Avery, Deb Jacobson as Homer Zuckerman, Shari Knudson as Edith Zuckerman, Ben Erickson as John Arable, Kari Frisch as Martha Arable, Yvette Dahlin as Goose, Peter Hoks as Gander, Melissa Zimmer as Lamb, Keila McCarty as Sheep, Amy Abercrombie as Owl, Philip Hoks as Bat, Carrie Dahlin as Templeton, Diane Haven as Lurvey and Kathy Olson as the announcer.

Technical direction is provided by Deb Jacobson with Jason Leach handling the lights and Matt Gustafson in charge of sound.

Production of Charlotte's Web is the first in what local arts council members hope to be the start of an annual summer theater series.

"We're excited to be kicking off what we hope will become a strong tradition in Thief River Falls," said June Anderson, arts council president. "Many other area communities have had successful summer theater programs for years. Thief River Falls has the talent to do the same. Now we just need the support of the community to continue the program."

In addition to the children's play, the arts council will also present The Music Man at the end of July. Tickets for that production, directed by Heidi Hoks, will go on sale July 1.

Kari Thompson named Miss Congeniality

Miss Thief River Falls 1997-98, Kari Thompson of Red Lake Falls, was selected by contestants as co-Miss Congeniality at the Miss Minnesota Scholarship Pageant Saturday in Austin.

Kari shared the honor and $500 scholarship with Kimberly Findlay, Miss Morris.

Named Miss Minnesota was Megan West, Miss Winona, whose pageant talent number was a vocal solo. Miss Hiawatha Valley, Rebekka Lisenmenger, was first runner-up. Miss St. Paul, Jessica Kimpell, was second runner-up, and Miss Coon Rapids, [illegible] Swenson, was third runner-up.

Two special scholarships were also awarded—an academic scholarship to Miss Austin, Gina Cummings, and the community service scholarship to Miss South Central Minnesota, Allyson Kath.

Kari said her week in Austin was made especially pleasant by her host family, Dinn and Deb Reetz and their four children, Paul, Jim, Kelly and Christin. The family provided most meals and transportation as well as any other needs and gave us moral support as well.

"We were kept very, very busy every day," Kari said. "We had to learn several dance numbers this year because we had choreography in swimsuit and evening gown as well as the opening production number, so there was a lot of rehearsal required for those.

"We attended three noon luncheons where we introduced ourselves and told a little about our platforms, were taken by limo to make television promotion videos and live radio interviews, had a Friday night dance and social and a Saturday morning parade."

A little added excitement took place Saturday afternoon after the 14 contestants reported to the high school for a final pre-pageant rehearsal. The rehearsal had been underway only a few minutes when the order was given to go to the basement of the school.

"The weather was really threatening outside and we spent a couple of hours in the cafeteria in the base-pageant talent number she will sing On My Own from the musical Les Miserables.

A variety of community activities has also kept her busy. She has been employed at Valley Home and Oakland Park Nursing Home, a very active member of the Smiley 4-H club for 10 years including a term as president, won two state fair trips, raises and shows sheep, goats and rabbits and serves as secretary of the Minnesota Lamb and Wool Producers Association.

She teaches Sunday school and spends two to three hours a week volunteering at Oakland Park Nursing Home.

If crowned Miss Thief River Falls, her area of emphasis will focus on volunteerism, especially with the elderly and in nursing homes.

ment of the school," Kari said. "As a result our rehearsal was short but still ran late and made things a little more rushed in getting ready for the pageant."

At the pageant itself there were several volunteer hostesses and one hairdresser available in the dressing room to help the contestants if necessary. "We had to be prepared to do everything ourselves," Kari said, "but it was nice to have help available."

Although she knew only one of the other contestants—Alyson Gilbert of Crookston, Miss Marshall County—prior to a get-acquainted session for Miss Minnesota candidates earlier in her reign, she said she made life-long friends with some of the candidates during the week in Austin.

"I learned a lot about how it all works," Kari said. "Most of the girls who finished in the top places had a lot of prior pageant experience. Some of the contestants had been at the Miss Minnesota Pageant before and many others had been in a number of local and area pageants. And those with the pageant experience were 21 to 24 years old, which was to their advantage."

Kari said she felt she was well prepared for the state pageant in most areas. She said she hadn't known it was advisable to coordinate her talent wardrobe with her piano selection, and she found that it is extremely important for candidates to develop their platforms and do as much public speaking about them as possible.

Kari said she was pleased to be a Miss Congeniality selection because she believes it is a reflection of just being herself at the pageant. "There are a lot of ways you can enhance your image at a pageant," she said, "but you can't change who and what you are."

Kari said the candidates toured the Hormel historical home and had constant reminders that Austin is "Spam City."

Asked if she would consider entering other pageants, Kari didn't rule it out. "Before the Miss Minnesota Pageant I never really thought about competing again," she said. "But it was a positive experience for me and I received a lot of encouragement from some of the other contestants and pageant officials. I can't say I wouldn't be a candidate again."

There is a possibility of the Miss Bemidji Pageant being revived, and that would be a convenient pageant for Kari, who is a student at Bemidji State University.

Kari will surrender her Miss Thief River Falls title Saturday, June 27, at the Miss Thief River Falls Scholarship Pageant at 6:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. Eight candidates will compete for the crown and a trip to Austin as a candidate in the 1999 Miss Minnesota Pageant.

Area students receive awards

Erica Holte of Grygla, and Elizabeth Munt of Oklee, received received scholarships from Lutheran Brotherhood.

Erica Holte, a member of Northwest Branch 8129, received a $500 Member Scholarship from Lutheran Brotherhood. Holte plans to attend the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis this fall.

Munt, also a member of Northwest Branch 8129, received a $1,000 Member Scholarship. She plans to attend the College of St. Catherine in St. Paul this fall.

Katherine Wedul and Aaron Wedul are the Lutheran Brotherhood district representatives serving the local branch as fraternal branch consultants.

Member Scholarships are awarded to selected undergraduate students who are Lutheran Brotherhood members. Recipient selection is based on academic excellence, church and community involvement, and leadership. Holte was one of 756 recipients selected from 2,642 applicants for this national award. In 1997, Lutheran Brotherhood provided $3 million in support to students through its Member Scholarship program. That amount includes $2 million awarded to students who were renewing their Member Scholarship for a second, third or fourth year.

Nelson is speaker at Fall conference

Suzanne Nelson, humorist and author, will share her experiences in her keynote address "Runestones, Romans and Rutebagas: Reminiscences of a Norwegian-Lutheran Farm Girl", during the 24th Annual Fall Conference on Aging, August 12, at the University of Minnesota Crookston.

Nelson will jog the audience's memories, get them to reflect and to laugh at themselves. She will do this through a portrayal of life in the 50's as a comfortable and safe, albeit confusing time, for impressionable young children. By helping the audience look back, she will also be able to help them to look within.

Registration for the conference is $10 for seniors 60+ and $18 for all others under 60 years of age. The fee covers breaks, lunch and conference materials. The registration deadline is August 6.

The conference is being co-sponsored by Riverview Healthcare Association, Dakota Clinic and Northwest Medical Center, Altru Health Systems and Roseau Area Hospital and Homes, Inc.

For information about registering for the conference contact the Northwest Area Agency on Aging (a program of the Northwest Regional Development Commission) 115 South Main, Suite 1, Warren, MN 56762 or call 218-745-6733 or 1-800-333-2433 Senior Linkage line.

Area students earn honors

Joshua Clark and Paul Kopari of Thief River Falls were among the students listed on the spring quarter Dean's List at Michigan Technological University. To earn a spot on the Dean's list, students must earn a grade point average of 3.5 or higher.

Joshua Clark is a sophomore enrolled in the engineering technology program.

Paul Kopari is a sophomore enrolled in the mechanical engineering program.

when a bonfire will also be held at the Pennington county fairgrounds. The fireworks will be viewed to the north of the fairgrounds with a good view from seats in the grandstand. The display will be set off by a professional crew.

Miss TRF Pageant

Eight contestants will compete at the Lincoln high school auditorium for the title of Miss Thief River Falls, currently held by Kari Thompson of Red Lake Falls. The pageant will begin at 6:30 p.m.—an hour earlier than has been published in some American Festival advertising materials. Please note the earlier time and advise others you know are planning to attend.

Candidates include Rachel Dahlen, TRF; Jennicca Gallagher, Goodridge; Leslie Swanson, TRF; Stephanie Leach, TRF; Michelle Larson, Crookston; Allison Widner, Stephen; BreAnn Fugleberg, TRF; and Tiffany Lee, TRF.

Northwest Dairy Day

Forty-ninth annual Northwest Dairy Day cattle show will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday in the cattle building area of the fairgrounds. About 60 dairy cattle have been registered by 35 young exhibitors to participate in the show.

In addition to the cattle show, educational and entertaining events will be provided and free ice cream products will be distributed.

Tractor Pull

Northern Tractor Pullers will stage a tractor pull for 1959 and older model tractors Saturday beginning at 11:30 a.m. in front of the grandstand at the fairgrounds. The pull is open to anyone and area entries are especially invited, according to Bob Houske, who is handling the arrangements.

Tractors will compete in classes for maximum weights of 3,000, 3,500, 4,500, 5,500, 6,500, 7,500 and 8,500 pounds. Weigh-in will be from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. at the St. Hilaire Elevator fertilizer plant at the intersection of Brooks avenue and Highway 59 West. Entry fee is $10 per class with a 100 percent payback and trophies and cash prizes awarded to the top three places in each class.

Car Show

Prairie Schooners car club will conduct a car show Sunday outside the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center and anyone with a classic, street rod, antique or unusual automobile is invited to exhibit. Entry of the autos in the parade at 12:30 p.m. is also encouraged. Contact the Chamber of Commerce at 681-3720 to receive a position in the parade line-up. For more information on the car show contact Chuck Hoard at 681-3869.

Craft Show/Flea Market

A flea market and swap meet will take place all day Saturday at the curling club building on the fairgrounds. On Sunday a craft show and flea market will be held outdoors at the fairgrounds from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Pancake Breakfast

A pancake breakfast will be served in the curling club building at the fairgrounds from 8 a.m. to 12 noon on Sunday.

Amateur Talent Contest

From 7 to 10 p.m. Sunday in the bandshell at the fairgrounds an amateur talent contest will take place. Entries to date include five area bands, four vocalists and a drummer.

Soloists are Rachel Mathson, Barb Bruno and Elizabeth Bruno of Thief River Falls and Lisa Verbout of Grygla with Dave Lane offering a drum solo.

Bands include Jeff and Troy Peterson and Brenda Klindt of Grand Forks, ND, and Thief River Falls bands including Pyrocleptic, Cody Hempel, Nathan Laroque and Josh Lampe; Shane, Jesse and Elvis Hanson; Without A Care, Neil Larsen, Jeff Davis, Mike Payne and Chad Swanson; and Fluorescent Black, Eric Bjomstad, Nick Tveitbakk, Tony Winter and John Danielson.

Other Events

An American Festival will also have other events including a St. Hilaire concert featuring local bands from 3 to 8 p.m. and the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band at 9 p.m.; outdoor church service at the United Methodist Church at 9 a.m. Sunday, acrobatic kite show Sunday at 1:30 and 6:30 p.m. at the fairgrounds; Bingo, beer garden, model train demonstration, Kitty Cat rides, Northern Pride turkey bowl and other events at the fairgrounds; and an event at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday at which the Mostue and Muzzy families will be honored and music and refreshments provided.

weather conditions improve.

The board approved a recommendation to proceed with the awarding of bids on fencing upon review and recommendation of the group's attorney. The attorney is specifically being asked to address issues of sales tax, whether to accept bids or quotes, and the prevailing wage issue.

Ever since the awarding of bids on the project, the Joint Powers Board has struggled with the remaining items that need to be completed. Fundraising for the estimated $714,000 needed to complete the project has raised an estimated $461,000, with a match. This effort will continue, but the board has never agreed on the priority assigned to each of the remaining items. Monday, they agreed that due to issue of liability, the first two priorities will be for fencing around the track, and seeding for the ditch. A committee will consider the remaining items, which include: a press box, storage and restroom for baseball/softball, and soccer fields; lighting for the baseball field and softball fields, a service sidewalk and landscaping, a concessions building and storage, two additional softball fields, lighting for the parking lot, a recreational soccer field, and stadium bleachers. The committee will bring a recommendation to the next board meeting, which has been scheduled for July 22 at 11 a.m. in room D-60 of Northland Community and Technical College.

Annual Creative Crafts Festival sponsored by the Thief River Falls Chapter of the Women of Today was held in Floyd B. Olson park in downtown Thief River Falls. Skies cleared just enough Saturday to bring out the shoppers, and turn the event into a success.

Juvenile protection hearings may now be open to the public extension be made permanent. He praised his granddaughter for doing well in school, and said she was a good child and hoped she could remain in contact with her family.

No one seemed to know where the girl's mother was at. She has contacted the child only once in two years.

Judge Jorgenson said this girl was doing well in foster care. Just as in this case, a lot of these kids are good, they just don't have parents.

Olin agreed, saying this girl is doing well in school and doesn't get into trouble.

The juvenile process

The juvenile process is considerably different from criminal or civil matters. Extra precautions are taken to guarantee the child's health, safety and anonymity. Many different organizations or interests are represented and at many meetings or hearings. Even the terminology is different. It generally begins with police or social service intervention on behalf of the child. Depending upon the nature and severity of suspected abuse or neglect or risk to the child, the child may or may not be removed from the home. Depending upon the nature of the situation, law enforcement can remove the child from the home without a court order. Otherwise, social services can remove the child only by asking the court for an order for emergency custody.

Once a child has been removed from a home, a number of steps must be followed. Those steps include an emergency hold hearing, followed possibly by a Child in Need of Protection of Services (CHIPS) Petition, an arraignment hearing, settlement discussions, pre-trial conference, trial, disposition hearing, disposition review hearing, and permanency hearing. Generally, it's a long and involved process.

CHIPS petitions allow judges a great deal of flexibility. They are different from delinquency hearings in that delinquency hearings deal more with consequences. In CHIPS petition hearings, a judge can order parents to do certain things. As an example, alcoholic parents may be required to undergo treatment before getting the child back. The judge can also order anger management treatment as a condition.

It allows great flexibility so that judges can get at the underlying problem, said Judge Jorgenson.

It is an eye-opening experience. The number of CHIPS petitions filed has been increasing. In each of the last two years, about 50 CHIPS petitions have been filed in Pennington county. In Red Lake and Marshall county last year, 16 CHIPS petitions were filed.

There is a great demand for foster parents in the district. Judge Murphy is optimistic about the experiment. He hopes that this will get some individuals interested in becoming foster care parents.

Under the provisions of the pilot program, all hearings are presumed open unless the judge determines that there are "exceptional circumstances" that indicate the need to close the hearings. Most records also are accessible to the public except those identified in the rules as private. Examples include the results of HIV tests, medical and psychological records.

Counties participating in the pilot project include: Goodhue and LeSueur in the first judicial district; Houston in the third judicial district; Hennepin in the fourth judicial district; Watonwan in the fifth judicial district; Virginia in the sixth judicial district; Clay in the seventh judicial district, Stevens in the eighth judicial district; Marshall, Pennington and Red Lake in the ninth judicial district, and Chisago in the 10th judicial district.

Cancer survivor Shari Olson walks to find a cure

Olson-Nikunen 4th Annual Walk for Cancer Research – Itasca State Park, June 20, 1998

by Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

June 27 marks a very important anniversary for Shari Olson and her husband, Rick Nikunen. Shari is a cancer survivor. On June 27, 1994 Shari had surgery for endometrial cancer at the University of Minnesota.

Endometrial carcinoma, cancer of the lining of the uterus, is the most common female genital cancer. Affecting about one woman in 1,000 each year, it accounts for 13 percent of all cancers in women. Endometrial cancer is most common in women who are overweight during post-menopausal years. Shari, however, was 33 years old and weighed 118 pounds.

Cancer survivor Shari Olson and husband, Rick Nikunen

Centralized pain during her menstrual periods and an abnormal Papnicolaou test (Pap smear) in October of 1993 were Shari's first indications that something was wrong. A follow-up visit to the Grand Forks Clinic in March of 1994 revealed another abnormal Pap smear.

Shari was examined for the third time by Dr Brown at the Grand Forks Clinic on Tuesday, June 7, 1994. She had just begun a summer job with The Tri-Valley Migrant program.

On Thursday evening Shari received a call from Dr. Brown, and the conversation began, "I hope you're sitting down. I have some bad news. . . ." On June 9, 1994 Dr. Brown told Shari that she had cancer. Her husband and youngest sister were with her at the time, and she reacted as anyone would. She was shocked, and she was afraid. "You associate cancer with death," Shari says.

Before he called, Dr. Brown had already set up an appointment for Shari for the next day at the University of Minnesota.

Rick and Shari drove to the Twin Cities early Friday morning, and by 1 p.m. she was undergoing a series of tests, many of them very painful.

Shari's physician was Dr. Jonathan Carter, an Australian who has since returned to Australia. An expert in transvaginal ultrasound, Dr. Carter had written a number of papers and a book about the diagnostic test. Shari felt reassured and comfortable with him from the beginning.

From the Twin Cities, Rick and Shari traveled to the Duluth area for the Saturday funeral of Rick's grandmother. For Shari, it was a very difficult, emotional weekend.

After reviewing her test results, Dr. Carter offered Shari and Rick several options. Possibilities included hormone treatment, dilation and curettage (D&C) or a hysterectomy, the surgical removal of the uterus. It didn't take Shari and Rick long to decide that the hysterectomy was the best option, and surgery was scheduled for June 27, 1994.

Family and friends of Shari Olson and husband Rick Nikunen gathered at Itasca State Park over the weekend for the Olson-Nikunen 4th Annual Walk for Cancer Research. On June 27, Shari Olson will mark her 4th anniversary as a cancer survivor. She was diagnosed with endometrial carcinoma, cancer of the lining of the uterus, in June of 1994, and surgery was performed on June 27 of that year at the University of Minnesota. Proceeds from pledges and donations to the walk this year are expected to reach $3,000 and will be donated to the University of Minnesota Medical Foundation for women's cancer research.

Shari and Rick returned to the Twin Cities on June 23 for pre-operative testing. It was a bright, sunny morning when Shari and Rick walked the short distance from the Radisson Hotel to the University Hospital at 5:30 a.m. on Monday, June 27. Her first hospital experience, Shari describes the ordeal as "very scary."

While Dr. Carter planned to remove the uterus and leave her ovaries, Shari signed a release giving him authorization to do whatever he had to do to remove the cancer. While her ovaries were left in place, all of the lymph nodes in the lower part of her body were removed along with any fatty tissue. The tumor was examined by cross-sectional freezing, and the three-hour surgery involved extensive exploration of Shari's other organs.

Shari doesn't remember if it was that evening or Tuesday morning that Dr Carter told Shari and Rick that they had made the right decision. The tumor was exactly what they thought it was, and because the tumor had not penetrated the uterine muscle and the cancer had not spread, no further treatment was necessary.

While she will only comment on the emotions she felt during the ordeal, she describes her husband as "very, very supportive." Rick spent two nights at the hospital with her, sleeping in a recliner in her room. "He was a pillar of strength," she says.

Shari was strong, too. She had always been into fitness, working out about an hour-and-a-half a day at the time of her diagnosis. Her physical condition enabled her to heal faster and leave the hospital sooner than most.

Today, Shari continues to believe that "fitness is part of the balance to stay healthy," and her appearance is one of vitality and good health. For the first three years, Shari had physical examinations every three months. She is now on a six-month rotation, and as every exam date passes, she feels more confident that she will "live to be an old lady." While statistics are on her side, the fear of recurrence exists.

Because her circumstances were so different from those of the typical uterine cancer patient and because she had benefited from the expertise of physicians and staff at the University of Minnesota, Shari wanted to give something back.

In 1995 the first Olson-Nikunen Walk for Cancer Research was held at Itasca State Park on June 24. The $600 raised was donated to the University of Minnesota Medical Foundation for cancer research. The second year, the walk netted $1,600, and in 1997, $1,800 was raised for cancer research.

It was with a goal of $2,000 that the 4th Annual Nikunen-Olson Walk for Cancer Research was held this past weekend at Itasca State Park.

Shari grew up on a dairy farm near Alvarado, the third child of six. Since its onset, Shari's walk has included her siblings, their spouses and families and her parents, and every year, the walk has grown to include more people — extended family members, members of Rick's family, friends and co-workers.

This year all of Shari's living aunts and uncles attended the walk as did a number of friends, cousins and four co-workers. Her grandparents visited. The group included about 50 people who stayed for the weekend and 10 or so visitors.

The weekend is planned well in advance. Informational packets are sent to potential participants. T-shirts are designed and printed by Universal Screenprint, a sponsor of the event. The "clubhouse," a large lodge in the park, is reserved and accommodates much of her family. Others stay in cabins and other nearby facilities. Meals are planned and cooking assignments are made.

The group arrives on Friday evening, and after getting settled, there is time for exploring the park, games and visiting. Shari, Rick, a nephew and their dog went for a walk in the rain.

On Saturday not one, but two walks take place. In the morning, many participate in a three-mile hike that begins at the Mississippi Headwaters. In the afternoon, a seven-mile hike over much tougher terrain challenges Shari and the hardy few who join her.

A 67-year-old aunt joined Shari on both walks Saturday. Others joining her in the more challenging afternoon hike were another aunt, a cousin, a fellow volleyball player and friend. The second trek was especially treacherous this year — three miles of muddy trails followed by several miles of paved but hilly bike trails.

The remainder of Saturday's activities included more time for physical activity, games, relaxing and visiting.

After a non-denominational church service on Sunday, the group is again given options for activities. Shari was part of a group which opted to play golf, carrying her clubs for 18 holes on the hilly Eagle's View Golf Course.

She further challenged herself on Monday morning on a 20-minute run with her brother-in-law-to-be, a nephew and dog.

While it was rainy on Friday evening, the weather at Itasca was beautiful for the remainder of the weekend as it has been the previous three years on the weekends chosen for Shari's walk.

Shari and Rick returned to their jobs in Thief River Falls on Monday afternoon. Shari Olson is the Dean of Custom Training and Community Education at Northland Community and Technical College where her husband, Rick Nikunen teaches psychology and coaches men's basketball and women's fast pitch softball.

Monday evening found Shari tired but upbeat about her weekend experiences and very happy about not only meeting but surpassing her financial goal of $2,000. Before she left Itasca, Shari had counted $2,700, and with more pledges and donations coming in, she expects to send about $3,000 to the University of Minnesota for women's cancer research.

Shari Olson is a strong young woman — physically, emotionally and spiritually, and she attributes much of her strength to her farm upbringing. Putting up square hay bales as a youth gave her the physical endurance that she's worked to maintain. Her large, close-knit family and strong connection to the environment has provided her with emotional support.

Her dreams of having children of her own were removed with the cancer and her uterus. And while she values children greatly, she will continue to find other ways to extend her love to them through her family and her work at NCTC and in the community.

This year's T-shirt included a poem written last year by Shari's young niece and nephew, Aubrey and Matt. "We came to Itasca for Shari's walk, Now everyone had holes in there socks. Lukas Man is crying Loud.,It's ringing in the ears of the croud, the older peaple are playing tummy, While all the food sits in there tummy. We are having lots of fun. Me and Matt were on the run, Soon We will all go to sleep, And have good dreams about sheep. In their youthful script, the children had captured the mood of the weekend — fun and fellowship, all for a good cause.

As Shari celebrates her fourth anniversary as a cancer survivor this week, the scars from her surgery have nearly disappeared. And yet, her life is forever changed.

She sums up her mission in the letter she sends to the potential participants of her annual fund-raiser. "We have a long journey to make as we attempt to find a cure for cancer. This is just one step along that path that I will always walk . . . hoping to find a cure."

Shari Olson's sister Rhonda (right) was one of the participants in the Olson-Nikunen 4th Annual Walk for Cancer Research last weekend at Itasca State Park. Rhonda is expecting a baby in three weeks, but that didn't stop her from joining in the three-mile walk on Saturday morning or a portion of the seven-mile walk later that day in celebration of sister Shari's 4th anniversary as a cancer survivor.

Lisa Anderson and Richard Anteau II wed May 16

Globed candelabra, pew bows and a large wicker basket of flowers decorated St. Bernard's Catholic Church in Thief River Falls for the May 16 wedding of Lisa Marie Anderson and Richard Albert William Anteau II. Father Dennis Wieland officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are John and Debi Anderson of Thief River Falls, Richard W. Anteau of Toledo, OH and Karen Busch of Curtice, OH.

Vocalists were Sarah Ryan, friend of the bride, and Nathan Anderson, brother of the bride. Selections included "Because You Loved Me" and "Just You and I." Tara Bachand was the pianist. The processional was "Canon in D," and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" was the recessional.

Maid of honor was Sara Anderson of Fargo, ND, cousin of the bride.

Bridesmaids included Kelee Speth of Reno, NV, sister of the groom; Erin Depew of New Ulm and Shelly Koenen of Monticello, both friends of the bride.

The bride's cousin, Rachel Stendel of Plymouth, was the flower girl.

Jeri Fuller, friend of the bride, was her personal attendant.

Don Swope of Toledo, OH, friend of the groom, was the bestman. Groomsmen were Jason Obliski of Toledo, OH, friend of the groom; Karl Anderson of Thief River Falls, brother of the bride; and Brian Tutich of Tallahassee, FL, friend of the groom.

Jacob Speth of Reno, NV, nephew of the groom, was the ring bearer.

Ushering the guests were Nathan Anderson of Thief River Falls, brother of the bride, and Patrick Speth of Reno, NV, brother-in-law of the groom.

Honored guests included Duane and Gladys Liden of Battle Lake, grandparents of the bride; Elsie Anderson of Warren, great-grandmother of the bride; and Doris Radtke of Jenson Beach, FL, grandmother of the groom.

The bride's aunts, Valli Hogan and Kim Hanson, were hostesses at the reception. Laurie Williamson, cousin of the bride, attended the guest book.

The wedding cake consisted of the three-tier cake with a fountain, surrounded by three heart-shaped cakes. The cakes were decorated with silk flowers, and the cake top, a bride and groom with wedding bells, was used at the wedding of the groom's grandparents who would have celebrated their 50th anniversary this year.

Cutting the cake was Mary Williamson and Ava Anderson, aunts of the bride. Justine Stendel and Julia Hanson, cousins of the bride, attended the gift table.

Following a wedding trip to St. Maarten Island in the Caribbean, Lisa and Richard are at home in DeKalb, Illinois. Lisa is a 1990 graduate of Lincoln High School and a 1997 graduate of the University of North Dakota. She is employed by Dakotah, Inc. in DeKalb. Richard is a 1997 graduate of Northern Illinois University and is employed by Enterprise, Inc. in DeKalb.

The News From Here

Allyson Mann

The Dlder Woman,
The Younger Man

My husband shaved off his beard — and now, despite the fact he's ten years older than me, I looked ten years older than him!

And, of course, as never before (and probably much too late), I now see the value of night creams, moisturizing make-up and that most useful of all youth-inducing activities: coloring my hair! But this abrupt and unwelcome age-switch did point out one other, perhaps more interesting thing, for as quickly I became the older woman, it was equally obvious who'd slaved hardest with the children over the past fifteen years.

Me.

Standing beside my husband at the bathroom sink, I continued to scrutinize our reflections in the mirror:

"Well," I said, "it's not hard to see which of us has gotten the least amount of sleep over the past fifteen years."

Finished with his razor, he wound up the cord. "Oh, you look great!"

"Put your glasses on and look again," I suggested.

He put them on. "Well, you do look tired," he admitted. "But all you need is a little make-up to brighten up your face."

"I am wearing make-up," I said.

"A different dress?"

"Maybe what I need is a full night's sleep!" I told him. "Personally, I think it's a crime when a forty-eight year old man looks thirty-eight!"

"A crime!" he exclaimed.

"A crime! And, as far as I'm concerned, it means only one thing!"

"I get too much sleep?" he asked.

"You said it. Chronically."

He leaned into the mirror and looked more closely at my face. "Are you really wearing make-up?"

I squinted in the mirror to get a better look. "I guess not," I said.

"There! You see!! Just put some of that stuff under your eyes to hide the black circles and a little blush on your cheeks, do something wild and wonderful with your hair, and you'll look young and devastating again!! And, by the way," he added, "I'm forty-seven, not forty-eight."

"Sounds like an awful lot of work to me," I said, "when all you had to do was shave your beard ... But I can't believe I'm not wearing make-up! I must have fallen back to sleep while brushing my teeth this morning and dreamed the whole make-up thing."

"It happens," he said, slapping his now smoothened skin with after shave.

I glanced at him unappreciatively. "But now I'm the Dlder Woman!" I told him. "And you! You look like a pup! I wonder if it will even look right, us being together, now that you've shaved that thing off!"

"What are you saying?" he asked.

"I'm saying that when people see us together, they might wonder about our relationship! Am I your sister, your older cousin, or the woman who led you astray as a kid?"

"You're making too big a deal out of this!" he said. "You look fine! You normally look great! You don't look at all like the older woman!. You look like a mother with three demanding kids!"

"But that's my point!" I said. "I look like the parent of three demanding children, and, for whatever reason, you — "

"Look!" he said. "I'll grow it back. Had I known this was going to traumatize you, I'd have never shaved it off."

"No! Don't do that!"

"What!! Why not?!"

"Somehow," I said, "you look like that handsome, younger man I met, fell in love with and married so many years ago."

"I am that man!"

"Well, great! Now you're younger again, you can help me out a little more with the kids!"

Sen. Stumpf to receive Canola Council award

Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls will receive the 1998 Outstanding Service award from the Minnesota Canola Council at the grand opening of the council's new Production Centre Wednesday, July 1, on the Richard Magnusson farm off highway 89, one mile north of the intersection with highway 11 in Roseau.

Canola acreage is growing rapidly in northwestern Minnesota with 30,000 acres planted in 1994 and an estimated 200,000 acres planted in 1998. With the scab conditions present in small grains, many farmers have turned to canola which is considered an excellent rotational crop and which has provided an economic boost to the area.

Senator Stumpf is considered instrumental in securing a $500,000 appropriation to the University of Minnesota for a canola production center and pesticide harmonization/registration.

The new Minnesota Canola Production Centre, which will have its grand opening July 1 on the Magnusson farm, is a "rotating" center which consists of leasing of a farm field size research plot. At the Magnusson farm 30 acres has been leased for research on 11 different canola varieties as well as fungicides, insecticides and equipment.

The centre is a public/private international partnership among the Minnesota Canola Council, the University of Minnesota and the Canola Council of Canada. Funding has been secured to operate the centre for a minimum of four years.

Grand opening events will begin with a pig roast at 12 noon, followed by a brief update on canola issues, presentation of the award and guided hayride tours of the centre. While preregistration is not required, attendance is being limited to the first 200 people.

Brodins to speak at New Hope Church July 1

An evening of inspiration is planned for Wednesday, July 1 at 7 p.m. at New Hope Lutheran Church in Newfolden.

Fred Brodin and his wife, Joan, will present songs and stories of their experiences in their work among the First Nation's people. Inuit Ministry International is a ministry in Alaska directed toward the Eskimo people. The Brodins travel from Fairbanks into the villages, ministering in homes and churches. The couple also conducts seminars and teaching sessions, giving hope and purpose to all who attend.

Newfolden's Class of '48 reunion June 27

Newfolden Class of '48 will hold their 50th class reunion on Saturday, June 27 at the Evergreen Emporium in Thief River Falls beginning with a social hour at 5:30 p.m. followed by dinner and a program at 7:30 p.m. Anyone interested in visiting with class members is encouraged to stop by for a chat.

Rep. Tunheim receives award advocate group

State Rep. Jim Tunheim (DFL-Kennedy) has received a 100 percent rating from the Children's Defense Fund (CDF) for his work during the 1998 legislative session.

The CDF exists to provide a strong and effective voice for the children of American who can't vote, lobby, or speak for themselves. CDF began a Minnesota office in 1985 to improve things for poor children through research, public education, policy initiatives, coalition building, and advocacy.

Deer Park Garden Club meets

Deer Park Garden Club held their meeting June 9 at the home of Arlene and Bob Prestebak. The members toured their garden and admired their collection of the old fashioned blooming iris and early perennials.

Ethel Wiseth called the meeting to order at 7:30 p.m. Susan Gunderson was a guest and she was introduced to the 10 members present. The club creed was recited.

Secretary Helen Chervestad read the minutes of the May meeting. Treasurer's report was given by Lois Swanson who also showed pictures she snapped at the club's May meeting. Lois is the camera enthusiast for the garden club.

Roll call was naming some benefits from the preservation of the tall prairie grass followed with an informative talk by study leader. Arlene Prestebak on "soil, animals, plants, water, sun, wind and humans living together and depending on one another."

The Chamber/Community raffle was updated by Helen Chervestad. Ticket sales were handed over and more books were given to members to sell as a fund-raiser for the club. The drawing will be held June 30.

A report on the community floral sites were discussed. In charge of the Heritage Center site are LaVonne Radniecki and Willia Prestegaard. It was noted that Arlene Silk planted geraniums in the site's floral containers.

At the Goodridge Senior Center, Ethel Wiseth planted a variety of annuals. Lois Swanson planted annuals and geraniums at Tvedt Park and in the tulip bed she added wilk flowers seed for later blooms.

At the Dak Park site, Helen Chervestad planted a large container of annuals.

A motion was made to apply for donated plants through the Minnesota Green Program for community gardening/greening project. Lois Swanson was appointed to fill out the aplication and provide a brief description of club projects.

Discussion on the July tour was held. All members are to meet at 12:00 noon at the Helen Chervestad farm near Dklee to make arrangements for rides. Hostess for the club tour is Evelyn Myrum of Clearbrook.

Members present were Helen Chervestad, Lois Swanson, Delores Bendickson, Ruth Liedberg, LaVonne Radniecke, Arlene Prestebak, Michelle Prestebak, Bea Israelson, Donna Radniecki and Ethel Wiseth.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES
Sun Visors

Children love wearing their own original sun visors! Make a pattern in the shape of a half moon. Trace on posterboard or light-weight cardboard and cut them out. Children can use crayons, markers, stickers or other materials to decorate their visors. Use a hole-punch to make a hole on each end of the visor. Thread elastic string through the holes and tie securely.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need large sturdy paper plate, red, white and blue crepe paper, sticker stars and glue.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books including the following:

Asch, Frank. Moonbear's Pet. Bear and Little Bear are thrilled with their new pet fish, Splash. But is it really a fish? She's sprouting wings, or are those paws?

Rey, Margaret. Pretzel. Pretzel, the longest dachshund in all the world, is unable to win Greta's heart until one day when she needs rescuing and the only dog who can save her must be very, very long.

VIDEO VARIETY

The Three Lives of Thomasina. Tragedy strikes when Mary finds her beloved Thomasina seriously injured and not even her father, a veterinarian, can save the pet. Their only hope lies in a mysterious "witch" and the healing power of love.

MAGAZINE MENTION

A dandy lion, a lizard jacuzzi, Blackbeard and more comprise the readers' winning sand sculptures that deserve waves of applause in the June issue of Family Fun magazine.

PARENTING TIPS
More on Traffic Safety

We know these facts about preschool pedestrian traffic injuries:

- Most children are injured near home, often on their own street.
- Most accidents happen in late afternoon on sunny days.
- More than twice as many boys as girls are injured.
- Most child-victims were not properly supervised.

The best way to teach your child about traffic safety is to practice what you preach! Children learn best through actual practice. Concentrate on the areas in your own neighborhood. Treat driveways, alleys, parking lots and parking spaces as if they were streets. Your example will help your child to learn that all of these are areas of potential danger.

Make your child aware of spaces and boundaries outdoors. Focus on fences, gates and grass borders. Then help your child become aware of and understand the purpose for the painted lines that stand for boundaries on streets and walkways.

Remember: no matter how much you educate your young child, he/she is limited in his/her ability to make good judgement calls in traffic. All preschool children need to be closely supervised when they are near traffic.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Walk through your neighborhood and identify places of potential danger. Make sure your child understands the terms you may be using. For example: driveway, alley, gate, curb, parking space, crosswalk, etc.

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

...Be Careful

It seems as though every time we turn around we find out about a new scam that we have to beware of. Most of these scams are taking place through the telephone. Recently, we find we have to be careful of what we say to get rid of those annoying pests who call us the minute we walk in the door after work or while we are preparing dinner. We mustn't say the word, "yes" in any way or they will switch our telephone service without our even knowing about it, or do something else equally bad to us.

I have always been irritated by those telephone interruptions and have made a practice of saying, "I don't take this type of call. Please put it in the mail," and then hanging up right away. If they persist, I say, "Take me off of your list, please, or I will be forced to contact the authorities." (Oh, yes, I am a snip!) Then, if all else fails and they call again, I sometimes scream at them. However, some part of this seems to work and lately I have had less and less calls and more and more mail, but mail is easy to deal with.

A couple of weeks ago I had a new scam pulled on me. I opened a credit card statement, thinking there would be a zero balance, and found a charge of $63.89. What? I hadn't charged anything. In the "Purchases" section of the bill, I saw that a catalog company named "Damark" had charged me for a club renewal. Now this made me mad. I had not renewed any club membership. I was not contacted about this renewal and it was put on my credit card without authorization.

I called Damark and talked to someone named Veronica. After reaming her up one side and down the other, telling her what a fraudulent practice this was and that I wanted my charge card credited right away and nothing more to do with the Damark company, she told me that she was not an employee of Damark, but was a telephone service representative; in other words, an answering service. Nonetheless, she said she would give my message to Damark immediately and promised that things would be taken care of. I said I expected all charges, including any late fees by my credit card company, paid by Damark. "Yes, yes, right away" she said.

Three weeks later, while paying my monthly bills, I called the charge card company to see if my account had been credited for the $63.89. It had not. I told the charge card person all about my problem how angry I was at Damark and asked would I have to pay a late charge for this.

I learned that Damark had 15 days to credit my account. I learned that by calling Damark immediately (and keeping track of the date, time and person I talked to) I had privileges from my credit card company. They called Damark for me while I stayed on the line. Then the credit card person came back on the line and asked if I wanted to speak to the Damark representative. "I sure do!"

First, finally getting hold of someone employed by Damark, I reamed her up one side and down the other, using pretty much the same words I had used at Veronica. I mentioned "fraud" and "poor business practices," and got her name, "Cinda," the company's address and telephone number. Oh, the company was in Minneapolis. "Ah," I said to Cinda. "So Damark is a Minnesota company. I'm really glad to hear that. You must know we have a rather active attorney general's office in this state. I will certainly be contacting the attorney general's office about this matter because I feel it is fraudulent."

After more ranting on my part, Cinda said, "But I'm sure someone contacted you by phone or mail about the charge." I said, "No, Cinda, I have had no mail from Damark and I don't accept telephone solicitation calls of any kind." (Thank goodness for my "no" policy on telephone solicitation calls.) This shut Cinda up on that subject, so she tried to explain whey they had not credited my card in a reasonable length of time, saying it was because they had so many telephone calls and had to hire a service. I said, "No doubt you've had so many calls because of complaints about these credit card charges you are making." Cinda had nothing more to say after that. In fact, Cinda was suddenly gone from the other end of the phone.

My credit card person came back on the line. She said because I had called Damark immediately and they did not respond in 15 days, there would be no extra charges or late payment fees placed on my charge card. I thanked her profusely for this and for her time and effort and she said, "Have a nice day." And I did.

The moral of this story, if there is one, is that we have to be aware of what is going on. Evidently we can be duped in more ways than just by telephone. We must stand up for our rights, because no one else is going to do so. Even if it is a pain in the neck, we must take the time to look into anything we feel is wrong and take whatever steps are necessary to make things right. And keep an eye on those credit card charges, the next $63.89 that Damark charges may be to one of your cards. Don't let them get away with it!

Earl Arnold, 79

Thief River Falls - Earl Arnold, 79, died Wednesday, June 17, 1998.

Funeral services were held on Saturday, June 20 at 2 p.m. at New Life Assembly of God Church with Pastor George Bunnell officiating. Vi Barr was the pianist, and vocal music was provided by Rhoda Wengler and Marie Anderson. Casketbearers were Lonnie Norberg, Justin Norberg, Mike Konickson, Wayne Konickson, Chad Nelson and Rick Stokke. Honorary casketbearers were Earl's granddaughters, Don Culkins, Sid Culkins, Harold Sabo and Wes Johnson.

Earl Ralph Arnold was born on July 22, 1918 near Angus to Arthur and Emma (Bucholz) Arnold. He attended rural schools in the Angus-Tabor area and grew to adulthood there.

On September 2, 1940 he was united in marriage to Wilma Johnson at St. Hilaire. The couple farmed in Wyandotte township of Pennington county. In 1964 they moved into Thief River Falls, and Earl started Arnold Realty Company. Wilma died on June 1, 1983. Earl moved to Anchorage, AK in 1989, returning to Thief River Falls in 1994, where he has since resided.

He enjoyed gardening, hunting, fishing and spending time at Wayne's cabin in Fourtown.

Earl is survived by one daughter, Linda Arnold of Edina; one son, Ronald (Jean) Arnold of Carson City, NV; one son-in-law, Wayne Koniekson of Grygla; nine grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; two brothers, Ray (Inez) Arnold of Grand Forks, NO and Clifford Arnold of Barstow, CA; and one sister, Irene Martini of Williston, ND.

He was preceded in death by his wife; one daughter, Carol, parents, and two brothers, Kelly Arnold and John Arnold.

Emma Hetland, 103

Thief River Falls - Emma Hetland, 103, died Wednesday, June 17, 1998 at the CNC Unit of Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services were held" on Friday, June 19 at 2 p.m. at Green Funeral Home in Thief River Falls with Reverend George Oavis officiating. Grace Hammer provided special music. Casketbearers were Bud Berger, Clayton Mack, Pat Klemlsch, Arnold Engelstad, Kermit Finstad and Marvin Wan. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery.

Emma Holland was born on May 10, 1895 in Rosebud, MT, the daughter of Severt and Ingeborg Holland. She was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith in Norway and attended school in Norway and Minnesota. She worked for a time in Montana.

On August 14, 1920 Emma was united in marriage to Salemon Hetland at Thief River Falls. The couple raised their family and farmed in the Thief River Falls area. After Salemon passed away on June 12, 1989, Emma continued to make her home in the area.

She enjoyed sewing, crocheting, cooking and baking. She especially enjoyed spending time with her family and friends.

Emma is survived by two daughters, Esther Fixter of Thief River Falls and Mary Lampi of Grand Rapids; three grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; and one sister, Selma Wright of Minneapolis.

She was preceded in death by her husband; parents; two sisters, Ida Enger and Inga Wessman; and four brothers, Henry, Emil, Sam and Edward Holland.

Kermit Hanson, 85

Thief River Falls - Kermit Hanson, 85, died Tuesday, June 23, 1998 at his home in Thief River Falls.

Arrangements are pending with the Green Funeral Home.

A complete obituary will appear in next week's edition of the Times.

Clara M. Nelson, 88

Karlstad - Clara M. Nelson, 88, died Wednesday, June 17, 1998 at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services were held at 1 p.m. Saturday, June 20 at Hegland Free Lutheran Church in Karlstad with Reverend Philip Rokke officiating. Debbie Boen was the organist, and vocal music was provided by Kathy and Everett Englund, Elizabeth Englund and Stephanie Pettis. Casketbearers were grandsons, Michael Lefrooth, Lowell Lefrooth, Loyal Lefrooth, Luke Simonson, Vance Lefrooth Jr., Kenneth Kostrzewski and Bradley Kostrzewski. Interment was in Salem Church Cemetery at Stephen. Arrangements were with the Collins Funeral Home of Karlstad.

Clara Margaret Englund was born on October 9, 1909 near Karlstad, the daughter of Nels Andrew and Selma (Wicklund) Englund. She attended school and grew to womanhood near Karlstad and was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith.

On April 6, 1929 Clara was united in marriage to Elvin Sjoblom at Warren. The couple lived and farmed near Stephen. After Elvin died on June 12, 1938, Clara moved her family to Karlstad.

On November 2, 1942 she married Carl Simonson at Halma. They resided in Karlstad for several years before moving to International Falls.

Clara married Peter Emanuel Nelson on May 22, 1959 at Strandquist. They made their home at Karlstad. Peter died on November 15 1971, and Clara continued to make her home in Karlstad. At the time of her death she was residing at Oakwood Homes Apartments.

She was an active member of the Hegland Free Lutheran Church. In 1984 she was selected as Kittson County's Outstanding Senior Citizen.

Clara is survived by two daughters, Adrienne (Vance) Lefrooth of Strandquist and Eleanor (Adolph) Kostrzewski of Inver Grove Heights; one son, Arlynn (Carol) Simonson of Hampton; 15 grandchildren; 33 great-grandchildren; four brothers, Arnold (Marion) Englund and Einar (Lillian) Englund, both of Karlstad, Elmer (Lauris) Englund of New Brighton and Vincent of North Minneapolis; and several nieces, nephews and other relatives.

She was preceded in death by her parents; husbands; one son, Vernon in 1995; and two sisters in infancy.

Funeral arrangements for Grover Stephen are pending in Nashville, TN.

Grain drying and storage workshops are scheduled

Area crop producers are encouraged to attend one of several grain drying and storage management workshops scheduled June 29 through July 1 at northwestern Minnesota locations.

Or. Bill Wicke, University of Minnesota extension agricultural engineer, will lead discussions on topics including fan selection, drying principles, structure design and tips for operation of a storage management system. The drying facilities at each farm will be examined and discussed.

Workshops are scheduled as follows:

Monday, June 29— 3 p.m., R&R Farms located four miles south of Warren on Marshall County Road 15 and three miles west, 7 p.m., Roger Oziengel farm, two miles south of Kennedy or three miles north of Oonaldson on Highway 75, then 3 1/2 miles east on County Road 61.

Tuesday, June 30—9:30 a.m., Seldon Colden farm, one mile east of Salol on Highway 11, four miles south on County Road 13 and 6 1/2 miles east on County Road 12; 2 p.m., Wannaska Cafe, and 7 p.m., Mehlkens Farms, three miles south of Thief River Falls on Highway 32, 3/4 mile west on County Road 59 and 1/4 mile north on County Road 74.

Wednesday, July 1—9:30 a.m., Ray Swenson farm, three miles south of Oklee on Highway 92.

Joint sponsors of all of the workshops are the University of Minnesota Extension Service, Roseau Electric Cooperative, Inc., Red Lake Electric Cooperative, Inc., and PKM Electric Cooperative, Inc. For more information contact Ray Thompson, Marshall county extension educator, at 218-745-5232.

TRF blood drive July 1 and 2 at Zion Lutheran

United Blood Services will conduct its next blood drive in Thief River Falls Wednesday, July 1, from 1 to 7 p.m. and Thursday, July 2, from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Zion Lutheran church. The drive is considered special because it is right before the July 4 weekend.

"Blood drives around holidays are especially important," noted Gladys Hallstrom, who is coordinating the drive. "Because United Blood Services' blood drive schedule is often reduced over a long holiday weekend, an additional supply of blood is needed to meet patient needs."

Hospitals and their patients need blood every day, whether it is a holiday or not, she added. More donors are needed to assure blood availability. The demand for blood products is constantly increasing and the need for blood doesn't take a holiday vacation. Blood is needed every day by someone.

To make an appointment to donate, call Mrs. Hallstrom at 964-5539.

Jon Pagnac, 42

Willmar - Jon B. Pagnac, 42, died Monday, June 15, 1998 at a St. Cloud Hospital.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday, June 25 at 1:30 p.m. at First Lutheran Church in Stephen. Arrangements are with the Miller-Carlin Funeral Home, St. Cloud.

Jon B. Pagnac was born on September 15, 1955 in Hallock to Jon Sr. and Shirley (Jevning) Pagnac. He spent his youth in Stephen. After leaving school he remained in the Red River Valley area where he was the lead singer and bass guitarist in the band, "Home Grown." He married Patricia Flaten in 1975 and five years later moved to Willmar where he was employed as a truck driver for Jennie-O Foods.

Jon is survived by his mother, Shirley of Willmar; two brothers, Jeffrey of Willmar and Oarwin of Stillwater, OK; two sisters, Oarla Hansen of Big Lake and Sheila Nelson of Warren; grandparents, Herb and Millie Pagnac of Stephen; two nephews, Joshua and Bennett Pagnac of Thief River Falls; several aunts and uncles; and many cousins.

He was preceded in death by his father in 1983, his maternal grandparents, and one cousin.

Caroline Davidson, 47

Melbourne, FL - Carolyn Oavidson, 47, died Sunday, June 14, 1998 after a brief illness at Melbourne, FL.

Burial services were held at 10 a.m. on Saturday, June 20 at Spruce Valley Cemetery in Middle River with Reverend John Jorgenson officiating.

Carolyn Kay Anderson was born on September 20, 1950 at Thief River Falls, the daughter of Ernest and Ellen (Peterson) Anderson. She was baptized in the Lutheran faith and graduated from Middle River High School in 1968. Carolyn was married to Jerry Ruud, and they made their home at various military installations.

In January of 1994, Carolyn married Alden Oavidson in Florida, and they have resided in Melbourne, FL.

Carolyn is survived by her husband, Alden; one daughter, Jennifer Weinstein of Melbourne, FL; one son, Jeremy, with the U.S. Navy; three grandchildren, three brothers, Myron (Sharon) of Holt, Erlyn (Barb) of Hibbing and Oarold (Fran) of Anoka; three sisters, Sharon (Roger) Kilen, Kathleen (Marvin) Christofferson and Geraldine (Gerald) Gillund, all of Middle River; and many aunts, uncles, cousins and other relatives.

She was preceded in death by her parents; three brothers, Roger, Wallace and John; and one sister, Lois.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. I want to sign up for direct deposit, and I know Social Security needs bank account information. What do you need?

A. In addition to your Social Security claim number, agency personnel needs to know what bank is involved, whether it is a savings or checking account and the bank's treasury department routing number. You can request this information from the bank, or if it's a checking account, the information would also appear on a check blank. However, the routing information would not routinely appear on a deposit slip. If providing this information by phone, it would be a good idea to have the SSA representative read back the information to you to be sure it was correctly heard.

Q. I am on Social Security retirement now and will be age 65 later this year. What do I need to do to sign up for Medicare?

A. Not much. A month or two before reaching age 65, you will be sent a Medicare card automatically. Other than signing the card, you do not need to do anything else. A person who did not want to have the Medicare coverage would have to take action to refuse it, but since the vast majority of people want it, the agency assumes acceptance. The Part B (Medical) premium will be deducted from your benefits a month in advance.

Q. My husband and I want to know the amount of money payable to our young children in the event of our death and also learn what kind of benefits are payable. Can you help?

A. It is good that you are making plans for the future of your children and for realizing that Social Security is part of that planning. On a national basis, roughly 20 percent of benefits paid are survivor benefits. To receive estimated benefit amounts on your earnings records, you and your husband should each sent in form SSA-7004, Personal Earnings Benefit Statement. You will receive a printout with estimated benefit amounts including potential family amounts payable in the event of your death or disability. Remember that Social Security is a work-based program, and its first requirement is that you have enough work. The SSA-7004 reply will provide you with that information also. You can get the free form at any SSA office or by calling the SSA national toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213.

Obtaining information about any SS benefit is easy, either through the local office or by calling the national toll-free number. Many booklets are available at no cost. "Understanding the Benefits" (SSA publication 05-10024) provides a broad overview of benefit types. The 40-page booklet includes information about SSA retirement, survivors and disability programs in addition to information about Medicare and Supplemental Security Income (SSI). Specific topic information is also available. For example, if you are most interested in survivor benefits, request the 12-page booklet, "Survivors Benefits" (SSA publication 05-10084). Agency information is also available on the internet at www.ssa.gov.

Warning to June brides: Various private firms might write to you and advertise help in changing your name on your SSA record for a fee. If you intend to change your name there is no need to pay anything. Social Security does not charge a fee for maintaining your record and the change of name can be accomplished by mail or in person. You will need to complete the form SS-5 and provide a document, such as your marriage certificate, with the raised state or county seal showing both your old and new name. We cannot use a photocopy. Your document will be returned. Call the national toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, for more information.

Greenbush Park will run Northern Outlaw Sprint Cars Saturday

Northern Outlaw Sprint Cars will run at the Greenbush Race Park for the second time this summer Saturday, June 27, joining the regular five classes of competition on the program – Wissota-sanctioned Super Stocks and Modifieds, MiniSprints, Sportsman's and Outlaw Street.

Racing will start at 6:30 p.m., a half-hour earlier then normal because of the additional class on the race car.

The Saturday, June 20, races were canceled due to the muddy conditions of the track from steady rain the preceding two days. It was the second cancellation of the season for the track, which is located one-half mile north of Greenbush on County Road 17.

Northland Community and Technical College men's basketball recruits, announced by Pioneers coach Rick Nikunen include, from left, Tristen Sjaahalm of Roseau, Kris Peterson of Tri-County and Matt Moen of Fosston. Also signing to play with the Pioneers was Jeremy Vacura of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

Four sign with NCTC men's team

Four area players have become the first recruits signed by Rick Nikunen, the recently-named men's head basketball coach at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

The foursome includes Kris Peterson, a 5-10 guard from Tri-County; Jeremy Vaeura, a 5-10 guard from Badger/Greenbush-Middle River; Tristan Sjaahem, a 6-0 guard from Roseau; and Matt Moen, a 6-5 forward from Fosston.

"These four area student-athletes give us a good start on the recruiting class for 1998-99," said Nikunen. "All of these young men saw extensive playing time in their high school careers and should be major contributors to the Pioneers' program."

Moen is a transfer student from the University of Minnesota-Crookston. "Matt has the skills and abilities to be one of our top scorers," noted Nikunen. "He averaged 22 points and 11 rebounds per game in his high school career and was one of the best area players a year ago. Jeremy, Kris and Tristan will be battling for the guard spots and should see a lot of action."

Nikunen stepped down as coach of the Northland women's basketball team to take the men's job following the resignation of Ted Krize at the close of the 1997-98 season.

American Legion baseball...

TRF matches 1997 win total

Heading into the third week of the 1998 schedule, the Thief River Falls American Legion baseball team has already matched its win total for the entire 1997 season.

Thief River Falls carried a 4-7 record into a scheduled Tuesday doubleheader at Blackduck. Post 117 will be part of the 10-team East Grand Forks Invitational Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

"I think we can become a pretty decent team," said first-year Thief River Falls coach Mike Wienen. "The kids are starting to believe in themselves."

A year ago the team finished the year 4-32.

Latest outings produced a pair of doubleheader splits last week. Saturday (June 13), Thief River Falls bounced back from an 11-0 first game defeat with a 9-8 second game victory over a strong Fergus Falls squad, and Tuesday (June16), Post 117 beat Red Lake Falls 7-5 in Game 1, but lost an 11-5 decision in Game 2. A Thursday twinbill against Perham was called off because of wet weather.

Wienen said he has been pleased with his team's pitching and hitting. Andrew Solem has been the top pitcher, figuring in three of the four wins. Duane Wolff, a 16-year-old making his Legion debut, was the winning pitcher in the second game victory at Fergus Falls.

Offensively, Wienen said key hits have been coming from Andy Harbott, Dayton Elseth, Nick Swanson, Derek Berg, and Solem.

Paul Frank has anchored the defense at shortstop, Berg has played solid second base and is valuable at other positions depending on pitching assignments, noted Wienen, and Elseth has played well in the outfield, the coach added. However, the defense, for the most part, hasn't been a team strength, he admitted.

Part of the problem, according to Wienen, is the work schedule carried by many of the players that is juggled for game days, but takes a major bite out of the practice turnout. The handful of players who are on hand for drills spend a bulk of the time taking batting practice. The offense benefits, but the defense suffers.

At East Grand Forks, Thief River Falls will be grouped in the Green Division with Park Rapids, Midway-Minto, Red Lake Falls and host East Grand Forks for the round-robin portion of the tournament that starts with a Thief River Falls vs. East Grand Forks match-up at 9 a.m. Friday.

Red Division will include Edina, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River, Devils Lake, Roseau and Dilworth.

The tournament will feature round-robin divisional match-ups Friday and Saturday, followed by the finals Sunday for ninth place, seventh, fifth, third and first – with the title game set for 5:30 p.m.

Next Thief River Falls home appearance at Irv Wilson Field will be a 6 p.m. Tuesday, June 30, doubleheader against Crookston.

Senior men's slow pitch softball team is being organized

Area senior men's slow pitch softball team is being organized for the 1998 season.

Plans are to have the Red River Grey Panthers, designed for players ages 55-over, playing exhibition games against regular slow pitch teams in the area. Organizers hope to have the team in place by July 1.

Those interested in joining the team or looking for additional information can call Glen Procchel in Red Lake Falls at 218-253-4149.

Old Mill State Park will present Music Festival

Local musicians are invited to participate in the Music Festival at Old Mill State Park Sunday, June 28.

Activity, which is open to all musicians who would like to share their talents, will start at 1 p.m. in the shady picnic area. Those planning to perform are asked to register by calling the park at 218-437-8174.

No vehicle permit is required for musicians who perform in the park that day. All other vehicles are required to have a vehicle permit when enter a Minnesota state park.

Junior golf tournament is slated at Oak Knolls

Oak Knolls Golf Course in Red Lake Falls will host a junior golf tournament Tuesday, July 28.

Entry fee, which includes lunch, is $10, or $5 for 9-hole groups. Shotgun start is scheduled for 9 a.m.

Medal play format will be used in the various age group brackets.

Send entries to Steve Philion, 518 Champagne Ave., Red Lake Falls, MN 56750.

TRAP LEAGUE

A record 18 perfect 25-straight scores were recorded during the weekly Monday (June 15) competition in the Thief River Falls Trap League.

Minnesota DNR bear clinic slated for TRF

Anyone interested in learning more about one of nature's most intriguing animals have until Friday, June 26, to register for Minnesota black bear clinics that the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources will conduct in August. One of the statewide sessions will be held Wednesday, Aug. 5, in Thief River Falls from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Lincoln High School auditorium.

Once an endangered species, Minnesota's black bear population has grown to nearly 20,000 animals due to conservation practices and public education. The increased population has also created some unique challenges and opportunities.

"Black bears will eat virtually anything, so it's common to find them foraging in urban areas for food," said DNR Senior Training Specialist Dick Anderson. "The clinics will provide simple suggestions to help prevent problems that may occur if a bear is spotted near your home."

Bear clinics also include tips on how to keep camp sites clean of items that might attract bears, how to store food so that bears cannot smell or reach it, and how to properly store and dispose of all garbage.

Seeing a black bear can be one of the most memorable experiences of a wilderness excursion. Encounters with bears are remembered and retold for years to come.

Anderson says the clinics will emphasize what people should and should not do when they come upon a black bear. "Preparation and education gained at the clinics are essential to ensure encounters with bears in the wild are positive and free from conflict," he said.

Information about bear population, diet, food sources, reproduction and hibernation as well as other information will also be provided at each clinic. Additionally, an up-to-date black bear handbook will be issued to each participant.

To register, send a $2 check payable to DNR-Black Bear along with your legal name, complete mailing address, telephone number, date of birth, driver's license number and the location of the clinic you wish to attend to Black Bear Clinics, DNR Enforcement, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4047.

In addition to the Thief River Falls session, area Minnesota bear clinics will be held Aug. 3 in Bemidji, Aug. 6 in Detroit Lakes and Aug. 8 in Moorhead.

DNR payments are issued to counties

Eighty-four of Minnesota's 87 counties will receive payments totaling more than $1.3 million during the month of June from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Bureau of Real Estate Management to compensate for property tax revenues on lands purchased for Minnesota Wildlife Management Areas.

According to a report issued by the Bureau of Real Estate Management, the WMA payments issued this summer – for Fiscal Year '97 – will range from a high of $81,564 on 7,998 acres in Chisago County, to a low of $402 on 330 acres in Rock County. In the 21 counties of DNR Region 1 in northwest and west-central Minnesota, payments range from $31,844 on 17,754 acres in Polk County to $667 on 524 acres in Lake of the Woods County.

DNR Division of Fish & Wildlife maintains 1,288 WMAs across the state, totaling more than 753,000 acres, managed for wildlife production, and habitat protection and improvement.

WMA payments on purchased lands are calculated using one of three formulas: either 35 percent of the gross receipts from all special-use permits and leases, or 50 cents per acre on purchased land actually used for WMAs, or three-quarters of one percent of the appraised value.

By law, county treasurers are required to distribute payments to the county, townships and school districts where the lands are located on the same basis as if the payments were received as property taxes.

In addition to public hunting ground payments, the DNR also makes in-lieu-of-tax payments to counties for other state-owned lands. Fiscal Year '97 in-lieu-of-tax payments are scheduled to be released next month. Last year, DNR public hunting ground payments and other in-lieu-of-taxes payments totaled more than $7.6 million.

WOMEN'S SOFTBALL

Cami Sorenson hit three home runs, Becca Leach homered twice, including a grand slam, Steph Leach and Shannon Jesme both hit single home runs, and Lacey Huschle was 3-for-3 as Dairy Queen-Sather Law beat Kandiyohi 19-3 in Wednesday (June 17) Thief River Falls Women's Slow Pitch Softball League play.

Despite losing to Pizza Hut 19-15 in the other half of the weekly doubleheader outing, the Dairy Queen-Sather Law offense was again in full swing as Becca Leach hit two home runs, Lisa Vettleson was 5-for-5 with a home run, Jesme went 4-for-4, and Colleen Rook also homered.

Tiffony Holmes and Karen Wickstrom were both 3-for-4, with Holmes, Alice Dahl and Brenda Ademek hitting home runs, as Dan's Trucking defeated Cellular 2000 6-4.

Swimmer's itch is yearly occurrence across state

Just like everything else, swimmer's itch arrived a little earlier this year, according to officials with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

Each summer many people swimming in Minnesota lakes will be affected with a condition known as swimmer's itch. It can appear anywhere from a few hours to a day or so after swimming in a lake. Chicken pox-like welts will appear on parts of the body that were submerged in the water, with the welts being accompanied by an intense itch.

These symptoms can last a few days or a couple of weeks, depending on the severity of the infection and the person's degree of sensitivity.

Over-the-counter remedies such as calamine lotion can help relieve the itch. If you think you have swimmer's itch, call your doctor for an accurate diagnosis and additional advice.

Swimmer's itch is caused by the immature life stage (called cercaria) of any of several flat worms, or flukes, which are parasites of a variety of birds and waterfowl. Cercaria are released from snails when the water temperature reaches approximately 60 degrees F. Cercaria only live for one or two days while searching for a proper host.

When the cercaria contacts a human, it attempts to burrow into the skin. After slight penetration, the immune system responds to this foreign protein and kills the cercaria. The parasite, aside from the itch, causes no other disease or parasitic condition in humans. Roughly 30 to 40 percent of people are sensitive to swimmer's itch to some degree. Much like poison ivy, some people react severely to the slightest exposure and others may not respond at all. Also, as with poison ivy, people tend to become more sensitive with each exposure.

As long as waterfowl and shore birds inhabit Minnesota lakes, swimmer's itch is likely to be a source of irritation for swimmers. However, in lakes where swimmer's itch is a problem, there are things people can do to protect themselves:

■ Towel off immediately after leaving the water. Cercariae are delicate. A brisk toweling off will kill those that may be attempting to enter your skin and will remove those trapped in water droplets next to your skin. Getting in and out of the water repeatedly, allowing water to dry on your skin, greatly increases the chance of getting the itch.

■ Do not swim on days when there is an on-shore breeze blowing toward your property. Swimmer's itch is more frequently a problem on the south and east shoreline of lakes. You may want to consider not swimming for a while if the wind has been blowing from the direction of a beach where swimmer's itch has been reported.

■ Do not encourage waterfowl to loaf on your dock. Many types of birds can harbor adult flukes capable of causing swimmer's itch. Do not attract waterfowl to your dock by feeding them. If you have a bird feeder, make sure it is located where bird droppings will not get in the lake. If ducks and shore birds frequent your dock you might consider installing a device designed to frighten them away.

When all else fails, homeowners may get a permit to treat their swimming area with copper sulfate. Application can be made by scattering the crystals uniformly over the lake bottom in the swimming area, or by dissolving it near the lake bottom in a gunny sack towed behind a boat or canoe. To avoid killing killing fish, the application should be made from the shoreline outward, driving fish out of the area.

If copper sulfate is used, the DNR recommends that you not swim in the area for a day or two following the treatment. There is evidence that copper sulfate, as it is killing the snails, also stimulates them to release the cercariae they contain.

For more information on swimmer's itch, call the DNR Ecological Services Section at 612-296-0782, or the regional DNR Section of Fisheries office.

Several accidents reported to local law enforcement

Law enforcement officials investigated a number of accidents during the past week.

Accidents. On June 16 at 6:50 p.m. police received a report of a car and motorcycle accident in the 200 block of West Third Street. Marvin Clarence Peters, Goodridge, was driving a car west and turning north into an alley, when his car was struck by a motorcycle driven by Dennis Dell Knutson, Thief River Falls, who was trying to pass two vehicles on the right. Knutson was thrown from the motorcycle, but the motorcycle continued and collided with a parked vehicle owned by Weston Ward Wicklund, Edina, and then continued for another half of a block before coming to a stop. Police report that Knutson had numerous injuries and was taken to Northwest Medical Center. Charges of aggravated and gross enhanced, driving while intoxicated, and failure to provide proof of insurance, are pending against Knutson. Police estimated damages at $400 to the Peters vehicle, $250 to the Knutson motorcycle, and $800 to the Wicklund vehicle.

On June 16 at 12:18 p.m. police received a report of an accident at 810 Reserve Avenue. Anthony Allen Perfecto, Thief River Falls, was driving a car north on Reserve, reached for a can of pop and his vehicle collided with a light pole. Police estimate damage to the Perfecto vehicle at $75, and $1,700 to the light pole. Perfecto was cited for violation of a learner's permit.

On June 16 at 12:40 p.m. police received a report of an accident in a parking lot near Thude-Upham Insurance. Michelle Rae Jesme, Middle River, was backing a car out of a parking stall when her car collided with a westbound vehicle driven by Sylvin Sandsmark Sorenson of Thief River Falls. Police estimated damages at $1,000 to each vehicle.

On June 17 at 3:01 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Fifth and Horace. Jody John Benedict, Thief River Falls, was driving a van east on Fifth, while a car driven by Tara Jo Ellingson, Thief River Falls, was traveling south on Horace. The vehicles collided in the uncontrolled intersection. Police estimated damages at $1,500 to the vehicle driven by Benedict, and $3,000 to the vehicle driven by Ellingson.

On June 19 at 10:13 a.m. law enforcement received a report of an accident at Highway 59 at Barzen Avenue. Warren David Fellman, Thief River Falls, was driving a van west on Highway 59, stopped to make a left turn when his vehicle was struck from behind by a car driven by Jonathon Russel Hugg of Strandquist. Officers estimated damage at $2,000 to the Hugg vehicle, and $1,500 to the Fellman vehicle. Hugg had a cut to his lip.

On June 22 at 6:46 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Fifth and Knight. Jennifer Michelle Gregorson, St. Hilaire was driving a car east on Fifth, while Jason Bart Walker, Thief River Falls, was driving south on Knight. The vehicles collided in the intersection. Walker was cited for driving after revocation. Gregorson and three passengers in her vehicle complained of injuries.

Driving while intoxicated. On June 16 at 11:55 p.m. police stopped a vehicle on Third Street for traveling too fast. Charges are pending against Ronald George Mokol, Jr., 31, Thief River Falls, for misdemeanor and aggravated driving while intoxicated, and refusal to test.

On June 20 at 1:38 a.m. police on patrol stopped a vehicle in the 200 block of Main. Charges for aggravated driving while intoxicated are pending against Loren Dean Stigen, 38, Thief River Falls.

On June 20 at 12:41 a.m. a sheriff's deputy stopped a vehicle. Charges for driving while intoxicated are pending against Dennis Frank Monrue, 62, Thief River Falls.

Assaults. On June 17 at 12:51 p.m. police received a call from a woman who said she had been hit in the face by another woman causing her glasses to break, while at a residence in the 300 block of West 10th Street. Veronica Lee Annis, 36, Thief River Falls, was cited for fifth degree assault.

On June 20 at 10 p.m. police received a report of assault. George Delbert Reese, 52, Thief River Falls, was cited for fifth degree assault. A female victim had been allegedly pushed causing injury to a finger.

Disorderly conduct. On June 20 at 6:15 a.m. police received a report of loud noise and a possible fight in the 300 block of South Arnold. Terri Lynn Neadeau, 29, Thief River Falls, was cited for disorderly conduct.

Vandalism. On June 19 at 12:53 p.m. the sheriff's department received a report that several tires had been slashed at a parking lot in St. Hilaire. On June 14, two tires on two separate vehicles had been slashed. On June 19, they reported that a total of 16 tires had been slashed. Damage loss was estimated at over $1,600.

Thefts. On June 15 at 10:45 a.m. a local business reported a shoplifting incident. The suspect had left by the time police arrived. They searched the area and received information about where to locate the suspect. The suspect was located at a nearby parking lot. Upon looking in the vehicle they found jeans and shoes that had been taken. Keith Robert Baune, 22, Bemidji, was cited for theft under $200 and possession of stolen property.

On June 17 at 10:37 a.m. police received a complaint that a person had taken a car without permission and had forged a number of checks. Charges are pending against a 17-year-old female of Thief River Falls for forgery.

Consumption under age. On June 22 at 2:16 a.m. police stopped a vehicle on Kneale Avenue. A 17-year-old male was cited for consumption under age.

On June 19 at 9:38 p.m. police received a call from a local business about someone putting gas in their vehicle and then leaving without paying. Officers located a vehicle matching the description of the vehicle. Mathew Byron Wilson, 18, Red Lake Falls, was cited for consumption under age. Joseph Herbert Derosier, 20, Red Lake Falls, was cited for possession of a small amount of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia. Troy Barge, 24, of Red Lake Falls, was taken to Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls following an accident one mile south of the Pennington County border on Highway 32.

Minnesota State Patrol received a report of the accident at 11:15 p.m. Friday, June 19. According to the accident report, Barge was driving a 1998 Chevrolet pickup south on Highway 32 went off the road to the left, overcorrected and went over the left again and rolled onto its side. There was extensive damage to the pickup.

Pets held at animal pound

Several pets are being held in the Thief River Falls Animal Pound. Each animal will be kept for a minimum of 10 days from the date of impoundment. Animals may be claimed by their owners by proving ownership. Pound fees, license fees and any other expense incurred by the police department will be assessed prior to release. Several pets will be given away to individuals willing to care for the pets.

For more information about the following pets, please contact the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center at 681-6161: a female gray cat, impounded June 18, in the 400 block of Red Lake Boulevard, and a male German short hair, impounded June 21 in the 300 block of South Spruce.

The following pets will be given away to individuals willing and capable of caring for the pets: a male black cat, brought to the Law Enforcement Center on June 5, a male lab/cross brought to the Law Enforcement Center on June 6, and a male lab/cross, impounded June 10 from the 300 block of North Arnold.

CORRECTION:

The news report on the death of Chris Scholin and arrest of Paul Monley incorrectly identified Lot 37 Riverview Trailer Court as the residence of Chris Scholin. According to the police report, the incident happened in the "area" of Lot 37, which was not rented by Scholin.

Inspector from New York will visit Camp MOE

Joseph Bruno, property consultant with the Girl Scouts of the USA, will be in this area Wednesday and Thursday, June 24 and 25, to make on-site visits to Camp MOE at Thief River Falls and Camp Tonweya at Valley City, ND.

Area residents interested in the Girl Scout program here and especially in continuation of use of Camp MOE southeast of the city are invited to a session with Bruno Thursday at 3 p.m. at Camp MOE.

The on-site visit has been requested by the Pine to Prairie Girl Scout Council board because of the controversial nature of the council's ownership and operation of the summer camp areas. Bruno's inspection will be one of several in an effort to utilize the camps this year.

Bruno will visit the Fargo, ND, satellite office at 4 p.m. and Camp Tonweya at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday. On Thursday he will be at the Grand Forks Service Center at 11 a.m., and Grafton, ND, cabin at 12:30 p.m. prior to coming to look at Camp MOE. From 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. he is scheduled to be at a town meeting at the Northland Inn at Crookston where he will be giving a presentation of his observations, discussing the proper council procedure for reviewing properties and answering questions about Girl Scout property.

Also expected to be present at the Camp MOE site visit will be Sara Olson of Thief River Falls, a member of the Pine to Prairie council board and the Camp MOE board, and Monica Millette, president of the council.

Olson said that inspections to date have been requested by the council and made by the Department of Health, fire department, and a compliance officer for the Americans with Disabilities Act. A safety inspection will also be made by the Pennington county sheriff's department.

Plans for day camp have been moved back pending approval of the inspections and it is presently expected the local day camp will be held in late July. Olson said the early inspections have indicated only very minor corrections to achieve compliance.

Delays announced in highways 1, 2, 220 seal coating

Due to unexpected delays, it is now anticipated that seal coating operations on highways 1, 2 and 220 in the northwestern Minnesota area will be completed at the beginning of August, according to the Mn/DOT office in Bemidji. The department had earlier announced that the operations would be done by July 3.

Sections under construction include highway 1 from Thief River Falls to Warren, highway 220 from Climax to East Grand Forks and Oslo to Robbin, and highway 2 from Crookston to approximately 10 miles east and approximately four miles of the westbound lanes east of Crookston.

These are slow-moving operations with loose rock and thick dust. Speeds through the work zone will be posted at 25 miles per hour and Mn/DOT is asking motorists to be extremely cautious around seal coat operations due to the possibility of broken windshields caused by flying rocks.

Persons arrested for speeding through work zones are assessed a double fine.

In appreciation for a donation to the Thief River Falls Education Foundation which permitted an art experience for all students in kindergarten at Challenger elementary school, Lowell and Marge Swenson were invited to the school by the kindergarten students and presented with a banner they had made. They are shown with some of the students in the above photos provided by the Education Foundation.

7 Lag Stevne for Norwegians at Wahpeton, North Dakota

More than 350 Norwegian Americans are expected to convene July 9-11 at the State College of Science in Wahpeton, ND for the annual 7 Lag Stevne. Sponsoring groups have roots in Hadeland, Land, Numedal, Sigdal, Ringerike-Drammen, Telemark and Toten in Norway.

The Numedalslag is celebrating the 90th anniversary of its founding this year. Entertainment will be presented at 1:30 and 7 p.m. Friday, July 10 with individual lag meetings beginning at 8 a.m. Saturday and a banquet held Saturday evening.

Registration of $15 per person before noon Friday includes three days of all activities. For more information contact Corrine Johnson in Bloomington at 612-831-8637.

Education Foundation makes several grants

Thief River Falls Education Foundation has made several grants recently to benefit students in the Thief River Falls public schools.

The foundation is a nonprofit foundation that promotes excellence in School District 564. Grants are made three times a year. For further information or to become a member of this organization, please contact Judy Dimich, executive director, at 681-8711.

One of the grants made this spring was for $700 to provide an art experience for all kindergarten students at Challenger elementary school. An art teacher came on a weekly basis to show them different art mediums.

The money for this grant came from a gift to the foundation from Lowell and Marge Swenson. The children wanted to thank them personally, so they were invited to the school where students sang for them and presented them with a banner they had made.

Other donations from the foundation were as follows:

- $1,000 to the community education golf program to help provide lessons at a reasonable cost to all students who are interested.
- $398 to purchase a die cast to be used to print cards that help students in the fourth and fifth grades learn their math facts.
- $497.97 to the Traveling Turtle science project at Challenger elementary school to provide a cart, cage and other supplies needed. Two turtles, Bossy and Yurtle, travel from classroom to classroom where they are used in science lessons.
- $2,200 to the Junior Great Books project to provide additional training for new volunteer leaders so the program can continue at Challenger.
- $1,500 to provide Lincoln high school science department with portable lab equipment to be taken on location for project work.
- $2,362.50 to the third grade SRA Reading Labs to purchase non-fiction books for each classroom and expand the reading program, which has been mostly fiction. The purchase is in response to the graduation standards where the emphasis is on non-fiction material.

Bergland named to AURI board

Bob Bergland of Roseau, former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, has been named to the board of directors of the Agricultural Utilization Research Institute headquartered in Crookston.

Also named to the board was Richard Schieck, representative of the Minnesota Pork Producers and a teacher at Belview-Danube-Renville-Sacred Heart schools.

Bergland, who also serves on the University of Minnesota board of regents, said he has always been interested in economic impact on rural communities.

"During the time I served as general manager of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association," he said, "we concentrated on home grown industries because they can make a real difference. I see AURI as being created with that in mind.

Bergland served as a member of the U.S. Congress from 1970 to 1977 and as Secretary of Agriculture under President Jimmy Carter from 1977 to 1980.

"There are endless possibilities," Bergland said about the role value added agriculture will play in keeping the economy of rural Minnesota healthy, "but we're going to have to be more resourceful. Utilization of crops will be even more important in the future."

AURI is a nonprofit corporation created to improve the economy of rural Minnesota through the development of new uses and new markets for the state's agricultural commodities.

Well, I'm back again! I enjoyed a lovely week from Monday to Friday at Detroit Lakes Holiday Inn as a guest of Marshall County Recorders. Marion took me along when she went. There was another mother as a guest and we sort of got together and everyone was so friendly.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hjelle attended the 25th anniversary party for Dan and Peggy Hogberg at the Evangelical Free Church in Newfolden on Sunday afternoon.

Gordon and Adella Skjerven and Corey and Julie Skjerven went to a wedding reception at Zion Lutheran, a rural church near Hoople, ND for Mr. and Mrs. Jay Skjerven, son of Dean Skjerven, Gordon's brother, and were guests at his home afterwards.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Erickson and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Grandstrand attended the Swedish Agassiz meeting at Lake Bronson on Saturday.

Visitors at the Tom Price home on Friday were Mitch, Kristin and Claudia Price of Grand Forks.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Erickson accompanied George and Emma Erickson to Larimore, ND on Thursday night to see the Community Theatre production of "Grease."

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Price went to Park River on Saturday to a wedding.

Joyce Kron attended the Lisa Relerson, Ryan Nelson wedding at St. Bernard's Church on Saturday.

Sunday visitors at Liz Swenson's home were her sister, Margaret Kirkeby of Drayton, ND and cousins, Lorraine Carlson of Fertile and Hazel Templeton of Winnipeg. Margaret remained to spend the night and returned to Drayton on Monday. We all visited at the Floyd and Arlene Erickson home in the afternoon.

Irene Holmstrom attended the wedding of grandson, Michael Bring to Carol Kazmiarczok at the Florian Catholic Church on Saturday.

Ethel Anderson arrived home late Wednesday after having spent several weeks visiting relatives in Wausau, WI.

Irene Grandstrand spent last weekend at the cities to attend graduation exercises for several great nieces. She was a house guest at Grace Lundins.

Melvin and Irene Grandstrand visited at the Gordon Grandstrand's home of rural Stephen on Sunday evening.

Hal and Ardella Anderson attended the wedding of Jon Gustafson to Doron Arnold on Saturday afternoon. They will make their home in Sioux Falls, SD.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Grandstrand went to Bemidji for the wedding of Robert Foss to Chris Sundvall on Saturday evening.

We are sorry to hear that Richard Ness is a patient at the hospital in Thief River Falls.

So far the weather seems to have been quite favorable for the farmer. We hope the weatherman will favor us with good weather through harvest so their dreams may be realized. The Tri-Coops are really hoping for good crops. They have started preparing for that bountiful crops by erecting two large steel bins which we can see shining west of the north/south highway by the elevator. J and K Construction is erecting the bins which were purchased through Our Own Lumber and Hardware. They are 42,000 bushel steel bins, full floor with two, ten-horsepower fans. They should be completed by July 1. Brian Klein, manager, says with the more diversified farming in the area with the addition of soybeans and canola, the Coop found it necessary to add storage and hopes for good use of them in the fall.

After a session of Bible School, the Gully-Trail parish pupils and teachers presented a program for us on Friday evening with 48 youngsters attending including pre-schoolers. The teachers were kept busy. With 17 preschoolers, Lori Voltz, Helen Sordahl and Marlene Rasmussen presented an interesting part in the program although the youngsters weren't so sure they needed to stay on the stage for their part. Kindergarten pupils were taught by Debbie Swens, Amber Hunter and Darran Lee. Linda Godtland had first grade, Kelsey Flatland, second grade, Cindy Kolling had fourth grade, Terry Bergerson had sixth grade, and Terri Slage had seventh and eighth grade. Jodi Thompson took care of the music and Grace Walton, Christine Borgerson, Cathy Bergerson and Marcy Watha helped out wherever needed. After the program, the teachers served coffee, lemonade and cookies for an enjoyable evening. Thanks to the teachers, pupils and helpers!

With the nice weather, people travel around, and this week we saw two former residents of the area. Don Beaumont, who taught in Fosston for 38 years, was happy to see former pupils from Gully. Lawrence Forsberg was also here for a cup of coffee. We are so happy to have the men and their wives nearby again.

We are again reminded of the Gully All-School reunion being held at the Community Center in Gully on July 5 from one to five o'clock. People are all invited including former teachers, students, friends, family members, cooks, janitors, parents and electricians. Please bring one dish to share with others and your own plates and silverware. Coffee will be served during the afternoon.

On Sunday afternoon many friends and relatives joined us at Clearwater Lake at Carol and Les' cabin to help us celebrate our 60th wedding anniversary. When one is permitted to celebrate that many years one can't expect to be able to celebrate too many more, so we made use of the day and made it a joyous occasion. Our family, Doraan and Gay and Carol and Les, and their families had prepared for a good day of eating, visiting and relaxing and the weatherman cooperated and gave us a beautiful day until on our way home when we were caught in a "down pour" of rain. Weren't we lucky? It was if the clock had been turned back several years. Many of the former "Gully Groups" were there, only looking a bit older, but enjoying reminiscing about the older days. After an enjoyable afternoon the hostesses served a tasty lunch. Three of the four attendants of 60 years ago were still with us - Doris Rindahl, Luella Arveson and Lloyd Brovold. The fourth one, Walter Hanson is not living. Arnold and Sanna Brovold were married June 16, 1938 at the Nazareth Church in Hickory Township, Pennington County with Rev. Sivert Fladmark officiating. A reception followed at the bride's home - the H. T. Hanson home.

What a happy surprise when we got to the Mall Monday morning to see some of the "snow birds" back in the area. Mr. and Mrs. Omar Qualley were back for the summer. They had enjoyed the winter and had visited Lois (Layton) Backman in Atlanta, had attended a convention in Dallas, visited mother in Kansas and also Omar's cousin in Michigan.

Rueben and Clarice Kolling were also back and they together with Halvor and Vivian Rikje, Calvin Kolling and Omar Qualley's were enjoying breakfast together. We're happy to have them back and if we could promise them next winter as nice as 1997-98 they might even consider staying to enjoy a Minnesota winter again.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Emerson and Sonny Berg visited Effie Handy on Sunday afternoon.

This weekend was a momentous weekend for many of us. On Saturday we got together with the Christine Ellertson family at Lund church. We couldn't help but shed tears and still we couldn't help but feel we couldn't wish for anything different for Christine. She had 102 years of a loving life of devotion and caring for others. She had been the best wife, mother, grandmother, great-grandmother and friend to so many of us. We heard many personal reflections of the past from members of the family. Duane and Norman and other relatives and friends all remembered her as a loving devoted Christian lady who was always willing to serve in different capacities to promote the church and community. When Christine and her husband, Ed Ellertson, and their four sons, Norris, Duane, Norman and Carroll lived in Gully, many of us remember them living in the large square white house on the hill now owned by Wayne Brakke. After the memorial service, Wayne invited them over to have a look at the old house. It turned out to be an interesting excursion for the three sons, Norris, Duane and Norman and their families still living. They ventured through the house and ended up in the attic. Here things had been pretty much left by the Brakke's. There on the shelf was the tennis racket that Duane had won at the raffle at the Dempsey-Gurino fight about 50 years ago. Also there was the picture that Carol had painted after he had attended the opera in New York and was so impressed by the group of beautiful dancing girls that he painted a picture of them. Christine was not too impressed by his painting of the dancing girls. Grace Brakke wasn't too impressed either so the picture landed on a shelf in the attic until now when Duane saw it and could claim it as its rightful owner. Also on the shelf was a short wave radio that Duane would bring along to the Gully School so his classmates and teachers could listen to Adolph Hitler speaking. The Ellertsons enjoyed seeing how the fruit (apple and plum) orchard planted by Gust Wetnebryn, on their former property, was still thriving. Gust had put a fence around the fruit trees to save the fruit.

Christine had spent time in Zululand, South Africa, when her son, Rev. Carroll Ellertson served there with the American Lutheran Church Missionary Service in 1957 to 1979. Christine was often at Thief River Falls when Rev. Carroll served Trinity Lutheran Church there. Rev. Carroll passed away on January 2, 1985 at age 60, with funeral services at St. Anthony Park Lutheran Church in St. Paul. It did not seem to be as much of a job raising four sons for Christine and Ed as for many. Mostly insignificant troubles like when Norman thought he should have filling in his crackers so he put a good portion of black dirt between the crackers and ate it. Rev. Erick Midthun from Gonvick officiated at the service for Christine Ellertson on Saturday. The Lund Ladies Aid served a meal after the committal service.

Back Home

Kathy Juneau is back in Plummer after spending over two weeks in Wisconsin. Ron and Kathy left Plummer on May 28 and drove to their sister, Diane (Duane) Barker's home in Sussex, WI. That night we all went out for a great meal. The next day Ron and I went to our daughter Sherry's home in Milwaukee to visit with Sherry, son-in-law, Matt, granddaughter, Stephanie, and new grandson, Clayton, born March 19, 1998. Late that night Grandpa drove back to Plummer, stopping in Minneapolis to visit with his Aunt and Uncle, Jean and Erv Hanson. I had a great time with everyone going shopping, playing with Clayton, going to the lake and taking long walks with my Sherry. I was also able to go to closing school year worship service at Jordan Evangelical Lutheran Church where Stephanie attends their Christian Day School. Stephanie is nine years old. She received an academic certificate for being a honor student. Another night we attended Stephanie's May Day-Lei Day program at the country club. Stephanie is part of a Hawaiian Dance Club and her presentation for the evening was Maori Medley. Sunday came the big storm and some of my family were without phone or electricity but my brother, Earl was hit hard with part of his roof on his home off and one of his greenhouses destroyed. The roof on the greenhouse was found four miles away. The next three days my brother, sisters and a lot of other family members all pulled together to help get things back together or as much as we could. On Tuesday I saw my son, David and his fiancee (a very sweet girl). Also my brother, his girls, Heidi and Wendi, friend Kumiko and myself went to dinner. On Wednesday night my sister, Dixie Lee Eckert, had the great honor to throw the ball at the opening of the game between the Milwaukee Brewers and the Atlanta Braves. That night I stayed at my sister, Diane's home and their son John and wife Sherri came for a nice visit. On Thursday, Diane and I stopped to see Dixie and then I went back to Sherry's home where Stephanie and I spent the day together shopping and went to lunch. Friday Sherry's son-in-law, Matt, Stephanie and Clayton took me to the train. I got off in Minneapolis where Aunt and Uncle Hanson picked me up. The next day Ron came and we all had a great day together. That evening after going out for dinner, Ron and I returned home on Sunday.

Graduation

Fern and Floyd Hesse accompanied by Loretta Hesse drove to Elk River to attend the graduation party for their granddaughter, Amanda Grinde on Saturday. It was held at the home of her mother, Diana Grinda. Other family members present were Chuck and Jalayne Simpson, Wade and Sarah Grinda of Spring Grove, Joyce and Kimberly Magers, Donnie Hesse of Elk River and her sister, Erika Grinde. Many friends of the area gathered to wish her well.

WELCA Meets

The Women of Immanuel met at the church on Thursday afternoon, June 4. President Lucille Kvasager presided. Duties for the spring cleaning of the church were assigned and other minor business discussed. The Rachel Circle with Avis Frolland in charge had a program based on Psalm 51:10. Songs and readings made it a very thoughtful afternoon. Hostesses were Helen LaFayette, Gloria Fossum, Fern Eskelt, Carole Konickson and Ramona Hoden.

Redeemer Lutheran Ladies Aid met on Tuesday last week at the home of Arlene Zimpel with ten members present. Pastor Brockopp led in the evening's study and Fern Hesse presided over the business.

The Esther Circle of Immanuel met at the home of Rosemary Eskelt on Wednesday afternoon. Ten members were present and Alma Hanson led them in the Bible Study. President Amalia Eskelt was in charge of the business.

Eight members of the Rachel Circle met on Thursday afternoon at the church. Effie Byer was the Bible study leader. President Bunny DuChamp was in charge of the business and lunch was potluck.

Strandquist News

F. Myrtle Vagle • 436-2133

The weather in northwest Minnesota is making us realize how fortunate we are living in this area while only about 100 miles in any direction from us they are crying disaster because they got too much rain again. Here we are favored with just enough so we didn't have to water the garden and lawns. After a couple of good thunder storms the grass is growing as fast as the weeds, making Roy almost run to keep up to his new lawn mower, twice in a week.

The Strandquist seniors were saddened this week when one of their members passed away and on Saturday they paid their respects to their dear friend, Clara Nelson, who will really be missed by all.

On Monday, June 15, Margaret, Jeff and Sara Donaldson hosted a birthday party supper for Alaura who turned eight years of age. Those who came to wish her a happy birthday were Great-grandma, Elsie Lofrooth, Elaine Grovum, Grandpa Donaldson, Grandpa and Grandma Lofrooth, Loyal, Shelley, Taylor and Emily Lofrooth, Lisa, Elliott, Allison, and Edwin Lofrooth, Doreen and Tara Nelson, Kelly, Amanda, and Jessica Lofrooth, Henry, Vanette, Stephanie, Zach, Noelle and Krystine Pottle, Brent, Mary, Megan, Larisae and Mallory Krantz. Every one had a good time.

On Wednesday, Alaura and Sara went bowling to help Katie Hanson celebrate her birthday.

Kristin Kleinvachter is spending a few days in Cavalier, ND, with her friend, Kelly.

Doon and JoAnne Holmstrom spent the weekend visiting Douglas, Karleen and Parker Holmstrom at Farmington.

Isaac and Betsy Thompson were pleased to hear that their granddaughter, Kari Thompson received the Miss Congeniality award at the Miss Minnesota pageant at Austin Saturday evening.

LaVonne and Brian Johnson and Becky and Michelle Johnson and Jake came to Peter Thompson's to wish Peter a Happy Father's Day. Sherrie Stewart called from Bloomington.

Elaine Grovum of Thief River Falls brought her mother, Elsie Lofrooth a dozen beautiful red roses for an early birthday present before she took Elsie to the birthday party for Alaura Donaldson.

Recent visitors at Judy Kleinvachter's were Elmer Holmstrom, Steffan.

Elsie Lofrooth's 87 birthday came on Thursday, and with the excellent help of Betsy Thompson, an open house was held at the house all afternoon. Her guest list contained all five of her sisters, plus Donna Renstrom, Robert Thompson, Marcelyn Lindstrom, Otto and Doris Sang, Karen Zimmerman, Jimmie, Sara and Jessica, JoAnne Holmstrom, Roy Vagle, Vance and Adrienne Lofrooth, Shirley and Merlys Lofrooth, Greg, Ramona and Austin, Lois Freeman, Melanie Lofrooth of Willmar, Margaret Donaldson and Pearl Thompson. JoAnne brought a beautiful crystal vase with a dozen roses and baby's breath which Elsie brought to church on Sunday. Donny Lofrooth of Winnipeg also visited her on Sunday. Belated well wishers were Vance Jr. and Kelly, Amanda and Jessica, Elphia Adila, Rick and Karen Zimmerman. Isaac and Betsy Thompson and Pearl Thompson finished off the celebrations with a pie on Friday evening.

This week will be a full one for us as we intend to be in Roseau for a golden anniversary and then back home to attend the big wedding of our niece, Jenny.

Fireworks Injuries Are Fourth of July Threat

Although illegal in Minnesota for many years, fireworks still find their way into the state from nearby states which allow such sales. Most of their use is around the Fourth of July holiday, and that is when most injuries happen, although in some areas of the country fireworks are common on Labor Day, New Year's Eve, Christmas and Mardi Gras.

We know that there is excitement for children in various types of fireworks, from sparklers and firecrackers to bottle rockets and fountains, pinwheels and other display type explosives. People of all ages have a fascination for the sound and color of fireworks and, properly handled, they can indeed be enjoyable.

But fireworks are unpredictable, and so are the actions of too many people using them. Some users are careless, some are lacking in common sense, some are prone to make mistakes. All can have an accident happen despite cautions. Many users, especially young people, are unfamiliar with the hazards which fireworks present. None should have to suffer the pain or long-term results of an injury to themselves or that they cause to others.

Of the approximately 7,000 fireworks-related injuries each year in the United States, approximately 2,000 are eye injuries caused by consumer fireworks, according to the Sight and Hearing Association in St. Paul. About a third of those injuries result in permanent eye damage and one-fourth in permanent vision loss or blindness. Nearly one in 20 victims loses all useful vision or requires removal of the eye. That is a scary statistic.

Another frightening statistic is that 40 percent of all eye injuries caused by consumer fireworks are inflicted on bystanders. Probably the bulk of these are caused by careless people lighting and throwing firecrackers or intentionally or unintentionally directing bottle rockets toward people. Bottle rockets are the single most dangerous type of firework because they fly erratically at speeds up to 200 miles per hour; explode in midair, causing bystander injuries; and the bottles and cans used to launch them often explode, showering fragments of glass or metal.

Three-fourths of all fireworks-related injuries are to boys between the ages of 13 and 15 and four out of five fireworks injuries happen to males. Even sparklers, which are often given to young children, burn at 1,800 degrees Fahrenheit—a temperature hot enough to melt gold and certainly hot enough to cause serious burns.

Ophthalmologists say most eye injuries can be prevented by wearing protective eyeglasses or goggles when setting off fireworks, but it is unlikely bystanders will be equipped with such protection. Use of firecrackers or rockets in crowds or where young children are present is an open invitation to disaster. Parents concerned about the prevention of injury to young children should remove them from areas where consumer fireworks are being used.

The cost of a single fireworks package is said to average about two dollars—a fraction of the cost of a hospital emergency room visit or the possibility of necessary surgery, physical therapy or lifelong blindness.

The safest way to enjoy fireworks is to watch a public display, such as the one to be presented Sunday, June 28, at dusk in Thief River Falls. The aerial display can be viewed from the county fairgrounds on the west end of the city. It will offer much, much more than any personal fireworks purchase could provide and it's free to all viewers. Spectacular, free and safe—how can you beat a deal like that?

No Shortage Of Summer Fun In TRF Area

An American Festival this coming weekend, June 27 and 28, will be the opening event of several celebrations in the immediate Thief River Falls area again this summer. The festival will be followed by the All-Nations Cultural Festival in St. Hilaire Saturday and Sunday, July 11 and 12, and the Pennington County Fair which has expanded to a six-day extravaganza July 14-19.

A special feature of An American Festival is the 49th annual Northwest Dairy Day cattle show which will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Pennington county fairgrounds. Some 35 young people from throughout the 16-county Region 1 of the American Dairy Association of Minnesota have pre-registered to show 60 dairy animals at the show. In addition, dairymen and dairy enthusiasts in the area are arranging for a number of events and activities to involve the public during the 11 a.m. to approximately 2 p.m. show.

Other Saturday events are the Sparkler Sprint and Little Sparkler Run Saturday morning, Miss Thief River Falls Scholarship Pageant at 6:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium, and fairgrounds events including a tractor pull, beer garden, flea market and swap meet.

Sunday events at the fairgrounds are a craft show and flea market, Bingo, beer garden, acrobatic kite show, professional go-cart race, lumberjack shows at 2 and 7 p.m., amateur lumberjack Olympics, amateur talent contest, model train demonstration, Northern Pride turkey bowl, karaoke, Prairie Schooners car show, Kitty Cat rides, fireworks and bonfire.

Other activities Sunday include a pancake breakfast from 8 a.m. to noon at the curling club building, an outdoor church service at United Methodist Church at 9 a.m., and a parade beginning at 12:30 p.m.

The All-Nations Cultural Festival has about a dozen groups of entertainers representing a wide variety of nations and cultures with songs and dances and a full schedule on July 11 and 12. For those who haven't previously attended, this is a unique and enjoyable experience at a modest cost.

Pennington County Fair is offering a couple of special pre-sale promotions which are great values. An entertainment ticket priced at $20 for adults and $12 for children includes admission to five events—motocross racing, a country western concert by Jeff Moore and Kathy Lee Ogden and Renegade, two nights of professional bull riding and the annual Jaycee demolition derby. A $25 mega ride pass entitles the holder to unlimited carnival rides for all six days of the fair. Details on advance purchase are in the Pennington County Fair premium list distributed last week and available at The Times office and other area locations.

There is no lack of entertainment in this busy summer. Plan now to get in on the action.

Peter and Frances Gerszowski attended the funeral of Paul Bedard at the St. Bernard's Catholic Church in Thief River Falls on Saturday, June 6, at 11 a.m.

Friday evening Arnold and Vernice Larson visited and enjoyed lunch at the Roy and Laura Roppe home and also visited with Rick and Geraldine Dalby of Atlanta, GA. They had a real nice visit.

Monday, June 15, Curt and Elaine Thompson were guests to a tasty dinner at the home of Roger and Robbin Mathson and family. Then Elaine had a doctor's appointment at 12:45 in Grand Forks. When we finished there we met our son, Mark, at the C'mon Inn Motel where he spent the night as he drives for American Linen Co. out of Fargo and Grand Forks is part of his route. We visited awhile and then took Mark out for supper at the Royal Fork. We enjoyed the evening very much and it was good to get home. When we had been home a few moments, Harvey Skyberg came over and had a snack and pop with us while visiting.

Tuesday evening visitors and luncheon guests of the Hanna Moen home were Muriel Nelson, Della Elseth and Ellen Flaten. Afterwards Ellen took them all out for a ride.

Thursday Roy and Laura Roppe and Rick and Geraldine Dalby went to Grand Forks and did some shopping. Afterwards Roy and Laura took Rick and Geraldine out for supper for their 26th anniversary.

Tuesday, Tillie Olson visited with Helen Sorenson and JoAnn Gibe from San Jose, CA and had a nice visit.

Monday, Clara Hanson took the bus to Bemidji. Her son, Dave Hanson and his two grandsons, Brian and Brandon, took Clara back home.

Friday evening visitors at the Milton Erickson home were Jason Erickson, Shelly Sloablar and Ashley, Jene Schaumberg and Matt and Mrs. Jerry Gillund. They also saw Matt's new colt.

Sunday, Hilme Lee accompanied Martin and Joan Lee to Grand Forks to visit with Darren and Tricia Lee.

Saturday morning, Arnold and Vernice Larson visited with Richard Larson at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls. Afterwards they left to visit with Jim and Marsha Larson, Bryce and Rachel at their lake home. They enjoyed visiting and also had a boat ride.

On Saturday, June 13, Curt Thompson, Sam Spearhawk and Harvey Skyberg spent most of the day working up at Lake Bronson at the Bible Camp. Mark left for home after supper and Sam visited us for awhile which we enjoyed.

Sunday those that visited and helped Hanna Moen with some work were Kenny and Gweny Hjelle, Kim Fonlulik, Tracey and Abbie Austed and Marvin and Betty Moen.

Friday morning, Roy Roppe, Wallace Roppe and Rick Dalby went to Lake of the Woods to do some fishing, but didn't have much luck.

Monday visitors at the Lillie Olson home were Chuck and Sherry Olson, Jared Olson and Yvonne Hurt of Virginia.

Wednesday evening supper guests at the Emil and Lyla Vacura home were Clara Hanson, Dave Hanson and his grandsons, Brian and Brandon.

Monday forenoon visitors at the Roma Erickson home in Strathcona were Beverly Erickson and Vick Waage.

Mark Thompson and Sam Spearhawk of Thief River Falls spent a day a few weeks ago helping Dad, Curt Thompson, pour both driveways. Elaine fixed meals for the three hungry men as they worked hard. It sure looks nice.

Harvey Skyberg visited his sister, Rose Nelson on Tuesday and enjoyed lunch with her. Judy Kotaba was also a guest there.

Seal coating on area highways starts this week

Bituminous seal coating of Highway 1 between Warren and Thief River Falls and Highway 220 between Climax and East Grand Forks was expected to get underway this week, according to the Minnesota Department of Transportation.

Motorists are advised that alternating use of lanes will be in place and drivers are to reduce speeds and drive cautiously through these work zones where loose rock and thick dust may be encountered.

Depending on weather conditions, the project is expected to be completed by July 3. Drivers are reminded that fines are doubled for anyone caught speeding through a work zone.

Chas Engelstad on dean's list at Moorhead State

Chastity "Chas" Engelstad, daughter of Mitch Engelstad of Thief River Falls and Pam Ninneman of Halstad, has been placed on the spring semester dean's list at Moorhead State University.

To qualify, MSU students must maintain a semester GPA of at least 3.25 while completing a minimum of 12 graded credits.

Local Band Much In Demand In Area

"Since the Thief River Falls Legion municipal band made its debut on Memorial Day in snappy new uniforms of cocoa brown and tan with gold trim, the services of the organization have been in frequent demand throughout this section of the state.

"Most recent appearance was Tuesday when the band participated in the parade that featured the state firemen's convention in East Grand Forks in the afternoon, followed by a street concert in the evening. Marjorie Wongenstein, drum majorette, gave a twirling demonstration.

"Monday evening the musicians shared in the Elks Flag Day parade and program, while last Friday the band journeyed to Red Lake Falls to play at the fiftieth anniversary and street-paving celebration.

"The band will also give a short concert in front of the auditorium Friday evening at 7:30 in connection with the district Sons of Norway convention. Vern Kiefenheim has served recently as director in the absence from the city of Glen Ahre."

Jaycees Will Conduct Sale of Booster Buttons

"The Junior Chamber of Commerce has designated Friday, June 18, as Jaycee Booster Button Day, when a city-wide canvass will be conducted to sell the insignia, it was announced today by Burton Emanuel, chairman in charge. The committee seeks to have a button displayed on every coat lapel in Thief River Falls, as the proceeds will be used to aid in financing expenses in connection with the 1948 Jaycee Sports carnival July 3, 4 and 5. Mayor Harry Simons today joined in urging support of the button sale."

Fred Will Brings In Flax Already 14 Inches High

"Fred Will of this city Saturday brought into the Times office an excellent specimen of Crystal flax being raised in a 30-acre field on his farm in Bray township. Seeded late in April, the flax is already 14 inches tall and appears to be in a very healthy condition."

Thief River Falls Ball Club Will Make Bow In New Uniforms

"The Thief River Falls baseball team natily attired in new uniforms of white and scarlet, will make their first home stand of the season on the fairgrounds diamond next Sunday afternoon, June 20 at 2:30, when the Red Lake Falls club will furnish the opposition.

"To ensure a royal reception for the team, sponsors announced today that an advanced sale of tickets will be conducted this week-end.

"As a stimulation to the young athletes to do their best, local merchants have set up a number of prizes to be awarded to the players performing special exploits."

Unseasonably Chilly Weather Limits Number Visiting Pool

"Despite unseasonably cool weather the past week, young swimmers turned out in relatively large numbers at the Tindolph park swimming pool, Quentin Jones, director, stated today.

"He added that Marilyn Waale, Phyllis Simon and Beverly Larson have completed their beginners work and are now swimming, while James Kvikstad is completing the intermediate course. Many of the older boys and girls have entered on the junior life-saving course.

"Tindolph park also provides facilities for pingpong, basketball and other ball-type games."

Total Employment In City Continues Upward

"While total employment increased 2.1 percent compared to April, the construction industry showed an increase of 25 percent, it is revealed in the monthly report on labor market trends prepared by the local employment office. The analysis reveals that the labor supply in the city is estimated at only 70 persons, the majority of whom are over 50 or under 18 years of age."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

50 YEARS AGO • JUNE 17, 1948

Editorial comments from the files of Norm A. Holen

—With all the construction activity currently under way in Thief River Falls, the town seems to be suffering from an acute attack of growing pains.

—One of the nation's business leaders told the truth when he said that what this country needs is the spirit of "togetherness."

—The U.S. Department of Commerce reports that the American people spent $9,600,000,000 for liquor in 1947. That is what might be called a staggering figure.

—The Baudette Region tells about four industrious Pennington county men who caught 100 walleyes in Lake of the Woods, while the legal limit was 32. Yes, they paid a fine.

—There is no family resemblance between the old Model T and the 1949 Model that makes its bow Friday.

—Safety slogan: Watch the tyke on a bike!

—Wadena folks used "dry ice" to produce rain recently and they reported the experiment was successful.

—Appalling fact: The Minnesota tax commissioner tells us that one dollar out of every four taken in goes for taxes.

—There are lots of strikes in bowling alleys, but the places are seldom picketed.

—When a man reaches for his hip these days, says Billy Noonan, you don't know whether you're going to be shot or half-shot.

—We know all about indelible pencils, but we never heard of a delible one.

—Wonder if Harold Stassen's heart isn't fluttering a bit with the approach of June 21, the opening day of the Republican National convention.

Double Shower

"The Lady Foresters entertained on Monday evening in the form of a double shower in honor of Miss Ilet LeSage, who becomes the bride of Jerome G. Couple of Michigan tomorrow, and Mrs. Sam Plough, formerly Miss Esther Soards. The party was given at the lodge rooms of the Foresters in the I.O.O.F. hall. As a token of love and esteem the honored guests were presented with a neat purse [a gift of money] by the lodge. A pleasant evening was spent at dancing, followed by refreshments served at 11 o'clock."

Engagement Is Announced (From the Baudette Region)

"Saturday morning at seven o'clock twelve of the intimate friends of Miss Lela Ennis were invited to breakfast on the porch of the G. A. Murray home. The ladies were all curious to know the meaning of such an early invitation and they soon discovered it. Between the first and second courses a special delivery letter was given to Mr. John Morris and on opening it, a little black bag which contained a paper cat fell out. On it was the announcement of the engagement of Miss Ennis and Mr. H. C. Lende, county agent. The date of the wedding is a secret until another similar letter is received."

Trinity Lutheran Church

"T. E. Sweger, Pastor. Trinity Aid meets Thursday afternoon this week in the church parlors. Parochial school now in session. Children welcome to take up work any time. No services Sunday. The congregation is expected to attend en masse the Circuit Young Peoples rally, choral concert and program at Roseau. Dr. J. A. Aasgaard, vice president of the general church body, and Professor C. M. Weswig, teacher at Luther Theological Seminary, will be present and give addresses. Confirmation on Sunday, July 1."

Swedish Evangelical Mission Church

"O. J. Lundell, Pastor. Next Sunday: Sunday school at 10 a.m. Morning services at 11 a.m. No service in the evening. Prayer meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. At St. Hilaire the annual Mission meeting next Saturday and Sunday, June 23 and 24. Services Saturday at 10 a.m., 2 and 8 p.m. Sunday: address to Sunday school at 10 a.m.; services at 11 a.m., 2 and 7:30 p.m. Evening services both days will be in the English language. Rev. T. H. Clemens of Warren and Rev. C. S. Lundquist will be the speakers. All cordially invited."

"Rapp & Post have a full line of straw hats, which are just the thing for this kind of weather.

"Get your bunting before it is gone. All of our merchants have a few rolls on hand.

"St. Hilaire will celebrate the glorious Fourth in a fitting manner. Come and take it in.

"The Red Lake pine lands will be sold at auction in forty acre tracts at Crookston August 16.

"The St. Hilaire Lumber company now has 16 million feet of logs in the Red Lake river.

"There was a run on 25 cent canvass hats and in consequence everyone wears one.

"A good steady rain has been falling for the past eight hours and doing an untold amount of good to the crops.

"The Meehan brothers of Thief River Falls will put in an electric light plant in order to run their sawmill at night.

"M. A. Holl has a large stock of fire crackers and bunting that will be in great demand here as the weeks roll around.

"Owing to the heavy headwinds the past few days it was difficult to get enough logs down into the boom to supply the mill.

"Very few people in St. Hilaire remained home last Sunday. The baseball game at Red Lake Falls and the excursion train accounts for it all.

"At the annual school meeting Saturday evening Daniel Patterson was elected clerk. It was decided to have nine months of school the coming year, commencing September 5.

"St Hilaire now has five secret societies with good chances of the sixth in the near future.

"By the way, would it not be a good idea to get together and build a good hall? We surely need one.

"A shivoree took place on the west side last evening and all the big and little boys in town were there with such instruments as they could find that would make a noise, and it was done with the purpose of giving Louis Carpenter a good start in married life, which he appreciated as he handed the leader a couple of dollars to invest in peanuts and candy. The crowd departed in peace."

FOURTH OF JULY

Will be Celebrated at St. Hilaire In a Good Old Fashioned Way
A Programme is Being Prepared that will Please the Masses
St. Hilaire Invites You All To Join And Help Celebrate the Day

"At a meeting of the citizens held at the village hall Monday evening it was decided that a Fourth of July celebration be held in a fitting manner. During the day several prominent citizens canvassed the town and reported the sum of $500.00 collected which would be put up as prize money for the many different sports that will come off. Committees have been appointed and arrangements are being perfected to have Prof. West of St. Paul make one of his balloon ascensions and descend in a parachute from about one thousand feet in the air. A first-class cornet band will furnish music at intervals during day and evening. A match game of baseball will be played in the afternoon. As yet the programme has not been made up, but the committee in charge will see that nothing is overlooked in the way of entertaining a large crowd to their entire satisfaction. Below we mention a few of the water sports that will take place at the foot of Water and Second streets and more will be added in due time: walking the greased pole suspended over the water with a prize at the end, a log rolling contest, boat races, a tub race, diving contests and swimming races.

"Everybody should come and see the fun, as a regular old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration you will witness. Make your arrangements now to be present. Take your wife and children along with you. If you have none take your best girl and as many others as you like, but come and enjoy the National Day."

Another Ball Game

"The Great Northern was insured a sufficient sum to run an excursion from Crookston via Thief River Falls to Red Lake Falls Sunday to give the ball playing fraternity a chance to see the upper Falls ball team beaten by the lower Falls team. The train consisted of five coaches and contained about 500 people, St. Hilaire furnishing 206. Upon the arrival of the train at the depot the excursionists were met by the Red Lake Falls band and escorted to the ball ground. The game was called about 3 p.m. and witnessed by about 1,500 people. At the close of the game the score stood 13 to 36 in favor of Red Lake Falls."

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE

NOTICE is hereby given that: Default has occurred in the conditions of that certain mortgage dated June 10, 1980 given to secure an original principal amount of $545,000.000 executed by Julian Gunderson and Shirley Gunderson, Husband and Wife, as mortgagors to the United States of America, acting through the Rural Development, formerly known as Farmers Home Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Mortgagee, and duly recorded with the County Recorder in Pennington County, Minnesota on June 10, 1980 as document number 111154, Book 164 of Records on Page 587.

No action or proceeding has been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof; all preforeclosure notice requirements have been complied with.

There is due and claimed to be due on the mortgage and the note secured thereby, including interest to the date of this Notice and including advances $1,703.40 plus interest from the date of each advance to the date of this Notice, the sum of FOUR HUNDRED FIFTY ONE THOUSAND SIX HUNDRED NINETY FOUR DOLLARS AND 56/100 ($451,694.56). Pursuant to the power of sale therein contained, said mortgage will be foreclosed and the tract of land lying and being in the County of Pennington, Minnesota, described as follows:

"LOT THREE (3), BLOCK FOUR (4), GUNDERSON FIRST ADDITION TO THE CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINNESOTA ACCORDING TO OFFICIAL PLAT THEREOF ON RECORD will be sold by the Sheriff of Pennington County at public auction on the 9th day of July at 10:00 a.m. o'clock in the County Sheriff's office in Thief River Falls to pay the debt then secured by said mortgage, taxes, if any on said premises, and the costs and disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption within Six (6) months from said date of sale.

At time of the commencement of said mortgage foreclosure proceedings said lands were not agricultural lands as defined by the Minnesota Omnibus Farm Act, Laws of 1986, Chapter 398.
